MEANS PRIZE SPEAKING

Stuart, Bushnell and Beardsley Win Prizes

On the occasion of the forty-eighth annual contest for the Means Prizes held last Saturday night in the Stone chapel, great interest was manifest. A large audience assembled to hear the essays which the judges, in a previous decision on the literary merits, had pronounced to be the best in many years. They were indeed excellent, both in choice of words and in arrangement of subject matter and the worth of the compositions was increased by the delivery of the speakers. The merit was such that the judges required twenty minutes in which to reach their final decision. When delivered by Mr. Browne in behalf of the committee of award, it was announced that Kimberley Stuart (Lloyd-George and English Liberalism) was first, Robert T. Bushnell (The Inadvisability of the Permanent Retention of the Philippine Islands) was second, and Raymond F. Beardsley (The Poetry of Matthew Arnold) third. The prizes were twenty, ten, and eight dollars respectively. The committee of award was composed of the following men, representatives of the leading schools in Massachusetts: Chairman, George H. Browne of Browne & Nichols school; Samuel F. Holmes of Worcester Academy; and George C. Greener, director of the North Bennett Street Industrial school, Boston. Principal Stearns presided. The outline of the winning speeches were as follows:

Kimberly Stuart—"Lloyd-George and English Liberalism."

"Lloyd-George pre-eminently representative of common people Liberal party found a guide to new life in him. His party stood for reform. Lloyd George's struggle ended in a sweeping victory for democracy. His personality phenomenal. He is strong and determined. He has won the name of 'The Architect for a New England'."

Robert T. Bushnell—"The Inadvisability of the Permanent Retention of the Philippine Islands."

"The American conquest awoke the islands to new life. They have made great strides. Civilized element will prevail. Islands, though useful, are expensive. Militarily disadvantageous. Protection impossible. Violates Monroe Doctrine. Will be able to govern their differences. Our influence will always remain."

Raymond F. Beardsley—"The Poetry of Matthew Arnold."

"Poets of a new order arose out of the materialism of the nineteenth century. Arnold first attained his distinction through prose. His poems are hampered by a critical spirit and only occasionally arise to sublimity of thought. The 'Church of Brou' is his most characteristic poem. Wordsworth and Goethe the most potent influence upon Arnold. The former gave him his essence of philosophy, the latter his attitude towards life and religion. As a narrative poet, Arnold varies. His dramatic efforts were no more successful than those of Tennyson. He is at present considered chiefly as a poet."

D. C. Hale, P. A. '13, has recently made the editorial board of the Amherst Student.

W. L. Tucker, P. A. '13, Yale '17, was unanimously elected captain of the Yale soccer team for next year. He succeeds R. H. Gamble, P. A. '11, Yale '15.

INQUIRY

Although the group which assembled in the Archaeology building to hear D. R. Porter, Y. M. C. A. Secretary for Preparatory Schools, was small, each man was impressed by the strong, sincere words of the speaker. He said that in life his privilege had been to meet thousands of school men. He was struck with the fact that these men were all going through a period of decision. School life forces men to make decisions. They must make a team; they must belong to some organization. In each case quick decision is demanded.

The most unhappy are those who have come to college without having made up their minds. There is some power which disturbs human-beings unless they have come to definite conclusions. Those whose attitude toward Christ is half-hearted, whose religious ideals are not clear and true, are continually miserable. In the colleges there has sprung up a great, fundamental movement. It has drawn men together in friendship. It has stirred them towards a new idea of life. Its success and efficacy are great. This movement has reached the Middle West and will be adopted next month at Exeter. The work of the Society of Inquiry supplies this need. The leaders of this society who are sincere are more to be admired than the leaders of other activities.

The great need of every Andover man is a manner of living above that set by the bunch he runs with, higher than that which prevails. Fellows who have set their ideals no higher than their companions, who have gone to college as big men, whose heads have been swelled, rot away at college. They cannot be told anything. As a result, they fail.

