Andovers 9; Vespers 1.

Last Saturday Andover defeated the Vespers of Lowell in a seven inning game which was made uninteresting from the beginning by the errors of the visiting team. Andover did all her scoring in the first four innings, when Vespers picked up a little and shut her out for the remaining three. Vespers scored her only run in the fifth with two out. Martin got a base on balls and scored on Harris's two bagger. In the fifth Saunders took Stephenson's position as pitcher. He was not as effective as Stephenson, giving a base on balls and allowing a two base hit in his first inning. For Vespers, Hawes played a good game at first.

The tabulated score is as follows:

Harvard 2, Andover 1.

Harvard defeated Andover in a ten inning game by the above score last Monday. Both teams played a fast game in the field, but Harvard's superiority at the bat proved too much for the home team.

Harvard secured her first run in the second inning and kept the lead until the fourth, when a base on balls, followed by two successive hits, sent Chapman across the plate for Andover and tied the score. From this point on fast ball was played by both teams, and the result was doubtful until Burgess scored on Haughton's double in the tenth.

Stephenson, in the box for Andover, manifested great coolness at critical points in the game, and kept the six hits well scattered. He was admirably supported by Waddell. Barnwell saved three runs for Andover, by capturing Cozzens's fly in the fifth after a long run. Jones and Corse also played well in the outfield and made put outs at critical times in the game. Andover's infield for the most part played a steady game, and Matthews' hit in the fourth was directly responsible for Andover's only run. Quinby spoiled a good chance for Andover to score in the third, when he forced Phillips off second, owing to a misunderstanding as to the number of outs. The game showed that there is a chance for vast improvement in batting.

For Harvard, Laughlin's plays were especially characterized by snap, and his three base line drive in the second was the longest seen on the campus thus far this season. Clark covered third in fine form, having three assists without an error. Hayes' pitching was effective, although he gave six bases on balls. McCormick made Harvard's only error in the fifth. Harvard scored once in the second. Reid reached first on Chapman's error and scored on Laughlin's three base hit.

Andover tied the score in the fourth. Chapman was given a pass, took second on Barnwell's hit and scored on Matthews' single.

Harvard scored the winning run in the tenth. Burgess reached first on hit by pitched ball, stole second and scored on Laughlin's hit.

Tabulated score is:

In Memoriam.

WINSTON TROWBRIDGE TOWNSEND.

Winston Trowbridge Townsend, P. A. '97, Yale 1901 died in New Haven on Monday afternoon, May 2. While riding his wheel he was struck by a passing wheelman and thrown to the ground. His death followed almost immediately.

The news of his sudden death was a great blow to his bereaved family, to his college mates and to all those who knew him.

He was the elder son of Judge W. K. Townsend of New Haven and was 20 years of age. Three years of his school life was spent at Tafts School and two preparing for Yale at Phillips Academy. Townsend was very prominent at Andover. He was a member of the editorial board of the Mirror, manager of the Foot-ball team, was awarded third prize in the Means Competition and was Class Poet at graduation. At Yale he was elected President of the Freshman Foot-ball Association and was one of the representative men of his class.

His high sense of honor, his perfect refinement, and the nobility of his bearing, won for him many friends. Among his fellows at school and at college and among all with whom he came in contact he was respected and loved.

In his death Phillips Academy has lost not only a true friend but one of her most promising alumni.

LORENZO ELIJAH GRINNELL.

Lorenzo Elijah Grinnell, P. A. 1901 died in Lawrence, on Tuesday, April 26. Grinnell suffered a serious attack of appendicitis for which he was operated upon at the Lawrence General Hospital on Friday, April 22, but complications set in, which proved fatal and he died the following Tuesday. Charles Grinnell a brother of the deceased, was a constant attendant upon him and was present when the end came.

Grinnell lived in Stokesdale, Pa., where he attended the Mansfield Normal Institute for two years, entering Phillips Academy last fall in the Junior class. He was 18 years of age and leaves a mother, two sisters and a brother.

Grinnell was very prominent in athletics and was a very superior scholar. He played right tackle on the foot ball team and was a promising man among the candidates for the track team.

Everybody who knew Grinnell admired him and his kind and sympathetic nature and manly bearing made him a truly noble character.

Communication.

[The Editors of the PHILLIPIAN invite all members of the school to express their sentiments in the columns, but do not hold themselves responsible for what is said.]

To the Editors of the Phillipian:

Owing to some lack of management the amount of reading matter in the reading room is getting smaller each week and if it continues it will hardly pay to keep it running. In the first part of the year there was enough to read to make it worth while going to the reading room, but now when there are a dozen or so in there one has to wait in order to see a paper. This ought to be remedied at once.

'98.

Editors Phillipian:

It is a well known fact that the amount of cramming done in school is very large and for this reason we should like to make a suggestion which we think would do away with it almost entirely.

In several schools and colleges the system of posting a complete schedule of final examinations one or two weeks before the close of a term is now in usage.

With scarcely any previous announcement of the Supplementary Reading examinations and with only a day or two notice of final examinations the amount of cramming is accordingly, large in school.

If the Faculty would take some action in regard to posting the dates of all examinations at an early period, cramming would not be necessary and the school would greatly appreciate it.

Phillips Street base-ball candidates meet at one o'clock on the Phillips Street campus.

The Andover Press.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 4, 1898.

The PHILLIPIAN wishes to congratulate the school as well as the base-ball team for the grand game played last Monday against Harvard Varsity, for it was owing to the hearty and enthusiastic support given the team by the school in the matter of cheering that enabled the players to make such a good showing. It was indeed an exhibition of the "old Andover spirit" and the school need have no fear that we will not turn out a winning team this year if it receives such support throughout the season as it did last Monday. Let every fellow in school remember that it lies with him whether we shall have a victorious team, and that by united and hearty cheering many a game has been won.

We wish to remind the fellows that the annual Spring Tournament is to be held on Saturday and that the entries close to-morrow, Thursday, at 12 o'clock. An entrance fee of 25 cents is charged for each event entered. We would urge that as many men as possible come out for the events, especially the pole vault, shot put, high jump and broad jump. Entries may be made with Capt. Schweppe or Manager K. Smith. Conditions do not count in these games.

Debating Societies.

No regular program has been arranged for the next meeting of Forum on Friday evening, but instead a number of Andover graduates now at Harvard will address the society. The regular meeting of Philo for that evening will be postponed in order that all may have an opportunity of listening to the speakers from Cambridge.

Gun Club.

The third spring shoot of the Gun Club was held last Saturday. The men all showed considerable improvement. The scores were as follows:

	Shot at.	Broke
O'Neill,	36	25
F. N. Eastman,	30	24
B. S. Eastman,	31	24
R. T. Eastman,	35	23
Whitin,	34	22

Song Recital.

Mr. Clayton Johns and Miss Lena Little will give a song recital on Friday evening, May 6, at the house of Professor Harris. Tickets are seventy-five cents and are on sale at the Andover Bookstore.

Practice at 2 A. M. for track candidates.

PER ORDER.

Williams is to have a new Y. M. C. A. building given by its alumni, which will cost about $35,000.
