PHILLIPS ACADEMY, ANDOVER, MASS., SATURDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1911

PRICE 5 CENTS

$1000 GIFT

Mr. William Wrigley of Chicago
Makes Generous Contribution

Mr. William Wrigley, Jr., of Chicago, whose son is in school, recently sent a check for $1000 to go towards the Swimming Pool Fund. A few days ago he visited the school, and became deeply interested in the new pool. This generous gift is the second donation of $1000 to be given to the pool. Just a year ago at this time, Mr. F. G. Crane of Dalton, Mass., an alumnus of the Academy, gave a conditional gift of $1000. It was this gift which gave the great impetus to the thirty days' campaign for the $25,000 last January.

The standing of the Swimming Pool Committee among the new men is as follows:

Team I, Stokes, captain,	$ 344
Team II, Malcom, captain,	145
Team III, Coleman, captain,	1406
Team IV, Kellogg, captain,	162
Team V, Armour, captain,	173

Each student who gives $20 or more is issued a ticket for the pool as long as he is in school.

This check of Mr. Wrigley's is what put Team III so far in the lead. Now it is up to the rest of the teams to get busy during the vacation and even up the score.

There will be a meeting of the committee at the Archaeology Building at 6.45 o'clock on the Friday of the week school opens. Every new man should make a sincere effort to get some contributions from his friends and family when at home during the holidays.

Important Notice

All men intending to try for editorial positions on the Phillipian next term are asked to see W. H. Smith, 24 Bartlet Hall.

Mirror

The December Mirror, attractive in a new cover, will be distributed next Tuesday. It contains some interesting reading matter, and is especially strong in its fiction. The frontispiece is a picture of this year's football team.

A short and simple tribute to the memory of Mr. Charles C. Clough appears. G. W. Washburn, '12, has a short essay on "Booker T. Washington; His Ideals for the Negro." The one poem of the issue is by R. F. Chutter, '12, and is entitled "The Old Man of the Mountain."

The conclusion of H. R. Kaufmann's story, "The Forest Ranger," presents some interesting developments and a clever denoue-

LECTURE

Interesting Talk by Professor Morse
on Thursday Evening

Thursday evening, Professor C. S. Morse gave an entertaining lecture on "Mars and Its Mystery" in the lecture hall of the Archaeology Building. Professor Morse commenced his remarks by saying that, as he was not an astronomer, some of his hearers might wonder why he should speak to them about Mars. He said that if one wished to ascertain the exact distance between Mars and the sun, he would go to an astronomer, but if he wished to know the physical features of that interesting planet and how they compared with the natural geography of our planet, he should go to one who knew the physical appearance of the earth. Therefore he considered himself qualified to talk on the subject. He said the great reason for supposing Mars, as well as other planets, to be inhabited was that, when one considers the minuteness of the earth when compared to our own solar system, and then considers that our universe is only one of many, it is certainly illogical to conclude that all these vast bodies were created for the amusement of a few little beings on this one small planet, the earth. The professor then read extracts from the writings of such eminent astronomers as Newcombe, Lowell, and Scaperelli, all of which admitted the probability that life exists on Mars. Scaperelli, the Italian astronomer, was the first to note the lines on Mars and designate them by the name "canals." He at first supposed them to be natural, but when he noticed their singular aspect, their exact straightness, and their convergence at common centers, he decided that they were artificial.

Professor Morse said that he, himself, had seen a large expanse of white slowly cover a part of Mars and then, in a few days, disappear. He decided that this was a snowstorm. From this he concluded that there must be water on Mars and, therefore, all vegetable life. This is established by the fact that there are expanses of green particularly at the points of convergence of the canals which seem necessarily, to be forests. If there is vegetable life there is no reason why there should not be animal life, which may or may not be as highly developed as human beings. The professor said that there are indeed more reasons why there should be no life on the earth than that there should be no life on Mars. The principle reason why there should

Philo Debating Questions

The following list comprises the questions that will be debated at the meetings of Philo during the coming winter term. All members are urged to cut it out, and to save all material they may find in the newspapers and magazines relating to any of the following questions.

1. "Resolved, that all state judges should be subject to the recall."

2. "Resolved, that United States senators should be elected by direct vote of the people."

3. "Resolved, that the right of suffrage should be extended to women."

4. "Resolved, that the best interests of Philo demand that its membership be limited to twenty-five."

5. "Resolved, that the United States government should put further restrictions on further immigration."

6. "Resolved, that all applicants for admission to Philo should be required to speak at least twice before the society."