A small body in a large institution can quickly make a change. The principle is to get out into the open, to assert your stand. Make your influence felt. There are two kinds of influence, the conscious and the unconscious. The conscious influence is the result of an effort to make oneself felt; the unconscious emanates from one when he little knows it. Every man desires to have this power. Inquiry gives an inspiration for the best things of life. An inspiration is of no use unless action results. Do not be satisfied with the past deeds of your life, noble as they may have been. It is your duty to reform conditions which are not desirable, to assist your fellows in the realization of true Christian living, to cast off your old ideals and purify them. For this end Inquiry was founded.

Rifle Club First Drills in Sighting

Monday and Tuesday afternoons the squads of the Rifle club had their first drills in sighting. The squads reported in groups of five in room ten of Graves Hall, where they practiced sighting on the four rifles which have already been procured. The guns were placed in a stationary position, while the targets were moved around under the instructions of the fellow sighting the gun. When he thought that the target was in a direct line with the sights, he had the position of the target marked. Each fellow had three trials, the object being to make one's marks as near the same spot every time as possible. This practice will be continued until the rifles, ordered for the club, arrive, which will probably not be until the end of this term.

TRACK SEASON OPENS

Andover Victorious over M. I. T. Freshmen

Last Saturday afternoon Andover opened the track season for 1915 with a victory, defeating M. I. T. Freshmen by the score 44½ to 25½. In the first event, the high hurdles, Rodman easily secured first place, his opponent falling and being disqualified for skipping a hurdle. In the fifty yard dash, Kwan of M. I. T. barely broke the tape ahead of Guppy for first place, while third place went to M. I. T. also.

Charlton ran a pretty race in the 600-yard dash, defeating Coward, M. I. T. by a scant foot, passing his opponent in the last few feet. Rodman also won the low hurdles. The most spectacular race of the day was the mile when MacCarten, Andover, made a phenomenal spurt on the last stretch and finished ahead of Earle, M. I. T., who had been running first all through the entire race. Greene also passed a man on the last lap and placed third for Andover.

The high jump, pole-vault and shot-put were held in the gym, after the other events. Andover won all of these, Rodman doing especially well, winning three first and one second place in the meet.

The summary:

HIGH HURDLES

Won by Rodman, Andover; second, Gruvanovitch, M. I. T., disqualified; third, M. I. T. Time, 7 4-5 sec.

600-YARD DASH

Total	44½	25½

A smoker was held Monday at New Haven for the Andover men in the Academic and Scientific Freshman classes.

MUSICAL CLUBS AT BRADFORD

The combined musical clubs enjoyed their second trip when they gave a concert at Bradford Academy last Saturday evening. They journeyed to Haverhill in a special car, arriving about six-thirty. The clubs rendered a varied and delightful program which was duly appreciated by the young ladies. During the intermission of their program, Whitworth, of the mandolin club, demonstrated his great ability as a pianist. After the performance was over, the fellows were given a reception and refreshments were served. They took their leave at ten, having had a thoroughly pleasant time.

The fact that the Andover-Exeter combined concert is to be at Exeter this year makes it impossible for many to attend that ever agreeable occasion. The Andover clubs, however, will give a concert in the town hall, next Friday night. Every one should attend unless circumstances prevent. The members of the clubs have worked faithfully and we may be assured that a treat is in store. The following program was given at Bradford:

Glee Club	Winter Song
Mandolin Club	Hyacinth Rag
Quartet	The Beetle and the Flower
Banjo Club	Brazilian March
Glee Club	Venetian Night Song
	Intermission
Mandolin Club	Medley
Quartet	Mother Machree
Banjo Club	Kentucky Fox Trot
Glee Club	Medley
Combined Clubs	Old P. A.

