Communications.

Editors of Phillipian:

Although there was a very marked and encouraging improvement made in the cheering at the last game it certainly is far below what it ought to be at this proximity to the Exeter game. Those of us who have witnessed contests with Exeter are aware that the cheering is kept up from the very opening of the game until its close almost without a moment's pause. Now unless the same takes place to a certain degree in the games which remain to be played we shall find that the members of the nine, especially the new ones, will become rattled when cheering is going on as in the Exeter game at a time when most unfavorable for Andover. Now the point I wish to make is that the leaders bring out the cheers not only after a brilliant play, but when it will be apt to perplex the nine, for after a few games it will be impossible to produce this effect and then the team will be in fit condition to sustain the uninterrupted cheering at the Exeter game. At Exeter during the last few games cheering has been one of the principle features of the game, and as every one noticed the effects of the comparatively good cheering at the last game, it is hoped that gradual improvement will be made in each game.

A.

Philo.

Yesterday evening Philo held its seventh regular meeting. Campbell led in prayer, and was followed by Morris who read a very witty criticism on the last meeting. Rogers spoke extemporaneously on the subject "The Athletic Tournament." "The Ideal of the fitting school" was the subject which Smith chose for his Mirror address, and he handled it very well. Atha entertained the society with a good declamation. The debate on the subject Resolved; that a Pan-American treaty is beneficial to the United States was debated with but little interest. The decision of the house after debate was negative, 8; affirmative, 7. The chair thought that the weight of argument lay with the affirmative. After the appointment of parts the meeting adjourned.

Prof. Comstock's Lectures.

On Monday evening next, Prof. Comstock will give the first of a series of talks on the topography of ancient Rome. The lectures promise to be very interesting, as all who have heard in past years Professor Comstock's talks on ancient Rome, can readily understand. The lectures will be illustrated by over 500 stereopticon views, and the course will be somewhat as follows:

The first lecture will be on the capitol, Arch of Titus, Vestal Virgins, and the Palaces of the Palatine.

Second, on the Colosseum, statues, and other works of art, and Churches.

Third, on the Campagna, Catacombs, Appian Way, and Tivoli.

Fourth, on Pompeii, Herculeneum, and Vesuvius.

The lectures will be free, and the presence of all who take any interest in Rome and her surroundings, will be welcome.

Phillips 7; Matthews 8.

On Wednesday afternoon the nine were defeated by the Matthews of Lowell, in a way which ought to deprive the visitors of all satisfaction in their victory, and certainly was unjust and contemptible. During the entire game, the home team suffered the most shameful and unjust treatment from the umpires of the visiting team, who roasted the nine in every possible manner. Several times during the progress of the game the nine would have been fully justified in refusing to continue to play, and unless one decision had been altered, the game would have ended at that point. The same treatment was received from this nine last year, and this experience should teach Andover to arrange for no games with this team hereafter. Notwithstanding the odds against which our nine fought, there was no reason for defeat. The nine made several excellent plays, but the few errors which were made were costly and of the simplest nature. Bliss and Cheney each made an inexcusable wild throw. Brown shows a need of vast improvement in throwing to second, and Cheney must still put more life into his work. The fact that Exeter defeated this team several weeks ago, should impress upon the men the necessity of steady training.

Umpire Powell called play at 4.50, and Andover, as usual, was at the bat. Dalzell led off with a fine drive to right for two bags, but he was soon afterwards caught napping at 2d. Case struck out, and Stearns flied to Cas-ties. — Gilroy was presented with a base on balls. Dalzell juggled Flynn's grounder and gave him a life at 1st. Walcott caught McGuirk's fly. Toohey's scratch hit advanced each runner a base, and Gilroy and Flynn scored on Weston's single, and Toohey went to 3d. Brown ignobly dropped Maguire's third strike, and Toohey scored while he was throwing to 1st. Brennan struck out.

