ANDOVER WINS FIRST GAME

English High School Defeated by Academy Team in its First Game of Season.

Andover won the first hockey game of the season Saturday afternoon on the new rink on Brothers' Field. The game, which was with Boston English High School, was well played and exciting throughout, an extra period being necessary to decide the winner. The contest gave the school the first opportunity of seeing the team play together and although only one member of last year's team took part in the game the work was very good. Among the new men whose work was noticeable were Lee and Panie. The playing of the former was especially good and he was responsible for both of Andover's tallies. For English High School, Captain McManught played a good game. Baldwin of the Academy played goal for the visitors. There were a number of penalties inflicted for rough work, both teams suffering the loss of men for short periods.

Summary:

ANDOVER	E. H. S.
Reynolds g	g Baldwin
Gard p	p Jones
Lanius c p	c p Pierce
Decker f	f Gallagher
Lee f	f James
Rodgers (Pfau) f	f Finn
Paine f	f McManught

Goals—by Lee, 2; Finn. Referee—Waterman of Andover. Timekeeper—Fry of Andover. Time—2 fifteen minute halves. Extra period of 5 minutes.

1909 HOCKEY SCHEDULE

Eight Games Arranged for Team. All Games to be Played at Andover.

The hockey schedule is here published for the first time. The absence of the Harvard game is noticeable, but this is accounted for because Harvard has dropped all preparatory schools from her schedule. There are eight games, all with exceptionally strong teams. A game is scheduled with the Tech team, which is composed of men from last year's squad, and which has defeated Dartmouth and a number of other strong teams. It is a noticeable feature of the schedule that all of the games have been arranged to be played in Andover. The order in which the games will be played is printed below:

Jan. 9—English H. S. at Andover.

Jan. 16—Mass. Inst. Tech. at Andover.

Jan. 23—Crescent A. C. at Andover.

Jan. 26—Vermont Academy at Andover.

Feb. 5—Yale Freshmen at Andover.

Feb. 6—Springfield Training School at Andover.

Feb. 17—Arlington High School at Andover.

Feb. 22—Brae Burn Country Club at Andover.

Philo

At the meeting of Philo to be held next Friday evening, the trials for the Philo Debating Team will take place. The speakers will be allowed ten minutes on which to present their argument, and they may speak on either side of the question. Contrary to the usual custom the trials will be held publicly and anyone may be present except the competitors. After a speaker has delivered his debate he will be permitted to remain in the room, to listen to the other speakers. The gentlemen who will act as judges are Mr. Hinman, Mr. Benner, and Mr. Leonard. The question for debate is: "Resolved, That laws should be enacted providing that in case of personal injury to a workman arising out of, and in course of employment, his employer shall be liable for adequate compensation, and shall not set up negligence or contributory negligence of a fellow servant as defense." The meeting will be held in Pearson Hall, and will start promptly at 7 o'clock.

SICILIAN DISASTER

The situation in Sicily is gradually becoming less frightful, and the work of rescue and the care of the survivors is greatly helped by a continuance of warm weather. The barbarous work of the criminals freed by the earthquakes and of the hordes of peasants who have gathered in Messina and Reggio for the sake of pillage, has been decidedly reduced. In the first confusion, many thieves robbed the dead and wounded under the pretense of offering relief, but the coming of martial law has put a check to their depredations.

In the midst of all this suffering, it is at least a relief to think of the way in which the civilized peoples, both through their governments and through private organizations, have responded to the calls for aid. The question of supplying proper nourishment to the survivors was very difficult as all of Sicily and lower Italy has been impoverished by shortage in crops. Supplies have, however, been rushed to the scene of the disaster, and it is a pleasure to know that every effort is being made to relieve the frightful conditions.

SIGNIFICANCE OF CONGRESS' ACTION

The session of the House of Representatives of January 9th will long be remembered not only for the rebuking of President Roosevelt but also—and in this lies the deeper significance—for the way in which it met the crisis in its importance. For many years its prestige has slowly diminished, but in this one sitting it came into its former power again and met the emergency with firmness, but nevertheless with dignity.

The motion, upon which all the interest was directed, to lay on the table the part of the President's message referring to the Secret Service, was almost unanimous, and the defense of Mr. Roosevelt's actions was conducted in a very half-hearted and unfinished way. The attack upon that part of the message concerning the Secret Service, found its champions in Congressman Tawney and Denby; and it is of importance to note that not a single Democrat, with the exception of Representatives Sherley and Fitzgerald, whose membership on the appropriations committee exposed them to the full attack by Mr. Roosevelt, was drawn into the discussion.

NIGHT RIDERS SENTENCED

The verdict of guilty which hanged six night riders and sentenced two others to twenty years each in the penitentiary, should be praised as not only being justified but also brave; for every member of the jury knew of the many friends of the prisoners who were equal to any outrage towards their rescue or towards retaliation. When the sentences were proclaimed in court, however, the presence of well-armed militia checked any concerted action on the part of the sympathizers with the guilty men.

These Reelfoot lake murderers were, however, very poor mountaineers and were only supported by local sentiment. As the Springfield Republican points out, it will be interesting to see the way in which the assassins of Senator Carmack in the heart of a Tennessee city, will be treated; for they are all men of good social standing and strong political influence.

WITH THE COLLEGES

The faculty of Washington has proclaimed that the baseball team must make good this year before it will be allowed to make a trip. One of the deans said that the team of last year was not worthy of the University and should not have been allowed to leave the campus.

A dam in the river near the campus at Michigan may enable that university to put out a crew next spring.

A five dollar prize is announced for the best book plate for Shevlin Hall at Minnesota.

The Greater University Committee at Iowa has arranged for a joint meeting of the various county clubs, to consider projects for extending the influence of the University over the state.

The DePauw Daily has lately been sore pressed for funds. A stirring appeal was made at chapel for support, in responses to which seventy subscriptions appeared on the books.

The property of the Indiana Co-op is soon to be transferred to the University. It has failed to pay expenses.

It is reported that President Northrop of Minnesota has offered his resignation to take effect next June. He has been president there for twenty-five years.

The alumni of Williams will soon bring out the first number of the "Alumni Review," a new bi-monthly publication.

A skating rink is to be built at Cambridge, having a surface of 25,000 square feet. It will be twice as large as the St. Nicholas rink in New York City.

Yale has 47 men eligible to wear their "Y". At Harvard there are 71 men who have earned their "H".

Coach Jones of Syracuse has been offered a position at Yale for next year, but has declined it. It is reported at Yale that he will coach the Navy.

At the annual B. A. A. meet in Boston to be held Feb. 6, it has been decided that Amherst will again run a relay race against Brown University. This will be the fourth successive year that Amherst has been pitted against Brown at these games. Two years in succession the team from Providence was victorious but last year at the end of one of the fastest and closest races of the evening, Shattuck crossed the line first by a narrow margin.

Baseball practice has started at Wisconsin. Nine "W" men are out for work. Captain Knight, Barlow, Ex-Captain Muckelstone, Bailey, and Culver are the regulars holding over from last year.

Nebraska may fit up an athletic field next year. $20,000 are needed to buy the site and another $20,000 to fit it up, but the promoters are confident.

Cornell has arranged the baseball schedule for next spring. There are twenty-two games on the list, including one with Michigan at Ithaca on May 26. Nineteen "C's" were awarded to football men. One of these went to the captain of the scrubs. He has never made the team, but is said not to have missed a practice in four years.

Cornell, Pennsylvania, and Brown will hold a Chess Tournament during the closing days of this month.

Columbia defeated Princeton in basketball on the evening of January 6, by the score of 52-10.

Through a recent purchase Amherst has secured a fine golf course.

Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard University, has been suggested as the next ambassador to England by the Washington Post in a recent editorial.

In the annual gun shoot between Harvard and Princeton, Harvard won by the score of 208 to 179.

Boston College has decided to hold an indoor track and field meet this winter open to all amateur athletes. Until several years ago its meets were classed with those of the B. A. A.; they were discontinued, however, on account of financial losses. It has been practically decided to renew these meets and this year the meet will be held in either Mechanics Hall of the Park Square Coliseum.

Princeton defeated Columbia in hockey January 6, at the St. Nicholas, New York, by the score of 4 to 2.

The Co-operative Dining Club at Missouri feeds its members at $1.50 a week. It has 430 members, buys supplies by the car load, and has an income of $30,000 yearly.

Fifteen hundred acres of land have been donated to Michigan for use as a summer camp for the engineering students. The tract is estimated to be worth $25,000.

The Harvard Corporation has accepted the resignation of Prof. John Williams White, Ph.D., Litt.D., LL.D., to take effect September 1, 1909. Professor White has been connected with Harvard since 1874, and has been professor of Greek since 1884. The corporation has also accepted the resignation of Prof. Clifford H. Toy, who holds the chair of Hebrew. Prof. Toy has been on the Harvard Faculty since 1880.

The Student Council of Harvard University is making arrangements to canvass the university for subscriptions to help the sufferers in Italy. Already quite a large sum of money has been donated.

Communication

The Editors of The Phillipian —

The past few days have shown very clearly that something should be done in regard to the walks which surround the Academy buildings. The weather has been of such a nature as to render it well nigh impossible to use the paths where plank walks have not been placed. It is not alone the condition of the paths which necessitate steps being taken but the damage that is being done to the grass plots by fellows using them instead of the walks, calls for immediate attention. It seems probable that the students would keep off the grass if wooden walks were provided on all the paths as they are on those leading to the Academy building. The grass near Phillips and Bartlet Halls is in an extremely bad condition and although fellows have been in the habit of cutting across this lot all fall it is doubtful if this would continue if a suitable walk were provided.

Another condition which should be remedied at once is the lack of sand on the sidewalks and paths when they are covered with ice. Probably the worst place in this regard is from Phillips Hall to the Chapel, where there is rather a steep grade and where it is always very slippery after a snow storm. The stone steps on the school buildings are particularly dangerous when covered with ice, as they were Tuesday, and it seems that it would be a comparatively simple undertaking to place them in a safe condition.

Basketball Game

The Andover basketball team will play its first game of the season this afternoon at 3.30. The game is with the Rindge Manual Training School team of Cambridge, which has suffered but one defeat so far this season. Several members of the Andover squad have conditions and so will be unable to play. The three members of last year's team who are on the squad will play however.

The line-up:

Forum

The regular meeting of Forum will be held on Friday evening in the Archaeology Building at 7.15. The question for debate is, "Resolved, That the tariff on steel shall be reduced." The leader of the affirmative will be J. Fletcher, with Mann as assistant. Colver will lead the negative, with Pratt as assistant. Swartout will present the Topics of the Week, and a select reading will be given by Schofield. As several members did not return this term, it will be necessary to elect two new officers. For this reason, a full attendance is desired.

Honor List

The honor list for the fall term is published below and shows an increase of eight names over the list of last year's fall term. The list is made up of two grades; those men in the first grade having received an average not lower than 82 with half the hours not less than 90, while those of the second grade received an average of 86 with nothing lower than 72.

Basketball Tickets

All men who have failed to secure their season basketball tickets, may get them by presenting receipts to Dougherty this afternoon between 3 and 3.30 at Dr. Page's office.

Inquiry Notice

There is an urgent need for a number of men to help in the work which the Society of Inquiry is trying to do in Lawrence. This work is of two kinds: first, supervising gymnasium work and games at the Lawrence Boys' Club; and, secondly, teaching English classes among foreigners. The gymnasium work is among fairly young boys—between eight and fifteen; the English classes are composed for the most part of hard working Italians and Syrians who are trying hard to get an education at the same time that they are supporting themselves and their families. All the work that the fellows do is under excellent management, so no one need feel that his efforts will be misapplied on first going into this active Christian work. It is not the purpose of the Society to start this year the work of social service on any very large scale; but its aim is to start the little that it can on a very firm foundation and in such a way that it can grow in usefulness from year to year. All fellows who are really interested in seeing an earnest work of this kind take deep root in Phillips Academy are asked to see F. B. Thwing, Andover 4, or W. L. White, Bartlet 5, if possible, before the end of the week.

In explanation it may be said that no fellow will be asked to give up more than one evening a week; and also that two fellows go together, both for the English classes and the gymnasium work. If anyone is in doubt as to the real need for his services or his own capability for the work, he is at least asked to hand in his name and go over to Lawrence some evening to the Boys' Club, and see and try for himself.

Inquiry

The regular Sunday night meeting of Inquiry was held last Sunday at seven o'clock. The speaker of the evening was the Rev. William B. Stelle from Pekin.

