

The Phillipian.

Vol. XVI.

Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., September 27, 1893.

No. 3.

P. A. 36; Boston Latin 0.

The foot-ball season was opened on Saturday, and Andover defeated the Boston Latin School by a score of 36 to 0. The home team played fairly well considering it was the first game of the season, and on account of the lightness of the opposing team and its poor tackling were enabled to make great gains.

Letton kicked all but three goals, which is a good record taking into consideration the fact that he has had no practice this year in kicking. All of our backs, Letton especially, did good work, and Rodgers, Murray, Chadwell and Hazen played well in the line. Bail did good work for the Latin School. McIntosh, Gillespie, and Weston, of Andover, played on the opposing team as three of the Boston men were injured.

With the exception of a little fumbling, an unsuccessful trial of the reboiling wedge, and Andover's inability at times to break the V, the work of the team was as good as could be expected. Andover had no trouble in breaking through, both bucking the centre and using the ends to advantage. The Latin School was forced to punt, and never came dangerously near Andover's goal.

More can be said concerning the team work and the different men later. Wednesday's game will be watched with interest.

The teams lined up as follows:

Phillips Andover Alumni.

One of the interesting petitions for legislation that will be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, bringing the matter to the attention of the next General Court, in accordance with the statutes, will be that of certain members of the alumni of Phillips Academy, Andover. The petition will ask for an amendment of the charter of the corporation known as the Trustees of Phillips Academy, Andover, which was granted about 115 years ago.

The institution is practically a close corporation, and the friends of higher education in this great preparatory school think there should be a change in the state of affairs.

About 20 years ago Rev. Cecil F. P. Bancroft, Ph. D., became principal of the Academy, then suffering from a disorganization following the death of Dr. Samuel H. Taylor, who for 30 years was the famous principal. Dr. Bancroft during his incumbency has in some instances been strict, while in others he has been more lenient. He has at all times, however, exercised his extreme tact toward strengthening his personal hold upon the institution. In a great measure this has resulted in an undoubted benefit to the institution. He has raised large sums of money for new buildings, and has been actively foremost in the establishment of scholarships and professorships.

But it has seemed that there has been an intention to fill the vacancies in the Board of Trustees with gentlemen, some earnest, some venerable, able, and respected, and many with other affairs which demanded their attention.

Hon. Robert R. Bishop is a trustee, and his legal duties, which are of no inconsiderable burden, naturally preclude his giving a large share of his time to the Academy. Rev. Dr. Fisk of Newburyport, a venerable man and loved by all who know him, is now in poor health, and can take but a kindly interest in the affairs. Mr. Alpheus H. Hardy of Boston, whose duties as railroad director and curator of trust funds, is treasurer of the corporation, and, perhaps, the most active and efficient man upon the board. Dr. C. F. P. Bancroft is the clerk.

Among the other members of the board are found Rev. Dr. Wellman of Malden, well known as one of the plaintiffs in the famous Andover controversy, and Dr. Wilcox of Malden.

There have been times when, in violation of the charter, the clerical members of the board have outnumbered the laymen. Other omissions that are specified in the petition are of an exceedingly vital character. Lovers of the school and those among the younger alumni, most of them warm admirers and pupils of Dr. Bancroft, have concluded that the spirit of the times and the general tendency in the government of educational institutions toward giving an elective voice to the alumni, demand that the change be made, so that in the Phillips Andover Academy, like all the advanced institutions, the graduate shall have a personal and representative interest in the welfare of the school.

"The only way to arrive at this deserved end," remarked a member of the alumni, "is through new legislation."—Boston Journal.

Patent Score Board.

Manager Arthur Irwin of the Atlantic City base ball club, and the coach of the University of Pennsylvania base ball club has been allowed his claim to a patent for a score board for foot ball games.

Nothing has detracted more from the pleasure of spectators at foot ball games than the fact that they have been unable to distinguish the players. Only the experts have been able to follow the games. Not only has it become difficult to follow the game, but most of the spectators have been kept in ignorance of the exact score.

It is not always easy to know whether a goal has been kicked or not, or a safety touchdown has been made.

