CORRECT DRESSING.

Gentlemen often hesitate about patronizing the highest class of tailors on account of the price; but the extra charge over ordinary tailors is not profit, or a tax for reputation; but represents actual value received. Many garments are out of style when new, simply because ill proportioned and not correctly cut; the wearer does not know what the matter is, but is conscious of a difference between his own clothes and those of others he meets in society. Men who can afford it make a great mistake in not wearing the best designed clothes, as the result represents the best selection of London materials, and the finest workmanship, combined with artistic cutting. We make a specialty of strictly fine tailoring, and every one of our workmen is a skilled mechanic, capable of producing artistic results. We have nothing but the best foreign woolsens, and in exclusive patterns shown only to the few high-class houses; all gentlemen of taste are invited to call, as goods will be cheerfully shown.

Theological Seminary Anniversary.

The remaining part of the Anniversary exercises at the Theological Seminary will be as follows:

Thursday, June 13, 10.30 A.M. Chapel: Anniversary Address by Members of the Graduating Class.

1 P.M. Bartlet Chapel: Dinner, with the Trustees, of the Board of Visitors, past members of the Boards of Trustees and Visitors, donors to the Seminary, Faculty and Alumni of the Seminary, Examining Committee, other clergymen, teachers of Phillips Academy, and the graduating class.

Philo.

The ninth regular meeting was opened by President Cameron on Monday evening. Prayer was offered by Cummings, after which a critique of the previous meeting was read by Haldeman. Noyes then spoke extemporaneously on the "Draper Contest"; after which, contrary to the usual custom of the society, the miscellaneous business was taken up. The committee having charge of the public exhibition was increased from three to five, Messrs. Tyler and Atha being added. Mr. Snell then delivered an excellent address on "Social Dangers," bearing especially on trusts. He was followed by Albree, who gave a select reading.

The debate was then in order; but as many of the members present were unable to stay, it was not considered wise to enter upon it, and the meeting was adjourned.

Arrangements for the Exeter Tournament.

A petition was made to the Faculty last Friday night, by representatives from the Tennis and Athletic Associations, asking that the school exercises on Wednesday, June 12, should be omitted, and recitations held Wednesday afternoon, June 19, in their stead. This petition was considered by the Faculty, and it was decided by them not to grant all day Wednesday as a holiday, but to give excuses to those who wished to go to Exeter in the morning, and allow them to make up the exercises the next Thursday. This arrangement will doubtless be as satisfactory as any that could have been made. If the whole school had been given a holiday, there would have been some dissatisfaction felt, if not expressed when the time came next Wednesday afternoon for attending recitations. Furthermore, there would have been but comparatively few who would have desired to go to Exeter and stay there all day, unless they were competitors in some of the events or had a special interest in them. As it is now, the tennis players doubtless met with a sufficiently large number of friends to accompany them this morning, and there will be a strong representation to attend our other athletic champions this afternoon.

The Standing of the Intercollegiate League.

The Yale News for last Friday, when the Yale team had a lead of .321, said that never before had the teams been so well matched all around as this year. The standing up to that date was as follows:

	Won	Lost	Per cent.
Yale,	3	1	.750
Harvard,	2	3	.400
Princeton.	3	4	.429

The News added that the pennant was by no means secured for Yale, but that there was a very good chance for getting it, and urged the college students to accompany their team to Cambridge to be present at the Saturday game.

Merrimac Valley Athletic Association.

The schedule of base-ball games for this association is as follows:

June 1. Vespers vs. Niotus, at Lowell.

June 8. Vespers vs. Canoe Club, at Lawrence.

June 15. Canoe Club vs. Vespers, at Lowell.

June 22. Canoe Club vs. Niotus at Lawrence.

June 29. Niotus vs. Vespers, at Andover.

July 6. Niotus vs. Canoe Club, at Lawrence.

July 13. Canoe Club vs. Vespers, at Lowell.

July 20. Canoe Club vs. Niotus, at Andover.

July 27. Vespers vs. Niotus, at Andover.

Aug. 10. Vespers vs. Canoe Club, at Lawrence.

Only one game has been played out of this schedule, that of June 1, in which the Niotus team were the winners in a close and exciting game.

Princeton's Commencement.

