

The Philippiian.

Vol. XV.

Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., Jan. 14, 1893.

No. 29.

Communication.

Editors of the Philippiian:

This term is the time for gymnasium work and there will be a great many fellows using the Gym. every afternoon. Several of the exercising machines are broken or out of order, among others the fence vaulting bar and the horizontal bar. Now, could not these be over-hauled and put in order so that everyone can take whatever exercise he may want? GYM.

Philo.

The first regular meeting of Philo for the winter term was held last evening. The attendance was better than it has been for some time. After roll call and correction thereof, about ten names were proposed for membership. A motion was made and carried to have several mock trials. Committees were appointed to carry out this project, to arrange for the publication of an annual, and to arrange for an entertainment at the end of the term. McClellan opened the program with a selection from Dickens. He was followed by Webb with an essay on "Tramps." The extempore by Jefferis on his experience at Andover during the past vacation was original and called forth much applause.

The debate on the question, Resolved: That compulsory study hours should be abolished, was opened by Smyth on the affirmative in an able manner. Robinson spoke first for the negative. The assistants for the affirmative were Hoffman and Branch; for the negative, Auten and Sanders. There spoke from the house Smith, Jefferis, McCurdy and Williams. The debate was won by the negative.

The Forum.

At the end of last term important changes were made in the constitution of the Forum; changes which practically constitute a remodelling of the society. In connection with this change, steps were taken to increase the membership. As a result of this work thirty-six new members were admitted last evening. The meeting, which was held in No. 9, was one of the pleasantest and most profitable that the society has had. The feature of the evening was a speech by Skerrye on the advantages to be gained from work in a literary society. This was given in the speaker's usual easy and convincing manner, and was in itself an illustration of the advantages which he pointed out.

The meeting, with Pres. Hanscom in the chair, was opened with prayer, and after the reading of the minutes by the secretary, Parker gave an extempore on current events. Gordon read a well-written paper on the generalship of McClellan, then J. W. Lewis recited an original poem, which was loudly applauded. Gladstone's influence on European politics was the subject of a speech given by H. W. Beal. The lessons of Goethe's life were traced in a brief paper by Wyer. At the close of the meeting Pres. Hanscom gave a short address on the history and the aims of the society. After adjournment a large number of new members signed the constitution. This was the anniversary of the first meeting of the Forum.

Gymnasium Classes.

Last year a great many fellows joined the gymnasium classes under the direction of Mr. Raney and obtained great benefit from them. The light exercise taken regularly kept them in good condition during the long winter months. This year Mr. Luce has charge of the classes, and will hold them on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays at 4.45; Wednesdays at 4.15 and Saturdays at 3. The work on the pully-weights, dumb-bells and Indian-clubs, together with exercises on the parallel-bars will be light. He will also give information concerning training for the winter tournament to any one, and will help him in every way in which he is able. The classes are open to the whole school, and every fellow should make use of this opportunity to get systematic training.

Scholarships in the Seminary.

Prof. W. J. Tucker has appointed the following men of the Junior class of the Seminary to scholarships in pastoral theology. They will work as follows:

Lawrence, Mr. Hartt and Mr. Floss; Lowell, E. C. Bartlett and I. A. Herrick; Concord, N. H. (the Reformatory), Carl Kelsey.

Boston (Berkeley Temple), Messrs. S. A. Noon, G. I. Adams, Campbell, Hill, Randall, Kimball, Merriam and A. R. Davies. Work begins Saturday, Jan. 15, and continues for one year.

Hampton Institute.

The Hampton Institute which has taken a most active and successful part in the education of Negroes and Indians is now endeavoring to establish six hundred industrial scholarships of $80 each.

The school is wholly dependent upon the generosity of the public notwithstanding its total running expenses amount to $100,000 per year, of which $60,000 has to be secured each year. It is for the purpose of lessening the work required to raise this amount that the scholarships are being sought. To help this cause a public meeting, at which Pres. Seth Low of Columbia will preside, is to be held at the Madison Square Garden in New York on Jan. 18. Addresses will be delivered by the Hon. Carl Schurz, Joseph H. Choate and Rev. Dr. W. S. Rainsford. A chorus of sixty Hampton students will sing plantation melodies.

Hampton has sent out 723 graduates most of whom are engaged in teaching. In this way over 100,000 pupils have come under the influence of the school.

Seminary Notes.

In this issue the Seminary opens its department in the PHILLIPPIAN. Time only can decide whether it is to be a permanent and successful feature of the paper. In the beginning, therefore, we prefer to regard the undertaking as an experiment uncertain in its results. The success of the venture will depend not only upon the work of the editor, but also upon the joint effort of the members of the Seminary.

