

SEASON CLOSURES FOR WINTER CLUB SPORTS

WRESTLING

In the last wrestling meet of the season the Gauls overwhelmed the Romans 17½ to 1½, and the Saxons beat the Greeks 16½ to 6½. The Gauls have never been defeated and will get their numerals. Captain Bromell, Beebe, and Eiseman of this team received two falls each, and Beebe was high scorer with twenty-eight points. Burgweger was the Romans' best man, getting one fall, one decision, and one default. Captain Purney of the Saxons, although he did not have the highest number of points of all the wrestlers, probably deserves the most credit of all, since he received no defaults, three falls, and a decision. The Greeks had almost no chance of winning right from the start, since they had no men in the 115-lb., 125-lb., and 165-lb. classes.

SWIMMING

In the final club swimming meet held last Wednesday, the Romans beat the Gauls 32-21, and the Greeks beat the Saxons 30-22. This leaves the Romans leaders in the series, with the Greeks second, the Saxons third, and the Gauls fourth.

FENCING TEAM LOSES LAST MEET OF SEASON

HARVARD '31 WINS 5 TO 4

Last Wednesday afternoon in the Harvard gymnasium the Harvard freshman team won from the Andover team by the score of 5-4. Although the score would seem to indicate a closely contested meet, the competition was really quite one-sided, for the Harvard varsity team, having a meet following with Boston University, wanted the room and the freshmen, being already in the lead, defaulted the last three of their matches to Andover. As

HARVARD MEN SPEAK AT SOCIETY OF INQUIRY

EXCELLENT PROGRAM PRESENTED

Last Thursday evening the Society of Inquiry entertained five leaders of Harvard student life in one of the most interesting meetings of the year. The speakers came early in order to have dinner in the grill with a group of Andover fellows going to Harvard and discuss with them informal questions about college life. The arrangement of the program was left to the visitors and they made it unusual and very attractive. Henderson opened the meeting with an imitation of the way theater music to accompany news reels should sound. He did it cleverly, contrasting a fire scene with a long Coolidge speech, ski-jumping with a religious ceremony in Siam, and so forth. The musician is leader of the Gold Coast Orchestra and a member of the Hasty Pudding Club. Lind next took his violin and with his classmate accompanying him at the piano, gave several beautiful selections from Fritz Kreisler. Their playing added a new tone to the meeting and was greatly appreciated by the students. Owing to a later engagement to give a recital in Boston, these two contributors had to leave early.

The first of the speakers was W. Jones, who was a baseball player here and president of the Society of Inquiry before his graduation in nineteen twenty-four; and who is now preparing for his third year on the Crimson diamond. He told the fellows that although they are restricted here, they will find the change very much more gradual into college life and will be more prepared to cope with the new problems that confront them than fellows entering from schools which grant no liberties.

French, captain-elect of the Crimson football team, spoke on the value of athletics from the standpoint of sportsmanship. He went to England last year with the Harvard-Yale track team and found that the British school boys play the game for its own sake and not necessarily to win. They believe that anybody can win, but that it takes a pretty fine fellow to lose like a man. The speaker's next point was the friends you make on the athletic field, and he said in part that men find their real selves in athletic contests and discover

MUSICAL CLUBS TO GIVE ANNUAL CONCERT

PERFORMANCE AT 8:15 TONIGHT

This evening at 8.15 o'clock the combined musical clubs of Phillips Academy will give a concert in the auditorium of George Washington Hall. The concert promises to be very entertaining and extremely well done as all the clubs have put a good deal of time towards preparing their selections. The Glee Club and Orchestra will be, as usual, under the direction of Dr. Pfatteicher and Mr. Handley will direct the Mandolin Club.

The Mandolin Club and Orchestra will each play two sets of numbers while the Glee Club will present three. There will also be a selection sung by Kennedy and Ludlam. Dr. Pfatteicher and Mr. Handley have chosen the pieces with the greatest care and they should be very interesting to hear. The Glee Club has had a large turn-out this year and Dr. Pfatteicher has had a better opportunity to choose than on former occasions and the voices should be very good.