On next Saturday, June 15, Princeton's Commencement exercises will begin, and are to continue for four days. The chief events of the four days are to be as follows: Saturday, 3 P.M., Annual Caledonian Games; Sunday, Baccalaureate Sermon; Monday, Class Day; Tuesday, the Annual Meeting of the Alumni and presentation of the McCosh memorial statue by '79; and Wednesday, the one hundred and forty-second Commencement in the First church.

Amherst is to have a professorship in physical culture in honor of the late Henry Ward Beecher.

Dr. A. J. Gordon of Boston is mentioned for the presidency of Brown University.

Clark University opens in October. The tuition is to be $200 per annum.

A ball team made up of players from Yale, Amherst and Williams will be formed in July to play about in different parts of the state.

The Phillipian will be issued every Wednesday and Saturday during the school year except in vacations.

All communications must be accompanied by writer's full name and address not necessarily for publication unless so desired.

Communications may be addressed to the Phillipian, Andover, Mass., or dropped in the Phillipian box placed in the main hall of the Academy building.

The editors do not hold themselves responsible for the opinions of any correspondent.

THE ANDOVER PRESS, PRINTERS.

The communication which appears in another column is deserving the notice of the school. For some time many of the ladies in town have desired to see the games we play at Exeter; but, hearing of the great disorder which prevails on the special train, have feared to try the experiment. If the fellows will only use a little care, we can add a very pleasant feature to the game, and our lady friends will surely enjoy their trip.

After getting roused up to the proper degree of enthusiasm, and after making the necessary arrangements for attending the all-absorbing game of base-ball at Exeter last Saturday, it was a great disappointment to have it stopped at the very last minute; but a telegram was received from Exeter saying that the grounds were not in a fit condition, and there was nothing else to be done but to postpone the game until a more favorable time. It was subsequently seen, however, that the postponement was a very fortunate one, as soon after two o'clock the rain began to fall, and continued to do so for the remaining part of the afternoon. The delay, so vexatious for some reasons, will, however, give our pitcher a chance to get his arm in good order, and consequently so much better chance for winning the game. Our prospect for this is by no means bright; but every advantage will be of service, and should be utilized as much as possible.

As will be seen by the clippings from the Exonian which are published in another column, Exeter regards the chances of the game as being very favorable to her, and there is a general impression abroad that Andover will be beaten this time; but we do not by any means give up before the battle has been fought, and we believe that the blue will make things interesting for our neighbors when the game comes off.

Exeter made the very unexpected request, last Monday, that the ball game should be played on Wednesday, instead of being held over until Saturday; but, as might have been foreseen, our managers and captain were unable to agree to this proposition. The rules which govern the game state that it shall be played on the following Saturday in case it shall be postponed, and as soon as word was received last Saturday that there would be no game, every one immediately began to make special arrangements for this week. If the Exeter game were an ordinary practice game, there would be no need of so much care; but it is a game between the two schools, in which every one in each has an interest, and which every one wants to see. It is very likely that if the time had been changed from Saturday to Wednesday, fully one third of the school would have been unable to attend, and this alone would have been a serious matter to our representatives. Moreover, the programme for the whole week was so arranged that it could not be easily disturbed, and a change in it would have been attended with great inconvenience not to one, or to a few, but to a large majority of the whole school.

A correspondent in one of our columns calls attention to the series of class games played last year, and desires that the plan be tried again this year of having such a series. It is true that the class games last year called forth a good deal of interest and perhaps also aided our school teams by introducing new players who would otherwise not have had an opportunity to show themselves, but in spite of these advantages we hardly think it advisable to endeavor to arrange a series of class games so late in the season as it is now. For all practical purposes there will be only six days of school left after the Exeter game, up to that date everyone will have their hands full, and surely no one will want to hurl themselves into another whirlpool of excitement just as soon as they escape from that. In addition to this, some of the men who would be called upon to play desire a rest after the hard work they have been doing this spring and will look forward to that last week as an opportunity to recover themselves before the final examinations. A series of class games it a very nice thing when there is a demand for them and plenty of time, but the most enthusiastic athlete will acknowledge that this term at least we have had a good liberal allowance of games, and can well afford now to take a little breathing time.

Communications.

To the Editors of the Phillipian:

Through your columns I should like to make a suggestion, to the effect that a picture of the Glee Club be presented to the school and hung in the hall with those of the other school organizations. In this way permanent record will be kept of those who by a little sacrifice have added to the pleasure of the school during the past winter.

Yours truly,
TOTHRAI.

