THE CHRISTMAS MIRROR

Holiday Issue of Mirror Distributed Monday of Unusual Quality and Interesting as to Contents.

The Christmas issue of the Mirror will appear on Monday. Owing to the scarcity of time and unavoidable confusion, caused by the approaching Christmas holidays, the paper will probably not be delivered to the subscribers' rooms, but will be distributed from the basement of the Archaeology Building. Due notice, however, will be given in either case.

This issue of the Mirror contains several excellent articles, besides two pictures. "Christmas at the Gap" is the opening story. The scene is laid in one of the wildest sections of Arizona. Two opposing forces, a powerful railroad company and a band of loyal ranchmen, are about to clash, when an unexpected event happens, which restores harmony. One of the chief characters, however, meets his death in endeavoring to save the hero's life.

"The Legend of the Bell" is the second story of the issue. The plot is very skilfully worked out, leaving the reader in suspense and uncertainty as to the outcome until the very last, where the ending is most unexpected.

The only poem in the number, "Reincarnation", is an excellent bit of verse.

A play, entitled "Crossed Lines", follows. The play is an amusing example of the misunderstanding caused by crossed telephone wires, ending very happily for all concerned.

The Editorials and "Leaves from Phillips Ivy" complete the issue.

The January number will necessarily appear a little after the fifteenth of the month, which is the date set for the regular distribution of the paper, as the Christmas holidays interfere with the work. Articles intended for publication in this issue should be handed in to Ogden before December 16. As the holidays will bring relief from school work, the fellows ought to find ample time to write a good snappy story for the Mirror. Originality is especially desired. Stories will be acceptable for the January issue, if mailed before January first to Ogden, 20 Fifth Ave., New York.

Chapel Speaker

At the Chapel services to-morrow, Mr. Stackpole will preach in the morning. At the Vesper services, Mr. Stearns will speak, as is customary at the end of each term.

THE OUTSIDE WORLD

NEW DISCOVERY ABOUT MARS

Prof. Percival Lowell has recently made some discoveries in regard to the planet Mars, which go a great distance to prove that that planet is inhabited. Professor Lowell, assisted by Professor Very, have proved conclusively that Mars is surrounded by a water vapor similar to our own atmosphere, which gives good ground for the theory that living beings exist there.

WORK AT LYNN PROGRESSING

The surveying for the enlarging of Lynn's harbor will begin next week. It will provide a channel 1000 feet wide and 1 1-2 miles in length, which, when completed will give Lynn a port in which the largest ocean going vessels can dock directly from the open sea. The estimated cost of this undertaking is $500,000, and when the harbor is finished it will be one of the finest in the country.

LARGE APPROPRIATION FOR ARMY

Secretary Wright has asked that a provision be made for 612 new officers for the army, and an appropriation of $3,000,000 be provided for this purpose. Secretary Wright claims that many men now in the service are inefficient, and that improvements in recruiting are needed.

EMPEROR OF CHINA BURIED

The last ceremony in the burial of Kuang Hisu, the Emperor of China, has been completed, and in all, cost about $4,200,000. Before the body was laid in the grave, according to the Chinese custom, all the personal effects and possessions of the deceased are burned, including gems, royal garments, etc. More than 6000 mourners were present, and the funeral was marked with great ceremony.

BLACK HAND AT WORK

Black Hand bombs thrown into a crowded East side tenement in New York, injured 20 people and threw the neighborhood into a state of wild disorder. This is not the first time that this same building has been attacked, and the fact that the culprits always get away, plainly show how lax is the vigilance of the police force.

WRECKED CRUISER TO BE FLOATED

The Cruiser Yankee which has been caught in the rocks of the Hen and Chickens group, near New Bedford, was recently examined by a diver, who reports her being in good condition. Work will be started in a few days to float the ship.

WAR TALK IN GERMANY AND ENGLAND

Frédéric J. Rhodes, a cousin of Cecil Rhodes, recently declared that war between England and Germany would come within two years. Mr. Rhodes, who has recently been in England and has talked with of the opinion that the sooner war is declared the better it will be for England. It seems that in spite of the great work of the Hague conference, the powers are still determined to resort to force for settling disputes.

Annapolis Schedule Completed

The Annapolis basketball schedule is printed below. The schedule is one of the longest ever made by the midshipmen. The team is being coached by professional players, and is therefore expected to be especially strong. The schedule:

Dec. 12—U. of Penn.
Dec. 19—Georgetown.
Dec. 26—Princeton.
Jan. 2—Columbia.
Jan. 16—Corcoran cadets of Washington.
Jan. 16—Baltimore City College.
Jan. 23—George Washington University.
Jan. 30—Delaware College.
Feb. 6—Washington and Lee College.
Feb. 13—U. of Virginia.
Feb. 20—Soyola College.
Feb. 22—Fordham.
Feb. 27—Open.

