MR. FREEMAN AT PHILO

Last of Lectures on Historical Background of the War is Given on Greece.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. Freeman gave the last of his talks on the historic background of the war, with an account of the origin of the modern kingdom of Greece and its relation to the European powers. At the beginning of the 19th century the Greek race contained Albanian and Slavonic elements, which profoundly affected its character. The language of the classical Greeks had been corrupted into a patois. The rule of the Moslems had reduced the Greeks on the mainland to a position of economic and social inferiority. The population of the islands, however, was relatively prosperous and free. The sailors and peasants of Hydra or Chios enjoyed greater freedom than the English laborer or the Prusssian serf.

The ideals of the French Revolution found their way into Greece by way of the Ionian islands which were held by Napoleon from 1797 to 1807.

The secret society of the Hetaesia which was founded in 1814 by Greek traders of Odessa, aimed to restore the old Byzantine empire of which Constantinople should again be the capital.

-- A rising led by Ypsilanti in Roumania was soon suppressed, but another insurrection in the Morea was more successful. The city of Tripolitza was captured and some 30,000 Moslems were massacred. Reprisals were made by order of the Sultan. The Patriarch of the Greek church was executed in his robes at Constantinople and the Greek population on the island of Chios was reduced by a terrible slaughter from 100,000 to less than 2,000.

Unable to conquer the Greeks the Sultan called for aid upon Mehemet Ali of Egypt, who sent a fleet and army under Ibrahim who laid waste the Morea and threatened to exterminate the entire population.

In 1827 Russia, England, and France intervened and their combined fleets destroyed Ibrahim's fleet in the harbor of Navarino and made possible the independence of Greece. A republic was founded and Capo d'Istria, who had served as foreign secretary under the Czar

Alexander I, was elected president. After an autocratic rule of four years he was assassinated at Naplia in 1831. The Powers then selected Othol of Bavaria, who was forced in 1843 to grant a constitution. His failure to realize the ambition of the Greeks for a larger territory and the acquisition of Thessaly and Crete resulted in his overthrow in 1863. The throne was then given to the second son of the king of Denmark, who assumed the title of George I. His accession was made more satisfactory to the Greeks by the secession of the Ionian islands by England, 1864. In 1913 George was assassinnated at Salonika and was succeeded by his son Constantine, the present ruler.

The whole history of Greece binds that people to the cause of the Allies, but its desire to join against Germany has been thwarted by the influence of Constantine.

John Gowans to Lead Team

At a meeting of the hockey team last Wednesday, John Gowans of Buffalo, N. Y. was elected captain for 1917. Gowans entered Andover last fall from the Lafayette High School, Buffalo, where he was very active in athletics. Although on the team only one year, he at once showed his exceptional ability and his performance in the Exeter game stamped him as being worthy of the captaincy.

Gowans is also a very good tennis player, having won the cup for the championship of the school last fall.

Wrestling Meet

Last Wednesday afternoon in two wrestling meets, 1916 defeated 1917, 13-7; and '19 won over '18,

The class wrestling meets are becoming very interesting as the wrestlers are improving. 1919 so far, has shown itself way superior to the others and generally has its way now at the meets.

The fastest and most exciting match was between Miller of '19 and Horton of '18, but neither was able to throw the other in the six

JUNIOR PROM

Annual Dance to be Held Monday From 3 to 5 O'clock.

Monday evening at 7.30 o'clock. what promises to be the most successful Junior Promenade which has ever been held, will commence. Considerably more than one hundred fellows have signified their intentions of going, and the entire student body has very generously lent banners, pillows, and other paraphernalia which will be used for decorating the gym. Electric lights will be draped along the edge of the track which will add greatly to the artistic effect of the affair. Foss's orchestra has been secured to furnish the music, and the refreshments will be served in the gymnasium.

The committee wish especially to emphasize the facts that there will be absolutely no cutting-in at any time and that no flowers can be worn during the dance.

Classes will be omitted from one o'clock on Monday until four o'clock the following day, and the attention of those fellows who are going to the Prom is called to the fact that there will be an exhibition swimming meet and basketball game on Tuesday morning for the benefit of the Promenade

"Mac" Baldridge is Yale Wrestling Captain

Owing to the recent resignation of Captain McIntyre because of scholastic conditions, "Mac" Baldrige, P. A. '14, was elected captain of the Yale Wrestling team for this year. This is Baldridge's second year on the wrestling team and he has not yet been thrown in his four years at Andover, Baldrige was very active in athletics. He played tackle on the football team for two years, was the plunger for the swimming team, played on the winning class basketball team in his Senior year, and was captain of the wrestling team in 1914. Last fall Baldridge was substitute tackle on the football team at Yale, and the year before held down the position of tackle on the Freshman team.

