NOTED AMERICAN POET GIVES FINE LECTURE

LOUIS UNTERMAYER DISCUSSES MODERN AMERICAN POETRY
IN AMUSING MANNER

The first of a series of lectures to be presented during the year was given last evening in the auditorium of George Washington Hall by Mr. Louis Untermeyer. Mr. Untermeyer is well known as one of the finest living American poets; and some of his works have already reached the point where they may be considered as classics. From the students' point of view he is famous for his Anthologies, which have frequently been used in the English Department of Phillips Academy.

After Dr. Stearns had given the speaker a brief introduction, Mr. Untermeyer began his talk by saying that he sincerely hoped that the fact that the students used his books would not make him disliked from the start. He said that in his early career, he was forced to make numerous speeches to groups of people, and finally he decided to prepare three lectures which he learned by heart. However, these became so mechanical that he decided to speak extemporaneously on the general aspects of poetry. He explained that the first hour of his talk would be taken up with a brief discussion of the general aspects of modern English and American poetry, and following this he would answer questions.

He then started in a somewhat sarcastic tone of voice to discuss the changes which the English language, as spoken by the American people, has taken in the past fifteen years. After a brief stay in England, during which he was forced to translate American slang into clear English, he has returned, and noticed a great change in the language. He gave two humorous comparisons illustrating the difference between a headline in one of the leading Boston newspapers and a London paper. He also added that when Sinclair Lewis's books were published in England, a three page glossary was necessary for the English people to understand the slang words and phrases which were in the book.

Mr. Untermeyer then read several modern American poems to defend the modern poetry against the critics who claim that the present literature lacks all the beauty and style that the poets of the past have possessed. He said that the works of Amy Lowell, Robinson, and other New England poets, showed a great gain in simplicity of language and style. No complicated glossaries are necessary to enjoy them. Their works are about daily occurrences, and they interest the general populace. In the last few years, American poetry has gone through three movements. In the beginning free verse was popular and any one who attempted to write with any rhyme was considered queer. This form of verse gradually disappeared and sonnets of formal rhyme took their place. About three years ago a queer combination of the two forms appeared.

Here Mr. Untermeyer ended the main part of his address, and dur-

SOCIETY OF INQUIRY RECEIVES AMHERST MEN

ADVANTAGES OF SMALL COL-LEGE POINTED OUT

A large crowd greeted the Amherst delegation last Thursday at the regular meeting of the Society of Inquiry. President Odgen welcomed the Amherst men and stated that Andover was particularly glad to welcome representatives from the Head Master's Alma Mater, as well as to receive two former Andover men.

The first speaker introduced was John P. Grant. Mr. Grant is Manager of Football at Amherst, President of Scarab, a Senior Honorary Society, and Secretary of the Christian Association. Mr. Grant spoke on the helpful influences of a small college. He related that Amherst consisted of about seven hundred students. This enables the fellows to know others outside of their own immediate circle, class, and fraternity. He stressed the importance of small classes where the students had closer contact and intimate acquaintance with the professors. The fact that a college is small does not mean that the faculty and the equipment are poorer, but that small colleges are heavily endowed and have strong leaders on the faculty. A fellow's ambitions, he stated, are more likely to be realized than in a larger university.

The extra curriculum activities at Amherst are many and the two publications are the Amherst Student, a bi-weekly newspaper similar to THE PHILLIPIAN, and the Lord Jeff, a pseudo-humorous magazine. There are several clubs and jazz orchestras, and there is lively competition. He concluded by praising the Society of Inquiry, stating that Amherst was endeavoring to carry out a similar program. Mr. Grant's contention was that there was plenty of recognition and opportunity for the average student at Amherst, and that the spirit of a small college was the strongest tie in binding the student body, the faculty, and the Alumni together.

The second speaker was Mr. Robert Rollins, who was president of the Sophomore Class, and is now a member of the Interfraternity Council as well as the Honor Committee and Student Council. Mr. Rollins spoke on the socializing influences of a small college, particularly at Amherst. Fraternities were strongly emphasized, not as isolated centers, but as centers for friendship and ideals. Seventy percent of the students belong to the thirteen fraternities at Amherst. The fellows live in the Fraternities and the same general spirit prevails as in the College dormitories. However, the students do not eat in the fraternities at Amherst and few live outside of the fraternities and the dormitories.

