Harvard Catalogue for 1889.

The last Harvard catalogue shows an increase during the year in nearly all of the nine separate departments of the University. The total number of students is now 1,899, or 287 more than last year. The number of officers has also increased from 223 to 245. The requirements of admission are the same as before, but Latin is no longer required in the Scientific Department. The students are divided as follows: Seniors, 209; Juniors, 250; Sophomores, 262; Freshmen, 311; Special, 144; Law School, 218; Dental School, 41; Divinity School, 25; Medical School, 277; Graduates from other colleges, 95; Scientific School, 43; and Agricultural Department, 24.

Intercollegiate Y.M.C.A. Convention at Worcester.

The Y.M.C.A. of the New England colleges will hold a convention at Worcester, Feb. 15, 16 and 17. The convention will be held under the management of the Worcester Polytechnic and Worcester Academy Associations, and delegates from all the New England colleges are expected to be present. Dr. Parkhurst of New York, Prof. Harper of Yale, and Mr. Sayford of Boston will be among the speakers.

The Junior Promenade.

Nothing could have been a more decided success than the Junior Promenade in New Haven, on the 22d. Delightful music was furnished by the orchestra and a band, and so perfect had been the arrangements of the committee that the evening passed off without a single unpleasant event. The walls of the Armory were draped with American flags, and under each window was placed a shield surrounded by a group of satin banners. Over the band stand were set pieces, one representing a mammoth foot-ball, inscribed with the word "Champions"; and the other, two base-ball bats crossed with a mask and a floral ball between them. The flags won by different Yale crews at New London were also suspended from the band stands. There were twenty regular dances, and an equal number of intermissions. The arrangements for serving the supper and disposing of the wraps were well carried out, owing to the untiring efforts of the committee.

The festivities of the season closed on the 23d with the Senior and Junior Germans, at both of which there was a large attendance.

Senior Ride.

This is the only time in our whole course when the members of a class meet one another for a social gathering; and as this year, because of Dr. Bancroft's absence, we shall not have the Senior party, it is all the more desirable that the ride should be an occasion to look back upon with pleasure. The committee in charge, realizing this desire to depart somewhat from the usual custom, and instead of having a long ride and a cold lunch at the end, wish to substitute for the lunch a more substantial dinner. If this is done, it will be desirable and necessary for all the members of the class to attend. Not only will they enjoy the ride and dinner, but they will, in all probability, make many pleasant acquaintances among the fellows, with whom they may have been for two or three years, and yet never met outside the class-room. The dinner will be more or less elaborate; yet the committee intend to so arrange it that no one may be prevented from attending by the high price of covers.

Mr. Sanders, of the Intercollegian, was present at Inquiry meeting on Sunday evening, and gave a brief but interesting talk upon matters of religion in connection with college men. He expressed a hope of bringing Mr. Corbin of Yale with him to speak to us later.

Glee and Banjo Club Concert at Lawrence.

The Glee and Banjo Clubs gave their first concert this year at Lawrence, under the auspices of the Riverside Congregational church. The party left Andover on the 6.52 train, and returned again on the 9.20, utilizing the time allowed them between the two trains in the best possible manner. The concert cannot be said to have been extremely gratifying to the club, although profitable from a financial point of view. The building in which it was given is very small, and the voices could not be heard to good advantage; but as negotiations were immediately afterwards entered into for another concert, it is only fair to suppose that the efforts of the club to entertain the company were appreciated. The order of the programme was altered considerably at the last moment from what it was at first intended to be; but substantially it was as follows:

PROGRAMME.

PART I.

1. Selection. P.A. Banjo Club.
2. Old Nassau (Princeton Song—Langlotz).
3. Mary's Little Wise Man.
4. Hüttelein (Beschnitt). Mr. Farwell and Club.
5. Am I not fondly thine own? Rio Grande.
6. Guitar Duet. Messrs. Harrington and Gatchell.

PART II.

1. Sunday-School Scholar.
2. 'Neath the Elms (Yale Song—Kücken).
3. Speed Away.
4. Banjo and Guitar. Duet.
5. Listen to my Tale of Woe. Mr. Woodward and Club.
6. Breeze of the Night (Waltz—Lamothe).

THE ANDOVER PRESS, PRINTERS.

We desire to speak a few words of caution to a seemingly large number of students who have fallen into the thoughtless habit of whistling in the halls and ante-rooms of the Academy. Nothing seems more natural for one, after an hour's hard concentration of thought and study in the class-room, than to give vent, in some light refrain, to the relief experienced when the recitation is over; and music is especially restful to a tired mind. But to the classes who are not yet dismissed, or to those who remain for consultation or make-up work, and who are not yet in the same light state of mind as those who have just shuffled off the burden of a recitation, whistling or singing is quite apt to sound anything but musical or harmonious. The teachers have spoken to us about this often enough to make every one who does it ashamed of himself. When you think that out of the several hundred persons who may be in the building, there is not one who does not wish you to restrain yourself from making the halls ring with whistling, and that you are the only one who desires that you shall whistle, you as an individual will take it upon yourself to wait until you reach more remote grounds before you begin the cultivation of your musical talent in this especial direction.

