Philo.

The meeting of this society last Friday evening was not so well attended as many of the previous ones have been, but this was perhaps owing to two meetings occurring the same week. The first exercise consisted of a critique by Mr. Farwell in which he expressed his doubt as to the wisdom of choosing questions for debate which required sound knowledge of topics of the day, on the grounds that students are too busy to read the newspapers regularly. Mr. Eddy made an extemporaneous speech on the late German emperor; at the commencement he expressed his misgivings concerning his ability to speak interestingly and accurately on such a subject, but succeeded quite as well as the average speaker. An address was then read by Mr. Grant on the subject of the American Navy, he expressed the opinion that a navy was not so much required for the country as good coast defences, taking a comprehensive survey of the maritime interests of this country he brought forward many points in support of this opinion and his composition showed careful and thoughtful preparation. Mr. Boddie then gave a select reading in which he dilated on the natural advantages of America and grew eloquent over the beauty and glorious influence of the ocean on the human mind. The debate was on Relative Advantages of the American and English Systems of Carrying on Elections; this throughout was carried on in a loose manner and it was evident that neither side had been able to procure information on the subject or had neglected to do so. Mr. Ogilvie, leader on the affirmative, contended that intimidation and bribery could not be practised under the English plan, while Mr. Cartwright in behalf of the negative, claimed that the danger from neither of these evils was very great in America, and also that the system practised here is preferable both on the grounds of cheapness and celerity. The support given from the House was of a very weak nature on both sides and the debate was brought to a close at an early hour when the opinions of the House and the President were rendered in favor of the negative. In the course of general business some little discussion was indulged in over a proposal to have an entertainment of some kind for the last meeting of the term, and it was finally decided to enlarge the committee already appointed to look after that matter by the addition of the President and Vice-President to its numbers. A motion to adjourn was then made and carried and the meeting came to a close a little earlier than has been the rule recently.

Winter Games at Exeter.

Last Saturday afternoon Exeter held the first winter tournament in her new gymnasium. The entries were many and included the best men in school. As the result the tournament was a grand success. Following is the programme and the winners:

Bar vaulting—Won by Morison, '88. 6 ft. 2 3-4 in.; Kales, '89, second. 6 ft. 3-4 in.

Putting the shot—Morison, '88, 31 ft. 11 in.; Furman, '90, second, 31 ft. 5 1-2 in.

Standing high jump—Spothers, '90, 4 ft. 5 1-2 in.; Duane, '88, second, 4 ft. 4 1-2 in.

Club swinging—Hammond, '89, first; Ellis, '90, second.

High kick—Hayward, '89, 8 ft. 7 1-2 in.; Kales, '89, 8 ft. 4 1-2 in., beating the best academy record by 6 inches.

Horizontal bar—Ward, '89, first; Morison, '88, second.

Tumbling—Ward, '89, first; Wood, '89, second.

Parallel bar—Ladd, '89, first; Franklin, '88, second.

Running high jump—Hayward, '89, first, 5 ft. 4 1-2 in.; Spothers, '90, second 5 ft. 1 in.

The last event was a tug-of-war between '90 and '88; '90 won the drop, but '88 the pull by 2 1-2 in.

The judges were Prof. Clarence Getchell and Harold Swaine of Tufts College, and the referee was A. T. Dudley. The directors were: George F. Harding, '88, A. C. Nash, '89, R. J. Bardwell, '90 and F. W. Mallory, '91.

Inquiry.

The subject for the meeting Wednesday evening will be, "All are invited" (Rev. XXII. 17-21). Leader, H. S. Graves.

The McCall Mission;

A very interesting talk was given in the Free church, Sunday evening, by Dr. Calkins upon this mission in France. The speaker, who has spent some time in that country, in an earnest manner showed to an attentive audience the attitude of the French people towards both the Roman Catholic and the Protestant religion. They have heretofore enjoyed a sort of toleration in their choice of worship, but now absolute liberty is granted them. This is a novelty for them, but through the enjoyment of it they are ready to leave the forms and ceremonies which have bound them so long and to accept the freedom giving faith in Christ Jesus. There is a great need of men and money, and like Japan, from seven to ten years will place the Protestant church in France upon a self-supporting basis.

Intercollegiate News.

Some substantial gifts have been made to Williams lately. Among them is the bequest of $50,000 received by the will of the late William Hilton. In addition Judge Dervey of Worcester, has established two scholarships of $3,000 each, and the interest of $1,000 as a prize to the one pronouncing the best oration on commencement day.

