Draper Reading    Ivy Exercises

Draper Prize Speaking.

The thirty-fifth annual speaking of selected declamations for the Draper Prizes was held last night in the chapel before a large and appreciative audience. The prizes were awarded as follows: First prize to Arthur James Derbyshire, of Lawrence; second prize to Frederick Sewall Bale, of Asbury Park, N. Y.; third prize to Sidney Rogers Cook, of South Weymouth.

ARTHUR J. DERBYSHIRE
First Prize Winner

Dr. Bancroft presided and introduced as the first speaker Charles Jarvis Chapman, of Portland, Me., who gave "The Rescue of Lygia." His words were not clear and he lacked range of voice, but his gestures and stage presence were good.

Sidney Rogers Cook, of South Weymouth, was the second speaker and delivered "The Roman Sentinel" in a finished, careful way, with strong feeling. His voice was not strong, but unusually well controlled.

Arthur James Derbyshire, of Lawrence, then rendered "The Unknown speaker." His selection was a hard one, because there was so much intense action required, but the range of his voice was unusually good, his enunciation clear and his gestures easy.

The piece chosen by Gardner Aspinwall Richardson, of Athens, Greece, was "The Royal Bowman." He started well, but, unfortunately, skipped several lines, and realizing it stopped, and said he would withdraw from the contest.

William Johnson Colby, of East Weymouth, had selected in "Robert Emmett's Defence" a difficult piece, but it was one of the best. His voice was a little strained at times and he should have used low tones more.

the program. At 2 o'clock the Senior class marched into the chapel headed by President C. S. Fallows.

After a welcoming address by the president of the class, the history was read by W. C. Matthews. He gave the history in a free and easy manner and made it very interesting. Starting with 1901's prep year the chief events were outlined, together with the successes of the different members of the class in athletic and literary lines.

C. T. Ryder, the second speaker, delivered the class poem. His subject showed careful thought and his delivery was pleasing. His poem was enjoyed by all.

L. B. Sheldon then announced the class statistics. In his humorous way he awarded the gifts, which were very well chosen.

After an orchestral selection, A. J. Derbyshire, in a clear and distinct manner, delivered the class oration. He treated of the condition of the country under the influence of trusts. His was one of the best addresses of the afternoon.

The class prophecy is rather a difficult subject to handle but H. A. Welch treated it with much skill. His ideas were good and he spoke clearly and distinctly.

As the orchestra played, the audience went from the chapel to the lawn, where the ivy was planted. After the spade was presented to F. O'Brien, the president of the middle class, the exercises were concluded by singing the ivy song.

CLASS ODE

By CHARLES T. RYDER

Tune — "St. Olaf."

Another band of thy devoted children,
O Phillips, leaves thy pleasant halls today:
Grant us thy blessing, we implore thee,
To keep us on our way.

We are thy guardians; thou hast guided, reared us;
Thy honor is our priceless heritage;
Oh may thy sons forever hold it sacred,
A trust from age to age.

No longer in thy loving arms we linger,
For by our deeds we must extol thy name,
And ever hastening on, essay to set it
Upon the heights of fame.

followed with "The Unconscious Greatness of Stonewall Jackson." His delivery was best on light passages as he had a tendency to monotone on strong ones. His gestures were not free.

"Public Opinion" was then delivered by Frederick Sewall Bale of Ashbury Park, N. J., with strong feeling. His enunciation and range of voice were good and his gestures easy.

The last speaker of the evening was Gilbert Browning of Morristown, N. J., who gave "Wolfe at Quebec." He delivered his selection with too much jerkiness and his stage presence was slightly nervous.

While the judges were making their decision, selections were rendered on the piano by Hellmann. The prizes were awarded to the satisfaction of all by Rt. Rev. Samuel Fallows, in behalf of the committee, which consisted of Rt. Rev. Samuel Fallows, D. D., of Chicago, Ill., Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, D. D., of Detroit, Mich., and William Tenney Brewster, M. A., of Columbia College.

Review of the Golf Season.

The golf season this year has been a very successful one; and though the number of matches played was few the teams played were composed of excellent material.

Those who composed the school team are as follows: S. Slosson, (capt.) H. Phipps, W. Wheeler, H. Paine, M. Gurley, Fisher, W. Gurley.

Of these Slosson undoubtedly plays the steadiest game and was only defeated once. His driving and approaches are his strong points. Phipps is erratic but is a strong driver and plays well through the fair green.

W. Wheeler is good on approaches and plays steadily in match play. H. Paine acquires good direction and has a strong point in being steady. M. Gurley also plays a very steady game and approaches and puts well.

Fisher has not been playing long but has good qualities to be developed.

W. Gurley is erratic, a strong driver but weak on approaches.

Several of the best players in school were prevented from entering the matches owing to conditions. Among these were Ehrich and Whitney both of whom are steady and experienced players.

The scores for the spring season were as follows:

Andover 18	Newton High School 1
Andover 8	Andover Golf Club 18
Andover 2	Newton High School 27
Andover 2	Lawrence Golf Club 23

The officers elected for next year are Capt. Howard Phipps, manager Melville Gurley.
