PLANS FOR INQUIRY

The Society of Inquiry intends to follow during the spring term along the same lines as it has progressed during the past. The student meetings which have proved a source of much benefit will be held frequently. Their will be also a more thorough discussion of Northfield, and the advantages derived from attending the convention held in that place the last of June. The speakers for the Society have not as yet been fully selected, owing to the many exigencies and emergencies which press speakers. The secretary will, however, be in possession of the complete list soon.

The attendance at the winter meetings of the society has been a great encouragement both to the officers and to the members, and it is hoped that some semblance of that interest will be shown this term. On account of the many undergraduate activities which occur during this term, it is always difficult to secure a lasting enthusiasm but even though the others are more numerous, the interest in this particular branch of activity deserves a prominent place. At Exeter a new movement, which has been attempted and found successful at various institutions, will be tried. It is a movement which aims to diffuse an atmosphere of serious thought and high ideals throughout the community. The means of accomplishing this is to hold small meetings in which each man has something to add to the general opinion. These meetings are held several times during the week. It would seem as if there should be a similar interest in such affairs on the Hill although we have not so broad and perfect a scheme of brotherhood.

MIRROR REVIEW

In the Easter number of the Mirror, which appears today, there is a nearer approach to the literary ideals of the magazine than there has been in the preceding issues. The Means Prize Essays have provided a good center around which to build a successful issue; no review of them is necessary. The first story, by Dowd, is a love story written in a rather sentimental style, but pleasing to read and out of the ordinary.

"Percy Algernon Jones, Actor," by Kunkel, is, to use the worn-out phrase, cleverly written. "Devotion," by Logan, is an attempt to re-create the atmosphere of the great swamps of the South around a tragic incident. After the essay on John Davidson and Ernest Dowson, English poets of the later nineteenth century, by Beardsley, comes "The Library Shelf" with a list which is of more than ordinary interest. One of the best things about this issue is the fact that new contributors appear on its pages, and one cannot help feeling that the change in both the quality and the variety has been very great and exceedingly beneficial to the publication.

Tennis Schedule and Prospects

Last year, as many may remember, Tennis was the only sport in which Exeter did not defeat us. This year the outlook is equally good. The tournament in the fall brought out a great deal of excellent material. One man, "Syd" Thayer, of last year's team is back and is captain of the team for the coming season. The squad, to be picked from those who showed up well in the fall tournament, will be called out as soon as the courts are ready, and, by an elimination tournament, the team will be picked. The manager has completed the schedule which contains more dates and promises to be fully as good, if not better than that of last year.

The dates are as follows:
May 1—Yale Fresh at New Haven.
May 8—Harvard Interscholastics.
May 12—Harvard Fresh at Andover.
May 15—Pending.
May 19—Dartmouth Fresh at Andover.
May 22—Newton High at Andover.
May 29—Worcester at Andover.
June 2—Exeter at Exeter.

Prizes in English

The examination for the Schweppe prizes in English, of thirty and twenty dollars, to be held the latter part of May, will include the following books:

Shakespeare: The Winter's Tale.
Wordsworth: Tintern Abbey.
Browning: An Epistle of Karshish.
Stevenson: Will o' the Mill.
Hardy: The Three Strangers.
Thoreau: Walking.
Lowell: A Certain Condescension in Foreigners.

The examination for the Harvard English prizes will also be held sometime in the latter part of May.

BASEBALL PROSPECTS

First Practice Game

With only three men back from last year's team and a like number from the squad the outlook for the baseball team is not as bright as could be wished, but some of the new material has shown up well. The "A" men who are back are: Butterfield, Sheehan and Faherty. Butterfield was one of our first string pitchers last year and, by appearances, has improved. Sheehan has caught for two years and Faherty won his letter in the Exeter game last year. From the squad there are: Fitzgerald, who last year pitched, but is now making good on third, Ashley, trying for short-stop and Chisholm out for an outfield position.

All these took part in the first practice game of the season on Wednesday, and in spite of the poor condition of the old campus and the lack of practice of the men, the game was well played. Many of the new men played in this game.

The line-up of the two teams chosen from the candidates was as follows:

Butterfield, p.	p. Wilson
Good, c.	c. Sheehan
Coxe, 1b.	1b. Doyle
Ashley, 2b.	2b. Swan
Armstrong, ss.	ss. Thayer
Ames, 3b.	3b. Fitzgerald
Robinson, rf.	rf. Dennett
Crane, cf.	cf. Faherty
Thomas, lf.	lf. Chisholm

Class Track

The success of the interclass track system as tried last year has led the coaches to attempt the identical scheme for this year. Each individual is by that scheme given work in which he is somewhat proficient and not left to go his own way. The candidates are divided into squads in order that their ability may be determined more easily. Each squad is then put through a series of events and the men are again assigned to squads according to their fitness. It will be the work of each squad, of a squad of four, A, B, C, and D, to undertake two events during the course of one afternoon. A short period of instruction in each event will precede the actual practice. After the special training the whole class will be required to run a few laps before the afternoon's program is over. This will be continued for several weeks, then the whole body of men will be divided into class teams, representing the four classes of the school. The class team which wins the greatest number of meets will, at the end of the season, be awarded numerals. In order to clear the field for the 'varsity men, the class track squad is requested to report as soon after two o'clock as possible, as the roll will be called at five or ten minutes past the hour.