Boston College Plans Track Meet

Boston College has practically decided to hold a big indoor track and field meet this winter, similar to those held a number of years ago, which attracted the best amateur athletes of the country to Mechanics' Hall. The date or place is still undecided, but it is very probable that the Park Square Coliseum or Mechanics Hall will be used. A number of years ago, its indoor games ranked with those of the B. A. A., but poor handling caused large losses. The matter has been under consideration for the past month, and it is felt that with good management, no loss should be sustained.

Harvard Plays Laval at Hockey

The Harvard hockey management is making negotiations with Laval University, of Montreal, for a game to be played on the rink in the Harvard Stadium January 23.

Harvard hockey teams of recent years have usually played the McGill University seven, of Montreal, but because last year McGill sent down a "scrub" team to play Harvard, while their 'varsity seven was engaged in a Canadian league match, Harvard has decided to have no further relations with that college, although they apologized, and promised that such a thing would never again happen.

Alfred S. Atwood, 1910, of Norwood, Mass., has been unanimously elected captain of the Amherst college football team for next year. He has played in every game since he entered college, either at half or full-back, and has always been a steady and consistent ground-gainer. Before entering college he played on his high school team and captained that team for two years.

THE ANDOVER PRESS

Saturday, December 12, 1908

We take great pleasure in announcing the election of Edward Woolsey Freeman, '09, of New York City, as Business Manager of the PHILLIPIAN, to fill the vacancy made by the withdrawal of Raymond M. Demere, '09, from school.

The PHILLIPIAN is also glad to announce the election of Francis Theodore Bennett, '09, of New Haven, Conn., and of William Henry Baldwin, 3rd, '09, of New York City, to the editorial board.

With this issue, the heeling for the fall term of the PHILLIPIAN has ended, and it seems only fitting to say a word to the school regarding the competition. Positions on the editorial board are open to every fellow in the Academy. The candidates are all given a fair show, and the best man, or men, wins. The honor of making the board is no small reward, and should be given more attention than it has received this year. Compared with other preparatory schools, the PHILLIPIAN holds first place, but in order to maintain this position, it must have good support from the school. To insure a large editorial board, which is one of the first requisites of a good paper, it is essential to have a large number of candidates working for those positions. Don't hang back because you think you are not adapted to such work, or because you think you are not good enough at it. Come out next term and try, and make yourself good enough to do the work.

Discussion Group

Mr. Hinman's Discussion Group on "Decisive Christians of the World" will not meet again until Wednesday evening, January 7. At this meeting the "Life of Bernhard de Clairvaux", will be the topic for discussion.

Dual Meet with Worcester

A dual cross-country meet with Worcester Academy has been scheduled to be run over the Andover course this afternoon, but the weather conditions may prevent its being held. The race will be twice around the course, the contestants finishing at home-plate on the baseball field. Fast time cannot be expected, as the footing will be equally bad whether it rains or remains cold. The following contestants have been entered and numbered:

VerWiebe Declines Gift

In order that his amateur standing may in no way be impaired or jeopardized, Ernest F. Ver Wiebe, the Harvard full-back, has returned to the Somerville Y. M. C. A. the purse of $50 in gold which was presented to him last Saturday night. By taking the money, Ver Wiebe would be prevented from ever appearing again as an amateur, and should he care to try any of the various sports at Harvard, could not legally do so.

Seminary Library Open to School

Before the Seminary Library is moved to its new quarters in Cambridge, it will be of interest to the fellows to visit the building, as there are many objects on exhibition which are closely associated to the history of the Seminary. For three of four years, Mr. Gates has been employed in reclassifying the books, and the time is approaching when this very valuable collection of volumes will be transferred to newer and more fire-proof quarters.

For a hundred years or more, the authorities of the Library have bought all the principal works on religious subjects, until 61,000 volumes and innumerable pamphlets have been collected, and the Library ranks among the first of its kind in the United States. The collection of the editions of the New Testament in the original Greek, Latin, and Hebrew languages, is especially valuable.

The Library also contains many objects of interest. Among the numerous paintings are those of Madame Phillips, wife of the founder; of John Phillips, her son; of Samuel Farrar, the first treasurer; and of Professors Woods, Stewart, and Phelps. Besides these paintings, there are some photographic reproductions from cuts of old views of the Seminary buildings, a photograph of the three donors of the Library, and an old chair in which George Washington sat on his visit at the Mansioin House.

