MEDFORD HIGH IN FIRST HOCKEY GAME

Good Game May Be Expected on Rabbits Pond at 2.30 To-day

Varsity has been greatly handicapped because of lack of good ice

Weather conditions permitting, there will be a hockey game this afternoon between Andover and Medford High School. As this is the first real test which the team has had this season, the outcome should prove of much interest. Although the weather conditions have not been very good for hockey this season, there has been some practice, and with the fine new material that has shown up, Andover ought to be able to put up a good fight.

The game will start promptly at 2.30. All the fellows in school should turn out and give the team their support.

The probable lineup is as follows:

- Clough, Chittick, r. w.
- Paul, Dodd, c.
- Flanders, Thomas, r.
- Gratwick, Adams, l. w.
- Kahn, Temple, c. p.
- Wheeler, P. Wilson, p.
- Davis, Wells, g.

Mandolin Club to Play at Peabody House To-night

At 7 o'clock on Saturday evening in Peabody House, a picked portion of the Mandolin Club will give a concert. Many new selections will be played, and as the Mandolin Club this year is ranked with any college musical club, the entertainment should prove to be an excellent one.

Service Flag for School

At the recent meeting of the Board of Trustees the question of getting a service flag, which would indicate the number of fellows who have left school for active service, was brought up. A good many fellows since the war was declared last April, have left Andover to enter some branch of the service. It seems quite fitting that such a memorial be set up for them. This has not as yet been definitely decided upon, but it is hoped such a plan will be carried out.

Call for 1919 Basketball Men

Before long the Class Basketball series will commence, and it is imperative that the members of the class of 1919, who can play basketball, should put in some good, hard practice before the opening game. Several fellows have come out, although there has been no call for candidates, but there are not enough to form even a semblance of a team. Therefore, all men who have had previous experience, or who wish to play, report on the gym floor, dressed for practice, at 1:45 this afternoon.

Notice to Baseball Candidates

Baseball practice will be held to-day at the following hours: 1.00 o'clock, Batteries. 1.30 o'clock, Infielders and outfielders.

It is absolutely imperative that every man who intends to try out for the team should be present.

DR. ELLSWORTH LECTURES ON JOURNALISTIC WORK

Dr. Oliver Ellsworth, last night delivered a very interesting address on the subject of magazines. His talk dealt with the different types of magazine, and the purpose of each. Contrary to the opinion of many, during the two hundred years of magazine history some of the greatest of authors have contributed stories to them. Dickens, Thackeray and many others used to write for English magazines, while our own contributors have included Benjamin Franklin, Edgar Allan Poe and Longfellow.

The first American magazine was published by Franklin and called The Saturday Evening Post. Following this there came a long series of publications, Harper's being the most successful of them all.

Dr. Ellsworth called attention to the fact that in former times magazines accepted no advertising, while now they are to a great extent supported by this. He then explained about the method of running of a magazine and told many humorous stories about famous writers connected with them. Dr. Ellsworth's speech was greatly enjoyed by the hundred odd students and members of the faculty who were present.

Further Plans Announced for Dance January 26th

All members of the musical clubs who plan to attend the Rogers Hall dance at Peabody House on Saturday, the 26th, should give their names to Thornton, the manager,

AT ONCE. Next week, if a sufficient number have not signed up from the clubs, tickets will be sold to other members of the school in order of application until the number (60) is filled. There will be no "stags" allowed.

The girls will arrive by special car about 3 p.m., and after meeting their partners will be received by the patronesses, Miss Olive S. Parsons, Mrs. M. S. McCurdy, Mrs. C. M. Fuess, and Mrs. Guy H. Eaton, in the reading-room of Peabody House. Dancing will then be in order on both floors until 5.30, when supper will be served in the Grill Room. Dancing will then be continued until 7.30, when the girls return to Lowell by special car. The "Jazz" orchestra furnishes the music. R.O.T.C. uniforms will be worn.

Rooms to Be Inspected

Major Davy has announced that the rooms of members of the Andover R. O. T. C., will be at all times subject to inspection. Military discipline has made this movement necessary as the quarters of soldiers must always be neat and clean.

