BLUE MEETS EXETER THIS AFTERNOON IN FINAL TENNIS MEET

Crimson Has Had Better Record
Than Its Rival This Season

PAINE TO PLAY NUMBER ONE

Both Teams Defeated Malden High—
Andover Lost To The Dartmouth Freshmen

The tennis team will finish its season this afternoon when it meets Exeter at Exeter. The rival school's record thus far has been somewhat superior to Andover's, since it has lost only one of the seven contests in which it has played. Andover, on the other hand, has suffered five defeats against four victories. Both teams won from Malden High School and M. I. T. Freshmen, and lost to Harvard Seconds, but the Blue lost to the Dartmouth Freshmen players, whom Exeter defeated 7-2. However, the Exeter schedule has, on the whole, been less difficult, and, although Andover lost the last two matches, there has been a marked improvement recently.

Paine, who is, of course, first man, is expected to have a very close match with the yet undefeated Munger of Exeter.

Captain Neff has been unable to play most of the season because of bad eyes, but lately has been rounding into fine shape, easily defeating Crosby on Monday. Today he will take the second position and oppose Swan, who has lost but one match this season.

Roorbach and Crosby at third and fourth places will fight it out with Delone and Merchant. Merchant has had a better preliminary record than Delone.

Evans, who has been one of Andover's most successful singles players, will take fifth place and play Waymack. Griswold will meet W. Negley, another of Exeter's undefeated men. Braggiotti for Andover and Bradley for Exeter will be the substitutes. The former will play with Griswold in the doubles.

The lineup:

ANDOVER	EXETER
Paine	Munger
Neff	Swan
Roorbach	Delone
Crosby	Merchant
Evans	Waymack
Griswold	W. Negley

ALL-CLUB ALL-CLASS NINES PLAY TODAY

CONTEST TO BE AT EXETER

Equal Strength Of Opposing Teams Indicates That Game Will Be Hard Fought

This afternoon the all-club baseball team, chosen recently by Coach Riley, will go to Exeter to play the all-class team. Each squad has been practising since last Wednesday, and the players of both nines have received their only coaching during that time. In spite of this fact, both Exeter and the Blue have hard-hitting, strong teams, and undoubtedly a very close game will be played.

Either Fitz or Cooney will pitch for Exeter, both of whom are very able twirlers. The former is slightly superior, his pitching being very speedy, but the latter is also quite effective. Clement or Tolman will be behind the plate, and each of these catchers is very dependable. The rest of the lineup are quite excellent players and have turned in fine performances in the class games during the year. All of the outfielders are good batters and will probably give the Blue pitchers trouble.

Andover's all-club-team this year is as good as ever and has a fine

ANDOVER TERCENTENARY DRAWS MANY VISITORS TO LARGE CELEBRATION

Fifteen Hundred People View

GOVERNOR ALLEN ATTENDS

Numerous Collections Of Many Types Are Loaned By Friends For Unusual Display

With the dignity befitting her past, the town of Andover last week-end played an important part in the celebration of the Massachusetts Bay Tercentenary. So rich in historic lore and so filled with the remnants of bygone days, it was indeed not surprising that Andover should attract 1500 visitors over Friday, Saturday and Sunday, that industries, business, schools, churches, and private citizens should lay down their work to participate in the act of celebration, and that, on Sunday last, the chief executive of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Governor Frank G. Allen, should pay respect to the historical significance of Andover by attending the Tercentenary Service in the South Church.

The fact that Memorial Day came on Friday, in the very midst of the celebration, served to add color and life to the occasion. The War Veterans of Andover, the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Police Force, the D. A. R. and other similar organizations of the town paraded together and helped to honor those who died for their country.

As for the details of the Tercentenary, we shall first confess that they are so numerous that it will be necessary to deal only briefly with each. However, each one is full of importance and interest.

In opening the celebration the school children of the town took part. Their exercises were followed by a procession up Main Street as far as the historic "America" House. It was here that, in 1832, Samuel F. Smith composed the stanzas of "My Country 'Tis of Thee", and it was this that the school children sang as they marched

FINAL ISSUE OF MIRROR TO BE PUBLISHED SOON

Recent Decision Is To Omit The Humorous Department,
"Whips And Wheels"

THE MIRROR board is planning to publish the final issue of the magazine at the end of the term.