Swimming Meet

This afternoon at 4.30 the swimming team will meet the English High School of Boston. English High has an exceptionally fast team this year, being in the lead for the championship of Boston, and a close meet is expected. The varsity has been greatly strengthened by the return of Captain Searle, who has been unable to swim thus far because of sickness. He will swim in the relay and 100 yd. dash.

CLASS SWIMMING

Exciting Meets in Pool.
Close Victory Over '18 Wins

Last Wednesday afternoon in two class swimming meets, 1917 defeated 1919, 51 to 13, and 1918 was victorious over 1916, 34 to 30. The 1916 team were nearly up to 1918, just losing by four points. They made a plucky fight and came near getting the meet. Although 1917 did not have Fish to swim for them they easily defeated 1919 with an overwhelming score.

The new rule that went into effect for the first time, that all entries must be handed in on the Tuesday before the meet, made the meet run off much more smoothly, for all the work was done before the meet. It is hoped that this rule will hold good for the rest of the meets.

The summary of the meet between 1917 and 1919 is as follows: Relay race—Won by 1917 (Harvey, Stearns, Eaton, Stohn). Plunge-Won by Stillwell '19, 52½ ft.; second, Eaton '17, 51 ft.;

third, Mills '17, 361/2 ft. 50-yd. dash-Won by Stearns '17; second, Eaton '17; third, Hall

To Give Organ Recital

Mr. Edwin Lathrop Baker is to give an Organ Recital this weekend in Worcester.

His programme will reduplicate the one which Mr. Pfatteicher and he gave in the Academy Chapel on last Wednesday afternoon, with this interesting addition: The Credo and Agnus Dei from Mr. Baker's own Messe Solennelle. This Mass was composed almost in its present entirety several summers ago in Sicily where the writer spent the summer in search of music and stories. Its treatment is reminiscent of the Russian Cathedral music which those students who accompanied Mr. Baker recently to Cambridge to hear the Choir from Saint Nicholas Cathedral, New York City, would easily recognize.

Now that the wave of preparedness is sweeping over the country, it is only right that we should stop and think for a moment of what we could do to help our nation in her defense if the need should arise. The best solution to this problemis the military training camp. It den. Time 8.4-5 sec. would certainly benefit everybody to join one of these camps and learn something about military life; Time 34 3-5 sec. or to join the group of men that on a cruise aboard battleships of class meets arethe navy.

The advantage gained from the training camps and from the practice cruises is twofold. First: not only do we gain the above-mentioned military training, but we also have at our disposal the best advantages for physical advancement. The men who attended the training camps last year all speak most favorably of the six weeks they spent there, and all of them express the determination to return this year. To plead that we have not time is foolish, for if such men as Mayor Mitchell of New York can find time to leave their several duties for six weeks, how much better can most of us, who do nothing but enjoy ourselves during the summer, find time.

This year it has been proposed to run separate camps for college men and for preparatory school men, so that fellows will have a chance to be with men of their own age. Army officers will be in charge of all camps, and the discipline maintained will be the same as in the army.

Next week, in chapel, all fellows who are considering going to a camp this summer will be asked to sign up. It would be wise for everyone to think the matter over seriously and to make up their minds definitely on the subject.

Dartmouth Club Smoker

Next Friday evening February 25, at 7 o'clock in the Peabody House, the Dartmouth Club will hold a meeting which will be addressed by Gray Knapp, secretary of Dartmouth College. Mr. Knapp will talk on the life at Dartmouth and will illustrate his lecture with stereopticon views. After the lecture a smoker will be held.

Class Track

The second inter-class track meet held last Wednesday, resulted in 1917 securing 49 points while 1919 failed to place a man in any event. Considering the fact that they were not pressed at any time. the Upper Middlers made an excellent showing in the yarious events. The 330-yd. dash was the best of the day and was won by Thompson in the exceptionally fast time of 34 3-5 seconds. Meyer easlity won the shot put with a heave of forty feet, while Russell, by clearing the bar at 5 ft. 4 in., secured first place in the high jump. It is hoped that the Juniors will get together a team immediately as the uselessness of having meets when there is such a poor turnout on 1919's part is evident.