"Exonian" Now Weekly Paper

The Exonian board announced last Wednesday that the paper would be published only once a week instead of twice as has been the custom. The reason for this was said to be a deficit caused by increased cost of publication, and a decrease in advertisements, due to war conditions.

INITIAL SWIMMING MEET WITH SAILORS

Bumpkin Island Team, Aided by Leo Handy, Meets Varsity in Pool To-day

In the initial swimming meet of the season, the Varsity opposes the Bumpkin Island Naval Reserves this afternoon. There are several stars on the sailors' team, and it is to be expected that the Varsity will have to expend its greatest efforts in order to come out victorious.

The team has been practicing hard all this week, and for the last few days time trials have been held with extremely gratifying results. From what seemed mediocre material at the beginning of the year, exceptional material has been developed. In every event, the team is represented by men who can be counted on as point winners. The divers have steadily improved and the onlookers have a right to expect an exceptional exhibition.

There are nine men from last year's squad: Captain Neville, Ferguson, Meagher, Anderson, Morse, Townsend, DeCamp, Whipple, Moorehead, Bolton. A new man, who swims the 50-yard dash, is a brother of last year's captain.

The team has been working hard in preparation for this meet, and deserves the unqualified backing of the student body, this afternoon.

Coach Blanchard and Captain Neville have not decided positively upon the entries, but the following are the most probable contestants:

- 50-yards: Bolton and Whipple
- 100 yards: Townsend and Higgins
- 200-yards: Captain Neville and Marshall
- Relay team: Cushman, DeCamp, Moorehead, Pole
- Dive: Ferguson, Carlton, Foote
- Plunge: Meagher, Anderson, Morse

Valuable Paper Given to Library

George V. Smith '18, has given to the library a fac-simile of the Boston News Letter, dated April 17 to 24, 1704, the first number of the first permanent newspaper published in the colonies. Original copies of three other early American newspapers have also been presented. One of these, the Ulster County Gazette, contains a notice of the death of Washington and an account of the funeral services at Mount Vernon. Another newspaper is the Pennsylvania Packet, published in 1781, two months after the surrender of Cornwallis. The third paper contains General Sullivan's report to Congress of the progress of his expedition against the Six Nations in 1779.

These newspapers will make a very interesting addition to the library's historical material. They are now on exhibition in the library.

Paul Tison '14, is now serving on the Italian front in the ambulance service. Tison was one of the four men to join the service last spring from Harvard.

PHILO HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF TERM

The first meeting of Philo for the winter term was held last Wednesday evening. After the usual formalities, a secretary was elected to fill the position of E. Duffy, who was forced to resign. The officers for the winter term are now as follows:

- President, E. M. Rosenberg
- Vice-President, T. E. Lunt
- Secretary, J. C. Wilson
- Treasurer, D. E. Walch

President Rosenberg then gave a short talk on how to take notes. This talk was very helpful for those who are taking English, and the members appreciated it very much. To illustrate his point, President Rosenberg read a short article, and the members were given practice on taking notes on it.

There is no definite schedule of work yet for the next term, but the plans will be announced soon. Any fellows interested in debating or who wish to join Philo should see President Rosenberg at Bancroft Hall as soon as possible.

PRESIDENT UPHOLDS THE GARFIELD ORDER

Many Plants Officially Exempted, of Which the Nation at Large Knew Nothing

Garfield answers Senate's questions, says he is unable to comply with their wishes

The nation's manufacturing industry in the twenty-eight states east of the Mississippi river was virtually suspended to-day in obedience of the government's order forbidding the use of fuel.

Most of the plants engaged on war contracts were exempted from the order's operations in telegrams sent out last night, but few of them learned of it in time, and a great majority of these closed down with the other factories.

The country at large knew nothing of exemptions except the few announced, and it was not until yesterday afternoon that the fuel administration admitted officially that important war work was not affected by the Garfield order and gave out a list of hundreds of factories that may continue work on government contracts only during the five days closing period.

