The Peoples' Course. Lincoln.

BY EX-GOV. JOHN D. LONG.

We feel safe in saying that all who encountered the drizzling rain and muddy walks of last Monday evening, for the sake of hearing Ex-Gov. Long, felt at close of the lecture amply repaid for their trouble. The speaker, on his appearance, was greeted with applause, and immediately held the eager attention of his audience. His first words were those of warm and hearty praise of the "greatness and goodness" of Lincoln. He then told of the hardy pioneer stock from which Lincoln was descended and proceeded with the story of his boyhood and the scantiness of his school education, but nevertheless the faithful observance of character and study of current events by means of which he gradually educated himself. A course of college studies might have changed his course to one of weaker advancement, and kept him from the nearness to our hearts which he now occupies, as the "Honest Abe" of history. Lincoln was in reality a well educated man, for while his training was not classical, yet his every day associations with the world were always a subject of study to him, which peculiarly fitted him for the position that he has so successfully and illustriously filled. It was probably this, too, that gave him so great magnanimity, which the speaker set forth as unparalleled in our list of American statesmen. Wherever he was placed, clerk in a country store, captain in the Black Hawk war, store-keeper himself, an Illinois legislator, a lawyer, or a representative in Congress, his early life was characterized by the same honest, earnest vigor and push which made him always a leader in whatever movements he was concerned. He was of large influence; and his debate strong and convincing; he was ever the champion of freedom; from the time when he first saw slavery during a trip down the Mississippi on a flat-boat, until he issued the Emancipation Proclamation while occupying the chair of President of the United States.

The condition of the country when Lincoln was nominated and elected president was dark and the prospect for future "Union and Liberty" seemed gloomy and uncertain; the choice of Lincoln was not one of chance, nor was it a strange one, but he was selected as the only man in view, who could hold together the people and the states through the coming crisis.

His access to the presidency marked a new era in the life of Lincoln. His former energetic advocacy of the principles of freedom became at once a careful ministration of equity and justice to his people. Where he had been a bold leader in political progress, he now became a cautious pilot. But he exerted every force he could command in order to prevent the breaking asunder of the Union, and often, to sustain his course, temporarily sacrificed friendships which he afterwards won back by his steady determination to do what he had set out upon. The emancipation of the slaves, more than anything else, stamps his image deep into the hearts of American people. His personal traits were aptness for almost any occasion, simplicity of heart, great magnanimity, and a laconic wit, specimens of which, there are none of us who have not heard or read. Lincoln had his peccadilloes, "but," said Ex-Gov. Long, "name if you can the man who had so few." The lecture was well written and well delivered, and it was a pleasure as well as a source of gratification to have seen and listened to a man of such fame as Ex Gov. John D. Long.

Philo.

Philo held its ninth regular meeting in Society Hall on Friday evening. A fair sized audience was in attendance. W. F. Williams as critique read a pleasing criticism on the previous meeting. Extempore by Warren, subject, "How we may best increase the attendance at Philo." Churchill's declamation was the best part of the programme. Next came the debate. Resolved: That the Government should purchase all railroads and telegraph lines. Wheeler was leader of the affirmative while Yardley substituted Ahlers in the negative. Wheeler said the railroads and telegraph lines were simply great private monopolies that were conducted in the interest of the stockholders, and not for the traveling public, for that reason they should be under the control of the Government. Yardley briefly contrasted the railway service of Germany, that is controlled by the government, with that of our own country, to the great advantage of the latter. Competition he argued was essential to first-class service.

The chair appointed to assist the affirmative A. B. Turner, Weyerhauser and Chamberlain; on the negative Eaton, Leverty and Sanford. Messrs. Noyes, French and Bailey spoke from the house. Vote before debate, 27; affirmative, 15; negative, 12. After debate, 22; affirmative, 6; negative, 16. Chair decided with the negative.

THE ANDOVER PRESS, PRINTERS.

In a school of this kind it seems a pity that there is no place where the various trophies that come into its possession can be displayed. Not only those of the school at large, but also the cups and banners that the individual classes win. With the present state of affairs these trophies either come into the hands of private individuals, or are left lying around until injured or lost. A trophy case would remedy all this and would be a source of interest as well as inspiration to the school at large. The cost of such a case would not be large, and the value of it to the school would more than repay for the money which might be paid for it.

The business managers of the different House and Street teams will have to bestir themselves a little or the series of games arranged between them to decide the championship will remain unplayed. The present cold weather has certainly come on unexpectedly, but it can scarcely be offered as an excuse for not playing the games before; as it is now, it does not seem as though the condition of the ground would permit any more foot ball this season. but we shall most likely get some more warm weather and it would be well to be ready to take advantage of it whenever an opportunity occurs.