An abundance of good material has been handed in, and the editors hope to raise still higher the standard which THE MIRROR has already attained. Among the contributors are Charles S. Underhill, Max F. Millikan, and Graham Peck.

Several changes have been made in the planning of the fourth issue. The humorous section, Whips and Wheels, has been deemed unsatisfactory, and will be left out. While a certain number of humorous articles and stories will appear in the magazine, the board desires to make it primarily a literary publication.

The art work should be particularly well-done in this number. McCloy will probably contribute some more of his excellent caricatures, and Lougee will aid in illustrating the stories and poems.

Van Der Stucken Prize Contest To Occur June 10

On Tuesday, June 10, a contest for the Van der Stucken prize organ recital will be held in the chapel. There will at the same time be a competition in playing orchestral instruments. There will be about ten competitors for each recital. It will begin at 7:15 p. m. and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Dramatic Club Members Asked To Secure Charms

All members of the Dramatic Club in either the Winter or Spring plays who have not as yet secured their charms are asked to call immediately at Mr. Wilkinson's room in Draper Cottage to procure them.

Red and Grey Players Defeated
All Their Opponents
This Spring

ELLIS TO PLAY NUMBER TWO

Goldberger, Andover's Number One
Won Phillips Cup Tourney
With A 74

The Exeter golf team, which Andover meets this afternoon, must be conceded a slight advantage over the home players since it has had an undefeated season thus far and has completely overwhelmed most of its opponents. The Exeter golfers won every match from Dummer Academy to which the Blue succumbed 4-5 in the first contest of the year. However, the home team was decidedly off its game that day and has improved greatly since then. The only other victorious opponents were a very strong Yale Freshman team. Andover has won five contests. In the Interscholastics, moreover, both of the Andover entries, Goldberger and Ellis, placed well above the two Exeter contestants.

Goldberger, who secured his letter last year playing number four, will play number one today. His game has been good throughout. He recently won the Phillips Cup Tourney with a seventy-four, a score which equaled the school record. He has a good chance to defeat Barbour, although the latter's

STRONG EXETER TEAM OVERCOMES ANDOVER IN 35TH ANNUAL MEET

Red and Grey Wins Its First Victory Since Nineteen
Twenty-two

KIMBALL WINS TWO EVENTS

Blue Weak In Track Events Losing All But Hundred And
Two-twenty

For the first time since 1922 the Exeter track team defeated Andover, when the Red and Grey won a 70 1-2 to 55 1-2 victory last Saturday.

The first event, the hammer throw, started at two-thirty, and on his first attempt Kimball of Andover made a throw of 151 feet, which he was unable to again equal himself, and which far surpassed the best tries of Spencer and Lemke of Exeter, who took second and third places respectively.

In the high hurdles Pierce secured only a third place, but Kimball in the hundred yard dash flashed down the track a few yards ahead of Captain Hollister of Exeter for a first place in ten and twentieth seconds.

The mile run was the next event. Bonthron and Sweet of Exeter led Duchesne for three laps in this race, and on the last lap Bonthron with a beautiful stride forged way ahead while Sweet came in second, although Duchesne made a fine attempt to catch the Exeter man.

In the shot-put Captain Jackson on his last heave nosed out the Exeter contestant by the slim margin of four inches.

McGuire started out beautifully in the 440, but on the first turn his pulled tendon went bad, and he was forced to drop out. Kellogg put up a fine race but Lane and Tribune were too fast for him, and he could do no better than a third place.

An unexpected shut-out came in the javelin throw, when Keesling, Bodwell, and Barclay placed first, second, and third, giving Andover a clean sweep in that event. Barclay gained third on his last throw which bettered Exeter's best by inches only.