The summary follows:

High-jump-Won by Russell; second, Shedden; third, Ivins. Height, 5 ft. 4 in.

Shotput-Won by Meyer; second, Sawyer; third, Russell. Distance, 40 ft. 1 in.

The February Mirror

The February Mirror, which will go on sale Monday noon is in most respects an average number, not quite as good as some previous numbers this year, but a fair representative of its type of prep school literary magazine.

Dowd contributes a story Kentucky Lady, most appropriate at this Prom season, and some verse entitled, Waiting. The second story is A Double Victory, written by Bryan. Bassett contributes Deeper Shame, adding one more thing to his interesting work for the magazine. If there is anything in the number that must be criticized it is a story, The War Tax, from an anonymous author: it is distinctly a "high school" performance. Well-timed and well written are enough to say about Doolin's An Appreciation of Lin-

The best part of the magazine is made up of three poems, by a new contributor, H. S. Fay, '17. Not in years has better verse been handed in; The Song of Art. The Way of It, and To the Cynics reveal something more than an appreciative imitation of Rudyard Kipling; they show a quality, which, in poets, the critics, for want of a better term, call "atmosphere", which in the present case means that the writer of these poems has made a good beginning.

The joke department in this and in coming numbers, is in charge of Drake. Original jokes, picked up around school, are mixed with those taken from the exchanges and should add to the interest of the department.

Exeter expects to make a strong showing this year and much interest is also felt in the twentieth annual Faculty Shield Meet, February 22, which will give some idea of the team's strength, although there are several who cannot compete in the schoolboy meet but are eligible for the home event.

College Notes

Harvard men are now beginning to turn their energies to baseball. Coach Mitchell expects to turn out a good team this year. Last year's infield is intact except for-one-man. Captain Nash-put great stress on the importance of standing well in lessons.

There is a great shortage of men at Harvard who are out for the position of coxswain, this year. Charley Abeles who was captain of the 1913 winning crew is to have charge of the coxswain candidates.

A fire probably caused by crossed four streams of water kept them cool enough to prevent an explosion. Documents of inestimable value were lost in the conflagration.

Class Basketball

Two games were played in the interclass basketball series last Wednesday afternoon and the results were: 1916, 30; 1919, 23; and 1917, 28; 1918, 6. In the game between the Seniors and Juniors, the latter seemed unable to strike thier stride in the first half which ended with 1916 leading 24 to 13. However, the losers forced the pace throughout the second period and made a desperate effort to win out, but they were unable to overcome such a big lead. The work of Captain Doyle of 1919 was of high calibre and he scored 19 of his team' points. Flynn and Horgan played the best games for the winners and were responsible for 28 of the 30 points. The lineups were as follows:

1916 Hazard (Preston), f.

f., Serven (Gowans) Flynn, f. f., Whipp Horgan, c. c., Doyle g., Braden Conroy, g. g., Nicholson

In the 1917-1918 game, the passing of the winners was the chief factor in their victory. The Lower Middlers proved no match for the undefeated 1917 team, and, at no time, did the winners have to exert themselves. The work of Crane and Davis was particularly noticeable for 1917, while West showed to the best advantage for the losers. The lineups were as follows:

Crane, f. f., Case Warren (Dresser), f. f., Bailey Munger, c. c., West Davis, g. Weber (Warren), g. g., Rock g., Randolph 祖置祖述

Archaeology Notes

In sorting over the large number of books which constituted the library of R. Singleton Peabody. founder of the Archaeology De partment of Phillips Academy, there were found some textbooks used by Mr. Peabody when he was a student in Phillips Academy, One of these a Greek Grammar is dated September 1855, and contains a number of notes, and daily excercises written on the fly leaves in the rear of the book.

Numbers of specimens found in the lower Merrimack Valley, bebetween Haverhill and Newburyport have been presented to the Department by Mr. W. Taylor of Haverhill. The collections from New England are increasing. Quite a number of specimens have been set aside for exchange pur-

Yale Football

Yale should begin to at least get her share of football victories in the future, writes W. W. "Pudge" Heffelfinger, one of Yale's great old players, in a letter which deals with the new football situation. "The committee that has been appointed should be able to get all factions working in one common cause. I want to say that I am well satisfied with the recent appointments of coach, athletic advisor and committee, but too much should not be expected until the new organization has had one vear in which to develop its plans."

This is good news to Yale men, who know "Pudge's" conservative way of looking at things. -