The gentlemen of the Niotus Club very justly feel indignant at the conduct of some of the spectators at the game Saturday. After the close it was found that no less than eight caps belonging to the Niotus team had disappeared, and also the foot-ball with which they had been practising in the early part of the afternoon. It is rather difficult to see what could have influenced the persons who took those things; if it is looked on in the light of a joke, the point of it seems to be entirely lost, and although it may give some satisfaction to a very narrow circle, it causes a good deal of annoyance to a large number; if the feat regarded is a distinguished piece of work in securing trophies it is a most miserable and unfortunate failure. The Niotus Club has treated the different organizations of the school in a manner that has called for the most gentlemanly conduct on the part of the school and it is a pity that a few individuals should so far forget themselves as to commit such a breach of honor and good faith. The remedy for such an offence is plainly visible, and would consist in procuring evidence against the persons who are to blame and prosecuting them; in this way well deserved punishment would be inflicted on the proper person and the whole school would not have to suffer for the misdeeds of a few.

College Rules of 1805.

The following curious regulations are taken from the rules governing Williams College in 1805. . . . "For being tardy to chapel exercises, 2 cents; for absence from chapel, 4 cents; for absence from recitation, 6 cents; for being out of one's room after 9 P. M., or during study hours, 8 cents; for absence from rhetoricals, 12 cents; for keeping fire-arms or going gunning or fishing without permission of the president, 17 cents; for every night's absence without excuse after beginning of the term, 25 cents; for associating with a rusticated or expelled student, 34 cents; for absence from Sunday service, getting drunk, getting shaved on Sunday or for changing rooms in the middle of the term without permission, 50 cents; for buying or trading any article above the value of two dollars without permission, if the student is a minor, for going to theatrical entertainments or for going to dancing school without permission, or for fighting, $1.00; for swearing, $1.50; for contempt of faculty, $2.00; for repairing room without permission, $4.00; for playing cards, backgammon, or billiards, $5.00. Fines, amount not stated, were also imposed for the playing upon musical instruments during study hours. The classes were required to provide wood for the recitation rooms. Charter VII, Sec. 2, read as follows: "Each under graduate shall be charged quarterly in the bills the following sums, viz: for tuition, $4.00; for room rent in new college (East college burned in 1842) $1.00 and 75 cents in the old (West college); for ordinary repairs and other contingent charges 25 cents and for keeping monitor's bills, for sweeping and making beds, for candles used in the chapel, for ringing the bell and rope for the bell his proportional part."—Williams Weekly.

Concert.

A grand banjo and guitar concert is to be given by the pupils of Mr. E. W. Stratton at Lowell in Huntington Hall next Tuesday evening, Nov. 27. All who are interested in the banjo and guitar should avail themselves of this opportunity to hear a fine concert as the programme is a very good one, and the talent excellent. The overture is to be rendered by fifty instruments. In the course of the programme a duett will be played by Me-srs. Beeson and Hollister. Reserved seats can be procured from Mr. Stratton.

Notice.

The business manager of the PHILLIPIAN desires all those subscribers who have not yet paid up their subscriptions to do so at the earliest opportunity. Mr. Cameron may be seen in the school building or at his room, E. C. 1-6.

College Items.

Since the Harvard Faculty have refused to permit the foot-ball eleven to play Yale in New York on Thanksgiving Day, efforts are being made by Yale and Princeton to have the dates of the Harvard-Yale and Yale-Princeton games interchanged, thus enabling Princeton to play Yale on the Polo Grounds Thanksgiving Day, instead of Harvard.

At the recent meeting of the trustees of Princeton, Pres. Patton announced that the College has been bequeathed $75,000. $50,000 from Mrs. Susan D. Brown to be used in the erection of a new college dormitory; 20,000 from Mrs. Robert L. Stuart of New York for the foundation of a new professorship; and $5000 from an unknown friend for the scholarship fund.

Compulsory gymnasium work has begun at Exeter and will be continued during the winter term.—Harvard Crimson.

The Amherst Student and Lit have commenced a crusade against compulsory Church and Chapel attendance.

W. W. Farnum, P. A. '62, Yale '66, has been chosen Treasurer of Yale University.

Hong Ten Chang, P. A. '79, has an article on "How the law is administered in China" in the Christian Weekly of Nov. 15. Mr. Chang is the first Chinese lawyer admitted to the bar in this country.

Rev. D. C. Greene, of Tokio, Sem. '69 conducted the morning worship Thursday and gave a brief address on the progress of education in Japan. For several years he has been connected with the "Dolisha," a school of about 700 pupils in Kioto.