Frazier put up a great race for second in the low hurdles, but took the last jump poorly, giving him a third. Hollister of Exeter jumped within a half an inch of twenty-two

Nashua Sends Letter Of Thanks For Help Given By Andover At Time Of Recent Fire

As is probably well-known to the members of the school, about three weeks ago the city of Nashua, New Hampshire, was partially wiped out by a tremendous fire. Its citizens were left with little but the clothes on their backs, so great was the destruction caused by the blaze. At that time the students of this school willingly took their place among those of similar institutions throughout New England in providing relief for these unfortunate people. Andover supplied a truck load of partially used clothing, the principal necessity at the time. It was an excellent demonstration of willingness to give for charity on the part of the Andover men, and we have here a letter from the Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Nashua Relief Fund to Dr. Stearns, in which the former expresses the appreciation of the Nashua residents for the school's generous cooperation.

We quote this letter:

Dear Dr. Stearns:

You probably do not remember my name, but I talked with you regarding a contribution of clothes from the boys a day or two following our fire, and so I am just dropping you a line to tell you how much we appreciate what Andover has done for us.

We had 411 families who lost all their clothes and household furnishings, as well as their homes, so the assistance which we received from some of our New England schools and colleges has really been of great value.

I would appreciate it if you would extend to the school from me in behalf of the city of Nashua our thanks and appreciation for their contributions to us.

Gratefully yours,

Harry A. Gregg, Chairman,
Finance Committee,
Nashua Relief Fund.

Samaritan And Stowe Houses Were The Andover Homes Of Harriet Beecher Stowe

(The following is the fifth and last of a series of articles describing the various houses on the hill.)

The Samaritan House was built in 1824 as an infirmary for students of the Theological Seminary. It received its title from a benevolent society of the same name which is still in existence, and which furnished sufficient money for its construction. The building was the home of the Rev. Dr. Elias Cornelius from 1826 until 1829. It was occupied in 1833 by Dr. Osgood Johnson. This principal died in 1837, but his widow lived here and acted as a nurse for the sick boys until 1852, when Professor Calvin E. Stowe resided in the house for a year, while waiting for his own home to be remodeled. It was during this time that Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote her "Key to Uncle Tom's Cabin".

In 1853 Professor David Y. Comstock of the Seminary moved into the building, where he remained until 1892, when Principal Cecil F. P. Bancroft of the Academy replaced him.

During the administration of the headmaster the modern era of development began. He brought about many needed reforms, including a revision of the curriculum, thus enabling the school to meet the requirements of any college in the country. In 1895 he increased the attendance to five hundred and twenty-four boys, and he greatly enlarged the faculty.

Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, present headmaster of the school, occupied the residence after Dr. Bancroft's retirement in 1901, and is still the occupant of the building. In 1920 the house was moved from Chapel Avenue to School Street at the end of Wheeler Street.

It is a large, square, colonial structure very similar in appear-

Memorial Day

A day or so ago we received a communication from an observant student who reported that contrary to the official flag regulations the Stars and Stripes were flown at full mast both in the new Quadrangle and near the football field all morning on Friday, Memorial Day. Someone was evidently asleep at the switch and caused a mistake which must naturally have reflected on the whole school. It was too bad to mar the tercentenary and Memorial Day celebrations by a gross neglect of civil regulations.

At Exeter

We were pretty well licked last Saturday, but we didn't leave the field without making a great stand to capture our eighth straight. Exeter must have received a great thrill seeing Bonthron capture the mile and half-mile races, but their feelings didn't compare with ours when we saw "Wa Wa" Kimball speed through in the two sprints. Everyone knew that Bonthron was due to win, but our New Hampshire rivals were tremendously surprised to see all their fancy sprinters badly outclassed. One cannot help wondering what the time might have been in the two-twenty had the race been run on a fast track, and had Kimball trained for it all season.

Another Andover highlight was Jackson's winning put in the shot. Dear the Crimson contestant, had he only outdone himself to lead in this event right up to the final throw. The Blue captain made a splendid effort on his last try and just barely managed to win. Curiously enough all of the leading heaves landed in approximately the same spot, and it was very hard to tell where one hole ended, and the next began.

Our pole vaulters got their first scare in many months, and for a time it looked as though we were going to have to divide third place with the Crimson contrary to all expectations.