After careful consideration the following program has been arranged by the authorities:

- | | |
|--|-------------------|
| National Emblem | Bagley |
| Darkey's Dream | Lansing |
| Mandolin Club | |
| Go down, Moses | Arr. Burleigh |

ANDOVER TO MEET RED AND GRAY IN SWIMMING AND BASKETBALL

CLOSE SWIMMING MEET EXPECTED

EXETER SLIGHT FAVORITE

The eighth annual swimming meet with the Red and Gray will be held at Exeter at two o'clock. The Exonians, because of a better season's record, are favored by the newspapers to win. It has been found to be true in the past, however, that the favorite very often comes out on the losing end in the Andover-Exeter battles.

The blue has won four out of their seven meets, while Exeter lost their only one of six to Worcester. The comparison of both records gives Exeter a slight advantage to win, for it has defeated teams which have overcome Andover. The Blue, however, defeated Huntington by two points more than Exeter, while the result of the Worcester meet shows, that Exeter scored three more points. A summary of the season is as follows:

- Andover 14; Yale Freshmen 48.
 - Andover 34; Boston Boy's Club 28.
 - Andover 27; Brookline High 35.
 - Andover 37; Dartmouth Freshmen 25.
 - Andover 49; Deerfield 13.
 - Andover 23; Worcester 39.
 - Andover 46; Huntington 16.
- The preliminary season for Exeter was:
- Exeter 56; Tech Freshmen 6.
 - Exeter 54; Malden High School 8.
 - Exeter 36; Brookline High 26.
 - Exeter 44; Huntington 18.
 - Exeter 25; Worcester 36.
 - Exeter 44; Boston Boy's Club 18.

Andover won 230 points to its opponents' 204, while Exeter made 259 points to its opponents' 112.

The team has a good chance of winning today, if Capt. Westfall wins the hundred yard dash; and if Bench, Anderson and Kimball can secure first in their specialties, we are sure of twenty points. Then, if Kane, Jeffery and Brainard can pick up seconds, the blue will have a total of twenty nine points out of the thirty-three necessary for victory. Exeter is certain of winning the relay and the two-hundred. However, it is useless to try and predict the probable winners and the final result, because chance will play such a large part in the outcome.

BASKETBALL GAME TO BE AT ANDOVER

WORCESTER GAME MAKES THE BLUE'S CHANCES SEEM GOOD

This afternoon Andover goes into its eighth annual basketball game against Exeter a slight favorite. Both teams have had poor preliminary seasons, but the Blue hoopsters have met two more teams than their rivals and have shown a marked improvement toward the end of the season.

Neither of the schools has a very exceptional team this year. Both have lost more games than they have won, but both have been improving steadily, and are at top form for today's contest

There are three games which the two teams have played in common which form a basis for prophecy. Exeter fared somewhat better at the hands of Harvard Freshmen than did Andover, the former only losing by three points, while the latter was beaten 30-18. However, Andover played Harvard in the first game of the season, while Exeter played them some weeks later.

The crack St. John's team came to Andover when the local team was at the height of mid-season form, and went away with a two-point victory. The New Hampshire team suffered a slightly more decisive defeat 35-27, but this is not enough to decide the relative merits of the teams.

The game on which most of the pre-game "dope" is based is that with Worcester. Last week Andover brought their preliminary season to a brilliant close by giving Worcester its third defeat of the year by a two point margin.

Four weeks before Worcester had scored a fifteen point win over Exeter. While the time between these games is enough to make the forecasting accuracy of the results uncertain, it is evident that the

SATURDAY, MARCH 10, 1928

Andover and excellence in the accomplishment of an English department have become almost synonymous. The school has always stood firm in her efforts to include in her curriculum, courses in English which are worthy of the subject and of a superiority which the students have the right to expect. Never has a school better succeeded, but there are, even now, some phases of this work which fail in their purpose. Principally there is a certain lack of standardization in the material covered in the different years.

It is a common occurrence for a student to spend a rather considerable portion of a year in studying a book, particularly those works of Shakespeare, only to spend a still greater part of his Senior year in studying that same book. Granted that the majority of the literature discussed in class is worthy of a second reading, it is somewhat doubtful if the time spent in duplication of previous efforts might not better be turned in other directions. There is no lack of genuine literature which might be discussed, and the student be given in this way a broader outlook on the field of letters. If we assume that the aim of such discussion is in the development of an appreciation of the best, and an effort at creating a real interest, surely a comprehensive familiarity might better accomplish this end.

