Phillips St., 7; Salem St., 1.

Saturday's game between Phillips and Salem Streets was by far the most interesting of the street series. The fielding and batting of Phillips St. were remarkable. Simmons struck out ten men and there were but three hits made off his delivery. Drew caught a fine game and Fales made several good stops at short. For Salem St., Bergner and Wilder put up a good game. Batteries: Salem St., Crosby and Bergner; Phillips St., Simmons and Drew.

The Camera Exhibit.

The annual exhibition of the Camera Club begins this afternoon in the physical laboratory of the Science Building. The members of the club have taken special pains this year to have this exhibition surpass anything of the kind ever held here.

There will be about five hundred views of all sizes and descriptions on exhibition which will doubtless furnish sufficient variety to make it worth while to spend the afternoon and the small cost of admission required to see them. The exhibition will be open on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons till eight o'clock, and the admission will be fifteen cents.

The Souvenir of the Senior Class.

The Souvenir of '92, which is being edited by J. W. Lewis, P. A. '94, is a new thing for Andover, since this is the first one ever gotten up. It will contain the Means Prize essays, class oration, poem, history, prophecy, statistics, ivy song, ode, a list of victories, and some other things. In the preparation of the book, the editor has spent much time, care and thought. A book far superior to anything ever brought forth by the Academy may be expected. It will appear on the 28th inst.

Prof. Comstock's Lecture.

Those who were fortunate enough to listen to Prof. Comstock Tuesday evening greatly enjoyed his second lecture on Rome.

In his first lecture on Thursday evening, June 16th, he began with the Forum, and, showing many different views in and about that historic place, gave a short explanation of each.

In his second lecture he first showed a general view of the city, giving the relative positions of the different objects of interest. We entered with him that princely structure, the Vatican, and traversing its spacious chambers, viewed its beautiful works of art and its libraries, the pride of Rome. Then the Sistine Chapel which has been immortalized by the pencil of Michael Angelo was visited.

We entered St. Peter's and realized our insignificance as we stood beneath its mighty dome. Then traversing the Appian Way, we visited the Cat-combs and looked upon the places where the early Christians retired from persecution to hold their worship or to bury their dead.

In-closing the lecture Prof. Comstock drew a beautiful contrast between the kingdom of the Romans and that far greater kingdom established by the "Babe of Bethlehem," the "Prince of Peace."

The final lecture of the series will be given next Thursday evening at eight o'clock.

Whaling Bark "Progress" at Chicago.

The whaling bark "Progress" sailed from New Bedford, 8 inst., bound for the Columbian Exposition at Chicago, where she cannot fail to be one of the most attractive and instructive features. Few persons, comparatively speaking, have ever had the opportunity to go on board a whaling vessel, fully equipped for her romantic and dangerous service. The fitting out was largely the work of Mr. George F. Bartlett, P.S. '45. Mr. Gideon Nye Bartlett, P.S. '74, came on from New York to attend the sailing of the bark, which he visited in Sept. '78 in behalf of the owners when she was high up in the Arctic Ocean with the New Bedford whaling fleet of the season. Headley, who has been taking pictures here recently, took several views of the "Progress" under full sail.

The Hotchkiss School.

A preliminary manual of the Hotchkiss School at Lakeville, Ct., has been issued which briefly details the proposed advantages of the school over other preparatory institutions. The course of study is nearly the same as at Phillips, except that there is no distinct scientific department, as scholars studying for scientific schools select such studies as are necessary. The endowments of the school amount to $365,000, 165,000 of which is intended for the buildings which will have a frontage of 500 feet and include chapel, school study in which all the studying will be done, class rooms, dormitories, reading rooms, etc. The headmasters with their families will occupy separate cottages, but will take their meals in the school dining room.

There will be regular gymnasium classes, and athletics will not be neglected, although great stress will be laid upon scholarship and discipline. For the first year, beginning October 12, the attendance will be limited to fifty besides the day scholars. The total expenses are $600 and the maximum sum allowed to students per week as spending money will be fifty cents.

Wellesley Girls on Lake Waban.

One of the gala events at Wellesley College, preceding the annual commencement exercises, is the "Float Day," which is held each year during the month of June. The "Float Day" exercises held this year attracted about six thousand to the shores of the lake.

It was 6.30 P.M. when the several college crews assembled in the rear of the main building and formed for the march to the lake-side. On reaching the shore and entering the boats they were loudly cheered by the spectators. Returning home from the trip around the lake, the crew calls were given by the girls, furnishing much amusement to those on shore. The cries of '92 and '94 received great applause.

After the completion of the movements of the crews, the boats were all anchored a few feet from the shore, where the surroundings and the colors of the various crews made a charming picture, and as the songs from the boats were wafted over the lake darkness closed around, ending the pleasures of a day long to be remembered.

The Yale Crew.

The date for the Harvard-Yale-Columbia three-cornered race has been fixed for Thursday, the 30th, the day preceding the Varsity race. There has been considerable difference made this year in the lay out of the course, it having been moved to the east shore about eighteen or twenty feet, which makes it a little difficult for Yale. Captain Hartwell has lately followed the crew in the launch with Cook and Cowles, who have been doing careful coaching.

The Yale men say that the Harvard crew is the equal of any crew that has ever come to New London. It is recognized that the two crews are pulling a stroke very much alike. This year the colors that mark the miles and half miles on the course have the crimson above the blue, this arrangement being decided on because Harvard won in 1891.

