The Baseball Season

The victory over Exeter last Saturday completed one of the most successful baseball years Andover has ever had and it is interesting to look back over the season, the early prospects and the accomplishments of the team.

In reviewing the work we must remember that Andover is only a preparatory school and therefore her players have had limited experience, while a large majority of the teams against which they have played have been the best college teams in the country. At the same time few colleges have stronger teams than ours with the exception of the large Universities. In view of this fact the team's record is all the more striking. Only four games have been lost and when the conditions under which these were played are known, the defeats do not seem so significant. The first game of the season and the first which was lost was the Brown game which was played at Providence, during the spring vacation, before either team had had any outdoor practice, more as a practice game than anything else. Everyone then on the squad was given a chance: the game was played in the rain and even then the score was only 8 to 5 in Brown's favor.

ALFRED E. STEARNS,
Athletic Director

The game with the Yale Varsity was only lost by one run, the final score being 3 to 2. This record against such a team speaks for itself. The game was closely contested and was not decided till the last man was out. The Georgetown game would probably have been won for Andover had Campbell pitched the entire game. At the end of the sixth inning the score was in Andover's favor and Georgetown had secured only 3 hits. It was during this game however, that news of Exeter's charges against Campbell was first known and Mains was put in the box to get him into condition for the Exeter game.

The loss of the first Exeter game and the circumstances connected with it are too fresh in the minds of all to need any further comment.

The two final Exeter games were as decisive victories as Andover has ever won. They outplayed Exeter at every point in the game.

The protesting of Campbell by Exeter was an unfortunate occurrence in many ways, but especially because of the undesirable notoriety into which it brought him. There is no doubt but that Exeter was herself perfectly sincere and justified in entering the protest on the basis of the facts as she knew them at the time. Had the situation been reversed Andover would have undoubtedly taken the same steps. At the same time it is to be regretted that Exeter could not have made a more careful investigation before proffering formal charges. Had she done so, it is clear that the protest would have been immediately withdrawn. The investigation of the charges brought out pretty clearly that one or two overzealous and unscrupulous Exeter supporters, by very questionable means succeeded in securing an affidavit which from a superficial point of view seemed to indicate that Campbell had received money for playing ball with a local team in Cambridge.

The utter absurdity of this charge was plainly shown at the hearing in Boston. It is indeed unfortunate that a man's school and college career should be jeopardized by so unwarranted a charge as this, and it is a source of congratulation both to Campbell and the school that so influential and unbiased a committee should have so completely exonerated him. It is also to be hoped that this unfortunate incident will lead to a modifying of the present agreements between the two schools in regard to athletics, by which a definite limit can be set on the time before a game; at which a protest may be entered. Such a limit is observed by the leading colleges and had Andover and Exeter had a similar understanding Campbell would not have been debarred from the first Exeter game. As it was, the protest was entered so late that it was impossible to thoroughly investigate the charges in time to establish their falseness before the first game. The charge of professionalism against any man in a preparatory school, with a college career before him, is a most serious thing, and this case should serve as a warning in the future, against entering any protest unless the facts are so clear and well established as to leave no doubt about the matter.

FRANK O'BRIEN,
Captain Elect 1902.

The team this year is unquestionably the best we have ever had. Indications of this may be found in the batting and fielding averages and the record of the games won and lost. The battery work this year has been splendid. Captain Matthews, whose position is at short, early showed his interest in the team by going behind the bat, even against the advice of many of his friends. Such spirit has characterized his work all season.

Campbell is an all round good player, knows the game thoroughly

Notices.

There will be a game between Phillips and Salem streets at 3 o'clock on the campus.

There will be a farewell meeting of Inquiry tomorrow evening at 6.30 in Society Hall. The Northfield delegates will also be chosen.

Important meeting of the Phillipian board this noon in Room 6.

The following are requested to act as ushers for class day: A. Parker, head usher, Goodhue, Bliss, Keeney, Carter, Knox, White and Hardin.

The first two games of the series for Street championship were played last Wednesday and Thursday between Bartlett street and Commons and resulted in a victory for Bartlett street by a score of 11 to 10. The game Thursday was between School and Salem streets in which Salem won, 21 to 8. This afternoon Phillips Street and Salem play, the winner of which play Bartlett Street to decide the championship.

GOLF MATCH.

The golf team was defeated last Wednesday by the Newton high school at Brae Burn golf club, Boston, by a score of 27 to 8.

THE ANDOVER PRESS

Saturday, June 22, 1901.

This will be the last regular issue of the PHILLIPIAN but there will be a commencement extra Wednesday.

The PHILLIPIAN wishes to second the remarks of Mr. Stearns in Chapel recently about paying class subscriptions. It has been impossible for the managers to do all the collecting before the game and though of course it is rather unsatisfactory to give for the support of a team after its season is over, when a man pledges himself he ought to live up to his promise. There are now almost a hundred dollars as yet to be collected and if it is not paid before the close of school, the chances are that the faculty will prohibit the class game in the future. As this matter of unpaid subscriptions is only one of many arguments against the game, it is the duty of those who are behind with their subscriptions to attend to this matter at once.

Tomorrow evening the Society of Inquiry holds its farewell meeting. As we all know the society has not held the place in school that it should and the only reason is that the school as a whole does not give it the support which it deserves. The fact that the Northfield delegates are to be chosen will be of additional interest. If the school is to be represented by individuals it is the privilege of every one to have a share in choosing these representatives and everyone ought to avail himself of this privilege. We hope, then, that there will be a full attendance this evening and that the business transacted will prove satisfactory to all.

Brothers' Field.

Work on Brothers' Field is rapidly progressing. As the field is rather swampy it will take some time to lay a good draining system and fill in. It will include two baseball diamonds, two football fields and a shooting gallery. Besides this there will be the new gymnasium. It is hoped that the work may be finished by the winter term of next year.

and is about the best pitcher we have ever had. Mains has also done well in the box and has shown himself steady and effective several times this season.

Hasenwinkle has been one of the steadiest men on the team. Last year he played center field but has this year shown his ability to play first.

Farson at second has improved this season more than any man that ever played on an Andover campus. He worked hard and faithfully until he was well able to keep up with the pace set by the infield.

O'Brien at shortstop has played a star game all season. He heads the bitting averages and fields his position to perfection. The team chose the right man in electing him captain for next year and he may be relied upon to turn out a winning team.

Huiskamp is without question the best third baseman the school has had for years. Third base has always been Andover's greatest weakness but this year it has been well taken care of.

The outfield as a whole have been sure in their fielding, accurate on their throws and have given the infield good support and backing. Scribner deserves especial mention for his throw which is one of the strongest on the team.

Burke and Reid have been good all around subs. Both have worked as hard as the rest of the team all season and have been ready and willing.

A great deal of the team's success this year is due to Mr. Stearns, who has given up a great deal of time and worked right along with the team every day for four months. Captain Matthews also deserves the greatest praise for his self-sacrifice in catching throughout the season and his devotion to the interests of both the team and the school in playing the two decisive championship games with a badly crippled thumb.

With Campbell, O'Brien and Huisk-kamp and the outfield back and Mr.
Stearns as coach, the prospects are indeed bright for a winning team next year.
