Winter Tournament.

The annual winter indoor tournament will be held in the Gymnasium on Wednesday, March 20. The events will be as follows:—Rope climbing, standing high jump, parallel bar, running hitch and kick, fence vault, rings, standing high kick, broad swords, shot put, and tumbling. It is hoped that there will be a large number of entries in all events, more so in the jumping as the candidates showing up well in the 'Gym.' stand a good chance of making the athletic team.

Medals will be awarded to every winner, and possibly an elegant silver cup will be given to the man winning the largest number of points. This is now being considered by the management.

School Organizations.

Philo.

The meeting of Philo, which was postponed from Friday evening on account of the concert at that time, was held Wednesday evening. E. C. Upton and C. C. Bray were admitted to membership. After a thorough discussion of the question submitted to the society for discussion by the joint committee, it was decided that only two men, as previously intended, shall represent the society in the debate with Forum. And also that the third man for the Worcester debate shall be chosen from the society which loses in the Philo-Forum debate, as heretofore.

The literary part of the meeting was purely extemporaneous and was opened with a speech by F. B. Edwards upon "The Growing Increase in the Number of Murders." "Resolved, That Exeter is Andover's Most Worthy Rival" was proposed as a subject for debate, with R. S. Newcombe and Lewis for the leaders. They were assisted by Eustace and Emmons, and Farwell spoke from the house on the negative side. The decision of both the house and the chair was given to the negative. After a critique on the evening's proceedings by Lowrie, the meeting adjourned.

The next meeting of Philo, as previously announced, will be a mock trial of a breach of promise case. Mack, assisted by Richardson, will be the lawyers for the plaintiff, and Easton, with Eaton as his assistant, will look out for the interests of the defendant. The witnesses will be Booth, Day, Morrison, Edwards, R. S. Newcombe, Fortésque, Chadwell and Bruce. Bristol will be sergeant-at-arms.

Forum.

The meeting of the Forum which had been postponed on account of the Harvard concert was held Monday evening. The society voted to insert Cushing's instead of Roberts' Rules of Order in the constitution. Symonds' motion to give the president power to appoint speakers from the house on the debates was lost after considerable discussion. The debate, which was extemporaneous, was led on the affirmative by Noble and Stern, while Weir and Hinkle supported the negative. "Resolved, That the policy of the United States government of late years in maintaining a large and powerful navy is sound," was the subject. Several men spoke from the house on each side, but the affirmative presented the better arguments winning both the vote of the house and the decision of the chair. Ward then read the critique. Under miscellaneous business Stedman's resignation from the committee chosen to speak before the faculty was accepted, and Macfarlane was elected to fill the vacancy. The committee on the Philo-Forum debate was instructed not to concede to Philo's proposition of choosing the speakers against Worcester in the same way as was done last year. The meeting then adjourned.

Prof. Forbes will probably address the society on "Life among the Ancient Romans," at the next meeting a week from next Friday night.

Inquiry.

The meeting of Inquiry Sunday evening was interesting and very helpful. The first of the three speakers, Mr. Dormn of Harvard spoke upon "The Abiding of Christ in the Heart." The next speaker was Mr. Brown of Yale '94 and a graduate of P. A. He chose for his subject the words "Have Faith in God." The meeting was closed with a very earnest and practical talk by Mr. Lewis showing the need of greater faithfulness and energy in the Christian life.

Musical Clubs.

At a meeting of the Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs Tuesday noon it was decided to postpone their annual concert until next term.

Money and Our Educational Institutions.

The recent large gifts, in both buildings and endowments, that have been given to the University of Pennsylvania, Columbia and other colleges, show that in spite of the hard times, men of wealth are not losing interest in higher education. The annual catalogues of colleges and universities throughout the country show an increase in students greater than ever before. In all these institutions, their financial resources are being strained to the utmost, and there is a constant cry for more money. The most striking example of this is found in the University of Chicago. She has been more liberally endowed than any other institution of learning in this country, yet she has been obliged to appeal to her founder again and the $175,000 that he has just given, will be used for the current expenses of the present year. One may be greatly astonished at these facts, but he must remember that the field of college education is constantly broadening. In the days of our fathers and grandfathers, Greek and Latin were the branches most taught at universities. To-day, it is different. A college must now teach modern as well as ancient languages, and more attention is being paid to scientific study and research than ever before. Of course, this involves greater expense, and it must be met if the school concerned is to keep its place in the educational world.