7. "Resolved, that a non-playing manager of an athletic team in Phillips Academy should not be awarded his letter."

8. "Resolved, that capital punishment should be abolished in the United States."

9. "Resolved, that no one should be admitted to the Senior class of Phillips Academy who has not been a member of the school for at least one year."

10. "Resolved, that the street railways of our large cities should be put under municipal ownership."

11. Resolved, that the work of the managing editor of a school publication in Phillips Academy should count as equivalent to two hours of regular curriculum work."

12. "Resolved, that co-education in colleges is desirable.

Walter Camp's Choice

Yale and Princeton have each secured three places on Walter Camp's All-American football team for 1911. Harvard has two places, the Army one, Annapolis one, and Carlisle one place.

The lineup is as follows:

Ends—White, Princeton, Bo-meisler, Yale; tackles—Hart, Princeton, and Devore, Army; guards—Duff, Princeton, Fisher, Harvard; center—Ketcham, Yale; quarterback—Howe, Yale; halfbacks, Wendell, Harvard, and Thorpe, Carlisle; fullback—Dalton, Navy.

Mr. Camp's second team contains three Yale men and one each from eight other universities. The lineup follows: Ends—Smith, Harvard, and Very, Pennsylvania State College; tackles—Munk, Cornell, and Scully, Yale; guards—Scrubby, University of Chicago, and McDevitt, Yale; center—Blumenthal, Princeton; quarterback—Sprackling, Brown; halfback—Morey, Dartmouth, and Camp, Yale; fullback—Rosenwald, Minnesota.

Two of the above named fellows are old Andover men. Fisher on the first All-American team was at Andover in 1907. McDevitt of Yale on the All-American second team is also an Andover man.

HOCKEY SCHEDULE

Manager Bell has arranged an excellent hockey schedule for this season. There are eleven games in all; among them are games with Yale, Harvard and Dartmouth Freshmen. There is still one open date, and endeavors are being made to obtain a game with St. Paul's School, Concord, whose teams are well known throughout the Eastern states. All but four of the games are to be played at Andover. This will give the school a good opportunity to support the team.

The schedule is:

- Jan. 13. Stone School.
- Jan. 17. Lowell Textile School.
- Jan. 20. Rindge Technical School
- Jan. 24. Somerville H. S.
- Jan. 27. Milton Academy (at Milton).
- Jan. 31. Open.
- Feb. 3. Yale Freshmen.
- Feb. 7. Harvard Freshmen (at Stadium).
- Feb. 10. Inter-Colonial Club (2d)
- Feb. 14. Dartmouth Freshmen.
- Feb. 17. Worcester Academy.
- Feb. 21. St. Mark's (at South-boro).

College Football Captains

The following have been elected to captain their college football teams next year:

- Yale—J. Spalding.
- Dartmouth—R. Bennett.
- Princeton—T. T. Pendleton.
- Carlisle—"Jim" Thorpe.
- Brown—R. H. Ashbaugh.
- Cornell—C. H. Butler.
- Pennsylvania—LeR. Mercer.
- Williams—S. S. Michaels.
- Amherst—J. B. Connelly.

Archaeology Notes

The Curator recently sent Mr. Charles A. Perkins of Wakefield on a collecting trip to Cape Cod. Mr. Perkins followed the shore of the ocean for forty or fifty miles and made a collection of something like two hundred specimens of prehistoric Indian art.

Mr. Perkins also visited the ponds about Bryantville and Hanson, Mass., and was able there to obtain about three hundred more specimens for the Department collection.

The Bulletin on the various fortifications lying about Andover is now in press and will be out early in January.

While canoeing up the Shawshen recently, Professor Benner discovered another of these old forts. This will be surveyed and included in the Bulletin along with descriptions of the works previously found.

Organ Recital

Mr. Ashton gave his usual organ recital in the chapel Wednesday afternoon. The program, which was chiefly made up of Christmas music, was as follows:

- First Movement of Pastoral
- Sonata Rheinberger
- Christmas Sketch Malling
- Noël Guilmant
- Magnificat Lemmens
- March of the Magi Dubois
- Song of Simeon Malling
- Hallelujah Chorus (Messiah) Handel

Mr. Stearns to Speak

Following out his usual custom of speaking on the last Sunday before the end of the term, Mr. Stearns will speak at vespers tomorrow afternoon.