The Phillipian will be issued every Wednesday and Saturday during the school year except in vacation. All communications must be accompanied by the writer's full name and address, not necessarily for publication unless so desired.

Communications may be addressed to the Phillipian, Andover, Mass., or dropped in the Phillipian box placed in the main hall of the Academy building. The editors do not hold themselves responsible for the opinions of any correspondent.

PHILLIPIAN board meetings are held Wednesday and Saturday noons.

Entered as second-class matter at the Andover Post Office.

THE ANDOVER PRESS, PRINTERS.

The last issue of the PHILLIPIAN for this year will appear Tuesday noon.

It will be a great accommodation to the PHILLIPIAN if the secretaries of the different societies and classes will be prompt in reporting the elections of officers and other items of business occurring at this time of the year.

With this issue '92 commits the care of the paper to the incoming senior class.

It gives us great pleasure, therefore, to announce the election of W. T. B. Williams as managing editor, and of W. B. Parker as business manager; and, thanking the school for its liberal support during the past year, we bespeak for our successor's still greater support in all that makes a school newspaper truly successful.

We are requested to call the attention of all who contributed to the athletic building to the fact that all pledges must be redeemed before the end of the school year.

The building is rapidly approaching completion and all the money promised is needed, so it is hoped that every man will come forward to the relief of the committee by making good his promise of assistance.

School and college journalism has made great advances in the last few years. Now, there is no school of any importance which does not have its publications. These are regarded as scarcely less important than the curriculums of the schools. They are carefully watched by the public and are often held as fair representations of the school life. Important as they are to the school they represent, they can not rely upon them alone for support. They must look to the public for the bulk of their support in the way of advertisements.

The PHILLIPIAN is by no means an exception to this rule. We believe that the paper has reached the point at which, to a certain extent at least, it meets the demands made upon it by the school. If, however, the school would have it succeed, they must work in its interest. To ensure its support advertisers must be patronized. Every fellow has it in his power to aid in keeping the paper up to its proper standard. We have secured the advertisements of the best houses where everything a student is likely to need can be found. In purchasing at these places a student helps all concerned and at the same time gets as good material as at other places and at a little cost.

We call the attention of the fellows to this with the hope that they will turn their patronage in the right direction and thus increase the interest of the public in our school paper.

B. A. A Base-Ball Team.

The Boston Athletic team which is composed chiefly of college men will start for an extended tour through the Central States as soon as the colleges close. The men who will go with them are: Cobb and Upton, catchers; Highlands and Wiggin, pitchers; Dickinson, 1st b.; Soule, s. s.; Cook, 3rd b.; Corbett, field; all of Harvard, and Stearns, P.A. '90, Amherst '94, 2nd b. The other two fielders will be Farron and Swanton of last year's team. Although this engaging of college men takes a flush of professional, yet good authority states that all engaged keep within the bounds of the college amateur world.

The second prize for mathematical excellence at Yale was awarded to H. A. Lamprey '94, P.A. '90.

Mrs. Nancy S. Foster of Chicago has contributed $50,000 to the Chicago University, for a woman's hall to be named after her.

Of the base-ball games between Yale and Princeton since 1868, Yale has won 41, Princeton 15, and there has been one tie and an exhibition game.

The school, class and other group pictures taken this year by Hardy are the best that have been taken for several years.

The petition asking the Faculty to transfer Wednesday's half holiday to Thursday and thus permitting as many fellows as wished to attend the Yale-Harvard game was rejected.

Those wishing to see a good game of cricket will do well to attend the Boston Athletic Association-Andover game next Saturday. The grounds are opposite the electric light station.

The Westford Academy celebrated its centennial on the 17th inst., ex-Gov. John D. Long, at one time the principal of it, gave the oration. There are twelve academies in Massachusetts whose charters date in the last century, the oldest being Phillips Andover, and Dummer the second.

Emmons Blaine, the second son of Hon. James G. Blaine, died in Chicago on Saturday last. He entered Phillips Andover in '69 and remained till '72, living his first year at Mr. Hammond's on Salem St., and the last two years at the Stowe House, now known as the Mansion House. He graduated at Harvard, studied law there two years, and settled at Chicago. His widow is a daughter of the late Cyrus McCormick of reaper fame.

Yale-Harvard Races.

The first boat race between Yale and Harvard took place in 1852, and Harvard won, but no time has been preserved. In 1855 Yale and Harvard each entered two barges, and Harvard easily won the two first prizes in 22 minutes. This race was at Springfield, on the Connecticut River, and the course was one and one-half miles down the river and return. After this, from 1857 to 1870, a series of nine races took place on Lake Quinsigamond Worcester, Mass.; the course being three miles, including a turn. These races were open to nearly all the New England colleges, and out of the series,
Yale won two and Harvard seven.
The fastest time, 18 min., 2 sec., was made by Harvard.

The next three races were again at Springfield, on the Connecticut River, over a three-mile course, straightaway down stream. Numerous crews took part in each contest, Yale winning one of the three first prizes, while Harvard

Nine crews rowed in 1874 and ten in 1875. After this Yale and Harvard decided to form a series of their own.
This plan went into effect June 30, 1876. The first two years the races were at Springfield on the Connecticut, but ever since they have been rowed on the Thames at New London. During these sixteen years the races have not been omitted once and Yale has won nine races to Harvard's seven.
