BEN GREET PLAYERS GIVE PERFORMANCE OF "AS YOU LIKE IT"

Play Featured By Mediocre
Acting And Unsuitability
Of Characters

TOUCHSTONE WELL PORTRAYED

Costumes And Scenery Intended To Resemble Original Elizabethan Presentations

The widely heralded Ben Greet players last Saturday gave a rather mediocre performance of As You Like It. The actors were, in general, much too old for their parts; Russell Thornlike, who took the part of Touchstone, was the only one to give a really good performance. Ben Greet, however, although he showed traces of his former greatness, was not suited to the part of the melancholy Jaques.

The wrestling match in the second scene between Orlando and Charles, the duke's professional wrestler, bordered on absurdity: It created much laughter in the audience. The part of Le Beau, the effeminate courtier in the duke's palace, was, on the whole, well played. Phebe, the shepherdess, also did creditably. Rosalind and Orlando both appeared much too old for their parts. Celia, the cousin of Rosalind, had a high voice that did not carry. Amiens, the singer, became somewhat monotonous after ten or twelve repetitions. His voice, although pleasing at times, had little volume.

The costumes worn by the men as well as the women represented the clothes worn by the Elizabethans. This and the simplicity of the stage settings indicate Ben Greet's attempt to produce his plays as nearly like the way Shakespeare presented them as possible.

In spite of its many shortcomings, the play was, at times, highly amusing. As an interpretation of Shakespeare, however, it was an almost total failure.

HOCKEY SEXTET TO PLAY NEW HAMPSHIRE

Close Contest Is Expected With Freshman Team; Wolcott
Out With Bad Leg

BLUE DEFENSE VERY STRONG

Teams Have Not Met For A Considerable Number Of Years - Last Year's Game Cancelled

This afternoon the hockey team will oppose the New Hampshire State freshmen on the home rink. No accurate prophecy as to the outcome of the encounter can be made by either the coach or members of the squad due to the fact that the Blue has not played the New Hampshire sextet for a good many years, and no comparison can be made. Last year the game was called off because of soft ice.

Coach Eaton spent yesterday afternoon in Pearson Hall giving a blackboard talk to the players, as the weather was too warm to permit skating. He is confident that the team will show the ability it has been showing in daily practice, and expects even better results than those of last Saturday's game.

Wolcott is still out with an injured knee, so the same two forward lines that played in the season's first game will be substituted in and out today. Howard, center, together with Cooke and O'Neil, right and left wings respectively, will constitute one line, while Badger, Fawcett, and Darling will make up a second.

A combination of Cooke's deadly shooting and handling of the puck, together with accurate passing on the part of Howard, Badger, and Fawcett, and solid blocking by Gardner and Wheeler, should in-

BLUE BASKETBALL TEAM OPENS ITS SEASON BY DEFEATING M. I. T. '34

Second Team Plays The First Period And A Part Of
The Third

FINAL SCORE 28 - 23

Blue Takes The Lead In The Second Period; Sweet Leads With Three Baskets

Last Saturday the Andover basketball team opened its season by defeating the M. I. T. Freshmen by the score of 28 to 23. The second team, composed of H. Jones, K. Howard, Peterson, Weller, and Hall, started the game for the Blue. The first score was made on a foul shot by Greene of M. I. T. and this was immediately followed by Weller's basket for Andover. During the first period, Howard played an outstanding floor game for the Blue. M. I. T. had a small lead when the gun went off at the end of this quarter.

The first team, with Kettle and Sweet at the forward positions, Meighen at center, and Captain Kellogg and Beckwith as guards, played the second period. Captain Kellogg immediately scored a basket, which was followed by three more in quick succession, by Sweet and himself. Each forward scored another before the period ended. The Blue quintet displayed very good floor work and shooting ability throughout the entire game. In the second quarter, Sweet made the highest score with three baskets.

The second team started the third period. Lawrence, the left forward for M. I. T. made a beautiful basket from the center of the floor. After about five minutes of play, the Blue second team was replaced by the first, and the pace was quickened considerably. Four baskets were scored for Andover in the remaining half of the period, Meighen accounting for two of them.

The same lineups started the last quarter. Lawrence and Steele again made some very excellent shots for M. I. T. Kettle and Sweet each tallied for the Blue, making the score 28-23.