As the class speaking for the Draper competition will soon come to an end, and in all probability the elections of the representatives will follow soon after, it may perhaps be of some service to give a note of warning in respect to the choice of the classes. The Draper Prize was established for the purpose of increasing the interest in the study of elocution and reward for proficiency in it. The conditions of the prizes are so arranged that members from all three of the upper classes are admitted to the competition; and as each class is allowed to have a fixed number of representatives, it is very natural that they should seek the best men. But there are often some well-disposed persons who are inclined to treat the awarding of places as a favor to be bestowed for general reasons, rather than on a basis of ability; and in a close election the votes of these persons are sometimes sufficient to elect a candidate, worthy perhaps in other respects, but not so desirable as some more gifted member of the class. Now each class wants to see that its choice this year shall depend on ability in speaking, and nothing else. Not only does each class want its representatives to gain the prizes, but they all want to co-operate in showing to the public the best speakers there are in the school; and this cannot be done if the voting is not strictly according to ability.

The Winter Tournament.

Shall we abolish the tug-of-war?

It has been intimated here and there through the school, and in the columns of the PHILLIPIAN, that there was quite a strong feeling prevalent which was opposed to having the customary class tug-of-war contests this year. The managers of the Athletic Association at their last meeting gave the matter some consideration, but did not feel that they could come to any decision until it had been more carefully considered by the various classes. If the committees from the different classes will meet and decide the matter at once, they will confer a great favor upon the management of the Association. An early decision is desirable, in order that the arrangements for prizes may be completed.

The managers are very anxious to make this, if possible, the most successful tournament ever held here, and to this end have decided to offer cups for all the events. One of the designs which were put on exhibition in the chapel a short time ago has been selected, and when properly engraved will undoubtedly make one of the handsomest and most valuable prizes ever offered by the Athletic Association. Each cup will have the name of the Association engraved upon it, together with the date of the tournament, event, and later the name of the winner of event if desired.

The managers offer these special prizes with the hope that the fellows will make a hearty response, and do everything they can to insure the success of the tournament.

Let no one hold back for fear he is not proficient enough; but if he can do anything in any of the events offered, let him come forward and strive with the rest.

We Must Have

A NEW GYMNASIUM.

How the Phillipian Proposes to get it.

An Address to the Faculty, the Trustees, the Alumni, and the Undergraduates.

For several years the need of a good gymnasium, fitted with modern and suitable appliances for physical exercise and training, has been sadly felt by all who come to this school either as visitors or students. The building which is now used as a gymnasium is poorly adapted for that purpose. The apparatus with which it is equipped is clumsy or broken, and in consequence the physical development of the students who come here is greatly retarded or wholly neglected. Believing that the years spent in this school should fit a man bodily, as well as mentally, for the battles of life, and believing that he is most truly a man who is possessed of a healthy body in addition to a well-furnished mind, we claim that physical development should go hand in hand with mental improvement; and for this purpose a suitable place is necessary wherein our three hundred and fifty students may be able to obtain the needed exercise.

Heretofore no definite plan seems to have been offered for procuring the funds that are necessary to give us a suitable gymnasium. But, after due consideration, the editors of the PHILLIPIAN have decided to solicit money from all who are interested in the school, either as past graduates or as the friends of the present students, with the intention of building such a gymnasium as may be adapted to the needs of the school.

The plan of this work yet remains to be completed in detail; but in general outline it will consist of an appeal by circular, to every one who it is thought will give their aid. In the immense amount of writing that this will involve, we shall have to call on the students for aid; but feeling that this will be willingly volunteered we shall at once commence our undertaking, and hasten to bring it to a conclusion as soon as possible.

Knowing well the difficulty of the labor we have undertaken, we beg the Trustees, the Faculty and the Undergraduates to give us such assistance in this work as they are able. It is undertaken with a feeling of loyalty to the school of which we are so proud, and we are confident that with the hearty co-operation of our fellow-students we shall meet with a success worthy of our efforts.

Early Williams Vacations.

The changes in the length of vacations and their times of occurrence since the early days of the college have been varied and numerous. In 1823 commencement came the first Wednesday in September, from which date a vacation of four weeks extended, corresponding to our present summer vacation. The next vacation came at Christmas time, and was six weeks long. The spring vacation extended three weeks from the first Wednesday in May. These remained about the same, with the exception that in 1834 Commencement Day was changed to the third Wednesday in August, until 1866, when the fall vacation had five weeks, the holiday vacation six weeks, beginning the Tuesday before Thanksgiving, and the spring recess two weeks in April. Commencement day was also changed to a date three weeks earlier.

Not until 1868 does the calendar bear any resemblance to our present one. In this year the summer vacation was lengthened to nine weeks, and the other two arranged as now. Commencement was changed to the last Thursday in June, at which time it remained for seven years, when it was again changed to its present date, the last Wednesday in June. The present schedule was adopted in 1876.—Williams Weekly

Class Meeting of '89.