Second Eleven vs. Niotus Club, 22-0.

A very pleasant game was played Saturday afternoon on the Niotus field between the Niotus team and the Academy second eleven. The afternoon was a fine one and quite a large number of people were present to witness the game. Play commenced at about 3.30, Niotus having the ball and the north end of the field; during the first half the ball was kept pretty well in the Niotus territory, although at times the long rushes of Stone would carry it past the center-line and at the close of the half it was down against the twenty-five yard line of the second eleven. The score at this point stood 12-0 in favor of the second eleven, two touch-downs having been made, one goal kicked, and a safety made by the Niotus team.

In the second half the Academy eleven again forced the ball into their opponent's territory and scored two more touch-downs and a safety leaving the final score 22-0.

For the second eleven McCormick, Lansing, Stevens, Stearns and Hinckey did the best work. Stearns has not played but once or twice before this year, but he did excellent service during the game, and more than once prevented the Niotus team from scoring by his good tackling. McCormick made some fine rushes and played a sharp game from beginning to end.

The Niotus team suffered from want of practice but played hard. Stone did some fine playing for them making by far the best rushes he has made this year.

The men and their positions were as follows:

SEC. ELEVEN.		NIOTUS CLUB.
Murchie, Hinckey, Morgan, Holland, Addis, Ellsworth, Cobb.	} RUSHERS	Jacobson, Spaulding, Moody, Dane, Berry, Barnard, Lowe.	}
McCormick.		QUARTERS
Stevens, Lansing.	} HALFS	Stone, Poor.	}
Stearns.		FULL-BACKS

Princeton vs. Harvard. Score, 18-6.

The first battle for the championship between the three great colleges was fought last Saturday in Princeton; the result was a victory for the home team and now Harvard is practically out of the race; the correspondence with Yale concerning the Thanksgiving game is still going on, but as far as Harvard's chance of securing the championship is concerned it will make but little difference whether the game is played or not. In spite of all the reports as to the accidents by which the Princeton team had been weakened it appeared sufficiently strong to play all round the Harvard eleven, and the orange asserted its predominance over the crimson in a most unmistakable manner. The game was a rough one; V. Harding is reported as being like a bantam, ready to fight every thing that came in his way, he seemed however to have made a bad selection when he settled on Cook, and got rather the worst of it, Cook was ruled off and soon after Harding received the same punishment for tripping. At the close of the first half the score stood 12-0 in favor of Princeton; Cook, Black, and Cowan, each having made a touch-down, no goals from either. Harvard played a stronger game in the second half, the play grew rougher. Cook was disqualified for slugging, Speer took his place, and soon after Harding was disqualified. Boviard now made another touch-down for Princeton and Ames kicked a goal, 18-0. Harvard succeeded a few minutes before time was called in breaking through the Princeton team and making a touch-down, this with a goal by Sears gave them six points. Janeway, Mowry and Speer all old P. A. men did excellent work for the Princeton team, Mowry being highly spoken of by the different papers. The men who composed the two teams were as follows:

Harvard—Cumnock, Woodman, Carpenter, Cranston, Trafford, Davis, Harding, quarter-back, G. Harding; half-backs, Porter and Lee; full-back, Sears.

Princeton—Bovaird, Cowan, Janeway, George, Irvine, Cook, Riggs; quarter-back, R. Hodge; half-backs, Mowry, and Black; full-back, Ames.

Means Prize Compositions.

Below will be found a list of the subjects offered for the Means Prize Compositions this year. They will be seen to embrace a wide field in literature allowing a choice of almost any style of writing.

1. The Realism of Tolstoi.
2. The recent Expansion and Improvement of Collegiate Education.
3. The Duty on Wool.
4. What Tyranny most threatens the American people?
5. Around the camp-fire. (A poem.)
6. The last Speech of Drusus for Reform.
7. The Uses and Abuses of Caricature.
8. An un-written chapter of Bluebeard's Life.
9. Does Culture diminish Patriotism?
10. The Dignity of Debate.

The competition for these prizes is open to the whole school and for the last two years the junior class has had a successful competitor each time. All who contemplate writing this year will do well to set about the work at once, the compositions have to be handed in by or on Feb. 6, 1889 and in order to have a well written essay, the author must spend time and thought on it. No matter how easily a man may write a hastily prepared article will be sure to show crudities that may be fatal to his chances of success. Information will be given later on as to the manner of preparing manuscripts for submission to the judges, but in the meanwhile it is hoped that all who have any taste for writing will give their attention to this matter and try to make the competition a keen one, as it is only in this way that any great benefit can be derived from it. The essays must not exceed eight hundred words in length, if they go beyond this they will have to be cut down.