We lost, but then we had to lose eventually, and the Crimson may well experience a few qualms as it looks forward to next year.

ALUMNI COLUMN

Last month in Statuary Hall in the Capitol at Washington a statue of John Campbell Greenway '96 was unveiled under the auspices of a committee representing the citizens of the state of Arizona.

We are glad to see that our alumni are not content with beating Exeter while in Andover, but continue their success all through college. At the recent Harvard-Yale track meet G. P. Wright '29, although he let his rival place first in the trial heats, won in the finals from Kollmeyer, Exeter '29.

We have another representative who is doing well at Dartmouth in R. A. Keyworth '28, who has been elected secretary of the Green Key, an honorary club. He is also assistant manager of the Musical Clubs and a member of the Zeta Psi fraternity.

R. G. Anderson '29, holder of the pool record in the backstroke, has just been picked as a member of the Yale swimming team to take the trip to Honolulu this summer. While on the freshman team this winter he was doing better time than anyone on the varsity.

We are proud to announce that A. Y. Rogers, our former Assignment Editor, and J. M. Bannon, our former Editor-in-Chief, were both elected to the board of the Yale Freshman Year Book for the coming year. Rogers was elected Chairman.

F. Luce, captain of tennis here, playing with Halloway, was responsible for Yale's only victory in the University match with Harvard.

J. R. Adriance was one of a total of seven men elected from the class of 1932 to the Yale Student Chapel Committee.

Word has just been received to the effect that Worthen Paxton '22, a star member of the track team, is to be married to Miss Catherine Hunt this month.

ALL-CLUB TRACK TEAM DEFEATS EXETER 79-47

Andover Takes First Places In Two Track And All Field Events

While the Varsity events were being run off last Saturday, the Andover all-club track team beat the Exeter all-class team by the decisive score of 79 to 47. Decided supremacy in the field events and second and third places in the track events determined the superiority of the Blue team.

In the field events the Red and Grey was unable to win any first places. In the hammer throw Gardner won with an excellent throw of 144 feet which easily outclassed the throw of 135 feet made by Cotter of Exeter.

In the other weight events the Discus and Shot Put, Exeter was allowed but one place—a third in the discus.

In the pole vault and broad jump the Crimson was again unable to take anything but thirds. Closer competition was had in the broad jump, and the three places were about an inch apart.

W. Murray took first in the javelin throw with a throw of 154 feet 9 inches.

In the track events Andover took but two firsts, the 100-yard dash and the 880-yard run; however, the Blue won most of the seconds and thirds. Woodward ran a beautiful race in the 100-yard dash, making the century in 10 3-5 sec., but was nosed out by Hamilton in the 220. Johnson won the 880-yard run, finishing in 2 min. 8 sec. with a good lead over the two nearest Exeter rivals.

Upton And Lincoln Are Expected To Star For Blue In Match Today

This afternoon the All-Club tennis team will meet the All-Class players in a match at Exeter. The All-Club team is composed of players who were not able to make the first team. However, some of these have had experience in the varsity matches. Upton will play number one and should take his match easily. He played very well for the first team in the early part of the season; Lincoln will be number two player. The rest of the lineup will be composed of the four next best men on the squad.

game has also been exceptional. Captain Ellis will take the second position. He has been a little slow in rounding into form, but lately has played very good golf.

Russell, the captain of the winning club team and who has lost only one match this season, will play number three. Case, number four, has also had a very successful season.

T. H. Lawrence ranks fifth. He and Bartow, the last man, have not had as much chance to prove their mettle, but both have played well consistently. The former is a returning letter man. He and Goldberger were the only ones to win their Exeter matches last year.

Although it would hardly be fair not to concede a slight advantage to Exeter because of its previous record, it would not be a great surprise if the home players carried off the victory.

Strong Exeter Team Overcomes Andover In 35th Annual Meet

feet in the broad jump for a first place, with Keesling second.

Kimball in the two-twenty yard dash again led Exeter's stars all the way, and broke the tape a few yards ahead of Hollister. His time for this event, twenty-one and eight tenths seconds, was exceptionally fine, and he deserves much credit for his two fine performances.