The lineups were as follows:
M. I. T. ANDOVER
Eamond, r.f. r.l. Sweet
Lawrence, l.f. l.f. Kettle
Rimback, c. c. Meighen
Steele, r.g. r.g. Beckwith
Greene, l.g. l.g. Kellogg (Capt.)
Substitutions: M. I. T.—Struck for Rimback; Keyser for Greene.
Andover: K. Howard for Sweet; H. Jones for Kettle; Peterson for Meighen; Weller for Beckwith; Hall for Kellogg; and Bush for Kettle.

MEANS ESSAY CONTEST COMPETITION OPENS

Fifteen Subjects Limit
Topics

Announcements that competition for the Means prizes is now open were made last week. Dr. Fuess and Professor Forbes have urged that all those who possess any ability whatever in composition or oratory take part.

There are three cash prizes to be awarded to the winners: twenty-five, fifteen, and ten dollars. Not only are the prizes worth winning for the money which is offered, but the names of the winners are set down in the permanent records of the school—an honor worth striving for.

The rules of the contest are more

Impartial Judges To Decide Outcome of Debate Tonight

Besides the usual vote of the audience which will be taken tonight, to aid in determining the winner of the debate between the titans of Paul Revere and Day Hall, the professors of these two dormitories—Messrs. Leith, Merrick, Van der Stucken, and Basford, will pick the official winners. These men, having been chosen for their impartiality, should render a fine decision. Day Hall men are, however, expecting that the eloquence of their professors will help them materially and a group of unidentified students were recently detected purchasing several rare and valuable history books for no explained reason.

CRAWFORD SCORES QUICK FALL

Shallenberger, Crawford, Breed And
Elliott Make Strong Showing
In First Meet

Last Saturday, to inaugurate the wrestling season, Andover defeated the Browne and Nichols school of Cambridge with the overwhelming score of twenty-eight to five. The meet was marked by several fast bouts and a generally strong showing for Andover.

In the 115 pound class G. T. Shallenberger of Andover defeated Wadsworth of Browne and Nichols in a fast struggle. H. Crawford of Andover then overcame Cummins in 35 seconds with a half-nelson and wristlock hold. In a slower match of the 135 pound class, Platt suffered Andover's only defeat after having gained an apparent advantage over Woodman of Browne and Nichols. Woodman however, finally threw Platt with a half-nelson.

In the 145 pound division Henry of Andover could not get his opponent Armstrong to the mat and extra time was called. The struggle then became more vigorous and Henry won with a body-hold.

J. B. Elliott of Andover and G. Douse of Browne and Nichols next fought in a fast bout, which Elliott won with a quick, aggressive attack. J. Breed of the Blue team downed C. Douse in the 165 pound division in another fast fight. H. Townsend defeated Captain Temy of Browne and Nichols in the most

PAUL REVERE HALL TO OPPOSE DAY IN FIRST DEBATE OF SEASON

System Of Dormitory Debating
To Be Tried Out This Year

DEBATE STARTS AT 6:15

L. Howard, Donahoe, Coburn Against
E. King, Millikan, And Case

This evening at 6:45 the first debate of the year will be held in Peabody House. A new experiment is being tried out this year: there will be debates between groups representing dormitories and houses. This will not, however, prevent individual teams from getting together and challenging each other.

The debate tonight will be between Paul Revere Hall and her deadly rivals from Day. Representing the former are: Martin Donahoe, Charles Coburn, and Lee Howard; those from Day are: Max Millikan, Edward King, and Bob Case. The subject for debate will be, "Resolved: that the Tutorial system and house plan, as now in effect in the English Public Schools, would be an improvement over the present system in Andover".

Rumors from the Paul Revere camp drifted in this morning stating that the favored camp was in a furor of excitement. Final preparations were being made for a surprise attack and, although nothing definite could be ascertained, it was murmured about that entirely different subjects were being worked upon by the opposing factions.

Day rooters, headed by "Webb" Davis, were last seen plotting together for a desperate attack on the voting polls in case simpler methods fail.

The officers of the organization for this year are: King Howard, President; John Hegeman, Vice-President; and Max Millikan, Secretary. Mr. Wilkinson is the faculty adviser.

