CHRISTMAS DANCE TO BE HELD BY EXETER

IN AMBASSADOR HOTEL

The following letter was received from Exeter a short while ago. It seems that one could hardly ask for a more desirable means of meeting his schoolmates during the busy days of the Christmas vacation. Nor could an Andover boy find a more pleasant way of coming into contact with an Exeter boy. The letter contained an invitation to all members of Phillips Academy, Andover. This invitation is posted on the bulletin board in George Washington Hall.

For the first time in almost one hundred and fifty years of existence, the Phillips Exeter Academy of Exeter, N. H., will hold a dance at Christmas time in New York City. The idea originated among the students, and the management will be entirely in their hands. As soon as the matter was authorized by the faculty of the Academy, an active committee took form.

The purpose of the dance is to make it possible for the alumni, students, and friends of the Academy to come together in a place more conveniently situated than the town of Exeter. It is, furthermore, the intention of the committee to strengthen to as great an extent as is possible the social relations between the preparatory schools and their alumni. With this thought in mind, invitations have been sent to a great number of schools, and to the alumni associations in the various colleges.

The dance will be held at the Hotel Ambassador, Park Avenue, New York on January the third. Tickets may be obtained by mail from C. S. Green, Jr. 437 Palisade Ave., Yonkers, New York, and from J. E. Kucera, 17 East 84th Street, New York City. The charges are seven dollars and fifty cents for couples and six dollars for stags. Up to this time no definite arrangements have been made in regard to an orchestra; it is understood however, that options have been secured on the Ambassador Grill, the Park Lane, and Ben Bernie's orchestras.

The committee is composed of Bernuth, New York, and Chas. S. Green, Jr., Yonkers, N. Y., Treasurers; Robert C. Brooks, New York; Bradford K. Bachrach, West Newton, Mass.; Wilfred Buckland, Jr., Hollywood, Cal.; Pierre S. du Pont 3rd, Wilmington, Del.; Hickman Price, Jr., Bronxville, N.Y.; Frederick L. Van Lennep, Philadelphia, Pa.

MR. ROTH NOW REORGANIZING HISTORY SYLLABUS

At a recent meeting of the Council of the New England Teachers' Association, Mr. Roth was authorized to revise the Syllabus in History which was first edited in 1901 under authority of the American Historical Association. This Syllabus is now badly out of date. During this period the Junior High School has come into existence, which means that the Senior High School now consists of a three year course. The subject matter of history has also changed very much. Mr. Roth as President of the Asso-

HISTORICAL MAP OF PHILLIPS ACADEMY TO BE IN NEW LIBRARY

TO BE DONE BY STUART TRAVIS

The Trustees have been presented with money to have drawn up a huge map thirteen feet by seven feet of the development of Phillips Academy and the town of Andover. Stuart Travis, a New York Artist, who has shown himself to be a genius, is constructing the chart, research for which will occupy most of his time for at least a year, and which will eventually hang on one wall of the reading-room in the new Oliver Wendell Holmes library. Most of its ninety square-feet of surface will be taken up by a chart of the village of Andover as it was in the year 1830, portrayed in the spirit of the old map artists, with their numerous decorations and incidental illustrations. These will be portraits of George Washington, Paul Revere, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and other makers of Andover's history. In one corner of the map it is planned to have a sketch of the school as it stands today with the projected improvements. In the border of this insertion will be historic Phillips buildings and characters. At the time which Mr. Travis' drawing portrays, Abbott Academy consisted of only one building; Andover square was surrounded by residences and farmhouses; and in the Theological Seminary on the east side of Main Street, stood between Bartlet Hall and what was then Phillips.

The importance historically of such a map as this cannot be over-emphasized. It will be designed at great expense of time and money, and by an artist who has definitely proved his ability to portray a chronicle which will be so valuable to future generations in Phillips Academy.

TRIAL SWIMMING MEET

Last Saturday afternoon the swimming team held a trial meet, and some splendid times were made. Each individual put forth his best efforts in an endeavor to win recognition, and the result was that one record was broken and several men turned in times that would be good even in mid-season. Wilson, Jones, King, and Captain Westfall did well at the 50-yard distance, with 27 3-5, 28, 26 3-5 and 26 4-5 seconds respectively. B. G. Anderson won the back-stroke in 18 seconds, breaking the pool record by 1 3-5 seconds. Fry won the 200-yard swim in good time, although not approaching Jefferey's times of last year. France Anderson finished first in the breast stroke, in which event he is probably the most promising man. Williamson and McCloy showed up extremely well in the dive, and their performance augured well for diving success in this winter's meets.

ciation, has appointed committees to reorganize this course of study in Ancient, American, English, and European Histories. The Syllabus will also contain a section on Problems in Democracy.

