Meeting of N. E. Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools.

A meeting of the New England Association of Colleges and Preparatory schools was held in Boston Friday and Saturday last, at which about seventy-five college presidents and teachers in colleges and schools were present. Principal Bancroft was one of those who took part in the discussion of a paper on college requirements in French and German and is chairman of the executive committee for the coming year. It is through the effort of this association that the recent modification of the English requirement has been secured. The points gained are an earlier announcement of the books to be read, a greater proportion of American and nineteenth century authors; somewhat less amount to be read, fewer changes from year to year, sample subjects for essays, calling for narrative and descriptive rather than critical work and the omission from the faulty English to be corrected of unintelligible sentences.

Philo.

The fourth regular meeting of Philo was held in Society Hall on Friday evening in the presence of a well attended audience. After prayer by Cartwright the roll was called and the minutes of the previous meeting were read. Eaton read a well written critique on the last meeting. Yardly as extempore spoke on the subject of the "Disgraceful conduct of the Republicans toward the Democrats in the late parade" which he condemned as muckerism of an extreme type. Churchill was then called upon for a declamation but that gentleman failed to put in an appearance or get a substitute. Such remissness can hardly be explained.

The subject for debate was Resolved that the mind of woman is stronger than that of man." Bishop was the leader of the negative and upheld that side with some very cold, hard facts. More talked like a major on the affirmative as leader. The chair appointed the following men to assist the affirmative, Turner, Wheeler and Cartwright; negative, Ballentine, Duly and White. Turner made the best argument of those appointed from the floor and showed that he is one from whom the society may expect much. When the debate was opened to the house the following gentlemen participated: Frissell, Parker, Noyes, Warren and Bartlett. More in closing named a list of most eminent women and challenged the opposition to bring forth a like array among the stern sex and when he named Mrs. Browning and asked who could equal her, some fellow kindly volunteered the information that Mr. Browning could. Bishop made a general summary of all that had been said pro and con and left the question to the house. The vote before debate 36, affirmative, 19; negative, 17. After debate 37, affirmative, 13; negative, 24. Chair decided in favor of the negative.

Y. M. C. A. Convention at Holyoke.

The twenty-third annual Convention of the Y. M. C. A. of Massachusetts and Rhode Island was held in the Second Congregational Church, Holyoke, Oct. 11 to 14. The city of Holyoke was especially suitable for accomodating the delegates of the convention with its many commodious and beautiful churches and more particularly its effective association whose members spared no means for entertaining in their pleasant homes those who came to attend the convention. The sessions of the convention were all most interesting and rendered very pleasant by the singing of George C. Stebbins who had charge of the praise service. Dr. McKenzie of Cambridge gave the address of the convention on "Liberty of Service." His words of comfort and advice were a source of strength to many who listened to him.

The exercises Friday were very interesting as the colleges were represented and work in that line formed a large part of the programme. F. K. Landers of Yale University and L. D. Willard taking a prominent part. The papers were all carefully prepared and presented by experienced men. The financial management of the association was well defined and dealt with in a novel way. The importance of gymnastic drill was also presented and well discussed by a prominent doctor of Boston.

A collation was served by the ladies of Holyoke to the delegates in the church parlor Friday evening and also the college delegates were royally entertained by a prominent citizen of Holyoke, Mr. A. J. Skinner.

The convention closed its sessions by a farewell service in the Second Congregational Church at which three hundred visiting delegates were present. Thus ended the convention, every delegate carrying away with him pleasant recollections of Holyoke and having received a new inspiration for work among the young men of our land.

College Items.

The Advisory Board of the Intercollegiate foot-ball Association held its first meeting in New York Saturday, 6th. W. C. Camp of Yale, W. A. Brooks of Harvard, J. A. Hodge of Princeton, Frank D. Beatly of Wesleyan, and J. A. Bell of the University of Pennsylvania were elected to compose the board for the ensuing year.

Page, of the University of Penn. who holds the world's record for the high jump, will retire permanently from the athletic field.—Princetonian.

I. V. Williamson, of Philadelphia, is about to present nearly $10,000,000 to the city in which he lives, for the purpose of founding an industrial school of proportions and aims no less extensive than those of Girard College.—Daily Crimson.

