Communication.

Editors of Phillipian:

It is now over five weeks since school commenced and there has been no cane-rush, although there have been several attempts. Why does not '93, like '91 did year before last, post a challenge on the bulletin board some morning and then have a good square rush. As Dr. Bancroft said "we have some 107 acres that belong to us, so why not have it on that, instead of going down to the Punchard campus?" Hoping some action will be taken on my suggestion,

I remain truly yours.

z.

Editors of Phillipian:

Although the membership of Philo is quite large this term, yet it is not what it has been in years past when one had to be early in order to obtain a seat. This society is not only considered by the faculty as one of the best factors of the school, but is greatly enjoyed by its members. There must be many fellows interested either in debate, composition, declamation, or extempore, who are not members of the society. These should avail themselves of the fine training which Philo affords, and apply for membership by handing their names either to the vice-president, or a member of the executive committee.

"SCIRE EST REGERE."

Editors of Phillipian:

In the last issue of the PHILLIPIAN, there appeared a communication concerning the giving of a clock to Abbot Academy. As this, under the existing circumstances, is almost a duty as well as a pleasure, would it not be well to call a school meeting and appoint a committee to collect the necessary funds.

Tennis Tournament.

The Tennis Tournament, the first of our contests with our old rival Phillips Exeter under the new agreement, took place last Wednesday at Exeter. The result was the same as it has been for several years previous—Andover winning the championship in the singles and Exeter in the doubles. Our representative in the former was Hamlet Anderson, '92, and his opponent was J. H. Chase. The singles were quickly finished as Anderson was far superior to his opponent, winning three sets in succession with the greatest ease. Play was begun at about 2:45 with Anderson serving. Chase won the first game but Anderson took the next six, winning the set by the score of 6-1.

In the next set Anderson played more brilliantly and won a love set by his superior cross-court placing. The third set, however, was far more interesting, as Chase braced considerably, but in vain. He won the first game after a hot contest but Anderson took the next two by fine placing. Again Chase took his turn at winning, but Anderson won the four following games without difficulty, thus winning the final set and the cup for Andover by the scores 6-1, 6-0, 6-2.

The doubles were much more interesting as the scores show, but the result was very different from what we had hoped. We were represented by Messrs. Mills and Spaulding, and Messrs. Chase and Lyman defended the cup for Exeter. The latter opened by winning a love game on Andover's serve, but foot-faults by Lyman gave the next game to us and the following was also won by our representatives. Exeter took the next three games principally through Lyman's smashing, although all were hotly contested. Andover again won a love game, making the score 4-3 in Exeter's favor. The two following games were very good, but were both won by Exeter. Our players then took another game but their opponents won the next, winning the set by the score 6-4.

In the second set we alternated with Exeter in winning until the score was three all. Then the latter took two straight games, but one more easily went to Andover, and after a close contest Exeter won the last, thus winning this set also by the same score.

In the final set our men started out well, taking two games. After that, however, they seemed to go to pieces and Exeter won four games, although the playing was quite sharp. Andover then made a final rally and took the next game after some good playing, but Chase and Lyman were again victorious in the final game, thus winning the championship in doubles.

When the party reached Andover they found that a great many of the fellows were awaiting them at the station. These formed in line with the victor and the spoils, in the shape of Anderson and the cup, at their head, and marched up to Prof. Petter's. The latter was not prepared to make a speech he said, but congratulated us on our success in the initial contest under our new agreement, and wished us success in all our future contests with Exeter.

The procession then made its way to the Ferr. Sem. grounds and thence toward Prof. Harris, stopping in front of Dr. Bancroft's and Prof. Churchill's to cheer. Prof. Harris also hoped for success in our coming games, and expressed his gratification at the resumption of athletic games between the two schools. The procession then broke up. The magnificent cup which was purchased through the generosity of the fellows, will be suitably engraved and placed in the trophy case in a few days.

Phillips 4; Tufts 0.

The game on Wednesday, with Tufts, was certainly the poorest exhibition of football that has been seen on our campus this year. It is all the more disgusting to the school because it knows that the team can do better. Although the referee, furnished by Tufts, robbed us of several points, yet the score should have been larger. To begin with, the team does not play together; each man goes by himself, and frequently the man with the ball has hardly anyone to guard off for him. These points refer especially to the backs, who, in addition, are entirely too slow in getting started, do not use enough speed, or show enough pluck in rushing, and last, but not least, fumble the ball most miserably. As the last two games show, the men do not get down to work in the first half, and do not seem to realize that they are playing football until the other side gets the advantage. Unless the team overcomes these faults, it cannot hope to meet with much success when they have strong opponents. The Tufts team was heavy in the centre, but still this was no excuse for their pushing us down the field in the way they did. The team, also, does not play quick enough, and unless they play quicker and with more snap and vigor, they will find that the Exeter team will be lined up, and have the ball in play before they are even in position.