Andover Wrestling Team Wins

Last Saturday the Andover wrestling team defeated Harvard '18 by the score of 6 to 5. Krieger in the 125-pound class threw Devier after a game fight. Krieger was up against an older man, but was aggressive at all times and finally obtained a fall. Basso had little trouble in throwing Little of Harvard in the light weight division. It was the first meet in which Captain Basso has been able to compete because of conditions. Talmadge of Andover kept up his fine work of the season by winning over Loomis, Harvard, obtaining a fall after only 2 minutes and ten seconds. Talmadge remains undefeated this year. The score was kept on the basis that a fall counted 2 points and a decision one point.

The summary:

125-lb. class—Krieger, Andover threw Devier, Harvard, in 5m. 40s.

135-lb. class—Basso, Andover, threw Little, Harvard, in 1m. 20s.

145-lb. class—Loomis, Harvard, threw Dyer, Andover, in 3m. 7s.

155-lb. class—Talmadge, Andover, threw Loomis, Harvard, in 2m. 10s.

165-lb. class—Kelley, Harvard, threw A. Russell, Andover, in 2m. 55s.

175-lb. class—Kelly, Harvard, given decision over Avery, Andover in 8m.

Rifle Club Officers

At the first business meeting of the Rifle club, the constitution was read and approved, and officers for the first fiscal year were proposed. They were as follows: President, Mr. Lillard; secretary, Dr. Page; treasurer, N. Wright; captain, G. D. Flynn. At the next meeting these officers were elected, with the exception of Dr. Page, who withdrew his name and substituted that of J. Raymond for the position of secretary. The Rifle club here is now a regular branch of the National Rifle Association of America.

MR. FULLERTON SPEAKS

Addresses Crowded Chapel on Monday

Mr. W. M. Fullerton, the London Times correspondent, addressed a large and enthusiastic assembly Monday evening in the Stone Chapel. His visit here was merely to renew former acquaintances and the old interest in this school which he had as a member of the class of '82.

In the outset Mr. Fullerton said that he looked upon this academy as a hill upon the horizon, and a lighthouse for the education of the coming leaders of this country. While we think lightly now of our stay here it will mean more to us in later years. In this connection he ran briefly over some of the old customs and rules still very vivid in his mind which prevailed upon the hill. One rule in the commons was that there was to be "no wood chopping in the halls." Another rule was to "throw water clear of the house." Both of these are deeply significant of the vast changes since that time.

One distinctly interesting fact was that a Chinaman, who has since been prominent in diplomatic life, of Mr. Fullerton's class, curved the first baseball on this hill which also indicates the infancy of that game.

In reminiscence of the old days, Mr. Fullerton read a letter from this Chinese boy who pitched the first curved ball. This letter was dated December 28, 1881, and relating his feelings from time of leaving here. On his way out to San Francisco he had the negro porter sing to him and many incidents of the trip were mentioned. Upon reaching that place he and his party were persuaded by some lady friends to accept the challenge of a baseball team to a game. It proved a victorious day for Chinese as the score was 12 to 7 in their favor. His trip home was long and monotonous and he dreaded his arrival there after six years of "perfect freedom" on Andover hill. Now he must put on his former cumbersome robes and sleep on the floor. Certain rules must be observed such as "not to talk at the dining table," "always an elder's opinion is best and must be acknowledged so." But when he did not agree with his elders' opinion still was forced to express himself that way. "That's a lie," he wrote, "and I'm not good at that. I'm an Andover boy."

The holidays being somewhat scant, three in five years, added to his discomfort. He closed with two very fitting remarks: "Did you meet the Exeter fellows in football again this year?" and "How I'd like to respond to those recitation bells again." Such were the feelings of one who returned to his native country after six years of Andover "Perfect Freedom" and democracy.

The Andover characteristic is to be "ready to seize opportunities that came to him," said Mr. Fullerton and Napoleon at Oakside is a striking example. Though malaria fever abounded and he had to work out his technical problems, still he read every book and every bit of matter that he could find in the village. He had such a varied collection of it as he went on he could choose what he wanted and needed in his particular difficulty. "So we cannot afford to ignore any sort of trivial information whatsoever" said Mr. Fullerton.