Last Term Meeting of Philo

On the Wednesday preceding the close of school last term Philo held its regular business meeting. After the election of the officers for this term, the other miscellaneous business was attended to and plans for Mr. Noyes' visit were discussed. R. T. Bushnell was elected president; R. D. Bassett, secretary, and D. Warren, treasurer for the spring term. There are now over thirty members of the society and, as last term's statistics show, an average of three new members have been admitted each week. The meetings had a maximum attendance of twenty-four, a minimum of sixteen, and an average of eighteen each week. The treasurer's report was entirely satisfactory and the meeting adjourned after President Bushnell had taken the chair.

Communion

The April communion service will be held after the morning service next Sunday.

APRIL 10, 1915

Always the spring term has been the one into which most is crowded, both athletically speaking and in regard to the studies, but only once before have we had an opportunity such as we will have this month. Many well-known and famous men have spoken and lectured here in the past few years, and these have talked about widely diversified subjects and have given us opportunities to become acquainted with a great many things, about which, in all probability, we would otherwise have remained in ignorance. Yet, undoubtedly we have a chance to improve our minds even more in the coming of Mr. Noyes. Four, or perhaps five years ago when he was last at Andover the crowd in the chapel almost broke the record and many who heard him then have often expressed their regrets that the poet has not since that time visited the school. This year, Philo has decided to have Mr. Noyes come, on its own initiative. He will read some selections of his more widely known works, and, if the school backs the proposition up as it should he will have an audience even larger than his last one here.

The admission fee is very small, only fifty cents. This very low price has been made possible because Mr. Noyes, on account of his close connection with the school, has consented to come receiving just enough to pay expenses. So let us all show our deep appreciation by attending this reading in the chapel next Friday night, April 16, at 8.00 sharp.

In the last issue of The Papyrus, the school paper of the Taft school, there was an excellent editorial which exactly expresses my sentiment, and, I believe, those of all the new officers who take charge of the Phillipian this issue. The article which follows is the one taken from the Papyrus, slightly changed.

CHANGING OF HANDS

Any person, or group of persons, on entering upon new duties is inclined to be actuated by a desire to make a record for changes and improvements. Of such a tendency it is particularly needful for incoming School Literary Boards to beware. So, without a self-assertive progressiveness but not lacking in a certain trust in ourselves, we will, on assuming our new duties, rather make it our purpose to equal and to carry on the consistent work of former directors of the Phillipian. Harmful alike to a publication and to the institution that it represents is an overlooking of the fact that the publication is the organ and in a way the servant of its school. Only with the interests of the school in mind, then, will what slight changes we may deem best be made. In view of this we cannot, with even a fair sense of justice, but welcome what criticism may be offered to us at any time in a well-meaning way.

Also, any and all worthy communications to the paper from any member of the faculty, of the student body, or from any alumni, will be most welcome.

Getting Results

(Minnesota Daily)

It is an old idea that what the world wants is "results." It is a hard-hearted, uncompromising demand that to be successful from the world's standpoint something more than effort is necessary. The effort must be productive of something worth while.

In any school there are always a goodly number of persons who feel that effort is all that is necessary to warrant their being continued as members of the University community. If they try hard and then fail, what right has the professor to oust them from his class, or the administrative board to dismiss them from the university? Why, the same right that the employer has to dismiss the hard-working employe who is yet a drag and a loss to him from the standpoint of his business. To be sure this is an unpleasant doctrine to some, and there are times when it must be mitigated somewhat for charity's sake, but in the main it is as applicable in school as elsewhere.

A great many people mistake effort for results. They are not deceived about the fact that only results should count, but they are deceived as to what constitutes results. Three hours put upon the study of a lesson does not necessarily mean a good recitation or even a well prepared lesson. Twelve or fifteen hours spent upon the writing of a paper does not insure a good grade on that paper. There is something beside that to be taken into account in the judgement. The question is, has the effort resulted in a thoroughly informed mind, on the subject assigned for study, that is capable of giving expression to that which it has acquired of knowledge? The question is has the time spent upon the paper been sufficient to allow the student to put into good rhetorical form a series of ideas in logical and convincing array?

The habit of estimating the value of scholastic work on the basis of the results obtained and not merely on the basis of the time spent in producing the result, will serve to give the individual student a new and better means of valuing his own efforts. It will help him to decide as to whether or not his school life is worth the price he is paying for it. It is very probable that if he finds that it is not worth that price, that the trouble is in himself and not in the school or its environment. Judge yourself as coldly and as dispassionately as an employer might judge you out in the commercial world and see if you are getting results commensurate with your effort, your time, and your money expenditure. Scholastic knowledge and mental training are not so entirely intangible that you cannot estimate them very much in this way. Look out for your results.