The Stanford University of California has ordered from Clark and Sons, Cambridge, Mass., a lens for their new telescope, which is to be forty inches in diameter. This will be six inches wider than the lens of the famous Lick telescope, making it the largest lens in the world.—Princetonian.

THE ANDOVER PRESS, PRINTERS.

We are glad to see that the suggestion offered in our columns last week by H. N. H., has met with such prompt and favorable notice on the part of the Reading Room Committee. The new plan of opening the reading room Sundays, cannot be the source of any harm, and will help a great deal in overcoming the dull and tedious hours that render the Sundays here a thing to be dreaded rather than welcomed. To look on the day of rest in any such way as that, may not argue well for the students of this school, but putting aside the deep religious sentiment, with which this part of Andover is thoroughly imbued and which is found to such an extent in but few other places,—putting this aside, and looking at the question in a fair light, we ask any one who may happen to read this, how our Sundays can be otherwise, when, by the rules of the school, we are debarred from everything except going to some form of religious worship, or sitting alone in our rooms. It may be said that there is an excellent opportunity afforded for taking a walk, and enjoying the beauty of Andover, but there are only about two months of the school year when the weather is such as to make it possible for a walk to be enjoyed, and we must either spend our Sundays in attending services, which from their number and the rules attending some of them grow irksome, or else while away the hours as best we may in the solitude of our own rooms.

We are glad to see that something has been done about the cheering, as the time is getting along, and it is impossible to take a lot of new men, who have never cheered together before, and expect them to do anything that would be at all creditable to themselves or inspiring to any one else. The opinions of men vary, as to just how much influence the cheering has on a game, but whatever may be its influence, as we are going to have it, let us have unanimous, organized, and hearty cheering.

A good, brisk, lively cheer, when given as it ought to be, is certainly a pleasing accompaniment to a game, but nothing is more disagreeable than to listen to an irregular shouting with no rhythm or time to it, and that is just how it sounds when the fellows have had no practice. Now let us have a little work on the part of both leaders and others, and see what improvement can be made.

There has been a complaint made, that the papers and periodicals provided for the reading room have been removed so soon after their arrival as to give no chance for many to read them. This is an affair that the committee should attend to at once, and see that for the future all papers and books should be accessible to those who wish to read them, for a reasonable time after their issue. The daily papers could be removed without inconvenience at least the second day after their arrival, if not before, but the weekly papers should remain well along into the next week, while the monthlies should at least remain in the room two weeks.

This afternoon the tennis tournament with Exeter opens and we think that a word of advice to the fellows will not be out of place. Andover has always had the reputation of treating her rivals in a very gentlemanly manner and we trust that the conduct of the fellows today will prove no exception to the rule. Our representatives need the support of the school and they must have it, but don't let yourself get so carried away as to applaud a poor play of our opponent's. We would also urge the fellows to hold themselves in check after the tournament and whether we win or lose, give Exeter a free road to the depot. This plan was tried last Spring for the first time with great success and there is no reason why it can not be kept up. Let every man therefore bear this in mind.

Phillips vs. Niotus Scrub, 56-0.

Saturday afternoon's game was a disappointment to those who went to the Niotus ground expecting to see a good game. Nearly half of the Niotus did not come out on account of the damp weather and in order to have a game some of the Academy boys took their places.

The individual playing of the team was rather good but the men showed a decided lack of team work notably in holding their men at critical moments and getting quickly into place. The weakest points in the team were the half-backs, who not being in their regular places ought to be excused.

At quarter of four Umpire Stone called play and Townsend kicked the ball, but in a moment Cartwright had it and by repeated rushes of Sprague and Owsley the ball was at last carried over the line. Cox failed in the try for a goal. Poor's rushing and Mowry's and Cox's tackling occupied the next few minutes till finally Speer got the ball and pushed it over the line from which Cox kicked a goal. At the kick-off Lyon got the ball and by repeated punts it was carried to the Academy's twenty-five yard line. Then Sprague carried it to the middle of the field and Speer ran it to the twenty-five yard line and Owsley a moment after made his second touch-down. No goal. Dove made a long punt only to have the ball caught by Owsley who made the prettiest rush of the day from the centre of the field behind the posts and Cox kicked another goal just as time was called for the first half. Score, Academy, 20; Niotus Scrub, 0.