He then related an anecdote during 1903 when he was sent to in-

DRAMATIC CLUB SMOKER

Last Saturday night, the Dartmouth Club held its second smoker of the year. About twenty fellows were present and had an enjoyable time. Goddard opened the smoker by reading the constitution of the Dartmouth Club of Phillips Academy. He then introduced Mr. Gray Knapp, Dartmouth '12. Mr. Knapp, who is the present graduate-secretary of Dartmouth, gave a very interesting illustrated talk on Dartmouth and student life there. He gave a brief account of the numerous under-graduate activities of which the Christian Association and the Dartmouth Outing Club are the largest. The latter organization holds a Winter Carnival every year at which there are skis, snowshoe and obstacle races. Mr. Knapp also showed pictures of the gymnasium which is so large that one entire wing is devoted exclusively to the track team; another to the baseball, soccer and tennis teams. There is a regulation sized dirt diamond in the gymnasium upon which real baseball games are held. There is also a large hall 200 by 80 feet in another part of the gymnasium where dances are often held. This room can easily contain 500 couples. The smoker adjourned about eight o'clock and the fellows attended the Means Prize Speaking Contest. After the speaking was over, the fellows came back to the Grill where refreshments were served. Mr. Knapp talked very informally with the fellows telling them many interesting things about Dartmouth.

Andover Defeats Springfield Training School in Pool

Andover defeated Springfield Training School in the pool last Saturday. Our team, while showing its usual strength, did not outshine itself. The relay race was won with ease. Bradley in the first lap overcame his opponent, T. Kingsbury and Mayer added much to the lead already gained and Captain Fitzgerald completed the race ahead of his man by half the length of the pool. Our entries in the plunge did not equal their customary skill, Kruidanier of Springfield winning the event with a distance of sixty-one feet. The next event, the fifty yard dash, was closely contested, Bradley of Andover and Evans of Springfield finishing neck and neck, while Tilton, close upon them, added another point to our score. Owing to the disqualification of Gould for a minor offense, Springfield secured the dive, placing Journette first and Brown third. F. Kingsbury of Andover was given second place. The distance swims were easily Andover's. Captain Fitzgerald finished 4 feet ahead of Pratt in the hundred, with Journette, of Springfield, third. Searle won the two-hundred but was pressed closely by Mayer. They both, however, were far ahead of the first Springfield man, Thorne.

Summary:

RELAY RACE

Won by Andover (Bradley, T. Kingsbury, Mayer, Fitzgerald). Time, 1 min. 49 3-5 sec.

PLUNGE

Won by Kruidanier (S.), 61 ft.; second, Peters (A.), 55 ft.; third, Strout (A.), 54 1/2 ft.

50-YARD-DASH

Tie between Evans (S.) and Bradley (A.) for first place; Tilton (A.), third. Time, 27 4-5 sec.

DIVING

Won by Journette (S.); second, F. Kingsbury (A.); third, Brown (S.).

100-YARD SWIM

Won by Fitzgerald (A.); second, Pratt (A.); third, Journette (S.) Time, 1 min. 4-5 sec. (tank record).

200-YARD SWIM

Won by Searle (A.); second, Mayer (A.); third, Thorne (S.) Time, 2 min. 36 3-5 sec.

Total: Andover, 36; Springfield Training School, 17.

Harvard Club Smoker

The Harvard Club will hold what promises to be their best smoker of the year Saturday evening in the Archaeology building at seven o'clock. The speakers will include Dr. Paul Withington, supervisor of Freshman athletics at Harvard University, "Eddie" Mahan, P. A. '12, Harvard '16, Captain-elect of the football team for next year, and W. H. Trumbull, a member of this year's championship team, will be among the speakers. As the officers of the club have made special effort to secure these speakers and to make the evening a pleasant one, all members are urged to be present.