Second inning. — Anderson called out on strikes. Cheney reached 1st on a fumble by McGuirk, but through carelessness was caught napping there. Four wild balls gave McCormick 1st, and he scored on Flynn's wild throw to catch him at 2d. Brown retired at first, Gilroy to Maguire, — Castles and Shea struck out. Gilroy got in a scratch hit, but was left at 1st, as Dalzell disposed of Flynn's grounder.

Third inning — Bliss retired at 1st, Gilroy assisting. Walcott 1st on balls but was out purloining 2d, Flynn to Gilroy. Nestor cared for Dalzell's foul. — McGuirk retired on strikes. Brown threw Toohey's bunt to 1st in good style. Case dropped Nestor's pop-fly, and then threw to Stearns; he also muffed, and so Nestor scored on two miserable errors. McGuirk struck out.

Fourth inning. — Stearns hit to McGuirk, and beat his throw, stole 2d, and took third on a passed ball. Anderson was hit, stole 2d and both he and Stearns scored on Cheney's timely hit to centre. Cheney took 2d on throw to plate; but was out attempting to score on a passed ball. McCormick failed to connect with the ball. — Brennan struck out, Castles retired, Case to Stearns, and Shea flied to Bliss.

Fifth inning. — Brown struck out. Bliss hit to centre and moved up to 3d on a wild throw to catch him at 2d. Walcott hit to Maguire, who fielded to the plate too late to catch Bliss. Shea threw Dalzell's grounder to Gilroy, and forced Walcott at 2d. Dalzell was out going to 2d, Flynn to Gilroy. Two singles, a steal and a sacrifice, caused Gilroy to score for the Matthews.

Sixth inning. — Andover failed to get a man beyond 2d, while for the Matthews, Bliss' wild throw to 1st and Castles' single scored Brennan.

Seventh inning. — Maguire, with the assistance of McGuirk, retired McCormick. Brown hit to centre and stole 2d. Bliss reached 1st on balls. Walcott put up a fly for Shea, who, miffing, advanced each man a base. Dalzell fouled to Flynn, and Brown was put out attempting to score on the play. Flynn struck out, McGuirk followed suit, Toohey ditto:

Eighth inning. — In this inning, Anderson's double and McCormick's single, together with several errors, netted Andover two runs. The Matthews also, scored two runs, although they got only one hit.

Ninth inning. — Gilroy threw Bliss' grounder wild to 1st, and he moved up to 3d and scored on Walcott's sacrifice. Dalzell retired, Shea to Maguire, and Case flied to Nestor. The score:

Miss Barrows' Party.

In accordance with her usual custom in closing a course of dancing lessons, Miss Barrows gave a very enjoyable dancing party on Thursday evening, in the Town Hall, which closes the course of lessons carried on here during the winter and part of the present term. The party was an especially attractive one, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended. Besides the members of the dancing class there was present quite a large number of young ladies and gentlemen from Haverhill, Lawrence, and elsewhere. The order of dances was attractive, and closed with german figures, for which suitable and tasty favors were provided.

THE ANDOVER PRESS, PRINTERS.

Every fellow regrets that so insufficient a sum has been subscribed for the proposed running track that the committee are compelled to stop its completion. There may be an idea among some fellows that, because the tournament cannot be held upon the track, all responsibility has ended towards the payment of their subscription. But this is incorrect, as every dollar contributed will be needed to meet bills already contracted. If each fellow who hasn't met his subscription will do so at once, much trouble to the committee will be saved.

The long expected story of the "New Senior at Andover" has made its appearance and the first two chapters are published in the June number of the Wide Awake. The author, Rev. Herbert D. Ward of Andover, graduated in the class of '80, and is one deeply interested in the Academy. Judging from the opening chapters of the story, which will continue for several months, it is safe to say it promises to be very interesting. The title is fitly chosen and the portraiture of the thoughts and feelings of a new student just entering upon school life for the first time is extremely natural and unique. We deem it our duty however to offer a caution to its many readers, otherwise the careless reader will draw a very unfavorable conclusion regarding the school life here at Andover as it exists to-day. It must be distinctly remembered that the reader must place himself in the time of the story itself, and must not lose sight of the fact that the present relation of the students to one another is far different from that of the sixties. Unless the reader bears this important fact in mind, he will form very unfair and unjust ideas of the wholesome spirit which exists now at Phillips as compared with that of years ago.