Standardization, if carried to an extreme, is a dangerous thing; and particularly is this true in any course of instruction. We do not feel, however, that a certain degree of uniformity would in any way stifle the ability or the initiative of the instructor. Dogmatic restrictions in the English courses are not desirable, but rather there should be more co-operation in the selection of the material covered, if the full value of that necessary and cultural branch of learning is to be obtained.

visitors will have a hard time defeating the home team.

The Exeter team has developed considerably during the present season. It was first formed around Johnson and Reed as forwards. These two men have distinguished themselves by their consistent good playing throughout the season. Reed is high score man with 82 points. Captain Fremd has been a strong man as right guard. Left guard is occupied by Tencher, who was added late in the season, or Parker, who has been playing right along. Center position will probably be held down by Odell. Ward and Quinn are both strong substitutes.

The Andover line-up will probably be the same as that which has started the past few games. The position of left forward is disputed between Smith and William Frank. Frank will probably start, although Smith will undoubtedly play a large part of the game. Rickard has definitely been made regular center, with Drick in readiness for use. Ederheimer, Fenn, and Ringland are all good forwards. Bicknell is third choice for guard. Mettler is high score man by quite a large number of points, Captain Harris is second, Frank is third, but his total would have been much higher if it had not been for a leg injury that kept him out of part of the season.

Andover has had a rather harder season than Exeter, and is therefore a little behind in percentage of won and lost. Exeter won her last two games without any difficulty.

After the Andover-Exeter basketball game this afternoon, the Andover All-Club will play the Exeter All-Class team. The Exeter athletic system differs from that of Andover in that they have inter-class games instead of inter-club.

If Exeter's team measures up to Andover's, the game should be a good one. The club men, although they have only been practicing together for two days, played a game with the varsity and did very well. Mr. Sides has taken over the duties of coach, and has been drilling the team in elemental tactics and the less-complicated plays. Andover has a number of good men, some of whom would have been varsity material had they not been otherwise occupied. Chapin at center should have the advantage over almost any man Exeter can send in. Bannon, Anderson, and Tukesbury all are good forwards, while Batchelder, Rawson, Creighton and D. Wilson are thoroughly capable of taking care of the guard positions. Not much is known of the Exeter line-up, as the teams were only recently picked, but it is a foregone conclusion that they will send a good team.

The probable Andover line-up:

Bannon, r. f.

Anderson, l. f.

Chapin, c.

Rawson, r. f.

Batchelder, l. f.

FENCING TEAM LOSES LAST MEET OF SEASON

a matter of fact the only bout in which Andover was victorious was that in which J. Murray defeated Morill 5-3. Although our fencers did well they were outclassed by the older and more experienced freshmen.

The first match, between Captain Beckwith and McGowan of Harvard, was won by the latter, who also defeated W. Murray by the score of 5-0. Wesselman of Harvard displayed some excellent fencing in defeating Captain Beckwith 5-4, and J. Murray 5-3. However, Murray made up for his defeat by winning from Morill 5-3, but the latter won from W. Murray 5-1. As the rest of the matches were defaulted to Andover because of lack of time, the final score was 5-4 in favor of Harvard. Captain Beckwith, J. Murray, W. Murray, Durell, and Manager Brett were awarded their letters. J. Murray was elected captain for next year.

Notice

There will be a track meet for novices at the cage on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 in order to give those who want to make the varsity spring squad a chance to see what they can do. A novice is defined as anyone who has not been out for track this winter or who was not on the varsity squad last spring. Men may get excused from other sports, with the exception of baseball, by applying to the gymnasium office. Coaches Shepard and Shields hope to pick men from this meet for the spring squad. The events will be: Forty yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 yard run, 600 yard run, 1000 yard run, and the 40 yard hurdles. The field events will be: High jump, running broad jump, and twelve pound shot put. It is hoped that there will be a large turnout.

PROFESSOR ELY LECTURES ON ENGINEERING AS A PROFESSION

Last evening in George Washington Hall, Professor Sumner B. Ely, a member of the staff of Carnegie Institute of Technology, spoke before a group of students on the value and possibilities of engineering as a life work.