After a few minutes when play was resumed Cartwright made a long rush and was caught by Lyon. Then Mowry took charge of the ball and finally Owsley went over the line. No goal. Before Niotus could recover from the shock the ball was again forced over the line. No goal. Then Sprague and Speer tried rushing and Poor made some splendid tackles. Mowry carried the ball near the posts, Cox went over the line and Owsley kicked a goal. When the ball was put in play again Cartwright made a poor catch and Addis fell on the ball. By a long punt the ball was sent back to Niotus' territory and a safety was made Niotus taking the ball to the twenty-five yard line. Owsley soon, by two short rushes carried the ball across the line and Cox kicked a goal. Then the ball was sent to the Academy's twenty-five yard line only to be carried back and over the line in a few minutes by Owsley. The same thing was done again in short time by Cox and then once more before the close of the game the Academy took the ball across the line. Touch-downs by Owsley (6), Speer (1), Cox (3), Mowry (1), goals by Cox (3), Owsley (1) and a safety by Niotus raised the score to 56 and the game closed without our opponents having scored a point.

The men and their positions were as follows:

Third Evening of the People's Course.—Berlin.

BY REV. W. L. GAGE.

The Town Hall was well filled Monday evening. Rev. F. B. Makepeace, before introducing the speaker, said that unless those holding reserved seat tickets were in their seats by a quarter of eight hereafter, the seats would not be held for them after that time.

Rev. Mr. Gage graduated from Harvard in '53 and at Berlin University studied until '55. He has made numerous visits to the city of Berlin, persued certain studies there again in the years '64 to '66 and has often found himself in Berlin since then. He made no effort at eloquence, only to tell a simple story of the city and its surroundings. The vicinity of Berlin is a poor barren country and the climate is very harsh in winter. To raise any farm produce about it necessitates hard and laborious work from the peasants and thence perhaps the thrift and economy of the German people. The soil of Prussia in general consists of sandy plains or marshy tracts of land. The only variation worth mentioning in the landscape about Berlin is an elevation of ground about thirty feet high called Krenzberg (Mountain of the Cross), which name is given it because of a tall iron cross 117 feet high which stands on its summit and for which the diminutive mountain serves as a bedstead of fair proportion to its monument. This mound marks the site of the battle of Waterloo, or the Fair Alliance, which latter name is the one a citizen of Berlin knows of that great conflict.

The general appearance of the city is squalid, lonely, and uninteresting, except the main street which runs through the centre of the city.

The name of this street is "Under den Linden," derived from the fact that through the whole length of the broad thoroughfare—two hundred feet wide—four rows of lime-trees extend, forming beautiful and magnificent arches reaching from one side to the other. This street has on each side a walk varying from ten to twenty feet in width, and next to the walk a driveway for carriages; between the driveway and the centre of the street is on either side a riding way and in the centre is the grand plaza or parade ground, where the royal processions march, etc. At one end of "Under den Linden" and confronting the street, stands the Dom, or cathedral where the royal family worship. Mr. Gage gave a very interesting description of the cathedral and the manner of service, stating that ordinarily the congregation was locked in during the service and naturally all remained until it was finished.

German hymns usually consist of more than ten verses, with eight lines in a verse. The Dom is not elegant in its architecture, being poorer even than the edifice in which the Jews worship. The speaker told of the hard experience one has to go through in order to see the Emperor at worship, being jostled about for a long time in a crowd. The hour of service is 9 A. M. which is about sunrise in Berlin, the latitude of which is nearly that of Hudson Bay. The sun sets at three in the afternoon, giving them but six hours of daylight part of the year. The description of the Emperor, his son, and grandson at worship was very touching.

When the Emperor issues from the church door, a dead hush spreads over the vast multitude that awaits him, and the words, "Der Kaiser" (the Emperor) runs through the crowd in a low whisper.