Bishop Hall Scene Of Gripping Robbery By Red-Headed Maurader Early Saturday

Two members of Bishop Hall's owl club were busy reading detective stories and writing letters at 1:30 Sunday morning. One of them, a six foot member of the football team, went out to look for another member of the organization. As he passed his bedroom, he thought he saw somebody in the dark, hiding behind the door. He investigated and sure enough a stranger was crouching behind the door. The stranger, perfectly friendly, asked the investigator if he knew his name. The latter named the only red-haired Irishman of his acquaintance, but it was not the man. At this moment the roommate of the discoverer came in and searched the bandit's pockets. The pockets being empty, they decided that the only thing to do was to put the marauder out. After he had left the room, they discovered some dirty clothes on the floor. By clever headwork and complicated reasoning they deduced that the intruder had escaped with one of the roommate's new Christmas suits. They both rushed down the stairs in immodest dress and while one proceeded out on to the campus to finally capture

Many Questions Answered In Informal Talk By Dr. Foster At Peabody House

Attracted not only by his reputation at other schools and colleges, but by the logic of his arguments at the two regular chapel services as well, nearly a hundred students gathered at the Peabody House Sunday night to take part in a discussion headed by the Reverend Allyn K. Foster of Chicago, Illinois.

The get-together, which was held under the auspices of the Society of Inquiry, started at seven o'clock with a short informal talk on religion by Dr. Foster. At the end of this brief speech, an open forum was inaugurated for the evening. The chief feature of the occasion was a "question box" arrangement. Dr. Foster begged those present to write down on paper any problems that might be worrying them and to hand their questions to him for an answer. A very large number of students took advantage of this offer, with the result that many widely varying subjects of especial interest to the members of the Academy were openly discussed.

The frankness and completeness with which Dr. Foster answered

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS

To insure change of advertisement, copy must be received not later than noon of day preceding publication.

Terms: $3.50 per year; $1.50 per term.

Entered at the Andover Post Office as second-class matter.

Published every Wednesday and Saturday during the school year.

Example

Carrying on in his work when those who knew him best felt that a rest was almost imperative, Mr. Leonard completed the work of the fall term and even attempted to continue on without respite into the winter term. Toward the end of last week he found himself physically unable to continue in spite of his undiminished mental resolve and so was compelled to stop. Overwork had led to complete physical and mental exhaustion.

Mr. Leonard has, for more than twenty-five years, served efficiently and more than conscientiously on the faculty of the academy. During that time, in his class work and in his work with the various publications, he has achieved more than a moderate popularity, and a quick return to his usual health and vigor will be a most welcome event to the entire student body.

A Few Snowflakes

Now that a little over a week of school has passed and everyone has more or less recuperated from the activities of the vacation, attention will once more center on the winter term activities.

Apparently the athletic outlook is even more than moderately promising. In basketball and hockey, proficient and promising "preps" have come forward to take the places of last year's stars; and in basketball, at least, the material seems far above the ordinary. The swimming team seems somewhat less blessed than last year when Kohanamoku appeared so unexpectedly on the scene; but there is, notwithstanding, strong, if unbalanced, material. Practically the entire wrestling team graduated last spring, but recruits from the club teams have filled the gaps—how well still remains to be seen. Of the fencing squad we know naught except that for the past three or four seasons each team has regularly been superior to its predecessor, and the material seems average or better than average for the coming season.

Then, too, unorganized but far more enjoyable activity will daily be carried on at Poms and Rabbits. And for the skier, the hilly country at and around Poms will be available. The elevations are not exactly mountains, but there is more than enough height to get up momentum for a good skid at the bottom.

Besides the outdoor endeavor there is work to be done and fun to be had in the non-athletic activities chiefly Philo, Dramatics, and the Musical Club.

And, oh yes, about forty-five hours a week must be passed in scholarly pursuit or contemplation.

Unfinished Business

The final issue of THE PHILLIPIAN for last term had been printed before the MIRROR appeared, with the result that nothing could be said then regarding the magazine. Let us therefore take the opportunity now of congratulating Max Millikan and Graham Peck and their assistants on what was nothing if not a very creditable issue. As in all student publications, the writing lapsed from time to time; but taken as a whole even that was more than satisfactory. What pleased us most though, was the general appearance of the magazine—it was pleasing to regard, hold or read. The material was entirely of a readable and entertaining vein. We could not help feeling last spring, when perusing the last issue of the year, that the editors were determined to educate us in spite of ourselves. This issue was peculiarly free of any such material. A clever and a well written essay, now and then, adds breadth and range to the magazine, but for the essays to set the tone of the whole, as they have in the past, is to place the emphasis in the wrong direction and credit us with a love of scholarly perspicacity which most of us quite lack.