Getting to know your comrades intimately, the contact of personality with personality, and sharing your ideals and ambitions, explained Mr. Rollins, made for lasting friendships. In addition to the social contacts at Amherst, tea dances frequently occur to keep the students at Amherst. This puts a check to many week-end

ELECTIONS

At a meeting of the football letter men last Wednesday afternoon, Brett Osborne, '29, of Ravinia, Illinois, was elected football captain for next year. Osborne has played on the varsity team for the last three years, the first two at end and this last year at tackle where he starred consistently.

Wednesday morning, the student body elected Leroy B. Pitkin, '29, of Englewood, New Jersey, as the football manager for next year's season.

William H. Frank, '28, of Larchmont, New Jersey, was elected captain of the second football team last Wednesday when the team picture was taken.

James William Bannon, Jr. was elected captain of soccer for next year at the election held at the Huntress studio last Thursday afternoon. Bannon, who is a member of the Upper Middle class, was at fullback position this last season where he played an unusually strong defensive game.

WINTER ATHLETICS SOON TO COMMENCE

VARSITY SPORTS ON MONDAY AFTER THANKSGIVING

On the Monday following Thanksgiving, athletics for the winter term will begin in the five respective divisions; i.e., basketball, hockey, swimming, wrestling, and track. The candidates have already signed up for their sports and will begin practice on the date mentioned above. Since the first contest is not scheduled till January 14th, work until then will consist in rounding the material into shape and forming the teams.

BASKETBALL

Andover will begin the basketball season under a slight handicap. The only material from last year's team reporting this year consists in Captain Harriss, since Avery, the only other veteran remaining will confine his activities to track, of which sport he is captain. The absence of Avery will be felt deeply, because he has led his teammates in scoring for the past two seasons. Lindenberg, who played left end on the football team, is reported to be an excellent basketball player, but he has greater ability as a track man and for that reason will report for relay work instead.

In the absence of Mr. Blackmer, who is studying abroad this year, Mr. Sides will probably coach the Blue candidates.

The schedule arranged for the season by Manager William Smyth is as follows:

Jan. 14—Harvard Fresh at Andover.
Jan. 18—Tufts Fresh at Andover.
Jan. 21—Huntington at Andover.
Jan. 28—Dean at Andover.
Feb. 4—St. John's Prep. at Andover.

Feb. 8—Lowell High School at Andover.
Feb. 15—Lawrence High School at Andover.
Feb. 28—Yale Fresh at Andover.
March 3—Worcester at Worcester.

March 10—Exeter at Andover.

"MEET THE WIFE" TO BE GIVEN THIS EVENING

PHIDELAH RICE PLAYERS IN CLEVER FARCE

It is seldom that any entertainment is presented here which promises to please the student body at large so much as does "Meet the Wife." The play has made tremendous successes in record runs in both New York and Chicago. Mary Bolen, whose latest achievement, "Cradle Snatchers," was very popular in New York, played in "Meet the Wife" in its first Chicago production at the Blackstone Theatre. On Cape Cod this summer the play won great approval when the original star, Janet Beecher, played in it for a short but very successful season.

The Phidelah Rice Players, who will present the play here tonight, are a well known stock company of Boston and vicinity, and are on a tour of New England at present. Mr. Rice, who assembled the players into this group, has been well known as an actor for years. For quite some time before forming the present organization, he ran a similar company on Martha's Vineyard. As can be seen, he is a man of ability and efficiency in his work. His players have talent, and all who intend to go tonight are assured of seeing a smooth, well-acted performance that is a finished production in every sense of the word.

