Dining Hall Communication.

To the Editor of the Phillipian:

As some important changes are soon to be made in the conduct of the Dining Hall it seems advisable at this time to call the attention of the school to the proposed improvements as well as to the conditions under which the Hall was established and the place it was intended that the Hall should fill in the life of the school.

For a great many years the problem of providing satisfactory table board under acceptable conditions has been a most pressing one with the trustees. The old plan which left the matter entirely in the hands of the private houses was subject to constant and severe criticism; and as the school increased in numbers this criticism grew more intense. In public and in private, in conversation and in print, students and faculty alike voiced the opinion that the greatest need of the Academy was a Dining Hall in charge of the authorities of the school. The late principal Dr. Bancroft, frequently stated that in his judgment the crying need of the school was such a Hall. Because of the lack of special funds for this purpose the trustees hesitated, but finally in view of increasing pressure it was voted to appropriate funds for this purpose. The old Brick Academy was accordingly completely remodeled and transformed into a most attractive Dining Hall fitted out with the best obtainable equipment.

The trustees had several objects in view, but first of all it was their desire to furnish, practically at cost, wholesome, substantial food, at a reasonable price and under attractive conditions. In addition it was hoped that by bringing together in this way boys from all classes of the school, a better school spirit and a closer fellowship among the boys would result. Still further it was hoped that the hall would furnish opportunities for a limited number of deserving boys to to earn their board and in this way materially assist themselves in meeting the regular expenses of the school. To help further these ends it was decided to leave the general supervision of the hall to a committee chosen from the trustees, the faculty, and the students, but the majority of whom should be from the students.

For two years and more the hall has been in operation and numerous problems have beset the management. In view of the novelty of the undertaking most of these problems could not have been foreseen. The greatest of these have sprung from the marked increase during the past two years in the cost of supplies and the natural difficulties involved in the attempt to meet the wants of boys of widely different tastes and means. Similar problems have confronted other institutions which have recently undertaken similar tasks, notably Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth and Exeter. The scheme which was finally decided upon for the current year has been considered by the first three institutions mentioned the most satisfactory to all concerned, its strongest feature lying in the opportunity which it offers to each student to secure either high or low priced board as he desires. That there are valid objections to this scheme cannot be denied and the committee are at present considering the wisdom of asking the students to express definitely their preference for either the present plan or for a table at a fixed charge of five dollars per week.

In the management of the hall it is the definite aim of the committee as well as of the trustees to meet so far as possible the wants of the individual students and to supply their actual, not fancied needs. This has proved a most difficult task. That it is possible however, to do this the experience at both Yale and Harvard amply proves, and every effort will be put forth to bring about the same results here. It has long been felt that an experienced woman in charge of the dining room could do much to make the board more attractive and that she would at the same time be far better able than anyone else to hear the suggestions of the boys and take necessary steps to adjust difficulties and remove causes for complaint. Early in the winter term an experienced woman was engaged for this purpose. Illness at the last moment compelled her to give up the undertaking. As it was hoped that a little later she would be able to fill her engagement, no further appointment was made. Recently it was found that the woman in question could not be counted on and steps have accordingly been taken to secure another person for this position. It is expected that the right person will be engaged within the next few days, and the committee are firmly convinced that under this plan the dining hall can be made attractive to the majority of the students in the school.

To secure the best results a hearty cooperation on the part of the school at large is needed. Those who are familiar with the old conditions realize that the loss of the hall at this time would be a serious loss to the school at large. It is earnestly hoped therefore that the committee may have the united support of the student body in their efforts to render more attractive and more efficient an institution which was called into existence by the demands of the students themselves, and which can render if properly supported a most important service in the life of the school.

Signed,
THE DINING HALL COMMITTEE.