Nuptials And Betrothals

Mr. Wilkinson stole a march on the academy by announcing his engagement to Miss Rodgers of Brookline, during the vacation. Perhaps he thought that we would forget about it by the time school reopened. Not so. THE PHILLIPIAN board wishes to take this opportunity to congratulate him most sincerely and wish him and his fiancée all happiness.

ALUMNI COLUMN

Just at the close of last term John T. Lindenberg, P. A. '28, was awarded the Norman Stewart Hall Memorial scholarship at Yale.

This was the second year that this scholarship, established in memory of Norman Hall, Yale football and track star, who was drowned two years ago in an attempt to save the life of a companion, was awarded.

The prize is given in the fall of each year to the member of the Junior class who "most nearly approaches the standards of manly character and good sportsmanship which Norman Hall exemplified".

Lindenberg played end on the football team this year until he unfortunately injured his leg which prevented him from playing the latter half of the season. He won his letter in basketball last year.

We regret to hear that Lyman Westfall, P. A. '28, whose leg was fractured during the recent football season, may not be able to play football again as the leg was set wrong after the fracture and had to be broken again and reset. Westfall, although not a regular on the Amherst team this year, promised to have a brilliant career, as he was only a sophomore, but this injury may prevent him from carrying it out. He was also an exceptional swimmer and captained the Andover team for two years.

Joseph Dolben, P. A. '30, who is now at Dartmouth was elected to the business board of the student daily newspaper, The Dartmouth, following a term of healing.

Water Swoope, P. A. '27, captain-elect of the Yale golf team, paired with his sister, won the mixed twosome golf tournament recently held at Pinchurst, N. C. He also reached the semi-finals in the men's tourney which was captured by George Dunlap of Princeton, present Inter-collegiate champion.

Many former Andover students are distinguishing themselves in different fields of college athletics. Dick Jackson is regular right wing on the Dartmouth hockey team while Ken Fawcett is playing on the Yale freshman sextet. Huppuch is on the Harvard varsity basketball team, Shallenberger the Yale freshman wrestling team, and Anderson is the star backstroker on the Yale swimming squad.

GARDNER MAKES ONLY SCORE FOR ANDOVER

Sturdy Defense Prevents Tech From Offensive Shooting

The Andover hockey team played its first game on Saturday, January 10. It opened the season with a victory, 1-0 over M. I. T. Freshmen. The game was as the score might imply, a very close and hard-fought contest throughout.

The ice was fairly smooth, and because of this fact the entire game was quite fast.

The Freshman players were slightly smaller than the Andover boys, but they made up for this in speed.

The Andover defense was notably outstanding throughout the entire game. Wheeler, at right defense, not only prevented Tech from shooting, but often recovered the puck to make some exceptionally fast runs up the ice. Several of his shots barely missed the cage. Gardner and Foreman blocked per-

For Library Test

English classes. During the past few days, mimeographed pamphlets, written by Mrs. Richardson, have been issued to all seniors taking English. This pamphlet is a comprehensive and interesting treatise on the principles and problems of the use of the library, which should aid the students considerably. Last year a similar test was conducted, but the only source of information available to the boys, consisted of seven or eight copies of a book in the library, which dealt in great detail with the use of libraries in general, thus furnishing but little information applicable to this particular library. The new system, therefore, is a great improvement and should prepare the students thoroughly for the coming examination.

The library is the storehouse of knowledge of the school, and undergraduates should be able to avail themselves of this knowledge as occasion demands, obtaining any desired information as quickly, completely, and accurately as possible, and should be able to accomplish this without the aid of the librarians who have other things to do than to answer simple questions which students could answer for themselves with a little study of the principles and problems of the library. It is with this purpose in mind that the pamphlets have been issued and the examination will be conducted. Many students, moreover, go through preparatory school and college without realizing that the library contains a vast amount of helpful material that could be used to their interests, and this examination should stimulate this realization, and consequently supply valuable aid to students in their studies and extra-curriculum activities.