Fire Prevention Lecture

Last evening, Mr. E. V. French gave a most interesting talk on fire prevention and the best methods of fighting a fire. "Syd" Thayer introduced the speaker.

Mr. French said that every fire meant a distinct loss to the wealth of the nation. Insurance in no way prevented this loss; it only distributed it around the community, so that the one primarily affected did not have to stand the entire effects. It was a system, similar to "passing the hat," in order to help out a friend. As the loss in the United States caused by fire amounted to 230 million dollars, the remedy was to prevent the start of a fire; not to alleviate the distress caused by it through a system of insurance.

Factory owners in Lawrence, who refused a rebate from the insurance companies in consideration of improvements for fire prevention had banded together and agreed to make up losses by fire by common subscription. Having agreed to this, they took methods to prevent fires, and the result was most satisfactory.

Mr. French then told how the system of water piping through the roofs had caused the invention of automatic sprinklers which would wet thoroughly over 100 square feet of ground, and which were started automatically by heat. This production proved an efficient way of putting out fires without causing much damage from the excess water.

The speaker next described the causes of the Salem fire—inflammable rubbish heaps, shingle roofs and failure to attack fires before they gained headway—and said that it could have been prevented by a little common sense and forethought.

He then spoke of the causes of fire, such as the spontaneous combustion of oily rags, careless use of matches, faulty chimneys, etc., and urged the fellows to take care not to cause a fire by their own carelessness.

As to putting out fires, the best way was to attack them before they got headway, and use the fire apparatus and to fight "for all you are worth." One should use his head. Effort should be made to confine the fire. The best way to fight them was to prevent them, however.

After the lecture, Mr. French answered questions from the audience. The talk was most instructive and interesting, and those who attended were amply rewarded for their time.

Class Wrestling

Today in the interclass wrestling series, 1916 meets 1917 in the meet which will decide which team is to be awarded their numerals. The two teams have met once before, 1917 winning by one bout in a meet which was very interesting and full of thrills. In the previous meets, there has been a tendency for some of the contestants not to show up, and thus several matches have been defaulted. Every man should make a special effort to be on hand today to help the team in the most important meet of the year. 1915, also, has a meet with 1918.

Andover to Meet Harvard 'Varsity Again

Andover will line up against the Harvard 'Varsity swimming team this afternoon in the Andover pool at 4 o'clock. As this is the final dual meet of the season, and the last meet in the local pool for the year, the fellows will have their last opportunity of seeing the team in action, unless they make the trip to the inter-scholastics. The meet promises to be one of the most interesting of the year, for Andover was given its only defeat by Harvard early this season in the Harvard pool, through a slip-up on the part of one of the relay swimmers. This afternoon the team expects to secure revenge by giving the Crimson swimmers a decisive defeat.

The team has made a wonderful record this season, having won seven meets and having lost only one. If a victory over Harvard is marked up for them, they will have the honor of defeating all their rivals. The times made have been exceptionally fast; the relay team has equalled the world's inter-scholastic record, 1 min. 45 4-5 sec., established by last year's Andover team, and Captain Fitzgerald has equalled his own Andover pool record for the 100-yd. swim, 60 4-5 sec. Every fellow should turn out and show the team their appreciation for the latter's good work.

The line-up follows:

ANDOVER

Relay race—Bradley, T. Kingsbury, Mayer, and Fitzgerald (Captain).
50-yd. dash—Bradley and Fitzgerald.
100-yd. dash—Fitzgerald and Pratt.
200-yd. dash—Mayer and Searle.
Dive—M. S. Gould and F. Kingsbury.
Plunge—Strout and Peters.

HARVARD VARSITY

Relay team—B. M. Fullerton (Captain), Wentworth, Tenney and Seymour.
50-yd. dash—Wentworth and Seymour.
100-yd. dash—Fullerton and Wentworth.
220-yd dash—Fullerton and Seymour (Rogers).
Dive—Jackson and Monro.
Plunge—Dixon and Monro.