At a fair to be held soon in New York city by the ladies interested in the Homeopathic College and Hospital of that city an eight-oared shell will be voted to the most popular college. Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Cornell and University of Pennsylvania have entered.

At the recent convention of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association it was decided that at the expiration of two years the celebrated Mott Haven cup shall become the permanent property of Harvard. Thus this much disputed question was settled.

Williams College will place a memorial tablet in the college cemetery, in memory of its late ex-President, Dr. Mark Hopkins. The tablet will be made of new Westerly granite, and will weigh about six tons. It will consist of a large, highly-polished plate, supported by six engraved columns.—N. Y. Evangelist.

There can be no question concerning the value of systematic and well directed training for a contest of any description. It is the part of wisdom never to approach any serious undertaking without a course of preliminary preparation which will enable us to come to it with the particular faculties on which depend its successful accomplishment in their most perfect development and vigor. On this account especially it is one of our greatest misfortunes that we have not the facilities for keeping the candidates for our different athletic teams in active training. In view of this the athletic men owe it to the school and to themselves to keep in the best possible physical condition and to train as faithfully as our facilities will allow. We mean this particularly for the base-ball men. So far the men have shown the utmost disregard for this very important requirement, if we hope to have a good nine. A great many fellows have disregarded the repeated requests of the captain to come to the gymnasium, and many others when they do come cannot be induced to do anything. Not only is this so, but there are prominent candidates for the nine whose habits of living are characterized by a looseness which must inevitably affect their word later. We don't seem to realize the necessity of hard work, but our opponents do and are surely, if slowly, forging ahead of us. Oh! fellows, throw off this indifference! Arouse yourselves to the glorious possibilities of hard work. There is no reason why we should be defeated again this spring; on the contrary everything is indicative of success, if we will only show a proper appreciation of the advantages we possess. It will require some personal sacrifice we admit for the candidates for the nine to commence strict training now, but we must all be ready to make sacrifices this year. The great body of the students have displayed their willingness to do so by the manner in which they have met the management's call for support, and now it remains for the base-ball men to show the same commendable spirit, by doing everything that they consistently can to make the nine a successful one. It is not alone the honor of the school which is at stake; it is a question which appeals to every one of us. The "old boys," who so long and nobly upheld the athletic honor of the school, must look upon us as a brood of weaklings. We owe it to the school, to them, and to ourselves to retrieve our fallen fortunes. It is no longer a case of what we ought to do, can do or will do; but what we must do, and every other thought must be put aside. We entreat every man in school to take this home to himself. Let us all remember our individual responsibility, and may there be that earnestness and co-operation in all our work which alone can give us success.

In all the colleges there are such organizations as the Southern Club, recently formed at Harvard, and the Minnesota Club and other state clubs and similar organizations at Yale. The purposes of these clubs are two: First, to render the social side of college life more pleasant and attractive to those who belong to them; secondly, to further the interests of the college in some particular section of the country. As a direct outgrowth of these organizations in the colleges, there are in nearly all of our Eastern cities, and in many of the Western ones, college clubs, which exercise a powerful influence in binding the alumni of the colleges more closely together, and making them better acquainted with the needs of their Alma Mater. The result has been more students and more money. These clubs are more affected at Yale than at any other college, and there their influence has been more marked. Undoubtedly Yale owes much of her recent wonderful growth to the unprecedented activity of her alumni all over the country. Now, if these clubs are such an influence for good in the colleges, why would they not be the same in the preparatory schools? We feel confident that the interests of the Academy would be greatly furthered, particularly in the West, by such organizations; especially if Andover Clubs should be organized in cities like Chicago, St. Louis and Minneapolis, where there are many Andover alumni. By the co-operation of such clubs in these cities and a Western Club in the Academy most happy results would inevitably be effected. We are certain that the attendance could be increased, as these clubs would prove very efficient advertising agencies. We believe, also, that if the financial needs of the Academy could be brought more prominently before the younger alumni of the West the necessary funds would be secured. We would urge the Western men in school to take this matter into thoughtful consideration, and, as the first step towards "booming" the interests in the West, let us have a Western Club organized, and let it be the first duty of that club to see that every western boy who enters the school receives a hearty welcome, and is made to feel all the pleasure of life here.

Notice.

The Glee Club will repeat the concert given Tuesday evening, next Thursday evening. Those who procured tickets and did not use them Tuesday may exchange them at Mr. Cole's store for like tickets which will give admission to the concert Thursday evening. Those who did use them on presenting their checks will be given tickets of admission to the Thursday evening concert, but will have to pay ten cents extra for reserved seats.