The columns will be devoted primarily to what concerns the Seminary, but it is hoped that the items contained therein will also be of interest to members of the Academy and to all our friends who read the PHILLIPPIAN.

Seminary students need hardly be reminded that the paper is issued Wednesdays and Saturdays, and will be found in the reading-room. We trust that the Seminary will contribute news items and matter of general interest liberally. A box will be placed in the reading-room and contributors are requested to deposit their contributions with their names, not later than Tuesday and Friday mornings. Alumni are also requested to contribute and to address their letters to the editor of this column.

We wish to thank the editor-in-chief and PHILLIPPIAN board for their generous reception and for their kindly promises of co-operation.

Rev. W. J. Robinson, Andover '91, has been visiting with friends in the Seminary. Mr. Robinson is located at Ashby, Mass.

Mr. A. H. Ross of the class of '91, who has been stationed at Omaha, has been in town for the past few days. He left for St. Louis where he will preach next Sabbath.

Doctor Creegan, Field Secretary of the American Board, addressed the Society of Inquiry Thursday evening. The subject of the address was: "The Legitimate Work of the American Board." The chief object of the Board, to evangelize and Christianize Mohammedan and pagan lands, was discussed at length, but the many benefits to commerce, language and geography as incidental results of the work were touched upon. The magnitude and need of missionary effort were clearly and forcibly shown.

Harvard Boating.

Harvard boating matters began to take on a lively appearance at the beginning of this year, and the gymnasium was filled from 3 o'clock until 6.30 with embryo oarsmen of every conceivable build. All the class crews except '93 began training, and a large number responded from every class.

For the 'Varsity there was a large number of candidates, mostly men of last year's class crews. None of the '92 'Varsity crew were present but Capt. Vail who spent his time coaching the new candidates. Among the most promising new men is Fearing '93 who has already a good athletic record as high jumper and hurdler. Of the old men who are in college Acton and Waters will not train, Waters considering it necessary to expend his efforts on the foot-ball team of which he is captain. Ex-captain Perkins will have full charge of the coaching, but will be assisted occasionally by Adams and other graduates. The freshmen turned out a very promising looking crowd. In weight '96 men easily surpass freshmen classes for some time back; whether her skill will meet the necessary demands remains to be seen.

The Andover Press.

We take this opportunity to announce the election of Mr. C. Grilk to the PHILLIPIAN staff of editors.

Every one feels the defeat of last fall. Soon an opportunity will be given us to square up, and whether or not this chance will be improved lies entirely with the school. The winter training is not a pleasant affair but it is necessary for the ultimate success of the nine. Each man who has played base ball or thinks he can play should come out when the call is made and work until told to stop.

Now about the stopping: No doubt there are many mistakes made and it seems hard to be dropped after so much tiresome work, but we cannot all be the judges. We are all working for the success of Phillips and if extra room for the candidates is of more value than our presence, we should feel that our part is done. To win, the school must have the benefit of all the talent, and the best result can only be obtained by hard work from the very start. The new men must remember that much is expected of them.

There are now very few interests that center around our school life outside of our regular duties. Athletics have had to give way before the winter weather and those fellows who all through the fall term kept themselves in good health by playing foot-ball and indulging in other out-door exercise find time hanging heavily on their hands. A fellow must take some systematic exercise to keep in good health and do justice to his studies. The weather prevents all out-door work so we are thrown upon the resources of the gymnasium.

Last year the gymnasium classes were very well patronized and did a great deal of good to the fellows who joined them; but this year there seems to be a lack of interest taken in them. Fellows seem to think that they can do themselves more good by individual work than in these classes. No greater mistake could be made. It is not the great amount of weight pulling at one time that does one good, but the systematic work every day. Mr. Luce is well-fitted for his position and every one who joins his classes will be sure to receive much benefit from them.

Special Honors at Wesleyan.

The Wesleyan faculty has adopted a new set of rules in regard to the granting of special honors in Greek, Latin, and Mathematics. In order to take honors in these branches at graduation after this year, a student must have taken preliminary honors during either his sophomore or junior years.

There will be no more separate honors in Greek and Latin. The classical honor will be given only for excellence in both.

Stamp Collection.

One of the finest collection of postage stamps ever exhibited in Andover may be seen at the Andover Bookstore to-day.

The Yale-Harvard Debate.

The annual debate between Yale and Harvard will be held in Cambridge, Jan. 18. The subject for discussion is, "Resolved, that the freedom of the railroads of the United States should be further restricted by national legislation." For the first time they will have judges. Professor Seligman of Columbia, and President Andrews of Brown, and probably Speaker Barrett of the Mass. House of Representatives will serve in this capacity. Yale has the affirmative side of the argument.