Notices

Up to the present time this year the Art Editorship competition for the 1915 Pot Pourri has not progressed sufficiently for any of the competitors to be elected Art Editor for next year. As the competition closes with this term, it behooves all the present applicants for this position to work harder and produce more material for the year book. Many of the present competitors have shown considerable ability, but so far have not used enough of the energy which is necessary in a competition of this kind.

All hockey men will find it to their advantage to turn in their stuff at the gym, as the HAR hats will not be given out until everything has been handed in.

The next issue of the Phillipian will be in charge of K. Stuart.

Any fellows desiring to purchase covers which will hold Phillipian files will please hand their names in to Heely. The price will be 75 cents. The covers are similar to the covers of history note books, only large enough to hold the papers out flat.

If you do not want to start collection this year, get one for your next year's Phillipians.

All fellows who wish to enter the interclass gymnasium meet, determining who shall receive their CAT insignia, should report immediately to Peck or Elwood at the gymnasium or at Phillips Hall. The meet will be held one week from today and all fellows intending to enter had better avail themselves of the intervening time for practice on the different apparatus. The meet is open to the entire school.

Boxing Tournament

Two bouts in the boxing tournament were held Tuesday, Tommy Press, '16, defeating Tom Flynn, '17, and H. Maroney '15, winning over J. M. Sharpe, '16, in the 135-pound class. The preliminaries are to be held every day until Saturday when it is expected that the finalists will be named. The winner of each class receives a cup. The men under the tutelage of instructor Alex. Sutherland are showing good form which speaks very well for the coaching he has given them.

J. E. Woolley, P. A. '14, was recently elected to the board of the Yale News.

TO ANDOVER BOYS:

A great many boys are unable to make progress in large classes. This is usually due to the lack of early training which prevents a proper understanding of each day's lesson or to absence from classes because of illness, etc.
For the above reasons a number of boys are compelled to leave Phillips Andover Academy each year. To these boys we offer an opportunity to make up work in which they are deficient and return to Andover. By our methods of private tutoring and small class instruction, such boys can be advanced rapidly. We are well situated at Tarrytown on-the-Hudson, where we can accommodate twenty-five boys and fifteen masters.
A booklet of Blake Country School will be mailed upon request.

investigate the possibility of reviving Portugal treaties as a correspondent of the London Times before King Edward's visit to Lisbon. He was unsuccessful in finding any desired information after travelling to Paris, Berlin, and London several times. It happened that the Times had procured letters for him to the Ambassador so after returning he called on that dignitary. He rang the bell and after handing his cards in waited but it was not long, for out came the Ambassador and popped the question, "O, Mr. Fullerton, can't you take a hand in bridge?" So he did and so enjoyable was the party that after frequent visits he was successful in obtaining the desired news.

At the conclusion of the first alliance with Russia the Czar and Czarina were at the Palace at Versailles and Mr. Fullerton said he was embarrassed to find words to pluck out the right thing to say about it. His eyes in wandering over the room unconsciously read a French sentence on the wall, "the King governs by himself." He took note of this and sent it in to his paper which proved to be the very case of the whole meeting for it started the Renaissance of the French spirit. This shows just how indefinite it is what kind of knowledge will best serve us. Now instead of our prayer, "God grant us more useful knowledge" it should be "God grant us that we may have so much knowledge that we may know what is worth knowing."

That a preparatory school education is not in vain, out of 37 young men from Eton going to Oxford and Cambridge, 25 were in the diplomatic service or government position or highest city administration. "Never has this country had such an opportunity to rise to the situation of these times. There is a French phrase 'Have an eye,' and the United States has got to have an eye," said Mr. Fullerton. When this war is over there will be many problems to be adjusted. The King of England some time ago made a wonderful speech to wake up England, but she didn't receive it as she ought and fortunately escaped from the results in July of last year.

Let us have an eye, said Mr. Fullerton, in closing. If the United States must wake up who can take the lead more efficiently than you.