Philo Trials

Trials for the Philo debating team will be held this evening at 7 o'clock in Room 3, Science Building. Each competitor will speak for five minutes on some phase of the question for the Philo-Forum debate, "Resolved, that conditions require that the juries of our courts should be replaced by permanent boards of judges." Six men will be chosen.

be no life on Mars is on account of the rarified atmosphere, but we know that people who live in the mountains, even those who have lived there but one generation, have large lungs. There is no reason why the Martians after centuries of selection should not have abnormally developed lungs. On the other hand a person living on Mars would suppose that as we were so near the sun the attraction of gravity would be more than we could bear, and a raindrop would knock a man down.

Professor Morse ridiculed the attempts of certain astronomers to disprove the theory that there are canals on Mars. One of these, Mr. Joubert, said that if there were such markings it was probably due to meteors which had been attracted to Mars and in turn had, by their own attraction, pulled up the surface of Mars in such a way as to form the lines seen. Professor Morse said that he could see no reason why meteors should not in a similar way pull up the earth's surface if this were true. Another astronomer said that if the lines were canals, it would have taken 409,000,000 people to dig them. Professor Morse said that he could imagine no reason for the extra nine million except that it made the statement appear so accurate that it could not be disproven. Another astronomer hinted that the lines might be cracks in the surface of the planet. Professor Morse said that he spent some time studying all kinds of natural cracks, and every one was crooked and lacked uniformity while lines made by humans, such as railways, streets, etc., were always straight, uniform and converging at common centers just as the Martian canals are. As Mars must lack water to a certain extent, it is probable that the canals were dug from the snow region of the poles to the centers of life in order to bring water to the people. Along the sides of these canals vegetation flourishes, thus forming the lines that we see. This is exactly similar to the aspect of the partially irrigated land in the west, where straight lines of green are bordered by the arid desert.

Professor Morse said that in order to see these canals one must have exceptionally good eyes. He, himself, for a time could not see them. Professor Lowell, with whom he was studying in Flagstaff, Arizona, has very good eyes. Professor Morse drew many diagrams of Mars to illustrate his lecture, which was full of witty remarks.

ment. "His Last Hand," by O. L. Chell, '13, is a well-written story, which holds the reader's attention throughout. "A Ship in the Night" follows. It is different from the usual type of story, and tells of the excitement of the inhabitants of a colonial New England town when they saw what they believed to be a phantom ship in their harbor. D. Perrault, '13, is what the author chooses to call himself. "The Reward," is more of a short sketch than a story, but nevertheless is well done. The editorials and exchange department take up the remainder of the issue.

Inquiry

There will be no meeting of the Society of Inquiry tomorrow evening. The meeting last Sunday evening was the last one of a very successful term. Among the speakers during the term were Dr. Tupper, the immigrant expert; Mr. Gibson of the Massachusetts Y. M. C. A.; Mr. Huntress, also interested in Y. M. C. A. work; Mr. Cooper, an authority on Students' Bible Study, and Mr. Lee, an assistant to Dr. Grenfell, the missionary to Labrador. There were also speeches by members of the faculty and undergraduates of various colleges, during the term.

Basketball Notice

Instead of choosing the class basketball squads now, without further practice, it has been decided that there will be one more practice after the Christmas vacation, before the class squads are picked. After that, ten or twelve men from each class will be selected to form the class squads. Then a series of class games will be played, similar to the class football games in the fall. At the end of these games the varsity squad will be selected. After the squad has been chosen, the class teams will play another series for their basketball numerals.

Bible Study Enrollment

The canvass of the school in connection with the Bible Study and Discussion Groups which was held last Monday evening, resulted in an enrollment of over 200 fellows. Although every dormitory and house in school was visited there are still a number of men who haven't been seen. Any of these men who wish to join a class should consult one of the Bible Study Committee. On account of the large number of men who enrolled in Mr. Stearns' group, it is very probable that some restriction will be made to reduce the number. The first classes will meet Sunday, January 7.

Swimming Meet

This evening at 7.30 there will be a dual exhibition meet in the pool, between Andover and Brookline Gymnasium Athletic Association. Our team has been picked from the men who got places in the interclass meet last week. All non-contestants will please keep out of the pool after seven o'clock. The list of events is as follows:

1. Exhibition of strokes.
2. 50 yards.
3. Blindfold.
4. 100 yards.
5. Plate Picking.
6. 200 yards.
7. Candle race.
8. Diving.
9. Life saving.
10. 50 yards back stroke.
11. Exhibition of fancy strokes.
12. Relay race.
13. Water polo.