To the Phillipian Editors:

Last year after the Exeter game the class games were held. They were very interesting; and, although nothing has been done about them as yet, it does not seem too late to commence. There will be a week left after our contest with Exeter; and, in spite of the fact that the Athletic Association has not offered any cup as it did last year, it certainly is a great pity if there is not sufficient class spirit to carry the thing through. Although the time is so short, if the fellows work hard they can accomplish a good deal, and we hope that the matter will be immediately attended to by the different classes.

To Editors of Phillipian:

There are many ladies who have been interested spectators at the ball games, and now that the time for the Exeter game is at hand are desirous of seeing the result of all the preliminary training. It is almost impossible for them to go on the regular train, and for them to go on the special would be very disagreeable, unless some special car can be reserved by the students for their use. To many of the fellows the smoking and boisterousness are unpleasant, and what would it be to a lady were she compelled to endure it? Cannot a school meeting be called, and at least one car reserved for the ladies?

Preliminary Bicycle Race.

The preliminary one-mile bicycle race, to decide who shall contest in that event with Exeter to-day, was held on the cricket grounds at Lawrence, Thursday last. Lack of space did not allow of an account of its being published in the last PHILLIPIAN. The entries were Hallock, '90, Burr, '91, and Wheeler, '89. Considering that where the track was softest the wind hindered most, the time was very fair. Hallock had the best start, and took and maintained a strong and steady lead for the whole distance, taking quite a spurt at the end, which showed his strength and endurance as a rider. Time, 3 min. 53 sec. Burr was three lengths behind on the first lap, but kept falling behind, and came in about nine seconds after Hallock. Wheeler came in third, and did some very good work during the last two laps, gaining considerably on Burr. It is probable that our representative will make a good showing at Exeter.

Niotus Club Field Day.

The Niotus Club will repeat the experiment of last year in giving a field day. This event last year was such a signal success, and so much interest has since been shown in the welfare of the club, that there is every reason to suppose it will be still more satisfactory this year. The date fixed for the entertainment is Monday, June 17. The programme will commence at two o'clock with a tennis tournament, and from that hour until ten there will be a continual flow of amusement. During the course of the afternoon a ball game will be played between the Niotus team and the Lawrence Canoe Club team, and later on in the evening there will be a concert by the Boston Cadet Band. Refreshments will be served on the grounds, and everything will be done to give all visitors a pleasant time; and this will be the more easily secured as there is no desire on the part of the club to make money out of the occasion, but simply to promote its social standing.

Clippings from the Exonian.

Our readers will no doubt be interested by the following clippings, taken from the Exonian for last Saturday, as indicating the way in which Exeter regarded her chances for winning: "Our nine has not played the ball it is capable of; but to-day steady playing and good team work will bring a victory to Phillips Exeter Academy. The team needs confidence in itself, and it can safely have that."

Speaking of the expected Extra, it said, "This EXTRA will, in all probability, be out by 9.30 o'clock this evening, and as a fitting tribute to a victory every student should buy numerous of them."

In reference to a celebration, it was stated that, "In case we are victorious the procession will start from the Squamscott at seven this evening." And that this celebration was looked forward to with considerable confidence is evident from the following: "Play steady ball, to-day, boys. Don't lose your nerve, and we know that the victory will be ours."

A little advice is given to base runners in the item, "Don't take too much lead off the bases, boys. They say Upton throws like a 'Ewing'."

The Postponed Harvard-Yale Game.

In reference to the Harvard-Yale game, that was postponed last Saturday on account of the rain, Captain Willard of the Harvard team received a telegram Monday night from the Yale team, saying that the Yale Faculty would not allow the team to play until the examinations were over, and asking whether June 20 would be suitable. Mr. Willard had reached no decision yesterday, and would not send an answer back until he had consulted the athletic committee.

Class Day at Columbia.

The class day exercises at Columbia College were held last Monday; there was a large number of visitors present, and in addition to the class exercises they were entertained by the college glee and banjo clubs. The statistician of the class reports that the average age is a little over 21 years, the tallest man is 6 ft. 3 i-4 in., the shortest 5 ft. 4 in., and the average height is 5 ft. 9 in. In a vote taken on the most popular New York paper the Times received a majority, having nine votes more than its nearest rival, the Tribune. The class ode was written by a '90 man, and sung to the tune "Amici."

A report got abroad that some demonstrations would be made Saturday evening, and some members of the Faculty took active steps to prevent any trouble; but everything was very quiet all through the evening.