"Meet the Wife" is a comedy of situations involving a typical club-going woman, who is very dictatorial and has her whole being bound up in a desire to be a leader in society and to sun herself in the public's approving gaze. Her insatiable desire for the attention of the populace leads her into complications arising later with a former husband, who supposedly was killed in the San Francisco earthquake. In the unravelling of the plot, the odd relations between all the parties are settled. A minor plot is concerned with a daughter by the first marriage, who encounters obstacles in her path but finally overcomes her difficulties and proves again that love will find its way.

Cleverly worked out minor circumstances constantly bring about mirth-provoking situations in the play. Almost every line has some amusing faint in it and there is not a dull moment from start to finish. It is a type of play that has a distinct appeal to younger minds, and should be well received here.

Tickets for the performance may be secured at Mr. Healey's office during the morning hours and at the auditorium door before the play begins. The prices will be fifty cents for students and those connected with the school, and one dollar for all others.

Chapel Speakers

The speaker at both chapel services tomorrow will be the Reverend Albert B. Coe of the Second Congregational Church of Waterbury, Connecticut. Dr. Gerald A. Cunningham of Stamford, Connecticut, was scheduled as the speaker for tomorrow's services, but because of illness, he has been obliged to cancel his appointment.

ALL-CLUB OVERWHELMS EXETER ALL-CLASS TEAM

ANDOVER BACKS STAR IN 20-0 VICTORY

The Andover all-club team easily defeated the Exeter all-class team in an excellent game last Wednesday afternoon. The all-club men outplayed their Exeter opponents from start to finish, and the result was never in doubt, every man on the Andover team playing good, clean football at all times. During the first half the Exeter aggregation did not make a first down, and, on the whole, they lost more than they gained. The all-club backfield had very little trouble and made many large gains through the line and around the ends. Although the men had been playing together for only a week, the plays of both teams were run off with surprising smoothness. Captain Bryant and Wallace were the backfield luminaries, while Jenkins and Johnston excelled in the line. A cleverly executed forward pass from Dorman to Bryant accounted for the first touchdown in the second quarter. The second touchdown was the result of a clever trick forward pass from Dorman to Chaffee to Schrieber, who ran twelve yards for the score. Wallace scored the final touchdown on a beautiful end run. Dorman kicked two goals after touchdown and, on another occasion, he barely missed a field goal. During the last few minutes Coach Jacob made substitutions at random, and practically every man on the squad will receive his numerals.

FIRST HALF

Exeter kicked off to the Blue forty yard line. Schrieber made seven off tackle, and Wallace made a first down at end. After the Exeter line had held for three downs, Dorman kicked over the goal line, and it was Exeter's ball on their twenty yard line. Exeter kicked to their own forty yard line, where Schrieber was downed in his tracks. Dorman again kicked over the goal line, and Exeter again received the ball on their twenty yard line. Exeter lost twelve yards on a poor pass from center. Jenkins blocked the Exeter kick, but the visitors recovered on their four-yard line. The Exeter punt rolled to the middle of the field, Wallace made fifteen yards around end. Exeter recovered a fumble on their own thirty-five yard line. Exeter kicked to the Andover thirty-five yard line. Bryant made fifteen yards through the center of the line and Wallace made twelve off tackle for another first down. However, Exeter finally held and it was their ball on downs on their thirty yard line. Schrieber ran a kick back to his forty-five yard line. After an exchange of punts, Dorman kicked out of bounds on the Exeter sixteen yard line. Chaffee intercepted a forward pass on the Exeter twenty yard line. A forward pass, Dorman to Bryant, netted twenty yards and a touchdown. The extra point was not secured. Exeter kicked off to the Andover forty yard line. Schrieber and Bryant made a first down through the line. Andover barely missed a line. Schrieber and Bryant made a first down through the line. Andover barely missed a first