On Mr. Irwin's score board every play can be indicated and the spectator kept informed of every point scored, thereby greatly enhancing his enjoyment of the contest and rendering him able to follow it intelligently. This board will be mounted on a stand and constructed so as to revolve and thus be seen by everybody on the field. The score board is provided at its sides with trunions, which are mounted in bearings in the frame so as to turn thereon.

It will be seen that the spectator will always have in sight the score of the game. This is particularly valuable to those arriving late at the field. This is given in the first panel. In the second panel is indicated which side is in possession of the ball. The third and fourth panels tell how many downs there are and the number of yards gained or lost, with the name of the player making the advance or loss. Then follow the names of the referee and umpire.

It can be easily seen that such an invention as that of Mr. Irwin has become a necessity on every foot ball field, and there can be no doubt that it will come into general use. Many spectators have found the game uninteresting for the reason that they could not comprehend what was going on from the time play begins. Mr. Irwin is now in the city, and intends to consult with the Harvard management, with a view to placing a board on the foot ball field for the approaching campaign.—Boston Herald.

Foot-Ball Review.

College foot-ball, the all-absorbing topic of present athletics, calls forth daily discussion of the make-up of the teams, especially those of the larger institutions. It seems as if guessing will still hold the judgment concerning the three large teams during the coming year. Old men seem to be returning to their former posts in large numbers, while new aspirants are flocking the fields.

Harvard's troublesome spot is quarter-back; Yale's, half-back. Harvard's line will be formed much the same as last year, with the right end hard to fill. Beal, ex-P.A. '93, Harvard '97, is playing tackle with great satisfaction, as are many of the new men, who, however, will hardly equal the older players. At quarter-back Gould, Foster, P.S. '92, and Fairchild are rival candidates. It is a close race among them, with the odds a little in favor of Foster.

Brewer will occupy his old position at full, accompanied by Waters and Garfield, formerly of Williams, probably as halves. This will make a strong team, but Yale's great weight in the line may carry the blue victoriously another year.

Her line also will be much the same with the exception of the tackles. Here and at half-back has occurred a constant shifting ever since the beginning. Messler, Brown, Beard, and Armstrong have been tried, but it is probable that none of them will occupy the places, save Messler. He is a hopeful case. Behind the line Lyman, Elliott, Thorne, Dyer, Brown, and, lastly, Armstrong, have been tried some, Armstrong especially drawing commendation for his work.

Princeton is saying little but working hard, with many old men back.

To predict anything would be rash, and many weeks must elapse before definite positions will be given any men.

Among the smaller colleges the enthusiasm is very great. Dartmouth has already gone to the training table, and Williams and Amherst are developing many new men.

Athletic Association.

The managers of the Athletic Association are planning to hold a handicap meet sometime during October, for the purpose of developing new material.

All business communications should be addressed to the business manager.

All communications must be accompanied by the writer's full name and address, not necessarily for publication unless so desired.

Communications may be addressed to THE PHILLIPIAN, Andover, Mass., or dropped in the Phillipian box placed in the main hall of the Academy building.

The editors do not hold themselves responsible for the opinions of any correspondent.

PHILLIPIAN Board meetings are held Wednesday and Saturday noons.

ENTERED AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER AT ANDOVER POST-OFFICE.

NOTICE.

To insure change of advertisement, copy must be received for Wednesday not later than Tuesday noon; for Saturday, not later than Friday noon.

The Andover Press.

Although fully mentioned in the meeting of the candidates for the PHILLIPIAN, it may not be out of place to repeat the rules as to the form of contributions.

All contributions must be written on one side of the paper only, each sheet to be numbered, and the contributor's name and class signed on the back of the outside sheet.

Contributions for Wednesday's issue must be handed in by 8 o'clock Monday evening, and those for Saturday's issue by the same time on Thursday.