The problem of how to use the library has been divided into three separate headings, as follows:

1. How to determine what desirable material the shelves (stacks) contain, in the form of books, magazines, or pamphlets.

2. How to obtain the material needed.

3. How to go directly to the material wanted in the reference room.

It is mainly with answering these questions completely that Mrs. Richardson's pamphlet is concerned. Besides this, however, much additional interesting information is supplied in regard to the contents of the library.

An example of one of the lessons that can be learned from this short course in the use of the library, is that on the Library of Congress Index cards, the year of birth and death is given after an author's name. Knowledge of this fact would save troublesome searching out of the desired dates among the volumes on the shelves, when the information could be obtained by merely referring to the alphabetical library card catalog. This and many other similar advantages that can be gained, show that the short course and examination on the use of the library is not a useless waste of time, but rather a highly valuable instruction.

Work On Play Begun By Dramatic Club

ing a part in the play, and from these Mr. Heely has selected twenty of the most promising. Of this group, a half dozen or so had parts in last year's performance presented under the direction of Mr. Wilkinson, and the others claim to have had considerable acting experience in various amateur plays.

The play to be presented this year is a modern satirical comedy in three acts called "The Queen's Husband", by Robert E. Sherwood, author of "The Road to Rome". "The Queen's Husband" was successfully presented in New York and Chicago in 1928 with the well-known Roland Young in the leading part.

The setting of the play is in a mythical European Kingdom on an island in the North Sea somewhere between Denmark and Scotland, and the entire action of the play takes place in King Eric's private office in the royal palace of the kingdom. The play is characterized by delightful humor and bright lines, while rapid action, subtlety, intriguing romance, and moronic hokum hold a prominent enough part in the play to please the most versatile audience.

Fifteen boys will take part in the comedy; these fifteen will be chosen in time for them to be ready for a first rough rehearsal this week. There will be no understudies for any of the players. Though the date of the presentation is as yet undecided, the last Saturday in February seems a likely time.

Mr. Heely will try to make the whole thing as much of a "student-made" production as possible and has consequently left the designing and making of scenery, the caring and providing for furnishings, properties, and stage effects, the lighting, and the business end of the play to a competent staff of undergraduate dramatic club workers, who will also choose a stage manager, technical director, property manager, and electrician for next year, and any additional backstage workers needed for this year's play. Mr. Heely, therefore, is mostly concerned himself with the actual acting and directing of rehearsals.

The literary quality of "The Queen's Husband" is probably better than that of any of the plays that have yet been presented by the Dramatic Club, and the group of promising actors, under competent direction and supervision, together with the clever and industrious stage staff, promise a highly amusing, well-acted, and well-produced entertainment.

Means Essay Contest

Competition Opens

or less general; it is open to everyone; one of fifteen given subjects must be chosen; its length must be from 800 to 1000 words; all essays must be submitted to Mr. Young on or before February 3. After every essay has been carefully considered, the best six will be named. These men must deliver their essays in George Washington Hall. This is, as Dr. Fuess brought out in one of his classes, one of the recognized values of the contest.

The subjects which have been chosen vary so that almost any type of topic may be found among the given fifteen. Some are concerning present political problems both in United States and in Europe; others concern literary subjects. One in particular is a very interesting topic, "Saint Gandhi." Still others have been chosen merely because they are topics of interest.

For those who are considering the contest, the list of subjects and the rules in detail have been placed on the bulletin board in Pearson Hall.

Students Asked To Identify Selves In School Picture

The school picture, said to be one of the best in recent years, has arrived and is now on display in Mr. Dye's office. All students are requested to identify their portraits in the group as soon as possible.

fectly throughout the contest. Gardner, who made Andover's only score, was also very brilliant on the offense. His goal was made from the middle of the ice; it was a perfect shot just to the right of the goal-keeper.

Cooke and Howard, both new men, showed unusual ability in handling the puck. O'Neil made numerous runs down the ice but he could not get past the defense players very often.

Summer proved to be a very reliable goal-keeper and stopped all the opponents' shots easily.

Both Wolcott and Bartow are out on account of sickness. The latter will probably be unable to return to the team this season.