The preliminary one-mile bicycle race took place on a track in Lawrence, last Thursday. The track was but little better than our campus. The contestants were Burr, Hallock and Wheeler. Hallock won in fairly good time, and will race with Exeter.

A collection was taken up Sunday morning after service in aid of the sufferers from the Johnstown disaster. It was at first proposed that the school should send a contribution for itself; but it was afterwards decided to make it in connection with the church collection.

Two ladies, while driving down Main Street Monday afternoon, had their carriage driven into by a laundry wagon coming behind them. The occupants of the carriage received no injury, and the only damage done was to the carriage, which had a wheel taken off. No blame could be attached to any one for the accident.

College Items.

Oxford has twelve American students, the University of Berlin has six hundred, and Leipsic has about two hundred.

Yale defeated the University of Pennsylvania nine last Tuesday, in a six-inning game, by a score of 24 to 0.

The Crimson will post the final score of the Andover-Exeter game to-day at Leavitt and Peirce's.—Crimson.

Carter, '91, will act as toast-master at the annual banquet of the Phillips Andover Alumni Association in Boston this evening.—Yale News, June 7.

The Yale crew go to New London, June 15.

A nine chosen from the Interscholastic Base-ball League were to play Exeter next Saturday, but as the Andover game comes off on that day, arrangements are being made to fix some other date.

Cornell has received a gift of nine acres of land for an athletic field and $3,000 to fit it up.

At the annual meeting of the Trinity Athletic Association, held last Saturday, it was decided to withdraw from the Intercollegiate Base Ball and Foot Ball Leagues.

The students of Yale are trying to raise $2,000 for the purpose of laying out twenty tennis courts near the campus.—Princetonian

The postponed Yale-Harvard game will be played at Cambridge, Thursday, June 20.—Yale News.

There is a strong feeling among the professors and alumni of the Yale Scientific School in favor of lengthening the course to four years.

An international Lawn Tennis Tournament for the championship of the world has been arranged between George Kerr, the Irish champion, and Thomas Pettitt, of Boston, to be played in Boston this summer.

Exeter closes Monday, the 17th.

Brainerd, P.S. '88, and Phillips, ex-P.S. '89, are visiting in town.

Several students are planning for a two weeks camp at Northfield.

The roof is now being put on the new Draper Hall at Abbot Academy.

Examinations for Yale will be held in nineteen different cities this spring.

Farnam, P.A. '90, expects to spend next year in California on a ramble.

The Exeter nine will take a trip to the different colleges after the season is over.

Farwell's mother and brother are here, and expect to stay until after Commencement.

The Senior reception will be at Prof. Coy's Friday evening, from 7.30 to 10 o'clock.

The weather was very disagreeable Monday and Tuesday, being very hot and damp.

The class in Quentin Durward, under Prof. Eaton, will finish the book in one more lesson.

The class of '87 held their reunion at Young's last Friday. About twenty-five were present.

The Hartford Theological Seminary will in the fall be open in all the branches of its curriculum to women.

Many fellows availed themselves of the opportunity to go out of town Saturday, not only to Boston, but elsewhere.

Several of the Yale men came down expecting to see the Andover-Exeter game, but had to go home disappointed.

Those Seniors who did not pass their college examinations in Roman History are taking a rapid review of it with Prof. Comstock.

It is expected that next year the Middlers Classical will substitute the Hellenica for the third and fourth books of the Anabasis.

The Middlers were examined in two divisions, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings, on Latin nouns, pronouns and adjectives, the questions having reference to the length of vowels.

It is said that the members of the Faculty who examined the contributions to the Mirror were more than usually particular in throwing out any matter that might be objectionable.

Seminary Sunday afternoon. The church was very full, all the Abbot Academy students being present.

The singing of the Glee Club last Friday night was condemned as being the poorest ever heard. The trouble arose from the fact that sufficient preparation had not been made for it.

CLASS DAY.

The brightest day of all the year,
When Freshmen carry canes, not fear
To wear tall hats, to shout with mirth,
And act as though they owned the earth,
Is Class Day.

The most important of all days,
When Sophomores think the college sways
Upon the style in which they dress,
The air of wisdom they possess,
Is Class Day.

The day when every Junior's pride
Is in the maiden by his side;
Perchance she'll be a sister true,
Though something else he has in view,
Next Class Day.

The day when Seniors walk on air,
And talk of one 'divinely fair';
The day when that engagement's out
Which every one has talked about,
Is Class Day.
