School Meeting.

A school meeting was held on Monday to discuss the athletic situation with Exeter. Mr. Clark made a long speech about former Exeter and Andover teams and showed that for the last two or three years there had been a growing tendency toward professionalism at Exeter. He stated that owing to the limited space of time before the Exeter game he took the Exeter manager's word for the amateur standing of his players and had not looked them up at all. After speaking for a few moments on how the Boston papers had exposed the true state of Exeter's team, he made a motion that the following set of resolutions be unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, For the past three years the Exeter school has presented on her teams men who were not in any fair sense amateurs and this evil has increased. And

WHEREAS, The make-up of their foot-ball team this year was an insult to lovers of pure sports and some of their players a disgrace to the name of amateur.

Resolved: That we, the students of Phillips Academy, Andover, indefinitely postpone all further contests with the Exeter school.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Rodgers. Mr. Gardner spoke very enthusiastically in favor of the resolutions, but he advised every fellow to think twice before he voted, as the question was one of the most weighty that has ever come up before the school. Mr. Preston said he thought the resolutions ought to be passed. Speeches were also made by Messrs. Abbot, Rodgers, Chadwell and Holt. After these men had spoken, the school voted unanimously in favor of the resolutions.

Mr. Clark then thanked the school for sending the team to Springfield, and Mr. Wilcox made a motion that a vote of thanks be given to the management and team for their excellent work this season. The motion was passed. Dr. Bancroft then said a few words about the meeting and stated that he was highly gratified with the action the students had taken.

Inquiry

The Society of Inquiry met as usual last Sunday night in Society Hall. Dr. Palmer addressed the meeting in a very interesting way on the subject of three dangers, viz: "Emotional, Intellectual, and Moral." The discourse was very helpful as well as interesting. A large number attended.

Phillips St. 10; English Commons 0.

Phillips Street won the championship last Monday from English Commons in the most interesting and by far the most exciting game of the street series.

Phillips won the toss and started off with a flying wedge, but lost the ball to English Commons on a fumble. Fuller broke through and got it back again and then Hine went through the center for twenty yards. By a series of short rushes of three and four yards by Belknap, Hine and Laing the ball was carried down to English Commons' 15-yard line. It was then passed to Hine who fumbled as he struck the line. Drew caught it and made the first touch-down for Phillips Street. Hine kicked the goal. Score, 6-0.

English Commons started off with the regulation V, from which Gillespie emerged and gained twenty yards. Here English Commons tried the revolving wedge which had proved so efficient against Salem Street, but it was in vain, as not a yard was gained. Phillips Street then held them for two downs and on the third obtained the ball on a fumble. Bryer, Hine and Belknap made twenty yards between them. English Commons then got the ball on four downs, but lost it on the next one by a fumble. Fuller, Laing, Belknap and Hine carried the ball well down the field, and after a 15-yard run through the center carried the ball behind English Commons' goal line. No goal was kicked.

English Commons started off once more with the V. No gain. Branch bucked the center for ten yards. The revolving wedge netted no gain and the ball went to Phillips Street. Belknap, Bryer and Fuller made several short runs. The referee gave English Commons the ball on account of off-side play in Phillips' rush line. End of the first half. Score, 10-0. Time, twenty minutes.

In the second half English Commons started off with the ball, but soon lost it on downs. Hine punted on third down. The ball went out of bounds and Belknap fell on it. The rest of this half was marked by a great many fumbles on both sides, and after about ten minutes' play time is called, neither side having scored. Final score, 10-0.

The teams lined up as follows:

The Andover Press.

The action taken in the school meeting Monday, putting an end to all further contests with Exeter, is not a sudden or hasty move, but the result of mature and careful deliberation. It is with great regret that we break off these contests which have been the source of so much pleasure and profit to both schools in past years, but we have been forced to it. And we firmly believe that in taking this decided stand and keeping school athletics pure we are benefitting college athletics, for from the preparatory school comes the college athlete, and a high standard in the school is sure to show itself in the university. We had hoped after last year's warning that Exeter would be true to her agreements, but our trust was ill-placed.

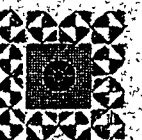

In the two weeks since the game the Boston papers have contained several columns concerning the men who played on Exeter's team, and the only answer the Exeter authorities give is the weak plea of ignorance. We have waited for two weeks for some expression of their regret. None has reached us. Exeter has broken her word too often. Our decision is made and it is final. And if at first it may be looked on with surprise, we are confident that in time we will receive the approval of every true sportsman and that in the end we will attain the result we aim at—the support and furtherance of amateur athletics.

We desire to call attention to the subjects for the Means speaking which we print in another column. These contests have grown in importance and the essays have increased in excellence from year to year until to be a Means Prize speaker is one of the highest literary honors in school. In such a large number as there are here this year there must be many men who have more or less ability in this direction, and we would advise all such, to try for this contest, for even if not successful in becoming one of the chosen ten, the practice in writing is worth a great deal to any one. It is well to begin early, and we would advise all who desire to try to choose a subject and begin work on it at once.

The street team season is finished and Phillips Street has won the championship. She has made a most wonderful record, not having been scored on once this year, and well deserves her victory. The games for the most part have been very good this season and considerable team play has been shown. However, it is to be hoped that before the base-ball championship next spring a committee will be appointed by the school to draw up rules of playing and limit the streets to certain houses. If this was done there could be no objections raised by any of the streets and the limits to each would be firmly established. Then, it is a very poor plan for a street to forfeit games in the series just because it cannot win. The object of all these contests is to develop men for the school teams and not merely to win or lose a championship. So it is to be hoped that in future teams will play all their scheduled games until they are out of the race altogether, and not forfeit as soon as they meet a strong opponent.

There has arisen among the scientific students of the college world during the past few years, a marked desire to engage in original research along geological, botanical and biological lines. Our foremost institutions have eagerly complied with this desire to unite the theoretical and practical, as the various summer schools and expeditions will testify, and amongst the foremost engaging in this work, Princeton has held an enviable position. The researches conducted under her leadership in the West have been admirably conducted, and have resulted very successfully.

Last June a party under the leadership of Professors W. B. Scott, J. B. Hatcher and W. Libbey set out for the Bad Lands of South Dakota, the Wyoming Laramie beds and the Loup Fork beds on the Niobara River. In the party were three members of the class of '93 and nine members of the class of '94. This expedition is considered one of the most successful ever sent out. Thirty-one boxes of fossils were brought back to Princeton, and it is estimated that over two years' hard work will be required to mount and describe the material collected. A large number of fossils found have never been described.