President Wilson yesterday gave out a statement of unequivocal support for the order, and Dr. Garfield put up a vigorous defense of the step he had taken and the government's purpose in taking it.

Opposition to the order in congress apparently spent itself in debate in both houses. During the day Dr. Garfield replied to the Senate's request of yesterday that the order be suspended for five days, disclaiming any purpose to be discourteous, declining to comply and again pointing out the necessity for the enforcement of his order.

The plants exempted from a list prepared by Secretary Baker and Secretary Daniels are those manufacturing gas masks, explosives for the government, rifles, pistols, machine guns, and small arms ammunition, forgings for the government, electrical supplies and tools steel for war purposes, destroyers and destroyer parts, seamless tubes and condenser tubes, aircraft and aircraft parts, signal corps equipment, locomotives, equipment for ships, woolen goods for the army and navy, white duck and tenting for the government, and optical supplies. Altogether there were a thousand plants exempted, of which the public knew nothing.

All shipyards, although not included in the exemption list, will continue operation under a special ruling, as will hundreds of plants turning out materials which enter directly into the manufacture of army and navy supplies. Most of the big steel plants and a large number of the country's automobile factories are in the list.

Among the collateral industries which will be classed as not coming within provision of the order will be virtually all mines producing ores.

In this statement supporting Dr. Garfield's issuance of the closing order, President Wilson says he was consulted and fully agreed with the fuel administrator as to its necessity. If the action had not been taken, he declares, immediate relief could not have been found for the fuel and transportation shortage.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 19, 1918

This issue is in charge of J. M. De Camp, '18.

In such times as these when our country is engaged in the greatest war the world has ever known, it is only natural for every fellow who possesses any slight degree of patriotism to be anxious to do his part. But we must remember that whatever service we offer to our country, must be put to use in the most efficient manner possible and used where it will do the most good. THE PHILLIPIAN has just received, through the Patriotic News Service, the following statement by Mr. Herbert Hoover, Food Administrator, addressed to college students on the subject of the college man and his part in the war:

To the college men of America I address myself with confidence, a confidence born of unforgettable experience.

In the relief of Belgium, most of the actual work of the Commission in the occupied territory was done by young American collegians. Each time a call was made for volunteers, many more than asked for offered their services. And those that were chosen performed their duties, not only effectively but with a spirit of devotion that made their service beyond praise. They combined idealism and efficiency. It is the combination that moves the world forward.

To-day all the young college men of America face a special responsibility and duty. At no time in the world's history has the technically trained mind been at a higher premium. And this need for it and demand on it will continue after the war is over. Hence the young man in college is faced with a serious problem. He must ask himself: Is the immediate need of me by my country in my present stage of training greater than this need will be later, and when I have acquired a higher training? This is a question the clear answer to which cannot be indicated for all by a single formula, because the young men in college find themselves under varying circumstances. Yet an answer in general terms of some helpfulness may be made.

To the younger men, the lower classmen, only beginning their professional training, I say: Keep on with your college work. If the war lasts long you will be needed more later than now; and you will be better qualified to fill the need then. If the war ends soon, there will still be urgent need for your help in the necessary great work of reconstruction and rehabilitation. The more advanced your training, the more mature your judgment, the more valuable you will be. So try to possess yourself in patience and stick to your college work.

To the upper classmen, I would say: Hold yourself ready to respond to your country's present need at any moment. Where you see your way clear to make your training useful, do not hesitate to follow the way. But you, too, should remember that every additional month or semester of training will make you a more effective helper to your country in this time of its emergency, ever growing more critical. So be willing and ready to go out, but go in no thoughtless hurry, nor merely to satisfy the natural restlessness of the moment.

Finally, to both lower and upper classmen, and to the great army of American college and university graduates, I would say: The country looks to you for justification of the advantages it has given or is now giving you. You are a privileged class. All special privilege brings special responsibility and special duty. Yours is the advantage of the expanded mind and the uplifted spirit. Your knowledge of the conditions and needs of your country; and your understanding of the real meaning of patriotism should be beyond those of the many denied your privilege. Therefore, your response to the call of your country's need should be quicker, more insistent, more persistent and more ready to adapt itself to any form of this need than that of the unprivileged many. You have already responded nobly to the call to the colors. But not all of you can now march to battle; not all of you should not or cannot, and all who are sticking to their work of making themselves fitter for their future service can still serve, and serve now. There is very much that you can do right now.