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1927

Not a few of those fellows who have played on the second varsity football or baseball teams have objected to the form of insignia which they receive for such a distinction. Their objections are offered chiefly on the ground that the present award, a 2nd, causes the wearer to appear as if he had come in second in some race unknown to all except those dwelling in the immediate vicinity of Phillips Academy. The second varsity track team is given a blue AAA on a white sweater, standing for Andover Athletic Association, the equivalent to any minor sport letter, and indicative because of the A, of the school at which it was won. No other major or minor sport, other than the two in consideration, does not have the A in their insignia. We propose that the same privilege be given to the second football and baseball teams as is given to the second track team, and suggest the changing of the present award to the former groups from the unhandsome 2nd to a white AAA on a blue sweater; and since the letter of the first football team is higher than that of the baseball team, we feel that the same distinction should be shown also in regard to their respective second teams: let the football AAA be six inches in height and the baseball five, the latter being the same size as the track AAA but with the color combination reversed. This system will not only eliminate the disadvantages recounted above of the old system but it will have the added advantage of making more uniform the insignia for the second teams of all major sports. We hope it will be taken into serious consideration by the Advisory Board.

Red Cross Roll Call

The annual drive for Red Cross Membership will be held next Tuesday evening. For many years it has been the proud record of the school to maintain a one hundred percent record. We have usually raised at least $800, and should do better than that this year in view of the unusual demand all about us. In order to raise $800 there must be many who will give more than one dollar. Be generous. The cause is good. Give all you can and be ready with your cash, in order to make the work as easy as possible for the collectors. Remember the old proverb, "He who gives quickly gives twice." Give cash — no pledges are acceptable.

ing the next ten minutes he gave an opinion of his superior poets. He said that he had sent several Mother Goose poems to thirty different poets in order that they could try to make them more attractive. The results were very amusingly written in present day language. In conclusion, he read several of these by Davis, Seaman, and Masefield.

down, and it was Exeter's ball on downs. Whittlesey was then substituted for MacCarteney. Dorman intercepted a forward pass on the Exeter forty yard line as the half ended. Score: Andover 6, Exeter 0.

SECOND HALF

Exeter ran the kick-off back to midfield. Exeter made a first down through the line and then kicked to the Andover twenty yard line. Dorman kicked to the Exeter 45 yard line. Exeter again made a first down through the line. Schriberan the Exeter punt back to the Andover twenty-five yard line. Bryant made fifteen yards through guard. Chaffee downed Dorman's punt on the Exeter thirty yard line. A forward pass, Dorman to Bryant, made a first down. Dorman and Schriber made another first down through center. A forward pass, Dorman to Chaffee to Schriber, made another touchdown. Dorman added the extra point by a drop-kick. Exeter ran the kick-off back to their thirty yard line. Due to the wind Exeter lost five yards on a punt which did not cross the line of scrimmage. Dorman and Bryant made a first down through guard. Dorman made five yards around end. Wallace made a beautiful run around end for the third touchdown. Dorman again kicked the goal. Chapin was substituted for Schriber. Exeter's ball on their own twenty yard line after the kick off. Chapin ran the Exeter punt back to the forty yard line. A forward pass from Dorman to Wallace netted twenty-five yards. Dorman's attempt for a field goal was wide by about three inches. Exeter's ball on their own twenty yard line. Exeter made a first down through tackle. Exeter kicked to the Andover forty-five yard line as the game ended. Final score: Andover All-club 20; Exeter All-class 0.

other sport. With a wealth of veteran material from last year and many new fellows reported to be crack swimmers, Coach Duke has a fine prospect for a championship team. It will be remembered that Exeter won last year by a comfortable but not a decisive margin. The Blue team this year should be more experienced and prove a stiff opponent for our New Hampshire rivals.

The members remaining from last year's team are: Westfall, captain of the sport this year; Bench,

BRETT OSBORNE

W. Kimball, W. Brainard, Jeffery, and R. G. Anderson, holder of the school record in the backstroke event.

The schedule is as follows:

Jan. 18—Yale Fresh at Andover.
Jan. 21—Dartmouth Fresh at Andover.
Jan. 28—Boston Boys' Club at Andover.
Feb. 4—Open.
Feb. 11—Open.
Feb. 25—Worcester at Worcester.
March 3—Huntington at Andover.
March 10—Exeter at Exeter.

WRESTLING

Coach Carlson has from last year's team but two veterans, Captain-elect M. E. Ganley and Flarsheim, both of whom won most of their contests last season and should undoubtedly be even better this season. In addition many good candidates are expected to report at the opening of practice, so that Andover should have her usual strong team this year.