Salem St. 14; Cheever House 13.

Salem Street defeated Cheever House Wednesday afternoon by the above score, on the Salem Street campus. The game was exciting only on account of the closeness of the score, and was otherwise marked by heavy batting and poor field work by both teams. The batteries were Tilley and Lineaweaver, Mackey and Knapp. Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5
Salem Street,	5	3	1	1	4-14
Cheever House,	5	1	1	2	4-18

Class Day Committees.

The following men have been chosen to act on the Senior Class Day committees: executive, Taylor, Perham, Campbell; finance, McDuffee, Emerson, Dodge; music, Bard, Porter, Harrington; printing, Beard, Brown, Eaton; flowers, J. P. Chamberlain, Lyon, Candee.

Class Meeting.

P. A. '91 held a class meeting yesterday morning to determine what course it would take concerning the defraying of a part of the expenses of the annual course of lectures which Prof. Comstock purposes to give shortly. The class voted to make an assessment, and the President appointed as a committee to collect such, Skinner, Adams, and Hooker.

Andover vs. Boston Blues to-day.

Princeton vs. Yale, at Princeton to-day.

Exeter defeated the Prospects of Lawrence on Wednesday. Score, 11-7.

Rustin did not fill his usual position at short on Wednesday, as he was spiked some days since.

The Camera Club is making good use of its dark room.

The Freshmen have won the class championship at Harvard after a close series of games with the Seniors.

Work on the running track has been suspended, owing to the lack of funds. It will be completed next year.

As the entries for the tournament are not as numerous as was expected, although the entries have been closed, any who desire to enter may do so by handing their names at once to the Secretary, G. K. King.

The Boston Blues were defeated here last year 10-9.

J. D. Clark, P.A. '89, Yale '93, met with a terrible accident while crossing a ferry at Middletown, Ct. One foot is so badly bruised that amputation will be necessary.

A great improvement was made in the cheering at the last game, but it is expected that at to-day's game there will be still an advance made in the right direction.

McCarthy, who is making such a record behind the bat on Exeter's team, is a recent member of the school, and has entered the Junior English class.

All delinquent base-ball subscribers will confer a favor upon the management of the nine by clearing up all subscriptions immediately.

Morton Street is a good second in the race for the championship, with a good chance of making first place.

Latin Commons plays Morton Street to-day. A close game is expected.

The Yale and Harvard Freshmen play their first game to-day, at Cambridge.

The spring tournament takes place next Wednesday.

The second nine has received a challenge for a game to-day with the Niotus Club.

The team went to Boston on Wednesday afternoon, and had their picture taken.

Odom, P A '92, has discontinued school and is preparing himself for the Harvard examinations.

Eaton received a severe bruise while sliding in the Blunt House vs. E.C. game.

Harrington, Gordon, Sandford, and Strong compose the new guitar-mandolin quartette which has been formed under the leadership of Harrington.

The Exeter Faculty have opposed the recent move of the Christian Fraternity, changing it into a Y.M.C.A., and it will probably continue as formerly.

Yale has accepted the Princeton Gun Club's challenge; the match to come off in the morning previous to the Yale game.

Every man who makes any pretence of pitching is requested by the captain to come out every afternoon at 5 P.M., in order to give the team the much needed practice in batting.

On Friday evening Prof. and Mrs. Taylor gave a very enjoyable musicale at their house. A few Academy students received invitations.

The Junior promenade at Wellesley takes place Friday evening, May 30.

Abbot St. 7; Cheever House,
6.

An unusually interesting game was played on the upper field Thursday afternoon between the above teams. Cheever House played much the better game of the two, Mackey's work in the box and Leavitt's base running being particularly noticeable, while Abbot St. showed her skill in taking advantage of her opponent's every error. The score:
