SOCCER TEAM IN TIE GAME

Andover Plays Interesting Game with Local Organization

The Andover soccer team played a tie game with the Thistles last Saturday afternoon, the score being 1 to 1. Owing to a very cold wind that swept the field, the playing was of a rather sluggish character, neither side showing any exceptional work. The Thistles' forwards were good in carrying the ball down the field, but their poor shooting and the strong defense put up by Andover prevented them from scoring until late in the second half. The Academy forwards were quicker on their feet, but only succeeded in scoring once, owing to their inferior team-work. Cairnie, Anderson, and Lowe were the Thistles' best line men, and Black was good on the defense. Kwan, Hardy and Ogden were Andover's best players on the offensive, and Dickey, Wells and Bushnell played a good defensive game.

The game started at 3.15, the Thistles rushing the ball into Andover's territory, only to lose it. Several times they came within striking distance of Andover's goal. Throughout the half the ball was rushed back and forth, neither team showing any superiority. Toward the end of the half, the ball was rushed into the Thistles' territory, where Ogden kicked a pretty goal. This was the only score of the half. Score, Andover 1, Thistles 0.

In the second half Andover was kept more on the defensive. The Thistles after some good passing carried the ball into their opponents' territory and Skea kicked a goal. No more goals were made after this, although Andover several times menaced her opponents' goal. Time was called with the ball near the center of the field. Final score, Andover 1, Thistles 1.

The summary:

PHILO-FORUM SUBJECT

The subject for the annual Philo-Forum debate has just been announced. The question reads: "Resolved, That the Proposed Income Tax Amendment to the Federal Constitution Should Be Adopted." The Philo-Forum debate ranks next in importance to the Andover-Exeter debate. As this is the only inter-society contest, great interest is always taken in it by those interested in debating. The trials for the rival teams will be held early next term.

Discussion Groups

The only discussion classes to meet during the remainder of the term are:

Mr. Stearns' class on "The Life of Christ," tonight at seven o'clock at Mr. Stearns' house.

Mr. Hinman's class on "Great Men of History," Sunday after chapel at Abbot House.

Mr. Stackpole's class on "Future Occupations," Thursday evening, at seven o'clock, at Mr. Stackpole's house.

All the other groups, owing to the stress of the examination period, have been discontinued until after Christmas.

Hockey Prospects

Although the winter has hardly begun, the hockey team has had very promising preliminary practice. With Capt. Martin, Palmer, and Rogers of last year's team a strong squad of forwards is assured, while with Paine and Reynolds, an efficient defense seems altogether likely. The new candidates are very promising indeed. If the players can keep up their scholarship, an exceptionally fine team will undoubtedly be developed.

Pot Pourri

All Seniors and non-returning Middlers living in the vicinity of Boston should make it a point to go into Chickering's during the Christmas vacation and have their pictures taken for the Pot Pourri. Chickering makes a special rate for Andover men, and his work is of a very satisfactory nature. By attending to this matter of pictures promptly, all the fellows in the class will help the Pot Pourri management greatly.

More men are urged to come out for the position of artist on the Pot Pourri board. The success of the book depends largely upon the drawings in it, and as large a number of artists as possible should be working for the board.

Inquiry

The regular meeting of the Society of Inquiry held last Sunday evening was an open one, led by L. S. Phillips. The topic chosen was "Influence," and Phillips showed how a person can feel the effect of his own influence, even though it may be exerted to influence others. In closing he emphasized the fact that influence, no matter how insignificant it may appear, always has its effect, and that every person, however unimportant he may consider himself, has his share of influence upon his associates.

Tompkins supplemented this with a few words concerning the influence which little things exert, and Nute backed him up with a few incidents from personal experience. Timbie then gave a short talk, and Gemmer spoke of the general attitude of the fellows toward outsiders.

Gifford next spoke of the strengthening influence which one energetic man can exert at critical moments on his companions, and illustrated his point with an incident from personal experience.

Ninomiyu then gave a very interesting talk, assuming the standpoint of a foreigner. Taking the War of the Revolution as a struggle for freedom, and the Civil War as a struggle for equality, he showed how the spirit of Christian brotherhood in the United States has arisen and increased, until it has been recognized by the whole world.

First Game Dropped

The football schedule next year will differ somewhat from the schedules used in the past. The first game, with the Yale Freshmen, will be dropped, and a game with the Dartmouth Freshmen will take its place. The other Yale Freshmen game will alternate between here and New Haven, and next year it will be played at New Haven, as the Exeter game comes at Andover.

NOTICE COLUMN

Philo Notice

All the members of Philo who are going out for the Philo debating team are asked to meet at Mr. Hinman's at 1.45 today. As many men as possible are urged to be present, including the men who have not definitely decided to try for the team.

The Forum trials will be on the same subject as the Philo-Forum debate. Candidates may take either side they choose, and will be given five minutes in which to set forth their arguments. All those interested to try for the teams should see the president of their society to secure books of reference.

Basketball Notice

On account of the coming examinations there will be no basketball practice this afternoon. Capt. Swihart wants to caution the men to train during the vacation, as the games commence early in the winter term.

Vacation Notice

School will close on Monday at noon, the last recitation being omitted on that day. The winter term begins with the chapel exercise on Thursday, January 6, at 9.45 a. m. All students are required to report at this exercise.

During the vacation the school dormitories will be closed, and students rooming in these buildings who plan to stay in Andover during any part of the holidays, must secure temporary accommodations elsewhere.

Hockey Notice

There will be hockey practice either on Rabbits Pond or in the gymnasium next Saturday afternoon. It is imperative that all the candidates report, as a cut will be made in the squad shortly after the holidays.

Manager's Call

Thus far, very few men have handed in their names as candidates for the assistant managership of basketball. All names of candidates should be handed in before eight o'clock Friday night, to C. W. Arnold, Bancroft 6.

Owing to an unavoidable delay in the printing, the School Calendar will not be distributed this afternoon, as previously stated. It

Class Room Decoration

The school has recently become the possessor of a number of excellent pictures which are at present in Mr. Keep's German room in the Academy building.

There are in particular two large decorative panels, one showing the Wartburg, the scene of the opera "Tannhauser," and the other the famous Nuremburg Castle. Both of these are surrounded with pictures representing the legends of the place, and form a very beautiful decoration.

In addition, there are a number of photographs of different castles and cathedrals, while others depict typical scenes in Germany.

There are several pictures of noted literary men among whom is the famous writer Schiller, and also pictures of men figuring prominently in history, among whom are Frederick the Great, Martin Luther, and the present Kaiser.

Soccer Discontinued

After last Saturday's game with the Thistles, Soccer has been discontinued for this fall. The son has been remarkably successful. Soccer will probably be continued toward the end of the winter term, and it is to be hoped that the season will end as successfully as it has begun.

Oragn Repaired

A new electric fan motor has recently been installed for the Eggleston memorial organ. The one first installed was, after some use, found to be defective.

CommunicationTo the Editors of the Phillipian:*

The school is indeed glad to hear that plans are now under consideration for a new dormitory. The average school dormitory is far more comfortable than the average private house, and the cost of living in one is considerably less.

The smoking question is an important one, and is probably the only objection which fellows have to living in the school buildings. To my mind, the present regulations are far from satisfactory. It would be very unfair to prohibit smoking in a school where many students are over nineteen years old. On the other hand, it is very unfortunate that so many very young fellows should be allowed to smoke.

The older men in the school are bound to smoke. They smoked before they entered Andover, and cannot be induced to give up the habit. Would it not be better to allow them to smoke in their rooms than to say, "You may smoke, but only in some private place that is not in the school property?" It is too bad, however, that so many young fellows take up the habit. They are encouraged by the older men either directly or indirectly. Just as soon as the feeling in the student body discourages the young men from smoking, the school will be far better off than it is under the rules of today.

This is a question which the authorities will have to face more and more as the school takes care of more men in its own buildings. The Student Council should take this smoking matter up. Nothing ought to be done hastily, or in a dictatorial manner, but a sensible and reasonable plan for dealing with the situation would do great good. In making plans, these points should be kept in mind: in any case, the older men will smoke somewhere; the younger men—those who are really too young to smoke—are smoking now; it will be very hard for the faculty to keep these younger men from smoking as long as the fellows think it "smart." In short, the younger men can only be restricted by having the older men as a whole frown on their smoking.

I am venturing a suggestion which, although crude, might be worked out on a practical basis. One common room in each dormitory entry could be fitted up into a lounging room, as has been done in the case of the Churchill Memorial room in Phillips Hall. The entry would each year subscribe enough money to provide periodicals and newspapers, and would not use this room during study hours. Men of, say, eighteen years or over, would be allowed to smoke in this room, and those under eighteen would be put on their honor not to smoke. I sincerely believe that these younger men could be trusted to keep their word in this matter; the younger men at Lawrenceville, Hotchkiss, and other schools can give their word not to smoke and keep it—surely Andover men could and would.

In this common room in each entry, the men could get together Saturday nights and foster house spirit and enjoy themselves in a splendid way. I lay stress on the reading and social room part of this proposition because I think that any place where the attraction is only the permission to smoke is bad.

Smoking and studying do not go together. The men should not be allowed to smoke while studying. The fact that all the great business houses of the country do not allow their clerks to smoke during office hours shows that they have found out by experience that smoking is not conducive to hard and concentrated work.

The present arrangement is not at all satisfactory. I repeat that nothing ought to be done until a first class, practical plan can be drawn up. I sincerely hope to hear that the Student Council is in favor of attempting to draw up a plan in regard to the smoking problem, which will at the same time satisfy the trustees, faculty, and students.

Harvard Captain Elected

Lothrop Withington, Jr., was unanimously elected captain of the Harvard football team for the coming season. Corbett, the half-back, was the only other man nominated, and Withington's election was made unanimous on the second ballot. The captain elected comes from Honolulu. While this has been his first year of varsity football, he rowed on his Freshman crew and was No. 5 in the winning varsity eight last year.

A CHASE TIE

Perhaps the house made its first and for a long time its most distinctive reputation on its neckwear. While other articles have become more and more firmly identified with the name—Chase hats, Chase shirts, and so on—the success with ties, in quality, distinction, uniqueness, form and workmanship, has continued to strengthen the reputation first acquired.

Perhaps we can supply you with samples. Our mail service proves very satisfactory to many.

Historic Andover

The Principal's house used to be known as the "Samaritan House." It was built in 1824 by the Samaritan Society, an organization of the ladies of the hill, to aid sick students. The house was originally intended for an infirmary. From 1833 to 1837 it was occupied by Principal Osgood Johnson and afterwards by his widow. Professor Calvin E. Stowe and his wife, Harriet Beecher Stowe, lived here in 1852-3. Mrs. Stowe had written "Uncle Tom's Cabin" long before this time. This Samaritan House was long the residence of Dr. Bancroft, Mr. Stearns' predecessor as Principal.

The stone part of the Phillips Inn was built in 1828 as a carpenter shop for the use of the Theological students, in order to afford them a place for physical exercise. Coffins were a favorite object of manufacture. From 1853 to 1864 this house was occupied by Professor and Mrs. Stowe, and here Mrs. Stowe wrote several of her later works, among them "Old Town Folks."

Prof. Graves' house used to be known as the Adams House. It was built in 1805 and was first occupied by Dr. Eliphalet Pearson, who had been the first Principal.

Miss Dorah Berry's house on Salem Street, next to Miss Clough's, was the Blunt Tavern during the time of the Revolution. The great elm tree in the yard was set out in about 1790. Miss Clough's house formerly stood on the Seminary grounds east of the library.

Mr. Sawyer's house was built in about 1809 by Mark Newman, another Principal of the school. Here Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes had his room in 1824-25. The Stuart House, now occupied by Mr. Keep, was built in 1810, for the famous Professor Moses Stuart of the Theological Seminary, one of the greatest scholars of his time. Professor J. H. Thayer, later of Harvard University, now President of Amherst, lived in this house. Brick House was built in 1832, for a printing and publishing establishment. Thousands of text-books, commentaries, and other important works were published here. Between Brick House and the Churchill House stood the stately mansion of Judge Phillips, built in 1782 and destroyed by fire in 1887. Washington, Lafayette, Jackson and Webster all visited in this house. During the greater part of the last century it was used as an inn. The old stone posts which stood in front of it are still to be seen.

Pease House was built in 1816, and was first occupied by Dr. Leonard Woods, the first Professor of Theology in the Seminary. Mrs. Pease, the widow of one of the Seminary professors, resided here for several years. Churchill House formerly stood where the Archaeology Building now stands, and was the residence for a number of years of Professor John Wesley Churchill, professor of elocution in the Seminary and in the Academy. Professor Churchill was greatly beloved by the students of both institutions, and in his memory the Churchill Memorial Room in Phillips Hall was established. Professor Churchill died in 1900.

Phelps House, now the residence of Mr. Stackpole, was built in 1809 and up to 1908 had always been occupied by professors in the Theological Seminary. Professor Austin Phelps and his famous daughter, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, lived here for many years, and after that Professor George T. Moore, now of Harvard University, lived there. This house is the finest example upon the hill of the architecture of one hundred years ago. The small garden house was used by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps as a study.

Farrar House was built about a hundred years ago, and formerly stood upon the present site of the Archaeology Building. Samuel Farrar, the famous Treasurer, lived here for nearly forty years. Madam Phillips died in this house in 1813. In 1881 the house was removed to its present location. Abbot House was built in 1829 as a residence for two families. The famous principal, "Uncle Sam" Taylor, lived in one part of this house from 1837 to 1871.

Gymnasium Work

On the Friday following the close of the Christmas vacation, Dr. Page will be at his office from two to four in the afternoon, in order to meet any men who wish to change their gymnasium classes on account of conflicts with their schedule of studies. He will at the same time transfer men who wish to go out for the varsity teams or who wish to take up boxing, fencing, or wrestling, provided these men have passed all their gymnasium tests in the "A" division. All the regular gymnasium classes will begin on the Monday following the end of the vacation, and every man must report at the first exercise dressed in the regulation uniform, or receive a cut.

Specimens Wanted

Many of the students attending Phillips Academy come from re-
Indians or prehistoric peoples abound. In certain regions West, South, and in New England,
there are, in the hands of private collectors and others, stone pipes, axes, knives, spear points and other relics. Mr. Moorehead requests the fellows to try to procure some of these specimens for the museum. It will be very little trouble for some of the fellows to ascertain where there are such relics and procure them and bring the specimens back to Andover. In case anyone is able to secure mortars, or large axes, or other heavy objects, the Department will pay the express charges on all stone relics from a distance.

Communication

To the Editor of the Phillipian:—

Instead of the stag masked ball which the Senior class is thinking about giving next term, I would like to suggest that they give an ice carnival. This carnival could be held on Pomp's pond, and perhaps some outsiders might be induced to attend. Should this prove to be practicable, the fellows could be asked to pay a small amount each to cover the expenses of the carnival and leave a balance to be devoted to the Swimming Pool Fund. I am pretty sure this would prove more acceptable to the fellows than a stag dance, which would probably develop into a rough house.

A SUGGESTION*College Notes

Oxford had matters all her own way in the annual university rugby match at Queen's Club Saturday, defeating Cambridge by 4 goals and 5 tries to 1 try. Donald Grant Herring of Bloomsburg, Pa., a Rhodes scholarship from Princeton University, representing New Jersey, was among the Oxford forwards. His presence attracted attention, as it was the first time that an American had played in a 'varsity match.

Football Debarred in New York

Football in all the public schools of New York City has been abolished by a recent decree of the New York Board of Education. This resolution of the Board will go into effect on January 1, 1910. The resolution was passed upon the recommendation of the committee on high schools, owing to injuries sustained by high school players in Greater New York during the season just past. James E. Sullivan, ex-president of the Amateur Athletic Union and also a member of the Board of Education, protested vigorously against the action, and spoke at length in support of the game, but it is not likely that the Board's decision will be revoked on that account.

Following the death from football injuries, of a high school player, the West Orange, N. J., Board of Education has also issued an order barring the game from the schools of that city.

Ships that Pass in the Night

Wallace E. Tillinghast claims to have sailed 434 miles in a monoplane of his own invention. In a sparsely settled region ten miles from a railroad station, in the neighborhood of Worcester, the inventor constructed his machine with the aid of two mechanics without the knowledge of the natives, his trials all being made at night.

On the night of September 8, Tillinghast and his two mechanics sailed to New York, rounded the Statue of Liberty, returning through Boston and back to Worcester. The motors were not running as well as was desired when over Fire Island, so it was stopped and the inventor circled around while his companions tuned up the engine. A speed of 120 miles per hour is claimed by the inventor.

The story does not appear to be altogether without foundation, for the life saver on duty at Fire Island that night did hear a noise similar to that of a motor off to seaward which he claims could have been caused by nothing but an aeroplane.

FINE IMPOSED

The American Ice Co., one of the strongest corporations which lives by dealing in the necessities of life, incorporated for $40,000,000, was found guilty last week by the Supreme Court of New York of restricting competition and attempting to create a monopoly of the sale of ice. The conviction is the first under the Donnelly Anti-monopoly Law, and although the fine is only $5000, the verdict is significant. The case will probably be brought to the highest court in the state.