The game. Tufts had the ball and the south end, and opened the game with a V, making twelve yards. They push the ball gradually through the centre for twenty yards more, but finally loose it on a fumble. Babbitt does not gain, but Woodruff makes thirty yards around the left end, and Colt goes through the centre for twenty yards more. Knapp, Townsend, and Babbitt each make good gains, but the ball is fumbled, and goes to Tufts on four downs. Tufts, after two rushes of six and ten yards, respectively, gives the ball to Andover for offside play. Andover is unable to make her five yards, so Tufts takes the ball, and carries it by short rushes through the centre to the middle of the field, where Colt gets it on a wild pass, and makes a fine rush of thirty-five yards, being well tackled by Cunningham. Again we loose the ball on four downs, but Taylor soon gets it on a fumble. After short rushes by Knapp, Colt, Ogilvie, and Woodruff, Townsend looses the ball, and Tufts gets five yards for offside play. They keep the ball a-rolling, but again kindly get offside, and Andover has the ball. Knapp, Sheffield and Woodruff, make thirty-five yards, and as we are unable to gain any more, the ball goes to Tufts just as time is called. Score 0 to 0.

Andover opens the second half with a V, and shortly afterwards Colt makes a touchdown, and Knapp kicks a goal, which is not allowed, as the referee calls Cox offside. Andover soon gets the ball near the twenty-five yard line, and Knapp tries for a goal, but fails. He catches the return punt, and shortly afterwards tries again for a goal and fails; but Hinkey gets the ball, and makes a touchdown, which is not allowed as he is offside. The ball is put in play at the twenty-five yard line. After much manoeuvring Knapp punts, and Colt carries the ball across the line, but drops it, and the play is called a touchback. Soon after the ball was brought out time was called. Score, Andover 4; Tufts 0. The teams lined up as follows:

All communications must be accompanied by the writer's full name and address, not necessarily for publication unless so desired.

Communications may be addressed to the Phillipian, Andover, Mass., or dropped in the Phillipian box placed in the main hall of the Academy building.

THE ANDOVER PRESS, PRINTERS.

The PHILLIPPIAN regrets very much to state that Mr. Taylor has, on account of press of other duties, temporarily resigned his position as managing editor. Neale has been chosen to fill his place until the former resumes it again after the foot-ball season is over.

Professor Howard of Boston, besides training the Glee Club, will give instruction once a week to all members of the Academy who wish to learn how to sing or to perfect themselves in musical knowledge. The first meeting, held on Tuesday evening, was greatly enjoyed; the fellows who attended feeling that they had really learned a great deal. Prof. Howard intends to begin with the fundamental principles of singing, and in his next lesson will dwell particularly upon the way to use the extremes of the voice. There is no expense connected with this, as it is offered by the school as a study; and all, who are in any way interested in singing, should make use of this fine opportunity to cultivate their voices.

The tennis tournament held at Exeter last Wednesday afternoon marked the beginning of the new series of athletic contests between the two schools. The old series of games ended in a way very disgraceful to both schools, and which threatened for a time to put a stop to all future contests. But, at a conference held last June in Haverhill, the two Faculties drew up a set of rules which, if they are lived up to, will prevent all trouble in the future. Not one complaint can be made against the treatment which our fellows received from the Exeter students on Wednesday, and we feel safe in saying that no athletic contest ever took place between Exeter and Andover in which there was so little hard feeling.

The school is to be congratulated on winning the most important event in the first tournament, and it must also be lenient in its criticism of its representatives in doubles, as neither of them have ever been placed in such a trying situation before. The tournament, therefore, was a success from beginning to end, and we sincerely hope that all future contests will be conducted in the same spirit and good feeling which existed on Wednesday.

The team play against the Harvard Freshmen this afternoon, and the game will probably be a very interesting one, as the Freshman team and our team are generally very evenly matched. We hope that there will be a large crowd on the campus to support the team by cheering, and also that the fellows will be more careful about keeping behind the line. It is impossible for the police to keep the crowd back unless every person is willing to do his share towards it by keeping back himself.

To '92.

Some days ago, as all well know,
Upon the village street,
The classes of '92 and '3
Did have a mighty meet.

Some men of '93 had thought
To carry little canes,
But the results which followed swift
Left nothing for their pains.

"Oh," '93 cried, "we're the ones
Who know what we're about."
They gathered in the Post Office,
And gave a mighty shout.

Just when the noise had reached its height,
The riot and the rout,
Whom did they see but Dr. B.,
And those brave(?) men slunk out.

The question was what next to do,
And each one racked his brains.
The question solved they marched around
To look about for canes.

Now "Fatty Clark" in Bradley's store
Was looking at a cane,
When in rushed Colt of '92.
Class pride did fill his brain.

"No man of '93 shall bear
The emblem of a cane.
If any of you have that hope,
I'll prove that it is in vain."

He seized the cane and started out,
And without more ado,
The clerk turned round and charged that cane
To Colt, of '92.