The lecturer had some slides illustrating the methods of the Egyptians and Romans which have lasted down through the centuries, and modern processes in some of the great factories of the country, as well as scenes in the laboratories of the technology school. After the talk Professor Ely invited questions and several of the fellows inquired about admission to the school.

CLOSE SWIMMING MEET EXPECTED WITH EXETER

The winning of second and third places will mean a lot to both teams, though, and will virtually decide the winner of the meet.

The relay is sure to result in favor of Exeter. The best time the blue swimmers have made is four seconds slower than that of the Exonians.

Goddaux, the star diver for the red and grey, has been out the greater part of the season on account of sickness. He is expected to make a stellar performance, and Kimball will find himself in strong competition. Kimball has been turning in consistently good performances, however, and if he dives as well today as usual, the odds are in favor of his winning.

In the fifty yard dash Westfall is favored to win, because of the fact that he has defeated men who have taken first place, swimming against Savage and Tyson.

Osborne, the star Exeter swimmer, ought to win the hundred yard event. He was a former Newton High athlete and is now one of the best swimmers in prep school circles, having shattered two Exeter pool records this winter. Westfall will even have a fight to win second place, as Brines, the other Exeter entry, does the distance in 59.2 seconds.

Osborne again in the two hundred yard free style will probably find little opposition, as his time is ten seconds faster than any of the other entries. Jeffery ought to be able to win second place, but there will be a hard struggle between Rogers and Harte of Exeter for third.

From a comparison of the times of Bench and Marse in the breast stroke, Bench has an edge on his rival. Hack will very likely take third place away from Cardozo.

Anderson, the star back stroke performer of Andover, is certain to win in his event. Neither Snyder nor Agee have been able to approach his time, and they will even have a hard time to take second place away from Kane.

Westfall was high scorer for the team, having made fifty nine of the two hundred and thirty points for this season, and was the leading performer. Bench and Jeffery come next with thirty one apiece and Kimball is close third with thirty.

Exeter has won six out of the seven annual swimming meets with Andover. The blue won the first meet in 1920, but has never been able to come victorious out of a meet with Exeter since then. With one exception, each of the swimming contests have been close. The 1923 meet was the hardest fought of the series, Exeter winning by a two point lead. It is hoped by everyone that this will be the year in which Exeter's string of victories will be broken. Whatever way the tide of victory turns, it will be a battle worthy of the name of an Andover-Exeter contest and the best team will win out in the end. The record of the past meets is as follows:

- 1920 — Andover 32; Exeter 23.
- 1921 — Exeter 31; Andover 21.
- 1922 — Exeter 46; Andover 7.
- 1923 — Exeter 32; Andover 30.
- 1924 — Exeter 37; Andover 20.
- 1925 — Exeter 33; Andover 29.
- 1926 — No meet.
- 1927 — Exeter 37; Andover 25.

Exeter has scored 226 points to 169 of Andover.

HARVARD MEN SPEAK AT SOCIETY OF INQUIRY

the real man in their opponent, through the veneer that covers him in ordinary life. He concluded by reciting a poem called "Playing the Game".

The meeting closed with a social period so that the Andover fellows could meet the visitors and talk to them more in detail about their work in college. An announcement was made that the Society of Inquiry had an interesting program planned for the Spring term, including: movies on China; delegations from Dartmouth, Princeton, St. Marks, and Milton; and an exchange of speakers with Exeter.

LECTURE TO BE GIVEN NEXT TUESDAY EVENING

On the evening of Tuesday, March 13, at 8.15, in the auditorium of George Washington Hall, Mr. Randel L. Jones, who is well known as an official lecturer for the Union Pacific Railway System, will give a talk on the subject, "Through Zion and the Grand Canyon National Parks". Mr. Jones' lecture will be illustrated by several hundred feet of motion picture film, and by colored and dissolving lantern slides. Those who have heard Mr. Jones recommend him highly, and say that his pictures are of amazing beauty. It is his purpose to interest the people of the East in the more picturesque scenery of the West, especially in those in our government National Parks. This is the last authorized lecture of the winter term and it is hoped that a large number will attend.