At a class meeting of both Senior classes last Thursday, Mr. Parsons moved that a committee of three be appointed by the President to make arrangements for the class sleigh-ride. The committee was afterwards enlarged to five. Messrs. Parsons, Emerson, Coxe, Moody and Spaulding were appointed. F. W. Moore moved that a committee of three be appointed to look after the tug-of-war team. Messrs. Upton, Moody and Moore were appointed.

Inquiry.

After the leader had finished his talk on Sunday night, Malone introduced Mr. Sanders to the audience. His time was limited by his early departure to catch the train. The principal point he made was that religious work should be done systematically and intelligently. His travels supply him with interesting anecdotes. We expect to hear from him again soon, accompanied by Mr. Corbin of Yale.

College Items.

At a meeting of the Union alumni, held in New York last December, Warner Miller delivered an address on "Educational Methods," from which is taken the following extract:

"In my day the requirements for admission were such that a boy could generally enter college at 16 and graduate at twenty. He could then get a start which would enable him to enter upon his professional or business career before he was bald-headed. Now, however, things are so that few men can graduate under 23. Then come three or four years in the professional school or in post graduate study, and before the college man is really skilled in his profession or business he is well on toward the average limit of human life. I am not in accord with the present tendency of our colleges toward making the course constantly broader and more difficult.

On account of the dismissal of Prof. F. D. Weisse, of the New York College of Dentistry, ninety-two students have withdrawn.

A squad of men work in the gymnasium every afternoon at Harvard, under the supervision of Captain Cumnock, for the purpose of developing the muscles of the back and all those above the waist. Harvard means business.

The Yale Glee Club gave a concert in New Haven, Jan. 21, for the benefit of the Varsity Navy.

At the committee appointments of the class of '89 S. at Yale, the following Andover men were elected: Supper Committee, J. Mitchell, J. V. Wright and W. D. Breed; Historian, E. K. Dillingham.

There are forty candidates in training at Harvard for next year's foot-ball team.

A prize of $100 is to be offered for a college song at the Boston Institute of Technology.

The photograph of the students at Cornell is the largest group ever taken, containing over 1,100 faces.

Philo.

The programme for the next meeting, to be held Feb. 1st, is as follows:

Critique, Mr. Fouse.

Extempore, Mr. Williams.

Mirror, 2d Editor, Mr. Frissell.

Declamation, Mr. Farwell.

Debate, Affirmative, Mr. Mayers; Negative, Mr. Cameron. Question, "Resolved, That the Study of Latin and Greek should be made Optional in Our Colleges."

Freshman Class Divisions at Yale.

Andover has eight men in the first division of the Freshman class taken as a whole. A recent division of the Greek class places twenty-two men in the first rank, as capable of reading more advanced Greek than the rest. Among these twenty-two appear the names of Allen, Graves and McCormick, P.A. '88 men. In mathematics, the first division of the Sheffield Freshman class contains the name of the two Prestons and Bronson.

Several Harvard men attended the Yale Junior promenade last Tuesday night.

Last week Wednesday the Dartmouth alumni of Boston and vicinity held a reunion in Boston. Speeches were made by ex-graduates and the present professors.

Yardley, P.A. '91, has been confined to his room for a day or two with a heavy cold.

The Middle Classical class finished its declamations for the Draper prizes on Monday.

Ballantine, who left school last term, is in New York now, but he intends to start soon for India.

It is said that some of the fellows in the vicinity of Abbot Street had a surprise last Sunday morning.

Prof. Comstock was unable to attend chapel exercises Sunday, being confined to the house by a severe cold.

The Fem. Sems. were serenaded last Saturday night by the Glee Club when they came back from Lawrence.

The coasting on School Street has been fairly good since Monday, and a large number have taken advantage of it.

Robinson, '90, was barricaded in a room in E.C. on Saturday night, and took his exit from the second story window about twelve o'clock.

The stormy weather Sunday kept all in-doors who were not obliged to go out, and the congregation at the stone church was made up mostly of students.

There is some talk of forming a new base-ball league next spring, to consist of Amherst, Dartmouth and Williams. All three colleges are said to have exceptionally bright prospects.

The Athletic Committee have selected the cups to be given as prizes for the different events of the tournament. The tug-of-war event will probably be omitted from the programme this year.

Prof. Gulliver excited some amusement among the congregation on Sunday by dilating upon the inconsistency of issuing a trade dollar worth seventy cents, and putting "In God we trust" upon it.

A canvass of Amherst College was recently made in regard to required church and chapel attendance, which has been under discussion there for some time. The result of votes was: required, 152; non required, 112.

The attention of the students is called to the fact that J. M. Bradley is alive to the wants of his customers at all times, and that he is constantly replenishing his stock with the Latest Novelties in the market, and he spares neither expense or pains to satisfy all who favor him with their patronage. He is at present offering special inducements to close out balance of Fall and Winter stock.

A FAVOR FIGURE.

Uncertain she stood for a moment,
Not knowing with whom she would go
With the favor she held in her fingers,
And to all thus her preference show.

The hall was half filled with her lovers,
And each fondly hoped she would turn
Toward him with the coveted favor,
And allow him her answer to learn.

As the music struck up its bright measures,
Down went every lover's heart low,
For ignoring them all she then favored,
Her brother most stupid and slow.
