FRESHMEN WIN

Andover Loses to Harvard '16 in Pitchers' Battle

Andover was defeated in baseball last Wednesday by the Harvard Freshmen at Cambridge. The game was close and well-played throughout. Murphy was back on first base for the first time this season and played his usual fast game. Grant took right field and probably will hold down that position as a regular. Sharpe pitched a good game, while Butterfield and Swett who followed, were put in to keep the Crimson from securing any more runs. Only three hits were made off our pitchers.

For Harvard Cunningham pitched a steady game, fanning seven men and allowing six hits. Mahan, Andover's last year's star athlete and baseball captain, played a good game in left field. Demelson got a three-bagger, the only extra-base hit of the game. The Harvard Freshman team is composed of excellent material: Mahan, last year's Andover captain; Nash, former captain of Newton; Fripp of last year's Exeter team, and several other stars.

Lacrosse, Today

This afternoon the lacrosse team will play the Boston Lacrosse Club on the Chapel campus. Everybody on the squad will be given a chance in this game, which is to be mainly for trying out new men. The contest ought to be very good as the Boston Lacrosse Club has defeated the Harvard team.

Andover-Exeter Debate

The Andover-Exeter debate will take place in the Chapel next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Exeter won the debate in 1906, Andover in 1907, and Exeter has won for the last five years. This is a record which Andover must break; and the way to break it is for the fellows to back the team up as they would back up a football team on the day of an Andover-Exeter contest. The debaters, M. R. Smith (Leader) T. H. Anderson, E. F. Tetley, and W. Ogren, have worked as hard as any football team ever labored. They have spent from seven o'clock to ten o'clock four nights every week in preparing a debate which will equal Exeter's. But they ask still more, they want to have it better than Exeter's; they want to win. And the way to win, to put new life into the speakers and to show your appreciation for their untiring efforts, is to be at the Chapel next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

LACROSSE TEAM WINS

Yesterday afternoon, on a very wet field, the lacrosse team defeated Curtis High School of Staten Island, N. Y., by a score of 3 to 1. Although there was a good deal of rain, a large number of students turned out and gave the team excellent support.

Although the game was somewhat rough at times, the Andover team played a steady game. Waring and Lee played well for Andover, making some pretty passes and long runs. Huntress also starred for Andover, scoring one of three goals made by his side. For Curtis, Keppler, Schwarz and Brantingham played the best game. Volkhart also excelled, scoring the only point for his team.

The Curtis team is making a tour of New England, and today they play the Harvard Varsity team at Cambridge.

Faculty vs. 1915

The faculty were defeated by 1915 first team last Wednesday on Brothers Field, by a score of 14 to 3. It was an intensely interesting game throughout, and the practice before the game was greatly enjoyed by the fans. During the game the fielding of Dr. Page was of high order. He made a beautiful stop of a hard liner, but was more or less slow on the bases, being caught stealing third base when the third baseman had the ball in his hand. Mr. Thurber caught a good game, and succeeded in putting out two men by his throwing to second. Mr. Tower was conspicuous on first base, by his timely remarks to the players, while Mr. Lillard on third put up an excellent game. Mr. Bennett did not break any bats, but secured a timely single in the second. Mr. Bryan allowed only thirteen hits. Conway, who played left field for the Faculty, secured three hits.

HOTCHKISS GAME

Team Leaves for Lakeville

The Andover baseball team left on a special sleeper last night to play Hotchkiss at Lakeville, Conn. The car left Andover at 10 o'clock and connected with the Portland express at So. Lawrence. The team had breakfast at Springfield, then went to Lakeville, where the game is called at 2.30. The players will have dinner at Hotchkiss, then go to Chatham, N. Y., where another special car will be waiting to bring them back to Andover. This is the only trip, with the exception of that last Saturday to Cambridge, which the team takes this season. Last year Andover defeated Hotchkiss on the home grounds by a close score, and the game today is expected to be a close, hard fight.

The following took the trip: Mr. O'Brien, Captain Wiley, Ames, Butterfield, Chisholm, Eadie, Kinney, Earley, Grant, Knowles, Murray, Murphy, Scudder, M. Smith, Snell, Swett, K. Woolley, E. C. Russell, and Manager Hamilton.

Philo-Banquet

The annual banquet of the Philomathean society was held last night at the Phillips Inn. There were about twenty-five present and the dinner was a great success. The committee composed of E. F. Tetley, M. R. Smith, and N. Boynton, is to be commended for the way in which the entire banquet was conducted.