NEWS OF OTHER SCHOOLS

EXETER

Yewen's student comet's overcame the famous Exeter faculty touch-football septet, by a 12-6 score on last Friday. The game was featured by the catches of Norman L. Hatch, Dolph Cheek, former Harvard captain, the broken field running of Percy Rogers, and the refereeing of Mike Crosbie. The peadagogues failed to score until the second half when Cheek's pass to Hatch resulted in a touchdown.

"The Exonian" reports the following faculty line-up. Wallace, standing center; Hatch, running center; Scoville and Carrell, running forwards; Rogers and Cheek, running backs; and Blake, standing back. Substitutes: Couse, Curwen, Eaton, Major, Rickard, and Rounds. The rumor is that the faculty played without previous practice.

HILL

Last Thursday the school celebrated Thanksgiving by a field meet between the various forms. Wheelbarrow races, pillow fights, a relay race and many exciting events interested those not taking part. The Sixth Form finally won by a score of 54. The Fifth came next with 50, while the Fourth and Third Forms came next with scores of 26 and 13, respectively.

Thursday night the Sixth Form show was played in Memorial Hall. It consisted of ten well-selected acts which were highly amusing and entertaining.

On Saturday the Merion Cricket Club soccer team, a fast and clever aggregation composed of former college stars, defeated the Hill 7-1. Fisher scored the single Hill goal. The game was played at Merion and afterwards the team was given a supper at the club.

HOTCHKISS

The annual football dance for the Senior class and the football squad was held in the gymnasium on Saturday, December 1, after a tea dance in the afternoon. About forty girls were the guests of the school.

MERCERSBURG

William Arthur Carr won the Mercersburg Academy field day competition by amassing the most points in the meet; these were obtained by winning the broad jump, 100-yard dash, 120 low hurdles, the high jump, and the javelin throw. Second place was won by C. W. Perry, while third place was a tie between T. E. Cobb and P. S. Kline. James E. (Ted) Meredith, former Mercersburg track star and Olympic champion, has been appointed to the position of assistant coach of track at Pennsylvania.

Mr. Anton Brees, for the last two years Carillonneur of the Mercersburg Academy, has left Mercersburg to become the carillonneur of the Bok Memorial Carillon at the Mountain Lake, Fla., the largest carillon in America. Mr. Brees, who is one of the world's greatest carillon players, was much liked at Mercersburg, and will be greatly missed.

ST. GEORGE'S

The annual sports carnival was held on Thanksgiving Day morning. The faculty tag football team

FOUR ANDOVER MEN WIN POSITIONS ON ALL-PREP.

ALSO THREE ON SECOND TEAM

In the Boston Globe's All-Preparatory school team, chosen Monday by its expert, Mr. Albert J. Woodlock, four members of this year's Blue eleven received places on the first eleven, and three were picked on the second. In the first team line was Capt. Osborne at left tackle, Westfall at right guard and Kimball at end. At fullback is Captain-elect Viviano.

In picking Captain Osborne for his left-tackle position, he cites his record of having played four years against Exeter, and never meeting defeat. He was one of the best tackles of the year. Westfall, the choice for right guard, is given special credit for his ability in recovering loose balls, which caused one of the touchdowns in the Exeter game.

Kimball is given the position at right end. Mr. Woodlock says that "although he was a substitute prior to the Exeter game, he is one of the greatest ends that has represented Andover since the days of Homer Webster and Van Brocklin." Especially is his work in blocking punts commended.

Viviano, captain-elect, is given the fullback berth. He was the best fullback of the current season, and played consistently in all branches of the game, especially on the defensive. His sense of where the play was coming was valuable in this department.

Andover was honored by having the most men on the first team of any school. On the second eleven the Blue was represented by three men as was Exeter. They were Broaca at left-end, who played well all season, and whose blocked punt resulted in the first touchdown against Exeter, C. Williamson and Brown, as right half and utility back respectively.

TRACK SQUAD ENDS PRELIMINARY SEASON

On Saturday afternoon the track squad will end its preliminary season of training in the Fall Term with a Handicap Meet in the cage. This affair will include all competitive events which are held in the winter track meets, and it will give the coaches, Shepard and Shields, a line on their material for the coming year. This is particularly necessary this year, as many members of last season's squad are deficient in their studies. The meet, which is the first of its kind to be held here in recent years, will be particularly interesting to watch, so there ought to be a large crowd present.

Coaches Shepard and Shields will decide the relative abilities of the entire squad, and then decide how much handicap ought to be given to each competitor. In the one hundred and fifty (one lap) and in the three hundred yard dashes, only two will run at a time. In the longer races, however, the entire group will begin at the same time.