The work of the foot-ball team so far has had considerable snap about it, and one only has to watch the afternoon practice to see the good material that there is in school. Saturday's game, however, was an exhibition of fumbling by some of the men, which is inexcusable even so early in the season, and as fumbling is generally a fatal error every fellow should look to it that he handles the ball cleanly, and that he does not, as was done in Saturday's game, drop the ball after running ten or fifteen yards. The team must also learn to tackle lower, and stop the runner without letting him gain an inch after he is tackled.

We may have good material, but the very best material will not turn into a good team unless each fellow works his hardest to improve himself and learn to understand the fellows that are playing with him, for nothing is more conducive to good team work than a thorough understanding between the fellows who compose the eleven. So let every man on the team do his level best, and every fellow who can play foot-ball come out on the second and assist the development of the team by giving it good practice games.

Foot-Ball League—Brown, Trinity, and M. I. T.

At the annual meeting of the Brown University Foot-ball Association last spring, a committee was appointed to inquire into the advisability of forming a league and power given this committee to act toward that end. The members of this committee are George '94, manager of the Brown foot-ball team, Lewis '94, and Baylies '94.

Negotiations were made with Trinity and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and an informal agreement arrived at. The committees from these institutions met at Worcester on Saturday, September 24, to perfect the league, form and ratify a constitution, and make arrangements for the series of games as published in the HERALD in an earlier issue.—Ex.

The Grand OLD SCHOOL!

How she grows! Financial panics, tariff agitation, business depression, not one or all of these disturbing elements could affect the great and glorious old Phillips Academy.

Year after year she grows bigger and grander, constantly widening in influence, constantly adding in teaching force, in equipment, in ability to produce sterling young men. May she ever thus grow and prosper! May each succeeding year add a new gem to the already brilliant crown! May the class of '94 be the brightest gem of all! Grow on forever, old Phillips! Always onward and upward!

And remember, Students of '94, however rapidly the old school may grow, however grand she may become, the old reliable clothing store of the undersigned will always keep in the van! The improvements now going on will make my store the most beautiful tailoring store in Essex County. P. J. HANNON.

YOUR

CLOTHING TRADE!

Will never all come to me or any other man. It is only by a constant effort to produce the most for the money and give a dollar's worth for every dollar received that the business men to-day can make business a success.

For 17 Years

We have catered to the tailoring and furnishing trade of PHILLIPS ACADEMY STUDENTS, and a constantly increasing patronage affirms somewhat the success of our efforts. At the opening of another year we wish to solicit a generous share of the trade that has been given to us in the past, and we can assure our customers that though our present quarters are somewhat cramped, our stock will be found new and complete, and no pains will be spared to fulfill every demand that can be made on a first-class tailoring and furnishing store.

There's a certain amount of satisfaction to most men, in feeling that they are well dressed, but the high prices asked by tailors have prevented many from gratifying their tastes in this direction.

To such men, Rogers, Peet & Co's fine clothing must be of interest.

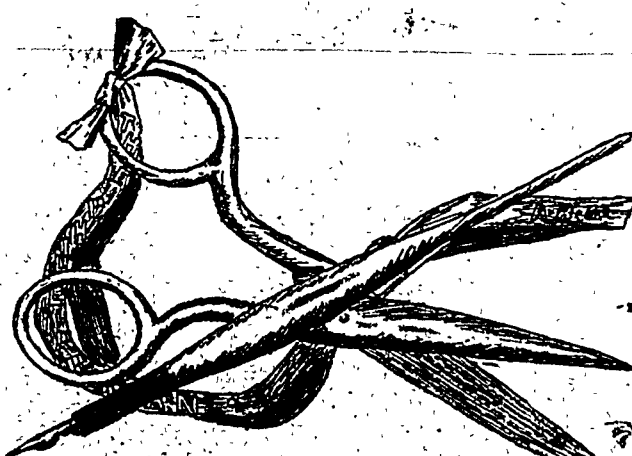

These celebrated makers are pressing the New York tailors hard for first place, both in point of materials used and results obtained from high class workmanship.

Their new long-skirted frocks are by far the most stylish garments produced in years, and rival anything a tailor can build. The prices are one-third less.

We have them in black diagonals, black and blue rough-faced serges, and black and oxford basket cloths. They come in stout and long, as well as regular sizes.