Manager T. O. Greenough has arranged the following schedule:

Jan. 21—Yale Fresh at Andover.
Jan. 28—Brown Fresh at Providence.
Feb. 4—Springfield Fresh at Andover.
Feb. 11—M. I. T. Fresh at Andover.
Feb. 25—Open.
March 3—Open.
March 10—Tufts Fresh at Andover.

TRACK

Coach Shepard will have his candidates start work for an active indoor season after Thanksgiving. Assistant Coach Shields will handle the relay team candidates, and will have several boys, among them Lindenberg, who were reputed to be fast sprinters in their high school circles. Barres, captain of the Blue quartet a year ago, and Newfield are the veterans who can be depended upon for two places on the team.

The track schedule for the indoor season is as follows:

Jan. 28—Brown Fresh (pending at Andover).
Feb. 5—Exeter at B. A. A. games.
Feb. 11—Harvard Fresh at Andover.
Feb. 25—Open.
March 3—Dartmouth Fresh at Hanover.

HOCKEY

Hockey prospects for this year are very good with four letter men returning. Captain Rosenfeld, McDougal, Adams, and Pierce are the nucleus from which Mr. Olmstead, recently appointed coach of hockey, will mold his team. In addition many new fellows of promise, among them Wheeler, are expected to report. Until the weather permits outdoor work, all practice will be confined in the gymnasium to drill in shooting.

Mr. Olmstead will be assisted occasionally this year by a friend in Boston, a former hockey player. In this sport this year the coach intends to try a new system. For the first few weeks he will give a lecture course along with practice. The candidates will be required to keep a notebook and thus better acquaint themselves with the principles of the game. He also will pick a group of about ten fellows for special work over the Christmas vacation. He has arranged with the coach of Newton High school for daily scrimmages with the Newton team. It is possible that the team may have some practice in the arena in Boston.

Mr. Olmstead hopes to popularize hockey to a still greater degree here and to put the sport on a firmer basis in school by the improvement of facilities.

Manager William Hyde has arranged the following schedule for the winter term:

Jan. 14—Newton H. S. at Andover.
Jan. 18—Harvard 2nd at Andover.
Jan. 21—St. John's Prep at Andover.
Jan. 25—Melrose H. S. at Andover.
Feb. 4—Belmont Hill school at Andover.
Feb. 8—Harvard Fresh at Boston arena.
Feb. 11—Exeter at Andover.

trips. He also disclosed the religious and serious side of college life, mentioning the benefits derived in the forum of open discussions. The Clerical Club at Amherst is for religious discussions and for other related subjects. The fine college spirit engendered in these discussion groups gives a fellow a point of view which he will carry through life.

Following the speakers, the fellows asked all sorts of questions about college life in general, and Amherst in particular. Questions were asked concerning the life at Amherst, the kind of Student Government prevailing, whether Chapel was compulsory or voluntary, how many cuts were allowed in college, the cost of tuition and of living, and the proximity of Smith College. The sincerity and earnestness of the speakers made a distinct impression.

Following the discussions a brief social meeting was declared, and refreshments were served. Mr. Grant and Mr. Rollins were introduced to most of the fellows present. The meeting adjourned at 7.50 p.m.

S. Neidlinger, P. A. '19, has been made coach of the Princeton Freshman Hockey Team.

Four weeks from now you will be about starting for home and Christmas. A photograph for each of your nearest relatives and friends is the best Christmas present you can make. But your time is short for getting them—arrange at once for your sitting.

NOTE—School agents will soon canvass for orders for school and class pictures; the best, by the way, for some years in spite of the mild (?) rough housing.

Review of Fall Athletics

As the fall season for athletics comes to a close, it is interesting to look back over the records of the teams which represented the school. The football team, although suffering many setbacks which might have indicated a poor season, entered the final game against Exeter with the odds heavily against them. In spite of this, the game ended a scoreless tie; and the Blue team, although greatly outweighed, completely outplayed their opponents for two periods and threatened to score on several occasions. By virtue of this last game, the record of the team must be regarded as successful in spite of the defeats in the three first games.