GEORGIAN ARCHITECTURE PREVAILS ON CAMPUS

NEW BUILDINGS CONFORM

The Georgian, or Later Colonial, style of architecture is becoming more and more prominent on the campus; for example the semi-Gothic, semi-Victorian building called Graves Hall has been superseded by Samuel Morse Hall, a beautiful example of modified Georgian. Therefore, a little study of the history of the Georgian style and of its aspects manifested at Andover would not be remiss. Mr. I. E. Tallmadge says in The Story of Architecture in America: "If we look back over our entire architectural history with its ups and downs, I doubt if we shall find anything more expressive of its times or more harmonious with them; than the Georgian of about 1750. At the beginning of the 18th century architecture flourished, due to commerce and the settlement of the eastern colonies.

Sir Christopher Wren produced the earlier elements of the Georgian style. The arrangement which we know dates from about 1720. In dwelling houses the entrances led into a central hall with a room on each side. The chimneys were placed at each end, not being in the center as in an early colonial home. The most noticeable part of the Georgian houses was the doorway: in fact the Parson Williams House, Deerfield, Massachusetts, is almost bare except for the portal. The broken pediment was frequently employed, but the fan light and side lights were unknown before the Revolution, until Bulfinch, the architect of Andover's Dining Hall, introduced them. The cornice was an important feature. It gradually took upon itself the accoutrement of Greek architecture. The Georgian houses were not all equipped with blinds. In a brick building the brick or granite lintel was an important feature: most often it was a flat arch with a projecting keystone. In the roof were high narrow dormers, primarily for decoration. These are often neglected in modern restorations; their appearance, however, is very necessary to give symmetry.

When we examine the various structures on the campus, especially the newly erected ones, we find many Georgian elements. Samuel Phillips Hall has a Greek portico, a feature of most large Georgian buildings. The window heads are crowned with pediments, a rare, but at least in this structure, beautiful treatment of the Georgian style. The cornice of the "main building" is a succession of blocks. George Washington Hall is not so strictly Georgian; in fact its rear exterior, with a simple brick cornice and absence of window trim, presents a modern note. The design of Paul Revere Hall is a gem of Georgian style. The doorway has a broken pediment, a purely Later Colonial feature. The door is flanked with pillars, a skillful treatment. However, by far the most important architectural points, ones which have never received such full treatment on the campus, are the dormer windows and the hip roof. As we have stated before, dormers are an

In glancing through a college daily paper the other day, we ran across the following clipping that seemed quite interesting and appealed to us at the time as fitting editorial subject.

"A Professor of Oregon University is reported as expressing himself rather clearly, even emphatically on the grand old custom of 'soft-soaping.'" A student who stoops so low as to try to get grades by flattery doesn't give a professor credit for any intelligence whatsoever. Probably the main reason for the prevalence of "soft-soaping" in American colleges is that most of them are a bad mixture of a country club and a chorus girl parade."

Now, although we hadn't intended to try to write a treatise in defense of our colleges, we must object to the Oregon Professor's description of our institutions of so-called "higher learning." But then to get back to the subject of "soft-soaping," for which practice the Andover man is wont to apply a much more expressive but less dignified word, we must agree that it is one of the most despicable or truly disgusting habits that one may employ in the classroom. It is not a method of trying to get grades with which we are not familiar, for too often have we seen fellows that we really thought were above such a practice lower themselves in the eyes of everyone by descending to such depths in their attempt at a passing grade or an undeserved honor.

On the other hand, it is also quite true that there are professors in (apparently) every school who are susceptible to this contemptible business. It is just as discouraging for a man who is working hard on his studies to see someone else put about half as much time as is added another stinging defeat to that which they administered to the school last year. Points toward the club championship were awarded in the varied and distinctly amusing events; Sachuest scored 6, and Sakonnet 4.

On Saturday, December 1, the soccer team journeyed to Marion, Mass., to play Tabor Academy in the first game on their short schedule. It was a long, strenuous struggle which finally ended in a 4-0 victory for the more experienced Tabor eleven.

necessary on his work, but manage to worm past the remaining part by the use of his carefully cultivated "soft-soaping," as the article puts it.

It is a thing that is not the same as a "drag," for some men seem to naturally have that kind of a personality which immediately wins for him his instructor's favor, but it is the cultivated friendship and the feigned interest that constitute the contemptible "soft-soaping."