The pole vaulters all tied at twelve feet, which broke the Exeter record, and gave Andover nine points. The Red and Grey discus throwers captured first and second places, leaving Exeter with only two points to win and only two events more. At this point Andover's hopes were high, nevertheless, since Andover was strong in the remaining events, the 880 and the high jump. In the half mile, Bonthron started off with his long easy stride, although Schenck was far in the lead. On the last turn Bonthron easily took the lead and finished well in front with Lingley, Schenck, and Murray all bunched closely. Murray was awarded second and Schenck third. If Lingley had been up to his usual form he probably would have taken a first, but his sprint was not as fast as usual, and he could not overtake Bonthron.

The high jump was the last event, in which Badman and Withington tied for first, with Brown dividing third place with Scheffey of Exeter.

Kimball was the high-point scorer for Andover with two first places, while Captain Hollister made the most points for Exeter placing second in the hundred and two-twenty, and first in the broad jump, for eleven points. Bonthron and Kahn were both double winners for Exeter.

The Blue scored 40 1-2 of its points in the field events, but got no better than third on the track except in the two short dashes that Kimball won.

Summary:

100-yard dash: 1st. Kimball (A); 2nd. Hollister (E); 3rd. Short (E). Time: 10 1-5 sec.

ance to a few other faculty buildings on the hill.

In 1828 a "stone shell of a building" was erected at a cost of $2891.12. In this house for many years the students of the Andover Theological Seminary found a passable substitute for football in the stimulating exercise of making coffins. The name of this structure was the Stone House, or the Stowe House, as it was later called. Carpenters spent the entire summer of 1852 in remodeling the building, and in the fall Professor Calvin E. Stowe and his talented wife, Harriet Beecher Stowe, moved to Andover and took up residence in the "old stone cabin", as the famous writer was wont to refer to it in her letters.

Mrs. Stowe was a great benefactor to the young people on the hill. Never before, or since, has it experienced so much activity as she promoted. This family, with a gift for entertaining quite new to the inhabitants of Andover, shocked the townspeople with the amusements which they provided for their guests, such as tableaux, charades, and on one occasion, a Christmas Tree, which had never before been thought of by the Seminary families. In the building Mrs. Stowe wrote a large part of "Uncle Tom's Cabin". Besides this, many of her later works, including "Dred", were written here. In 1853 Harriet Beecher Stowe went to England in the interests of the antislavery societies. There she received praise and glory such as has never before nor since been bestowed upon any Andover citizen. Mrs. Stowe, with the aid of other professors' wives, later held a "festival" with food and various articles for sale. The women made a total of about two thousand dollars, which was presented to the Academy for some greatly needed furnishings for a new dormitory. She made two more visits to Europe, and in 1864 Professor Stowe left his position in the Seminary, and the family moved to Hartford, Conn., where they spent their remaining days. Her body lies buried in the cemetery near the home which she made so delightful through her personality. This writer undoubtedly did more for the Town and Country than any other citizen of Andover ever has, and the works that Mrs. Stowe wrote in this famous old stone building will never pass out of history.

Immediately after this time the house was used as an abode for Seminary students. However, in 1887 the old Mansion House burned down, and this stone structure became the Phillips Inn. A large frame addition was built on to it later, and the house was used as an inn for forty-two years. Last summer the addition was torn down, and the original building was moved down Bartlet Street to its present location at the end of Wheeler Street, looking west toward the Samaritan House. It is now used as a faculty building and is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Leonard.

When expressing his opinion as to the outcome of the Andover-Exeter golf match, Mr. Dye, golf advisor, said that Andover would win. In the first match, he said, inexperience and lack of confidence caused defeat at the hands of a weak team from Dummer Academy. In the other match we played with the strong Yale freshman team, which even defeated the Yale varsity. He also remarked that both Andover entries in the Interscholastics finished ahead of Exeter's men.