It would probably astonish some people to learn that the more students a college has, the worse off it is. Yet it is true, no college charges its students for tuition anywhere near what the actual cost is. The percentage which the tuition paid in our colleges is of the actual expense is about fifty per-cent. From that it runs down to nothing. It has been proposed that the full cost of tuition and other facilities which a college has to offer, be paid by those who are able to pay for them, and that others be charged in accordance with their means. The objections to this plan are, that the additional income would be very small, and a sharper line drawn between rich and poor students, a thing which is too marked even now. No other plan has been thought of as yet, and it is evident that institutions of learning will have to depend on the gifts of moneyed men in the future as in the past.

Communications.

[Members of the school are invited to contribute to this department, but the editors do not hold themselves responsible for the opinions here expressed.]

Editors of the Phillipian:

Since Lacrosse has become such a popular game in the United States, it is only a question of time when all the schools and colleges will have their teams. Has the time come for Phillips to organize a team? There is no lack of material in school; there may be very few men who know the game at present, but there are enough to teach the rest, and even if there was none at all, Harvard would gladly send up one to coach the men into something like form. The want of a place to play would cause some trouble, but there are plenty of fields as suitable for lacrosse as the campus is for foot-ball. Can not something be done towards making a start in this direction? '96

The Harvard Crew.

The number of candidates for the Varsity crew at Harvard has been reduced to eleven. The list is as follows: Stroke, Hollister; 7, Stevenson; 6, Shepard; 5, Perkins; 4, Manning; 3, Jennings; 2, Fennessy; bow, Bullard; and three substitutes, Lewis, Damon and Webb. Watriss, who has been laid off on account of a strain, may come out again. The crew will go to the training table March 15.

Special Notice.

ENTERED AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER AT ANDOVER POST-OFFICE.

The Andover Press.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1895

The meeting of Inquiry Sunday evening must have been an inspiration to every man present. For some time past it has been an acknowledged fact that the religious spirit at Phillips Academy is not as strong as would reasonably be expected in a school of its size. Efforts are now being made to quicken the Christian spirit among us and to awaken more earnestness among the students. Upon the present members of the society must rest the responsibility of the success or failure of these efforts, and it is the duty of every member to be willing to do his share of the work, which must be done if the desired results are to be attained.

Committee Meeting.

At a meeting of the Philo-Forum debate committees, held Monday noon, the plan of having each society represented by three speakers instead of two was brought up. After some discussion it was decided to let the societies settle the matter themselves by vote.

Diphtheria at Abbot.

A second case of diphtheria has appeared at Abbot Academy. This time it is in Draper Hall, and as a result, the hall has been closed and the students sent to their homes for three weeks.

Senior Scientific Class Meeting.

"Geduld überwindet alles" was adopted at a meeting held Monday noon, as the class motto of P. S. '95.

Exeter's Opera.

Preparations are rapidly being made for the presentation of the comic opera. The men have their parts nearly learned and the music is being rehearsed weekly. Edward Gunfield will be here several days during the next three weeks to conduct the rehearsals and assist in managing the affair. It looks as if the proper attention is being given every detail which will play such a great part in a successful presentation of the piece.—

"Silent Woman" at Cambridge.

On or about March 20, Prof. Frank Sargent, of the Lyceum School of Acting of New York, and a number of its pupils, will give in Sanders Theatre, Cambridge, a reproduction of Ben Johnson's "Silent Woman." The play will be given under the auspices of the department of English. Every effort will be made to reproduce the play as it was given in Johnson's time.

The following are the new officers of the Yale News: Chairman, Anson P. Stokes, '96; Business Manager, James B. Neale, '96; Chairman of Alumni Weekly, F. E. Weyerhaeuser, '96; business manager of Alumni Weekly, W. Forepaugh, '96 S.