At the beginning of the season, Coach Shepard started practice with only four letter men returning from last year's squad. Captain Gould, Barres, and Osborne were material for the line and Avery for the backfield; but, in addition to these, there were several men from last year's second varsity and club teams who showed up well in practice as well as a few new men.

The first game with Dartmouth Freshmen resulted in a defeat for Andover, mainly because of Dartmouth's heavier line. Capt. Gould played a fine game, however, and Wheeler, a new man who was at the quarterback position, gave much promise of becoming excellent back field material.

In the second game, Harvard Fresh defeated Andover 25-0, in a game which was rather discouraging. Before the heavy but fast freshman team, the Blue were unable to even threaten their opponents' goal line, and the defense failed to stop the powerful opposing backs. After a week of intensive practice following this game however, the team next went to New Haven to meet the Yale freshmen. Here they made a much better showing than on the preceding Saturday, and, although outplayed throughout the game, losing 9-0, Wheeler and Healey of the backfield showed up extremely well.

The next game showed an entirely different sort of team on the field. Playing against Lawrence High who before the game was regarded as a slight favorite, Andover's line opened up great holes in their opponents' forward defense, and the backs went through for long gains to win, 13-0.

The next game with Dean was cancelled, but on November fifth, New Hampshire Fresh were the opponents. As this was the week before the objective game with Exeter, Coach Shepard started the "grey jerseys" in order to save as much strength as possible for the following Saturday. After the substitutes had held the freshmen scoreless for the first period, the varsity was sent in and at the end of the last quarter was leading, 14-0.

Then came the final game with Exeter. For four periods the teams battled to a scoreless deadlock, but because of the handicap of weight under which the Blue team entered the game, the result might well be called an Andover victory. In this game Capt. Gould playing his last football game for Andover, proved to be the outstanding man on the field, setting a fine example for his teammates. Osborne, Barres, and Lindenbergh also played fine games on the line, and the entire backfield made its best showing of the season.

Too much praise cannot be given to Coach Shepard, his assistants, and to Captain Gould; for, in spite of the poor showing made during the first part of the season, they kept the spirit of the team on fighting edge and in the final game sent forth a team which put up a battle for victory that will remain long in the memory of those who witnessed it.

Of this year's letter men to return for the 1928 season, there are Capt.-elect Osborne, Houston Westfall, Stebbins, Wheeler, Newton, Healey, and Churchill. Those lost by graduation are Capt. Gould, Barres, Avery, Lindenbergh, Hoffman, Coyle, Ingelfinger, and Miller.

The Soccer team showed what good coaching can do for poor material. With only four letter men back, Capt. Greenough, R. B. Greenough, J. S. Pugh, and H. T. Jones, Coach Ryley developed a team which will go down in history as one of the best athletic teams in the history of the school. It is sufficient to say that in reward for their excellent ability on the playing field the faculty set a precedent by voting to give charms to a minor sport team.

Andover opened her season auspiciously by defeating the strong Dean team by a score of five to nothing. The Andover team showed great superiority and the ball hardly ever was in their territory.

In its next game Andover again proved its worth by defeating Tabor 2 to 0. In spite of the close score, Andover again greatly outplayed its opponents and it was twenty minutes before the Tabor players could force the ball into Andover's territory.

Bridgewater Normal was the next victim by a 3 to 0 score. The team then journeyed to Cambridge and defeated the Harvard Freshmen, 4 to 1. This was the only time when Andover was scored on during the entire season.

The last home game of the season was with the Dartmouth Freshmen. In this contest the Andover team prepared itself for the final game with Worcester by a six to nothing victory.

On Saturday, November 5th, the team journeyed to Worcester and decisively defeated the Worcester team by the largest score ever amassed in the history of soccer competition between the two schools.

Throughout the whole season the Greenough brothers were easily the stars. Capt. Greenough was the chief cog in both the offense and the defense while his brother did more than his share in the defense of the Andover goal.