I would call your attention to just one of the many ways in which you can help, and help importantly. It is the way to insuring the absolutely necessary food supply to ourselves, and to our Allies.

Especially must the matter of the food supply of our Allies be stressed. The vital world problem of food is not generally understood. The popular view is too self-centered, too selfish—to use an ugly word. It does not look across the sea. The back-wash of Europe's misery does not carry to our shores. We do not know, and hence cannot feel, the pangs of hunger, and pain of hunger weakness that are everywhere in Europe. They are pains felt by our Allies as well as by our foes. We must make this known to all our people; that all our people may understand the great and indispensable and immediate role they must play in this all-important part of the war situation. You who can readily understand, must help.

You can impress on the people around you; and wherever you go, the fact that the critical phase of the world food problem is now, not the question of high or low prices, but the question of producing and saving and sending enough food to our Allies to keep them alive and strong and steadfast in war. The critical question now in this war is the question of the actual physical strength of the fighting nations.

You can understand it, and you can explain it. You can help us let the people of this country know that our Allies depend absolutely on us to maintain their food supply. They, themselves, simply cannot do it. If it is not done for them by us the end of the war is near, and it is a bad end, an inconceivably bad end. From every American college man the country expects the truest devotion, the truest patriotism and the highest service. And it will get it. You will give it.

HERBERT HOOVER
United States Food Administrator

Communication

Many fellows feel that there should be at least one outdoor sport during the winter, which could be classed as equal to gym. Although gymnasium work keeps a fellow physically fit, nevertheless it does not give him as much all around good as he would receive from an outdoor activity.

By banking and flooding all the tennis courts and a small portion of the campus, class hockey teams could be organized and a series of inter-class games could be played off during the winter. This would afford an outdoor form of exercise for all those who should not wish to take gym or any other indoor sport.

Communication

Last June the flagpole, which stands on the parade grounds directly in front of the gym, was purchased and put up by means of the money which was donated by each fellow in the Battalion in the classes of '17, '18, '19, and '20. It was erected on the condition that a metal tablet bearing the inscription of the four classes named above should be placed upon it. This subject was touched upon in one of the earlier issues of THE PHILLIPIAN last fall, but nothing has been accomplished in this line as yet by the school authorities. It seems only fair to the fellows of last year's battalion that this matter be taken up and given deep consideration, and that some statement of what is to be done, be given.

Mandolin Club Notes

For the first time, Andover is to have a complete Mandolin Orchestra, the instrumentation being as follows: First and second mandolins, mandolas; mando cellos, guitars, cello, piano and drums.

The mandolin club, as it is generally known in school and college, may be likened to a choir composed entirely of soprano and alto voices. The addition of the mandolas and mando cellos provides the tenor and bass voices necessary to a balance of tone.

The effect will be immediately noticeable; and the result should be the best club that has ever represented Phillips Academy.

Our mandolin club is more difficult to "make" than those at most schools, for knowledge of a playing system is considered necessary, and many who would like to be members of the club are unable to meet the tests.

On the other hand, we have a goodly number of able players, and it is from these fellows that we should be able to expect, in the few weeks that remain before the joint concert with Exeter, a strict and prompt attendance at every rehearsal, and a loyalty to the club that will manifest itself in a willingness to do anything that is necessary to make the work of the club and the coming concert a big success.

R. O. T. C. to Study Theories of Modern Warfare

Last Wednesday, Major Davy announced that the battalion would be divided up into sections in order that musketry and bayonet work might be taught more thoroughly and conveniently. These classes are arranged as follows:

Company A will report at 2 o'clock on Monday of each week.

Company B will report at 2.45 on Monday of each week.

Members of Company C having no gym on Thursday will report at 3 o'clock on Thursday of each week. Members of this company who do have gym will report at 3 o'clock on Friday of each week.

