Communications

[Members of the school are invited to contribute to this column, but the editors do not hold themselves responsible for the opinions of any correspondent.]

To the Editors of the Phillipian:

The winter term is nearing its close and nothing has yet been done toward electing managers and captains of the street base-ball teams. If these preliminaries are attended to now so that practice may be begun with the opening of next term, it would greatly add to the success of the base-ball season. Last year the fellows delayed until the spring term and the championship games had to be rushed through during the last week of school. All this can be avoided by electing the officers during the winter. A PLAYER.

Editors of the Phillipian:

Of late, many communications have been sent in on the subject of the Reading Room, yet they seem to have done no good. Most of the writers have laid the blame on the fellows. Some of it, no doubt, rests there, but a large part of the trouble is with the management. The newspapers have not been properly filed. The New York Herald has not been filed in nearly a week, consequently when fellows read it, it is thrown about the room and mutilated, whereas if it were in its right place such a thing would not happen. The reading room could be vastly improved by filing the newspapers and placing the magazines in the covers provided for them.

X. Y. Z.

Editors of the Phillipian:

Every effort is being made by the captain and candidates to turn out a good base-ball team, and a little attention ought to be given to the campus. The frost is now coming out of the ground and every team that passes over it cannot fail to cut it up very badly. Of course the infield may be rolled and levelled, but it will be far more difficult to put the outfield, and especially the centre field, in good condition. A little prompt action might save money for the association, and it would certainly be very helpful to the team.

'97.

Hockey Team.

About fifteen fellows responded to the call for candidates for the hockey team. The prospects for a good team are very bright.

Alumni Banquet in Boston.

The sixth biennial reception and dinner of the Alumni Association was held at the Hotel Vendome, Boston, on Wednesday evening. Many alumni were present and the affair was a thorough success. The principal guests were Mayor Quincy of Boston and Lieutenant Governor Wolcott of Massachusetts. The dinner lasted until half past eight and a short business meeting followed. After the election of new officers it was voted that the association should meet at Andover every year instead of every five years as has been the custom heretofore. The Glee Club opened the evening with an appropriate selection.

After a few words on the pleasure and advantages of such reunions, Rev. E. G. Porter, who presided, introduced Dr. Bancroft. The doctor spoke at length about the different phases of school-life and education and how the social side above all others needed improvement. He was followed by Lieutenant Governor Wolcott. Mr. Wolcott spoke about the late ex-Governor Robinson and finished with a tribute of friendship to Phillips. Mayor Quincy spoke of the necessity of good preparatory schools in which he said England was our superior. He also complained that a few young men were interested in municipal politics. The Glee Club then gave another selection, after which Mr. T. K. Lothrop presented the Academy with the picture of his granduncle, Dr. John Thornton Kirkland, formerly President of Harvard College and a graduate of Phillips. Professor Comstock followed with a few recollections of Andover. After a few remarks about the Theological Seminary by Professor Harris, Mr. F. W. Moore, graduate treasurer of Harvard athletics, brought up the Exeter question and said that he hoped that the difficulty would soon be settled and that the best way to bring that about is through the alumni of both institutions. Burns Henry, who represented the class of '96, spoke of Andover and its life. He agreed with Mr. Moore about the Exeter question and proposed that some of the alumni should bring the matter before the school after prayers some morning. After a few words by Mr. Greener, of the class of '65, a picture of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, was presented to the Academy. The Glee Club closed the evening with "In Picardie," and after a rousing "P. A.!" the members adjourned.

The following officers were elected for the coming two years: President, Wm. E. Park, D. D., Gloversville, N. Y.; vice-presidents, Hon. Moses T. Stevens, North Andover, Richard H. Stearns, Boston, Charles P. Clark, New Haven, Conn., Col. C. W. Pickering, Greenland, N.H., R. T. Greener, New York City, Prof. H. H. Donaldson, Chicago, Gen. Wm. D. Sawyer, Dover, N. H.; secretary, George T. Eaton, Andover; treasurer, G. D. Pettce, Andover; executive committee, George W. W. Dove, James H. Ropes, George R. Blodgett, Fred W. Moore.

Class Emblem.

At the last school-meeting it was decided to take another vote regarding the cap and gown question. The votes came out largely in favor of having the cap and gown for a class emblem, only thirty fellows out of all the class voting against it.

Yale Base-Ball.

Twenty-five men responded to the call for base-ball candidates at Yale on Monday. Among them were Greenway, P. S. '95, Yale '98 S.; DeForest, P. A. '93, Yale '97; Simmons, P. A. '94, Yale '98; Colgate, P. A. '92, Yale '96; Letton, P. S. '94, Yale '97 S.; and Hazen, P. A. '94, Yale '98.

Theological Base-Ball Team.

Last Wednesday, King, who was pitcher on the Senior class team at Princeton, was elected captain of the Theological nine. The men were called out on Thursday and are now practicing every morning in the Gym.

Base-Ball Games Arranged with Yale Freshmen.

Two games with the Yale Freshman nine have been arranged by the base-ball management, one to take place at Andover and one in New Haven.

Musical Club Concert.

The concert of the Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs will be given on Wednesday evening, March 17, instead of March 18 as announced in last Wednesday's PHILLIPIAN.

School Organizations.

Inquiry.

The subject for the meeting of Inquiry to-morrow night is: "Purity of Life." Ref., 1 Cor. 3: 16 17; 1 John 3: 4-9.

Forum.

At the regular meeting of Forum last Friday evening, Adams was invited to join the society. Boyajian gave a very good speech on the "Armenian Troubles." The debate, "Resolved, That the restriction of Chinese immigration was unjust," was defended on the affirmative by Mason and I. Goddard, while Poynter and Wentworth supported the negative. The debate proved very interesting, and was taken up from the house by Webb, Wilcox, French and Carberry. The vote of the house and chair was entirely reversed in favor of the affirmative. Carberry gave the critique of the evening.

Philo.

The meeting of Philo was opened last evening with Vice-president Bristol in the chair. After the usual opening exercises, Van Buren, chairman of the committee appointed to devise some plan for making the library more useful, made a report, and at his suggestion the motion was passed to elect a third member to the committee and to appropriate a sum of money to catalogue the books.

Then Boynton, acting as substitute for Farwell, gave an extemporaneous address on "The Most Promising Republican Candidate for President." The critique was given by H. W. Babcock. Next, a select reading was given by C. F. Edwards on "Duelling" by Mark Twain.

The question for debate was; "Resolved, That European Powers Should Allow Russia to Occupy Constantinople." Bruce led the affirmative, assisted by J. B. Richardson, against Cook and Freund. The negative side of the question seemed to be decidedly popular with the audience. There spoke from the house, on that side of the question, Aldred, Boynton, Nash, Van Buren and Irons.

The debate proved instructive and many of the speeches interesting, the best speech from the house being the one made by Nash. The negative had a slight majority before the debate but a large one after it. The president gave his decision with the affirmative.

ENTERED AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER AT ANDOVER POST-OFFICE.

The Andover Press.

SATURDAY, FEB. 29, 1896.

Next Monday is the day for handing in the Means essays, and fellows will doubtless await with a great deal of interest the announcement of the ten successful competitors. Of course, every writer cannot be successful; therefore, those fellows who are not chosen should not be the least discouraged. They certainly have gained a great deal by their preparation, and they may look forward with better prospects to the next contest. The Draper speaking will take place early next term, and every fellow who intends to compete ought to decide upon his declamation and begin to prepare himself. The hurried work at the last minute is what spoils the best speakers.
