NEW STRUCTURE

Archaeology Building Will Soon be Ready For Use. A Fine Addition to the Academy.

The Archaeological building situated at the corner of Phillips and Main streets, is nearing completion. The building presents a handsome appearance from the outside, the front in particular being very attractive. Upon entering one steps into a vestibule with small closets on each side. The vestibule opens into a large square hall which extends half way back to the rear wall. This hall is finished in a gray color as are all the rooms on the first floor. At each corner of the hall are erected handsome pillars while those along the sides form an arch into the adjoining rooms. Directly back of the hall is a room containing the stair case. This room is the same size as the hall.

The stair case is constructed of iron and will present a handsome appearance when finished. The stairs to the basement are directly beneath these, and both occupy the back and two sides of the room. This room containing the stair case extends to the roof and has in the back wall, about half way between the first and second floors, a large window. The rooms on each side of the hall are exhibition rooms and are very nicely furnished and well lighted. They occupy about two thirds of the space from the front to the rear wall. The end of each room towards the hall has a pillar in each corner which sets the room off exceedingly well. The room at the south side contains a mantle which is beautifully finished with Mexican Onyx. Back of this room are three smaller rooms which comprise the general office in the south west corner; next, the private office, and lastly, the labeling room. Between the labeling room and the stairs is a small room which will be fitted up with closets. The exhibition room on the north side takes up the same space as the other exhibition room; the apartment behind it is open and is connected with it by arches which will tend to make one large room.

Ascending the stairs one enters a room corresponding to the hall below. It is finished in a buff tint and opens into a lecture room on the north side and the library on the south side. The lecture room is large and airy and contains a sizable platform. This room takes up all the space on the north end of the building and is connected by a spiral staircase with the exhibition room below. The finish will be in buff as in the hall. Across the hall, at the south end, one enters the library. It will be finished in quartered oak and will have a large fire place at one end. Back of the library is a stack room.

The basement may be entered either from the inside or by a door, on the south side of the building reached by descending a flight of stone steps, leading from the sidewalk. The corridor from this door extends through the middle of the building to the hall in the centre. The space in the south west corner between the two corridors will be given to the Phillipian and Mirror for offices. This room covers all the space in that part except one other small room which has not been assigned for any use as yet. The apartment in the front of the building is assigned as follows: At the south east corner will be the athletic manager's office; the space which extends to the wall under the arch in the exhibition room at the north end, will be given to the Camera club. This comprises three rooms—a main room, a storage room, and a dark room. The room at the south end of the basement has not yet been assigned to any special use, but will probably be so soon.

CHAPEL CHOIR—Report tomorrow at 10 a. m.

The Universal Day of Prayer for Students.

THE CALL.

The general committee of the World's student Christian Federation hereby set apart Sunday, February 8, 1903, as the Universal Day of Prayer for Students, and call upon all Christian organizations of students throughout the world, and upon the Christian church in general, to observe the day as an occasion for special intercession and earnest spiritual effort on behalf of students.

The committee which issues this call is composed of the official representatives of the Christian student movements of Australasia, Belgium, Canada, Ceylon, China, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Holland, India, Japan, Norway, South Africa, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States, as well as of the movement in lands without national student organizations. They embrace Christian associations or unions in over 1900 universities, colleges, and higher schools, and have a total membership of 82,000 students and professors.

The day proposed, the second Sunday in February, is the only one on which during the past five years, it has been found possible to unite the students of all nations. The proper observance of this day has helped greatly to make possible the wonderful spiritual developments of recent years in the world wide student movement.

Each succeeding year adds emphasis to the vital relation of prayer to the progress of the Kingdom of Christ among students. The vast number of students in the world, the fact that they are to be leaders in every realm of thought and action, the prevalence and strength of the power of evil at work in universities and colleges, the marked success of the Christian student movement, the conditions favoring for greater spiritual advance on the part of the student movement in every land—all these considerations constitute a call to prayer on behalf of students. Prayer will add to the power and efficiency of every agency and method employed to impress students spiritually. On the other hand, without prayer, any method must be comparatively superficial and fruitless.

The following suggestions, based on the experience of preceding years, are given to facilitate the most useful observance of the day.

1. Let the leaders of each association or union come together to consider this call, to devise means for carrying out its suggestions and to study how to ensure a more profitable observance of the day than in preceding years.

2. Let each association hold at least one meeting for united prayer. Students should be encouraged, also, to pray in secret and to meet in groups for special prayer.

3. Let the pastors of churches be invited to preach sermons appropriate to the day, and to call forth the prayers of their members.

4. Let the Day of Prayer be regarded not as an end, but as a beginning of special prayer and effort on behalf of students. Wherever possible, it will be well to set apart Saturday or Monday, as well as Sunday, for meetings, not only for prayer, but also for evangelistic appeal.

On behalf of the general committee of the World's Student Christian Federation.

THE ANDOVER PRESS

Saturday, January 10, 1903

A number of the new men on the musical clubs have conditions, and in order to assure a successful season it is extremely important that every man be able to play in the various concerts which are to be given. Besides the personal benefit and pleasure which is gained by being a member of one or more of the clubs, it should be remembered that they are school organizations and that they represent the school, and therefore each fellow should do his best, and those with conditions remove them at the earliest possible date.

Philo Meeting.

The regular meeting of Philo was held last evening in Society hall. The meeting was opened in the usual manner, after which Kitchell called the roll.

The program was opened by Richardson, who moved a vote of thanks be given to ex-president McLellan in return for his services of last term, and the resignation of Parks was then accepted. Then followed an address on wireless telegraphy by Kelley. 'Topics of the week', was rendered by Clough. Holiday read a passage from the "Drums of Fore and Aft," by Kipling and then followed a declamation by Starks.

The debate followed. The subject for debate was, Resolved: "That the increase of millionaires in the United States has entailed a consequent increase of poverty."

Affirmative was supported by Stimson, McClelland and Hemingway. The negative was upheld by Kittredge Eaton and Richardson.

The decision was in favor of the affirmative. After the critique the meeting was adjourned.

Forum.

The regular meeting of Forum was held last evening. Under miscellaneous business the chair decided that hereafter the former time of meeting be adopted: namely, 7 o'clock instead of 7.20. Also that Art. VI. be amended to read that "Two-thirds of the active members, of the society shall constitute a quorum."

As but two of the regular debaters were present the subject of debate was changed to the following: Resolved, "That woman suffrage is advisable." The affirmative side of the question was presented by Patterson (leader) and Beinecke. The negative was supported by Moore (leader) and Bigwood. The debate resulted in favor of the affirmative.

After a select reading by Moore the meeting adjourned.

The total academic registration at Yale is 1156 and at Harvard 4166.