BASKETBALL

The team has been shaping up very well thus far, and Coach Blackmer has a large squad which is built around four letter men, Capt. Dorman, Drick, Ederheimer, and Mettler, last year's high scorer. These men constitute the nucleus of the squad, in which there are many promising players, such as Kellogg, a new man, Huppuch, Benner of last year's squad, J. Kettle, and Brunner. So far no definite first team combination has been formed, but the tendency seems to be towards Capt. Dorman and Huppuch at guards, Mettler and Ederheimer forwards, and Drick, center.

Manager Muson has arranged the following schedule:

Sat., January 12—Huntington
Wed., January 16—Open
Sat., January 19—Tufts
Wed., January 23—Open
Sat., January 26—Dean
Wed., January 30—Worcester
Sat., February 2—(Tabor pending)
Wed., February 6—Open
Sat., February 9—St. Johns
Wed., February 13—Harvard '32
Sat., February 16—Open
Wed., February 20—Wentworth
Sat., February 23—Prom.
Wed., February 27—Boston U. '32
Sat., March 2—Yale '32 (at N. H.)
Wed., March 6—Open
Sat., March 9—Exeter (at Exeter)
He is trying for two more games, one with Tabor, and the other unannounced.

This schedule is in its main essentials the same as last year, save that Lawrence and Lowell High schools have been dropped, and Tabor will be a new opponent. The schedule is a good one, and should furnish the Blue team some excellent opposition.

The list of those retained on the squad thus far follows:

Capt., Dorman, Batchelder, Mettler, Drick, Ederheimer, Mager, Huppuch, Miller, Brown, E. Kettle, J. Kettle, Benner, Bannon, Chaffee, Brunner, Neff, Chapin, Downing, Howard, Kellogg, Derby, Page, and Jones.

important element of Georgian style; many of our halls do not have them. So Paul Revere Hall will be, we believe, the purest piece of Georgian architecture on Andover Hill.

FIRST INDOOR TRACK TRIALS OF THE SEASON HELD

The first indoor track trials of the season were held in the Case Memorial Cage last Saturday, the eighth of December. Several excellent times and distances were made in view of the conditions of the track. Coaches Shepard and Shields are putting the men through the paces, and have been drilling them since Thanksgiving in the fundamentals of running, form, and in other fundamentals. Coach Shields is optimistic over his men in the track events, and every race is well taken care of with the possible exception of the indoor 1000 yard run, and the outdoor half-mile.

Several new men are showing up remarkably well, and this list includes Henkel, Remsen, Newhall, and Chickering.

Among the recent out-standing features of the preliminary season is Moore's breaking, unofficially, the school's broad-jump record, and tying the high-jump one.

Last Saturday in the 40-yard dash Osborne again maintained his supremacy, covering the distance in the finals in the time of 4:8 seconds. F. Lindenberg and Donahue, were second and third respectively, and they both tied for first in the second heat. The third heat was won by Losee, who came fourth in the finals, with Williams second.

The five best times in the one-lap, or 150-yard dash were recorded by Osborne and F. Lindenberg who both were clocked at 17:2 seconds. C. Lindenberg was third with 18:0 seconds, with Morrow and Williams tied for third with 18:1 seconds.

Henkel and D'Arcy were the first two to cross the line in the 600-yard dash, the former's time being 1:26:2, and the later's 1:27:0. In third and fourth places came Chase and Remsen respectively.

Johnson turned in the time of 2:32:01 to win the 1000-yard dash, and Chickering followed him with 2:34:0. Dickinson was third, and Norris fourth.

The six best times in the Relay were turned in by Robert Page, Pew, O'Kane, French, Pitkin, and Newhall, respectively.

Moore jumped 21 feet, 9 3/4 inches. Woodward came second with a jump slightly over twenty feet.

In the pole-vault Pickett cleared 10 feet, eleven inches, and Brown was second. Pierce and Frazer were the other contestants.

Moore easily won the high jump with a jump of five feet eleven inches. An attempt at the Cage record of six feet, one inch, was missed shortly after by a fraction of an inch.

IT IS to be noted that both Lowlanders and Highlanders are glad to receive Glengair hose for Christmas. But we have long remarked that in its native country more Glengair golf hose is bought than is given away at Christmas time, and we are forced to believe that the canny Scot, having made his purchase, is loath to part with it.

Glengair hose is framed by hand in Leith, and its tradition of Scotch designing has made it the finest golf hose of today. It is knitted in solid colors, in patterns richly harmonized, and in the authentic tartans of clans that have made the history of Scotland.

Its pure, high-grade wool, heavy, luxuriously soft, and warm on the coldest day, makes it an excellent golf hose for skating, skiing and winter outdoor sports. We suggest that you inspect this hose (you can identify it by the Glengair coat-of-arms) where you will have choice of a fine selection from the line.

In Andover, Glengair hose is sold at the Burns' shop