On the right of the street looking down it, is the great Palace of the Kings with its magnificent salons, parlors, and banquet chambers. Opposite the Palace, is the world famed Museum, with its galleries of collections from ancient and modern nations. Continuing down the street, on the right is the Arsenal, the University of Berlin, the Academy of Arts; on the left, the Palace of Frederic, the Library, and the Palace of William.

The rest of the city is regularly laid out in broad squares, but the houses are low, square, and very unattractive, yet useful and practical.

Mr. Gage spoke at some length on Bismark, how the people regard him as the head and saviour of their nation and receive him with loud acclaim instead of the silent hush which used to greet the old Emperor. His appearance on the floor in Parliament is the signal for the opposing party to cower backward from the contest, whatever it may be. When on the floor he is tall, stalwart and commanding, uses good logic and keen wit. The speaker also mentioned young Count Bismark whom he predicted as the future great man of Germany. He closed his talk with words of praise for Louisa the charitable and Christian mother of William.

Alumnorum.

Several of the class of '87 were in town Saturday and Sunday, among them being Landon, managing editor of the PHILLIPIAN last year, and Johnson.

J. A. Ropes, P. A. '85, has been elected permanent secretary of his class at Harvard; this office is one of the highest in the college, and is only given to men of very high rank. Lund, '84, held the same much valued office in '88.

Weeks and Brown, P. A. '87, and Babbit, P. A. '85 have each been awarded $300 scholarships at Harvard.

Hollister and Tucker, P. A. '88, Yale '92, have been appointed deacons of their class.

In the Freshman class elections at Williams, O. B. Brown was elected captain of the foot-ball team; Campbell, captain of the base-ball nine, and Bartlett, base-ball manager. All these men belonged to the class of P. A. '88.

Tennis Tournament.

Two errors appeared in the last issue of the PHILLIPIAN in regard to the Tennis Tournament. In the place of D. & F., who appeared as winners over Hollister and Day in the second round, should be the letters H. & D. In the third round the same letters should be substituted for H. & S., also the name Farwell should be substituted for the name Farnum in the couplet Jacobson and Farnum.

The remainder of the "doubles" have resulted thus:

SECOND ROUND.

Bottum and Hunt vs. Stearns and Sawyer, default.

THIRD ROUND.

Stearns and Sawyer vs. Farnum and Farnum, default.

FINAL.

Hollister and Day vs. Farnum and Farnum, F. & F. 6-3, 6-4.

CHAMPIONSHIP.

Stearns and Anderson vs. Farnum and Farnum, S. & A. 7-6, 2-6, 8-5.

Mowry, ex-P. S. '89, again played a good game for Princeton in her contest with the University of Penn., Wednesday the 10th.

Hotchkiss, ex-P. A. '88, is anchor for '91, and Brown, P. A. '88, is first man for '92, in the tug of war teams to compete in the field day at Williams.

Amherst was beaten fifty-four to 0, by the Wesleyan team at Middletown Saturday Oct. 6th.

Yale plays Amherst at Amherst next Saturday.

The Middlers have been told to prepare for speaking before the class.

Prof. Harris was obliged to cut the afternoon service short last Sunday, by leaving off the sermon, on account of nose-bleeding.

The democrats held a meeting in Society Hall Monday noon, and were invited by Captain Duly, to come to his house after drill Tuesday evening for a supper.

Prof. Merrill will go to Williams College to deliver a lecture this winter.

Frank Dole, whom many will remember as giving lessons in boxing here, has been engaged as foot-ball trainer at Williams.

The glee club held its first rehearsal Monday evening; the members however, have not been chosen definitely.

The delegates to the Y. M. C. A. convention at Holyoke, came back Monday morning instead of Sunday night as was expected.

The work on the new well has proceeded so far that pipe is now being put into it.

A new bulletin board has been placed in the entrance hall of the Academy on which a weather chart for the day is placed.

There are now five dirt courts on the campus, four being in front of the reading room and one over against the old dining hall.

The results of recent foot-ball games have been as follows: Harvard vs. Technology, 18-0; Newton High School vs. Harvard Freshmen, 22-0; Yale vs. Pennsylvania, 34-0; Princeton vs. Stevens, 80-0; Exeter vs. Tufts, 86-0.
