PHILLIPS ACADEMY, ANDOVER, MASS., OCTOBER 19, 1889.

NO. 10.

Communications.

Editors of Phillipian:

As the time draws near for the Exeter game, and everything which tends to the strengthening of our team is so anxiously watched by both old and new fellows, it seems to us that some measures ought to be adopted whereby those who seem the most promising candidates for the team might have the opportunity to attend a training table. We know how much was gained by our last year's team in this manner, and we feel sure that it would have a good effect if tried now. Hoping that in a short time we shall see our men enjoying the benefit of such a table, we remain

Yours Respectfully,

ARGUS.

Editors of Phillipian:

I wish to speak through the PHILLIPIAN about a matter concerning which nothing has been said publicly, but which is the theme of all private conversation and is of great interest to the school at large.

Every one is by this time pretty well acquainted with the circumstances attending our last base-ball game with Exeter. For about three quarters of an hour after the close of the game, while the party from Andover were waiting for the train to bring them home, there was a perfect riot around the railroad station; the greatest discomfort was experienced, and in some cases severe injury suffered. It is not my intention to say who is to blame for this state of things, but it is rather a significant fact that, in all the years that these contests between the two schools have been held, a row has never occurred at Andover, while during my school life a game has never taken place at Exeter without a disturbance. Affairs reached such a crisis last spring that all Andover students and their friends, who accompanied them, said that the games had better be put a stop to unless they could be conducted differently, and nothing has come up since to change this opinion. Precisely what action has been taken in the matter, no one knows, outside of the two faculties of the schools, but the tennis tournaments have apparently fallen through and now every one is wondering whether the foot-ball game will be played or not.

The contests between the two rival schools have been of great interest to all who are in any way connected with them; they have been the cause of quickening and adding zest to school life, and would be missed very much if they should cease. But there is a greater principle than the mere pleasure of these games to be taken into consideration. If they come to an end, it should be because it is not advisable to hold them, and not because they cannot be conducted properly. A person would think that in two educational institutions which yearly turn out a large number of young men who are supposed to have undergone a preliminary training fitting them for important positions in business, the learned professions, politics, etc., an affair like this could be managed with mutual satisfaction, and, doubtless, it can be, if both parties concerned show a willing disposition. One thing, however, is certain, that as long as these games are played on the home campus of either team there will be always danger of an outbreak, the feeling on both sides is so intense and the restraints are so few.

Therefore, taking everything into consideration, the advantages of the games, the desire of both schools to play them, and the danger of playing them on home ground, it would seem a good plan to play them on neutral ground. Such a place could be easily secured; if Harvard were approached on the question, she would most probably be willing to allow the game to be played on her ground. In such a place as Cambridge there would be no fear of disorder, the two schools would be swallowed up by the larger crowd of older and more steady spectators; if the lower classes who invariably attend these games should show a disposition to make things unpleasant they would be dealt with by the police, who would be numerous enough to keep order and would not be restrained by any feeling of partiality. In fact, this plan would seem to accomplish every desired end. The games would continue, they would be played under circumstances fair to both sides, and the objectional occurrences after the games would cease. Meanwhile if anything is to be done in the affair it will have to be done quickly. I sincerely hope this plan will recommend itself to the managers of both teams and the faculties of both schools, and that we shall see a well contested foot-ball game this year between Andover and Exeter.

"ONE OF THE BOYS."

Yale's New Gymnasium.

Plans for the proposed gymnasium at Yale were decided upon at a meeting of the gymnasium committee recently held in New York. The plans chosen were those presented by E. E. Gandolfo. These plans call for a three story building and a sub-cellar. Bowling alleys, heating apparatus, and store rooms will be located in the cellar. The first floor will be devoted to bath rooms, two rowing tanks, and the janitor's apartments. The second floor will be occupied by lockers and separate rooms for the several clubs, a sparring room, offices, and bathing conveniences. The entire third floor will be devoted to the main gymnasium, which will contain a running track and all the most improved apparatus. The building will probably be one of the most complete of its kind possible. The walls will be either of brick with stone trimmings or entirely of stone, which point has not yet been decided. There will be two entrances to the building, one of which is intended for those arriving or leaving in carriages or barges, and which will be arranged so that a tally-ho can be driven to the entrance. The frontage of the building will approach 300 feet, and its depth will be about 80. Work will be commenced upon the ground as soon as is practicable.

Andover Club Meeting.