The dinner served was excellent and the speeches which followed were even better. President Cook acted as toastmaster, and announced M. R. Smith, the leader of the Andover Debating team, whose subject was "The Exeter Debate." Smith said that the team had been working hard and that if they won, the greater part of the credit should go to Mr. Stott, who has spent much time in coaching the team. The chances are about even with Exeter this year, and Andover hopes to break the spell and win the debate if possible. Smith had to leave early to go to Hotchkiss with the baseball nine.

The next speaker on the program was Mr. Farnsworth. He chose as his subject "College Debating." Mr. Farnsworth said that debating and literary work should be ranked higher than athletics in a school of college. Of course an athlete gets more praise than does the debater, but the debater works the harder of the two. Debating, which is held in the keenest of interest in the South and West, is something which the ordinary man cannot do without. It is an art which must be studied and must be thoroughly mastered, as soon as a man can possibly do it. Colleges offer this opportunity.

President John MacMillan of Forum was the next speaker of the evening. His topic was "Forum." Philo has helped Forum, and Forum has returned the favor. But still, said MacMillan, debating in general has degenerated in the school. This must be overcome by the two societies, each doing its utmost in getting more men interested, and in making the weekly meetings more interesting.

Mr. Hinman, an old Philo man, who has always been true to his society, chose as his topic "Philo's

TRIBUTE TO MR. STEARNS

The Class of '94 at Amherst, which is Mr. Stearns' class, gets out a paper once or twice a year, which is called the Ninety-four Bugle. In this paper, the doings of the members of '94 are related, and any important happening involving a '94 man is printed. The following is taken from the Ninety-four Bugle of May 1st.

"This paper confesses to a long-cherished hunch and ambition that history might repeat itself and place another Stearns on the throne at Amherst. But our candidate had set his plough to another furrow and would not turn back. The Bugle has it on the authority of a prominent Trustee of Amherst that when the Trustees took up the work of filling President Harris's place, the name of Alfred E. Stearns was one of those at the top of the list under consideration. Dr. Stearns heard of it, went to New York, called on the president of the Board of Trustees and said that he was not available for the position. He explained that he work to do at Andover, and that he was 'enlisted for the war' there.

"This decision causes us considerable personal disappointment, but we cannot withhold our respect for the fine craftsman's spirit that insisted on carrying through the work that had been undertaken. And we are bound to say that the work is worth carrying through. Dr. Stearns has made the position of Principal of Andover a more distinguished one than most college presidencies, and a career still brighter and of larger usefulness is before the school."

Lawrence Work Complains of Non-Support

Because the collections for the Lawrence work have been unusually low this year, we are now facing a deficit. Although an effort has been made to cut down expenses, still it will take $110 more to give us a credit balance. Instead of taking an extra collection, it has been thought best to ask the fellows to contribute twenty-five cents apiece next Sunday. If we secure the required amount, no collection will be taken a week from tomorrow.

Last fall the school voted unanimously to support and carry on the Lawrence work. However, when it came to giving for its support, it was only too easy to let the matter slide, and as it was, the collections have averaged between two and three cents for every fellow in school. It is, therefore, only right for the fellows to live up to their promise, and if they will for only once support the work as they ought, there will be no occasion for asking for further donations.

LETTER TO BULLETIN

Phillips Academy in 1855

The following letter was written by Mr. H. D. Catlin, P. A. 1855. It shows the difference between Phillips Academy of fifty-eight years ago and the present institution, and also points out some very important facts which are as true today as they were in 1855.

Northumberland, Pa.,

Feb. 12, 1913

To the Editor of the Phillips

Bulletin:

Dear Sir:

As an old alumnus (1855) I am moved, if you will let me, to say a few words of appreciation and to give some of the impressions received from reading recent numbers of the Bulletin.

And first, I seem to be in a different world from the one in which I moved in my boyhood days at Andover. The Stone Academy is gone, which stood in the corner, so near the house where Mrs. Stowe lived and the professor. And "Uncle" is gone, who practically was the school of that day, the Arnold—though so different—of America, and in some ways, I believe, the greatest educator this country ever produced. At least, I learned more from him and received from him a better discipline than from all other teachers before, or later at Yale. Promptness, exact accuracy, integrity of mind and heart, these were the incessant watchwords of his intercourse with the students, whether in the classroom or outside of it.