Members of Company D having no gym Friday will report each Friday at 3 o'clock. Members of this company having gym Friday will report at 3 every Thursday.

Cuts will be given to men who fail to appear at these classes and who have not been excused, as it is imperative that every man get the fundamental principles of this work.

The entire battalion will meet on Wednesday as usual. The number of hours work done under the new method will be the same as before.

Since the battalion has progressed so rapidly in close order drill, Major Davy has decided to take up some of the finer points of modern warfare. Chosen commissioned officers, under the supervision of Major Davy and Captain Hewett, are to teach these specialties. Each officer will have picked sergeants to help him in instructing the battalion.

Capt. Eudy, Lieut. Gates and Lieut. Tierney will have charge of all close order and extended order work for the squad, platoon, company and battalion; Capt. Peck is in charge of physical training; Capt. Furlow, of bayonet fighting; Major Davy, of topography, and tactics and trench warfare; Lieut. Burnham, band and bugle corps; Lieut. W. E. Stevenson, of quartermaster's department; Capt. Roberson, of musketry.

The battalion has just received a shipment of 110 rifles and 70 bayonets from the government. The rifles are the Krag model 98. More are expected to arrive later, but in any event, there will not be enough to equip the entire battalion.

The battalion will go through a very extensive course of training during the winter term. Captain Roberson will give instruction in the manual of arms and the care of the rifle, and Captain Furlow will teach the manual of the bayonet. The battalion will also study topography, personal hygiene, first-aid, and will practice bomb-throw-

Under the able direction of an experienced bandmaster, the brass band and bugle corps are progressing rapidly. The membership of the band is complete, but there are still a few vacancies in the bugle and drum corps. The signal corps is likewise speedily perfecting itself, and so by the end of the term the battalion, with its various branches, should be quite proficient in the arts of war.

Two Lieutenants Join Service

Two lieutenants of the Andover Battalion left school last Thursday to take a preliminary course in aviation. These men are Walter C. Wicker, and Edward Stephenson. They are to learn the building of aeroplanes as well as the art of managing them. Upon leaving school, they started for the Dayton-Wright Aeroplane Company, which is located at Dayton, Ohio. After becoming experts on the mechanical devices of the machine, they will be sent to the Wilbur Wright Aviation Fields, where they will complete their course before being sent across the seas.

Walter C. Wicker whose home is in Chicago, Ill., entered school in the fall of 1915. He received his previous military training at Morgan Park Military Academy, which he attended for three years. While at school he was manager of the winning class football team. He was first lieutenant in Co. A, of the Andover Battalion, which position he held last year. Wicker was very popular with the men of his company and his vacancy will be a hard place to fill.

Edward E. Stephenson entered school in 1915, and, although he hasn't held any prominent place in athletics, he was one of the most popular student officers of the Battalion. He was a second lieutenant last year and also held the same position this year. Stephenson had much military training before entering Andover. He was in the National Guard in Indianapolis for ten months and in the regular U. S. Army for seven months. While in the regular army he was a member of the Field Artillery. Stephenson has the makings of a good aviator.

We wish these men all kinds of luck and are confident that they will be as successful in aeroplane warfare as they have been in the Infantry game.

ANDOVER MEN

The time will be when most every Andover man will build his own home and choose for himself the materials out of which it is to be made. When this time comes you must select, among other things, a roofing material suitable for your particular purpose. When you build your home specify

Certain-teed

Slate-Surfaced

Asphalt Shingles

These shingles are made of a thick sheet of roofing felt, which is thoroughly saturated in, and coated with special blends of Asphalts and surfaced with genuine crushed slate in natural red or green colors. The body of the shingle is fire-resisting and the slate on the surface adds materially to the fire-retardant properties. Certain-teed Shingles make a beautiful, yet durable, roof, and they are always sold at a reasonable price by lumber and hardware dealers everywhere. Certain-teed Shingles are guaranteed for a period of 10 years, and this guarantee is made and backed by the largest manufacturers of roofing and building papers in the world.