During the past season six records were broken all of which were a credit to the team, to Coach Ryley, and to Capt. Greenough, and they should be congratulated. They not only amassed the greatest number of goals ever amassed during one season, but also they were scored on the least. They defeated Worcester for the first time on their own field and by the greatest score ever made. J. S. Pugh captured individual honors in the Worcester game scoring three goals, while by its victory the team completed its fourth undefeated season.

Foreign Calls for Help Answered by Red Cross

Despite the unusual requirements of relief in 77 disasters within the United States, the people of the country, through the American Red Cross, extended relief to sufferers in 20 disasters in foreign lands.

These included hurricanes in the West Indies, desolating portions of Cuba, Santo Domingo, Porto Rico, the Isle of Pines, the Bahamas, and other islands in the group; fires in Haiti and Porto Rico, floods in Mexico and Yugoslavia, earthquakes in Japan, the Azores Islands, Armenia and Albania, and refugee relief operations in Bulgaria, Syria, and China.

During the Eleventh Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24, the American Red Cross will seek a membership of 5,000,000 to keep its disaster relief and other services constantly ready for any call.

14 Disasters at One Time Call for Red Cross Work

The great size of a disaster does not necessarily mean that it has the stage to itself.

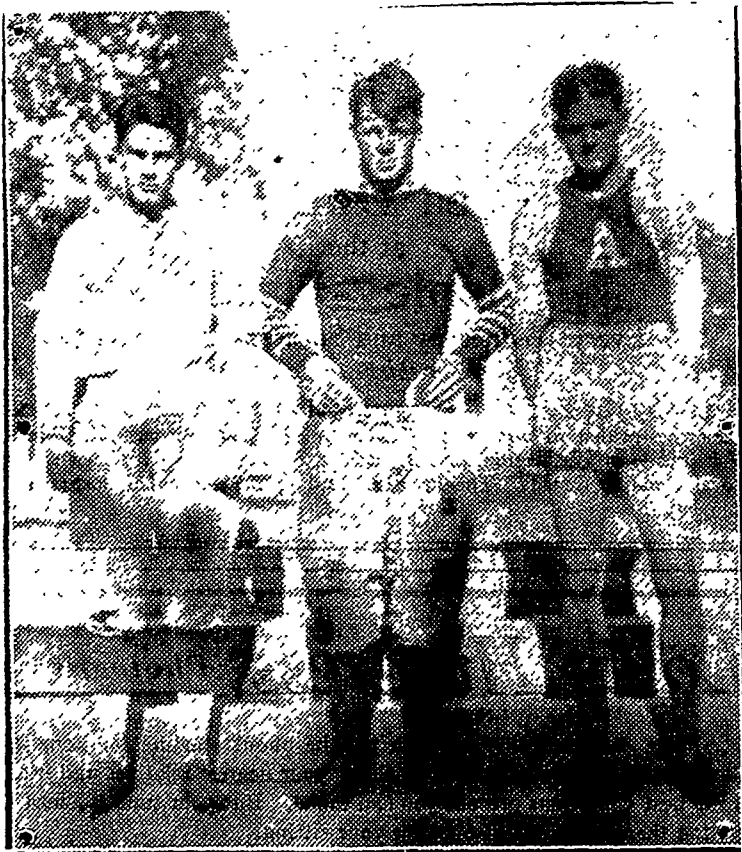

The American Red Cross relief forces were impressed with this fact during the Mississippi Valley flood in recent months. While the relief forces were struggling with this greatest of all disasters in United States history, from April to June they were obliged to furnish relief in 21 other emergencies, including 11 tornadoes. In one tornado approximately 17,000 persons were assisted.

At one period the Red Cross was conducting relief operations in 14 disasters simultaneously, scattered over a wide territory.

Citing the continuity of demands on the organization's resources, Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross has announced the need of 5,000,000 adult members as a result of the Roll Call, Nov. 11 to 24.

The Tenth Anniversary of America's entry into the World War in 1917, is an appropriate time to join the American Red Cross and participate through membership in its peace-time services. Join during the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24.