Towards the close of every year the academical department at Yale is in the habit of offering prizes, varying in value from $30 to $250 for excellence in essays in both English and the dead languages. This year $250 is offered for the best English essays; $100 for the man who pronounces an English oration in the best manner. For the best specimens of English composition five premiums of $12 each are offered.

Prizes to the amount of $300 are offered for excellence in Greek and Latin. In addition there are awarded in the mathematical department prizes to the amount of $400 for excellence in that branch of study. It has been the custom of the Cobden Club, of London, to offer annually a medal for the greatest proficiency in the science of political economy. This offer is open to any undergraduate of either the Academic or the Sheffield scientific departments.

Communications.

Editors Phillipian:

Being conscious of the fact that much has been said in the PHILLIPIAN concerning the Reading-room I dislike to have more to say; but viewed in the light of reason and fairness there is sufficient cause. Whoever has charge of the Reading-room has certainly failed of late to half do his duty; he has allowed the fire to go out and stay so for three or four days at a time, and of course one cannot sit in that cold place and read with any comfort under such circumstances. If the person in charge will see that the fires are kept while it is yet winter, I can assure him that there will be eternal friendship among those who go to the Reading-room and him.

ONE OF THE FROZEN.

Second Annual Concert of the Phillips Glee Club.

On account of the severe storm of Monday evening, few people except the Academy boys were present to enjoy the excellent concert given by the Glee Club.

The first selection, a march, was well rendered, but at first showed a slight touch of stage fright, which soon wore off however. This was followed by "Lauriger Horatius" and "Sailing" by Mr. G. B. Hollister accompanied by Mr. Carr on the guitar. Owing to Mr. Beeson's absence there was a slight delay before the Banjo club played an exceptionally good selection, which the audience greeted with a storm of applause. Mr. Stone in a remarkably clear, melodious voice gave "Mary's Lamb" and upon being encored responded with one short verse. The fifth selection "A Home by the Sea" was rendered doubly attractive by Mr. Hamlin's whistling. As Mr. Beeson was unable to be present. Mr. S. E. Farwell favored the audience with "Three Little Kittens." A quartette, Messrs. Carr, G. B. Hollister, S. E. Farwell and R. K. Farwell sang "The Rose of Wortherisie" in a very happy manner. After a short intermission "We Meet Again To-night" and "The Owl and Pussy Cat" were given by Mr. S. E. Farwell accompanied by Mr. Carr on a guitar. Mr. Farwell has a rich, musical voice which easily filled the hall. The feature of the evening was "Olivette" by Mr. Hamlin who whistled in an admirable manner and greatly pleased the house. The Banjo Club again gave a selection and were encored three times. "Delta Kappa Epsilon" and "The Image of the Rose" by Mr. Carr, whose voice was heard at its best advantage in the latter, followed. The eight selection "A Church in the Wildwood" and "Mary, Mary" showed an excellent volume of tone and was very effective. Messrs. Carr, and Hollister's duet on the guitar and banjo was very good as was the encore "Home, Sweet Home." The last part on the programme was "Lizette" and could not fail to be appreciated by all present.

The management has decided, as so many were unable to be present, to repeat the concert on next Thursday evening. All those who have tickets may exchange them for fresh ones at Mr. Cole's by paying ten cents additional. We are sure that after hearing such a concert as was given Monday evening all will wish to attend the one on Thursday.

Harvard stands first, DePauw second, and Syracuse third, in the list of colleges receiving the large gifts for the year 1887-88.—Econian.

Old Letters.

BY SAMUEL ABBOTT P.A. '81.
As he who in some dimly lighted hall
Sees, weirdly figured 'gainst the darkness
'cloak,

Spectres that visionary thoughts provoke,
Fancies swift fleeting o'er beyond recall,—
And, clutching at some vision, loses faith,
Wondering, poor dreamer, if the world has fled,

Burying his treasures with the nameless dead,
And he a nothing, yet perchance a wraith;
So I, while poring o'er these close-writ lines,
Penned by a hand that wrote at love's dictate,
Ope wide the portals, rusty-hinged of late,
Profiling, with a light that faintly shines,
The scenes now sleeping in the Past's domain,
A realm of shadings summoned up again.

DIAMONDS!

We advertised last week in the Boston papers 7 pairs of fine, well-matched diamonds for ladies. Ear drops weighing from 2½ to 4½ carats, to the pair for $65 a carat which would not be high at $100 a carat at the present price of diamonds, this lot was disposed of so quickly that 12 more pairs have been placed in our hands weighing from 2 to 9 carats to the pair, which we are to sell at the same price. We mount them in 18 kt. gold, any style, for $8 a pair.