A very well attended meeting of the Andover Club was held in 176 Lyceum last evening. Mr. Crosby, '90, took the chair, and the meeting immediately proceeded to the election of officers. The following men were elected, all by acclamation: President, John Crosby, '90; vice-President, J. C. Machale, '90 S.; Secretary, S. C. Thompson, '91; Treasurer, G. B. Hollister, '92. The Treasurer's report was then read, showing: total expenditures, $118.70; total receipts, $115.00; deficit, $3.70. The Treasurer's report was accepted, and after some discussion the motion was made that the executive committee be instructed to hold the annual banquet of the club before Thanksgiving. This motion was passed, also a motion that the Andover Club put such Yale publications in the Andover reading-room as the executive committee sees fit. Some means of arousing a greater interest in Yale among the Andover men were then discussed, but no definite action was taken. The meeting then adjourned. The executive committee, as appointed by President Crosby, is composed of Professor Wheeler, J. A. Bevey, '91, C. G. Carter, '91, A. H. Preston, '91 S., H. A. Bayne, '92, and J. H. Field, '93.—Yale News, Oct. 16.

Inter-Collegiate Schedule.

On Saturday, the 12th, the Inter-collegiate Foot-ball Association met at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, to arrange a schedule of foot-ball games among the five institutions represented. Capt. C. O. Gil, of Yale, presided, and F. D. Beattys, of Wesleyan, acted as Secretary. One of the most important decisions made was that the Yale-Princeton game would take place in New York.

The following is the schedule arranged:

- Oct. 26.—Princeton vs. University of Penn. at Philadelphia; R. J. Corwin, referee.
- Oct. 30.—Yale vs. University of Penn. at Philadelphia; W. J. George, referee.
- Nov. 2.—Harvard vs. University of Penn. at Cambridge; G. W. Woodruff, referee.
- Nov. 2.—Princeton vs. Wesleyan at New York; S. V. Coffin, referee.
- Nov. 9.—Harvard vs. Wesleyan at Springfield; A. A. Stagg, referee.
- Nov. 16.—Yale vs. Wesleyan at Springfield; S. V. Coffin, referee.
- Nov. 16.—Harvard vs. Princeton at Cambridge; George Ade, referee.
- Nov. 23.—Yale vs. Harvard at Springfield; H. W. Cowan, referee.
- Nov. 23. (a.m.)—Wesleyan vs. University of Penn. at New York; W. C. Camp, referee.
- Nov. 23. (p.m.)—Yale vs. Princeton at New York; W. Brooks, referee.

A new edition of the Yale song book has been issued.

Harvard's base-ball association has a surplus of $3,600.

It is feared that the Exeter Literary Monthly will have to suspend publication this year for lack of editors.

Captain Ames, of the Princeton foot-ball team, has resigned the captaincy, and Cowan has been elected pro tem.

THE ANDOVER PRESS, PRINTERS

In view of the action that was taken by the school in the school meeting on Friday noon, namely that everyone should give up their season football tickets for next Saturday only, and pay the regular admission fee, it is to be hoped that as many as are able will attend the game in order that as much money as possible may be raised towards defraying the heavy expenses of the Yale Freshman game. This game will be an important and interesting one, and it is desirable that lack of funds will not prevent its being played.

The communication in to-day's issue signed "One of the Boys," is worthy of considerable notice. It is, of course of the highest importance to football, base ball and tennis interests in the school that the Exeter games shall not be discontinued, for the fact is obvious that the interest taken in these three sports here would be vastly less if such were the case. The idea of playing the games on neutral ground is one worthy of strong consideration by the two schools and faculties, in as much as it would do away with most of the objectionable features usually attending these games. It is at least to be hoped that the matter of this year's games will speedily receive due consideration by the proper officials, and that some definite action will be taken soon.

We wish to say a few words to the fellows about the Tennis Association. Previous to this year the Association had the profit realized by the sale of the courts that were situated in front of the Academy building, but by the removal of these courts the Association lost its main support. The only way to make up for this loss is to increase the membership. The fee is only fifty cents, and we hope the fellows that have not already joined the Association will do so at once.

Harvard Scratch Races.

The enthusiasm and interest shown in the scratch races at Harvard this year were much greater than that of any previous year. So large a number of men made applications to row that it was impossible to accommodate all. The number of spectators present was exceedingly large, and some even found places upon the roof of the boat-house. The six upper class crews contested in two heats. The first heat was pulled in sets of threes, one of which was won by crew No. 5, Watriss, '92, stroke, and the other by crew No. 2, Longworth stroke. The second of these two was the most exciting race of the afternoon. The Freshman crews also contested in two heats, the contortions of some of the men creating much merriment among the spectators. In the final heat of the upper class crews No. 2 won, while the final heat of the Freshman crews was a tie.

School Meeting.

A school meeting was called Friday noon, and on motion of Sawyer, seconded by Stearns, it was voted that the school should not use their football season tickets at the game next Saturday, but should pay the regular admission fee.