Music Notes

The prelude at the morning service to-morrow will be Karg-Elart's "Lobe den Herren O meine Seele." Liversidge will sing Jules Granier's "Hosanna". At vespers the prelude will be Karg-Elart's "Lobt Gott ihr Christen allzugleich." The choir will sing Maker's "Awake thou that sleepest."

Warren K. Moorehead of the faculty will deliver an address on "The Indian of Today" at the Trinitarian Congregational church of North Andover, Sunday evening.

Principal Scearns and Mr. Poynter were the speakers at a meeting of the Yale-Andover club held in New Haven last night.

The authorities of the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco have set aside the week of July twelfth as Yale week. In all probability they will designate Friday the thirteenth of July as Yale day. The committee at Yale are trying to bring about complete co-operation with the Yale men who attend the exposition so that the day may be a success.

Harvard Freshman Baseball

As a means of promoting more universal interest in athletics throughout the Freshman class at Harvard, the authorities have decided to introduce a system of organized baseball for the three Freshman dormitories. The inter-dormitory league will be open to the whole Freshman class yet will be separate from the regular Freshman team.

Rolland H. Spaulding, Governor of New Hampshire, P. A. '93, and the Honorable Samuel McCall of Boston have been obtained as speakers for the Commencement dinner.

It is imperative that the members of the Rifle club secure the written permission of their parents or guardians before they will be permitted to shoot. These permission slips must be shown to Doctor Page.

All those considering either wrestling, fencing, or horse-back riding for their regular spring sport should see Basso at the earliest opportunity in Eaton 2.

Every candidate for a diploma, whether he is taking English or not, is required to write a diploma essay of 800 or 1000 words. The writer may choose his own subject, but the subject must be approved by an instructor in the English department. Candidates who are not taking English are requested to see Mr. Leonard as soon as possible.

The Athletic Advisory board makes a call for bids for the Andover-Exeter track meet program. Submit sealed bids to N. L. Wright, undergraduate treasurer.

New Sport for Phillips Academy

This spring a new sport is to be introduced in the school. Fencing has received such attention among the colleges that it has been decided to try it here providing about twenty or twenty-five fellows come out. As the plans are now, an excellent man will come out from Boston probably and coach the men who take up the sport. Fencing may be taken instead of the usual spring athletics and the work will be wholly out of doors, giving many advantages which boxing, wrestling and the like do not possess. The men who intend to take this up, or who want to find out more about it, will do well to see Basso at once.

College Notes

The present enrolment at Columbia is more than that of Harvard and Yale combined.

At Princeton there is under consideration a more complete military organization than has been attempted in other colleges and schools. The work of the new company will consist of drill work and out-door manoeuvres under an instructor from the regular army.

Walter Camp says, in regard to the present football rules, "They have developed a game which allows full scope for individual excellence in the player, they are well understood by the players, and the sporting writers have grasped their every detail. Under these circumstances there seems to be no good reason for any material change.

According to a recent computation of the Yale News, Yale leads in the number of undergraduates for the year 1915 with 2,418, Harvard follows with 2,306, and Princeton has 1,415. In the total university enrollment, however, Harvard leads with 4,604, Yale follows with 3,310, and Princeton has 1,643.

Stereopticon Lecture

An illustrated lecture on travels in China will be given Sunday evening at the Inquiry meeting by Rev. W. E. Strong, D.D. of Boston. Dr. Strong visited China recently and his slides are made from an unusually interesting set of photographs taken by himself. The lecture will be given at the Archaeology building at 6.45.

Students Entering Harvard

The student desiring to enter the Freshman class of Harvard University must, under the New Plan announced by the directors, "present evidence of an approved school course satisfactorily completed", and "show in four examinations that his scholarship is of a satisfactory quality." His evidence of his school course must include the subjects studied, the amount of time devoted to each study, the quality of his work in each subject. To be approved, this statement must show that the candidate's secondary school course has extended over four years, that his course has been chiefly concerned with languages, science, mathematics, and history, no one of which has been omitted, that two of the studies of his school program have been pursued beyond their elementary stages. If the official statement shows that the candidate has satisfactorily completed an approved secondary school course, he may present himself for examinations in four subjects as follows:

- English.
- Latin.
- Mathematics, or Physics, or Chemistry.
- Any subject (of a list found in the catalogue) not included under B or C of the previous statement.

TO ANDOVER BOYS:

A great many boys are unable to make progress in large classes. This is usually due to the lack of early training which prevents a proper understanding of each day's lesson or to absence from classes because of illness, etc.

For the above reasons a number of boys are compelled to leave Phillips Andover Academy each year. To these boys we offer an opportunity to make up work in which they are deficient and return to Andover. By our methods of private tutoring and small class instruction, such boys can be advanced rapidly. We are well situated at Tarrytown on the Hudson, where we can accommodate twenty-five boys and fifteen masters.

A booklet of Blake Country School will be mailed upon request.