The Rev. W. B. Stelle first described the country of China and spoke of its size as compared with the United States, and also spoke of the undeveloped natural resources which abound in the country, saying that there was enough coal to supply the world for several thousand years and that the coal bearing provinces of China were larger than the entire New England states. Iron also abounds in close proximity. Then he told about some of the customs of the people and vividly described the life of some of those who are brought up living on the house boats on the rivers. He told how soldiers from the different Christian Nations aided greatly in bettering the terrible condition of filth and poverty which were prevalent among the poorer classes in China.

The great wall of China was next taken up and described with great interest.

He told of some of the conditions during the Boer troubles, and especially how temples and houses were ruthlessly torn down in a spirit of plunder. He also told concerning the murder of the German Ambassador. He next described the great temple of China called The Temple of Heaven, and the manner in which the worship is carried on.

Lecture by Dr. Peabody

Because of the bad weather, many were prevented from attending the informal lecture in the Archaeology Building last night, given by Dr. Charles Peabody.

The lecture dealt with the prehistoric stone ages and showed plainly how many of the various theories have arisen concerning the cause of the various ruins.

Dr. Peabody divided this prehistoric time into three periods, the stone age, the polished stone, and the bronze age. He showed the progress of man through these ages in making weapons and other implements and the methods he used in shaping stone and bronze into useful articles. The likeness between the various relics, found in entirely different parts of the world, was especially noticeable. He expanded the two old theories, one of religion and the other of monument over graves, in regard to the thousands of unexplained stone ruins which cover Europe and Asia. Numerous slides illustrating arms, utensils, and pottery, and old ruins of the Druids added to the interest of the lecture.

Second Abbot Recital

At this concert which will be given January 21, the members of the wood wind choir of the Boston Symphony orchestra will be heard in a program of real and unique interest. Every number on the program was written for the wood wind instruments and the opportunity of hearing them in the hands of these remarkable artists is indeed a privilege. Mr. Longy has prepared a history of the instruments from which the following descriptions have been taken. The flute, oboe, and bassoon are taken, being among the oldest instruments in the orchestra in point of antiquity.

THE FLUTE

The flute is distinguished for the sweetness and peculiar suavity of its notes, and no one can have failed to be impressed by the incomparable fluency characteristic of this instrument. Trills, arpeggios, grace notes, diatonic and chromatic scales, phrases legato or staccato, are alike within the province of the flute-player, who, moreover, is enabled to perform the most expressive singing or warbling passages.

The history of the flute may be divided into four very distinct periods. The first was when, in very ancient times or among primitive nations, the so-called "pipes of Pan" were in common use. These were made of reeds of unequal length.

The second saw the invention of the antique flute, consisting of a sin-bone of some animal. The tibia of a gle tube, made of a reed or of the doe or an ass was preferably chosen. Hence the name often applied to the ancient flute,—"tibia," or pipe.

To the third period is assigned the flute with a lip, common in the Middle Ages. It was used after the manner of the oboe, and had various forms: "the flageolet," or small flute; the "sweet flute," or upper flute; the reed, or tenor flute; "the laridon," or bass flute.

The fourth period is that of the German flute, or flute traversière, which, although as old as the lipped flute, has been used in orchestras only since the beginning of the eighteenth century. During the last one hundred and fifty years it has entirely superseded the lipped flute. In 1690 the first key was added to the flute traversière, and for a century and a half it underwent no further improvement. In 1831 Theobald Boehm invented the so-called "cylinder" flute, which is also called by his name, and which has brought about such a complete revolution in the use of the instrument. By reason of the improvements which he made, the flute leaves nothing to be desired from the standpoint of accuracy and sonority.

THE OBOE

The character of the oboe, or hautboy, is essentially pastoral. Although it has not such extraordinary volubility as the flute, it is, nevertheless, capable of attacking certain difficulties. Its touching and melancholy accents are highly valued by composers when they wish to impart instrumental coloring to their works. As it may be by turn naive, gay, or sad, Berlioz considered it as the "jeune fille," the maiden of the orchestra.

Mozart and Beethoven did not hesitate to give it the first place in a number of their compositions for wind instruments.

The revolution brought about by Boehm in the flute found its counterpart in the oboe in 1850. Since then still further efforts to perfect the instrument have been crowned with success. By the peculiar warmth of its tones and the beautiful quality of its timbre, the oboe has become, of all the wood-wind, the instrument most nearly approaching the violin.