Historical Andover

The Principal's house used to be known as the "Samaritan House". It was built in 1824 by the Samaritan Society, an organization of the ladies of the hill, to aid sick students. The house was originally intended as an infirmary. From 1833 to 1837 it was occupied by Principal Osgood Johnson and afterwards by his widow. Professor Calvin E. Stowe and his famous wife, Harriet Beecher Stowe, lived here in 1852-3. Mrs. Stowe had written "Uncle Tom's Cabin", long before this time. This house was long the residence of Dr. Bancroft, Mr. Stearns' predecessor as Principal.

The stone part of Phillips Inn was built in 1828 as a carpenter shop for the use of the theological students, in order to afford them a place for physical exercise. Coffins were a favorite object of manufacture. From 1853 to 1864, this house was occupied by Professor and Mrs. Stowe, and here Mrs. Stowe wrote several of her later works, among them, "Old Town Folks".

Professor Graves' house used to be known as the Adams House. It was built in 1805 and was first occupied by Dr. Eliphalet Pearson, who had been the first principal.

Miss Dorah Berry's house on Salem street, next to Miss Clough's, was the Blunt Tavern during the time of the Revolution. The great elm tree in the yard, was set out in about 1790. Miss Clough's house formerly stood on the Seminary grounds east of the library.

Mr. Sawyer's house was built in about 1809 by Mark Newman, another Principal of the school. Here Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes had his room in 1824-25. Professor Arnold's house was built in 1810 for the famous Professor Moses Stuart of the Theological Seminary, one of the greatest scholars of his time. Professor J. H. Thayer, later of Harvard University, and Professor Harris, now President of Amherst, lived in this house. Brick House was built in 1832, for a printing and publishing establishment. Thousands of text books, commentaries and other important works were published here. Between Brick House and Churchill House, stood the stately Mansion House of Judge Phillips, built in 1782 and destroyed by fire in 1887. Washington, Lafayette, Jackson and Webster, all visited in this house. During the greater part of the last century, it was used as an Inn. The old stone posts which stood in front of it are still to be seen.

Pease House was built in 1816, and was first occupied by Dr. Leonard Woods, the first Professor Theology in the Seminary. Mrs. Pease, the widow of one of the seminary professors, resided here for several years. Churchill House formerly stood where the Archaeological Building now stands, and was the residence for a number of years of Professor John Wesley Churchill, professor of elocution in the Seminary and in the Academy. Professor Churchill was greatly beloved by the students of both institutions, and in his memory, the Churchill Memorial Room was established. Professor Churchill died in 1900.

Phelps House, now the residence of Mr. Stackpole, was built in 1809, and up to the present year, has always been occupied by professors in the Theological Seminary. Professor Austin Phelps and his famous daughter, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, lived here for many years, and after that Professor George F. Moore, now of Harvard University lived here. This house is the finest example upon the hill of the architecture of one hundred years. The small garden house in the yard, was used by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps as a study.

Farrar House was built about a hundred years ago, and formerly stood upon the present site of the Archaeology Building. Samuel Farrar, the famous Treasurer, lived here for nearly forty years. Madam Phillips died in this house in 1813. In 1881 the house was removed to its present location. Abbot House was built in 1829 as a residence for two families. The famous principal, "Uncle Sam" Taylor, lived in one part of this house from 1837 to 1871.

There was no regular literary program given at the meeting of the Philomathean Society last night. As it was the last meeting of the term, the session was devoted entirely to business and to the election of officers. It was voted to change the subject announced for the trials for the Philo team, to that announced for the Philo-Forum debate. The elections resulted as follows:

President—F. T. Bennett.
Vice-President—Q. Reynolds.
Secretary—C. B. Rockwell.
Treasurer—J. Herbert Gridley.

Grenfell Collection Poor

The collection for Dr. Grenfell taken by the Society of Inquiry last Wednesday night did not prove quite as good as expected. However, a large box, with a good many warm clothes and a great deal of reading matter can be sent up to Labrador. The things that are not suitable for Dr. Grenfell will be sent to the Seamen's Friend Society in Boston. The fellows who contributed are cordially thanked for their interest in Dr. Grenfell's work. Another collection of a like sort will be taken at the end of the winter term, when it is hoped the fellows will have more warm things to give away.

Cornell Captain Elected

Arthur Frederick Tydeman has been elected captain of the Cornell football team for next year. His brilliant playing at left half-back this year, brought him into prominence among college football players. Tydeman comes from Bloomfield, N. J., and is a student in the school of mechanical engineering.

At an election of the old men held after Chapel yesterday morning, Wallace Dale Holden of Danville, Ill., was elected assistant hockey manager.