And then the athletics of today! The only things of the kind I recall were a little irregular kicking of football,—hardly a game,—in the field back of the Theological Seminary, with now and then a walk, and once, I remember, a dip in one of the great ponds outside of the village.

On the literary side there was the "Philo" with its great debates, the greatest and best I have ever known anywhere, when my classmate, Franklin Carter, afterwards President or Professor at Williams College, was the leading spirit; and there was the "Mirror."

I am greatly pleased with the spirit which has presided at the formation of the Students' Church,—that these immature minds were not asked, as a condition of membership, to subscribe to a creed of whose merits they could know as yet but little. The spirit of love, the serious mind, and the purpose to live for the highest things and the best, what better foundation and condition at the gateway of the Church.

I so wish that the young men of today, whose bright and manly faces I see in that picture of the "School Chapel," could realize, before the chains get riveted on them, the pitiful folly of smoking, its injury to both body and mind, and how it blunts the edge of refinement and consideration for others. O Phillips boys of today, who are smoking to be "manly," will you not let an old Phillips boy tell you that it is not manly to use tobacco, even if nearly all the men we see use it? The true man keeps his body clean and pure and working at its best for the Game of life as well as of the Field.

But I must not impose on your indulgence, and will close with an old man's benediction on all, both teachers and students, who con-

Dr. Carter Speaks

Rev. Edward Clarke Carter, P. A. 1896, spoke in the Chapel yesterday morning. Dr. Carter went to Harvard and later was the secretary of the Y. M. C. A. He has been connected with religious work in Calcutta, India, and has been instrumental in the founding of many of the Y. M. C. A.'s. Dr. Carter spoke on the need of more cultured men in India, who are willing to give up their lives for the benefit of those of the inferior races. He emphasized the fact that India is getting to be one of the greatest countries of the world. It is now ranked in fourth place.

THE "HOW" OF FILENE STRAWS

All straws this year will be different—narrower brim, higher crown—but Filene straws will be even more different.

First we insisted on light-weight hats, head comfort demands it—Then we hit on a method by which only the smooth surface of the straw forms the outside shell—that means a natural protection against dust—

And then we eliminated the surface glue that makes straws sticky in damp weather.

So you see they are different—different in the small things that make them worth while.

Communication

To the Editor of the Phillipian:

Dear sir,
 Several years ago, Phillips Academy had a gun club. In view of the increased interest throughout the United States in trials at marksmanship, it seems to me that the club should be reorganized this year. Several years ago a number of fellows became expert in breaking clay pigeons. The range, just beyond the athletic field, is an ideal spot for the pigeon traps, and certainly there are enough fellows in school who are accustomed to the use of the shotgun to organize such a club. It is to the advantage of every fellow to know how to handle a gun and to be quick and accurate in shooting.

Past." He said that in the last few years twenty-five men have debated from Andover, and that out of these twenty-five fifteen were Philomen. In the eighties, Philo used one of the main rooms in the Academy building for their meetings and the standing room was always filled. At those meetings about 120 men were present. Philo then ran the Phillipian, the Mirror, and the Pot-Pourri. Mr. Hinman urged the members of Philo to go out for the Phillipian and the Mirror and thus keep up the old tradition that the literary papers should be run by Philo. Mr. Hinman expressed his wish that the team should defeat Exeter and thus start debating off on a new, clean sheet next year.

The last speaker of the evening was Mr. Stott. His topic was "Debating." Mr. Stott spoke on the work of the two societies this year and what they could and must accomplish next year. He suggested that more men be enrolled in the societies next fall and that the meetings be made more interesting. Speakers of note could be secured next year and by this method and others the interest in debating could be promoted. Mr. Stott said that the debating team had been working hard and that the fellows could show their appreciation of their hard work by attending the debate next Wednesday evening.

A cheer was given for Philo and the banquet adjourned at 10.15 o'clock.

WE ALL HAVE—of the petty salesman who lost all interest when we stated the price we wanted—or could afford—to pay, and this didn't meet with his exalted ideas. We don't employ snobs of this kind, or any other kind. The same courteous service is rendered in the showing of our $25.00 suit as in that of twice this sum. That $25.00 suit will be a pleasant surprise to you—if you are not already acquainted with it. We make a specialty of it—are immensely proud of it—and guarantee its value in every detail. You don't have to buy—we won't bore you—but it will pay you to see what we offer at this price.