ANDOVER NINE TO FACE NEW HAMPSHIRE TEAM

Visitors Have Had a Highly Successful Season, But Blue Should Win

This afternoon the baseball team will oppose the strong New Hampshire Freshman nine in the final preliminary game of the 1930 season. The visitors have had a most favorable record, winning every game until they met the Tufts '33 team. In an early season game Andover beat Tufts 6-5 and so should conquer the team from New Hampshire. White, visiting twirler, is very effective. Elizabeth, clean-up man in the batting order, and Applin, hard-hitting first baseman are the worst threats, but Wing of the Blue should find no difficulty in putting them down to defeat. Moreover, if Batchelder, Williamson, and Kimball continue to hit the ball the way they did in earlier games, the Blue should end the preliminary season with a victory. Kimball, who has been replaced by K. Hayes in the last two games, will again play at third. Mayer and Scott will resume their positions in left and right field respectively, and Wing will be on the mound for the Blue.

chance of winning the game. C. H. Smith will pitch for the Blue with Willev, the Gaul's excellent catcher, behind the plate. Morgan will be at first, with Potter, King, and Kerr completing the infield. All of these players can field very well and will give Smith good support. Ogden, Norris, and Hallett will be in the outfield and they have all played well this season in the club games. Andover also has a strong group of hitters, and they should cause the Red and Grey team much difficulty.

Ushers And Ticket Takers Needed For Baseball Game

A few more ushers and ticket takers are needed for the Andover-Exeter baseball game. Will anyone who is interested hand in his name to Mr. Peck at the gymnasium as soon as possible. All names must be handed in by Friday night at the latest.

to pay homage to its author. Throughout the three days of the celebration over twenty buildings of historical note were opened to the public for a small admittance fee. In each of these, hosts or hostesses, dressed in old-fashioned costumes, were ready to receive visitors and to point out the displays to them. The Historical Society House on Main Street, itself a structure of great significance, was used as the official information bureau, and here alone over 1000 visitors registered their names. Here, also, besides the permanent collection of relics, was displayed a loan collection of old-fashioned pitchers of exceptional interest.

The oldest and, on this occasion, perhaps the most completely old-fashioned house to be opened for the celebration, the Benjamin Abbot Homestead, situated at Andover Street and Argilla Road, was brought to life from a decaying state of disuse and decorated so impressively that its atmosphere seemed indeed to bring one back to the days of the past. This structure, built in 1685 by Benjamin Abbot, was kept for seven generations in the possession of the original family. Recently, however, it had been deserted and not until the Tercentenary Committee entered into its plan of opening this house did it see life again. However, the committee did an excellent piece of work. Rare old furnishings were loaned for the occasion and a collection of old-fashioned lighting fixtures was displayed. With such detail was the work done that even the live turkeys in the front yard and the four-horse stage coach were not overlooked. These all aided in creating the superbly historic atmosphere which was present in this ancient farmstead.

The Abbot Homestead was not alone in its distinguished appearance. The Deacon Isaac Abbot Tavern (1789) on Elm Street, the Solomon Higgins House, (17th Century) and the John Lovejoy Abbot House (17th Century) both on Central Street, the Hardy House, the Oliver Wendell Holmes House, the Phelps House, the Samaritan House, the Stowe House, the buildings of Abbot and of Phillips Academies, and the old Chapel Cemetery, all presented interesting exhibits, and, together with their own significance, served to give those who visited them once more a feeling of the past.

On Friday and Saturday evenings, as still another part of the extensive celebration, Old Folks' Concerts were held in the Town Hall. These were under the direction of Mr. J. E. Collins of Andover, and included a chorus of one hundred voices. The program was of patriotic and old-fashioned popular music.

Old Home Services took place in all of the Andover Churches on Sunday morning, and on Sunday afternoon, as a fitting climax to the whole celebration, the Tercentenary Service was held in the South Church. In this the theme was entirely historical. The choir was vested in old-fashioned costumes, and the Rev. Mr. Shipman preached on an historical subject. Several distinguished visitors attended this service, among whom were Governor and Mrs. Allen, and two of the grand-daughters of Samuel F. Smith, Miss Anna C. Smith and Miss Anna H. Smith. Governor and Mrs. Allen were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Holt of Andover.
