SOCIETY OF INQUIRY TO HOLD GATHERING IN THE MEETING ROOM

Professor Robert H. Baker To Give Illustrated Lecture
Next Sunday

PROMINENT MEN WILL SPEAK

Professors Bruce Hopper And Sir
Herbert Ames To Talk
During Year

The program of the Society of Inquiry will get under way Sunday, October 18, when Prof. Robert H. Baker, Professor of Astronomy of the University of Illinois, will give an illustrated lecture in the Meeting Room at 6:45. The subject of Prof. Baker's lecture will be The Expanding Universe. Professor Baker is now spending a year engaged in special research work in the Harvard Observatory. He has written a textbook on Astronomy which is used by Harvard and other colleges.

The whole school is cordially invited to attend this first meeting Sunday.

The society has obtained Prof. Allan G. Alley on November 3, who will lecture on The Work of the League of Nations in the Present Economic Crisis. Another distinguished man who will lecture here is Doctor Maria Schleuter-Herubes. His subject will be The Political Germany of Today.

Other men who will speak during the year are Prof. Bruce Hopper of Harvard and Radcliffe, Sir Herbert Ames, who for several years was director of the economic division of the League of Nations. Professor Sears of Massachusetts State College has also been invited to speak.

Several of the prominent visiting clergymen will be invited to speak before the school on Sunday evenings. Among them are such old friends as Dr. Allyn K. Foster, Dr. Erdman Harris, Rev. "Tui" Kinsolving, Rev. Otis Rice, and Dean Robert Works of Princeton.

TOC H WILL HOLD NEXT MEETING ON THURSDAY

List Of Speakers For Year Not Completed; Many Interesting
Talks Expected

The next meeting of Toc H will be held Thursday night at Mr. Baldwin's house, where the usual informal gathering of the society will be held, to talk over plans for the winter. It is expected that this winter will be more severe than any for a good many years, and that a greater call will be made upon the organization than ever before. Last week the members of Toc H took the school's truck and, after gathering thirty-three sacks of apples from the Bird Sanctuary, distributed them to about twenty local families known through the Andover Guild to be in need. This job was quickly accomplished and it was felt that from now on this could become an annual activity each autumn.

Work with the local Boy Scouts has begun and Toc H is helping to organize their troops, extending an invitation to an Andover football game and a possible rally of all the Andover troops, which would be held in the Log Cabin. The directors of the Society of Inquiry have given the sum of fifty dollars to

Sermon On Parallelism Of School

After Life

(Special to The Phillipian)

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 13, 1931, (By the Daily Princetonian). Headmaster Alfred E. Stearns of Phillips Academy, Andover, was the preacher at the university chapel here yesterday morning. Following the service he was entertained at a luncheon given in his honor at the Nassau Club by the Andover Club of Princeton.

Dr. Stearns, addressing a gathering which filled the balcony and overflowed into the chancel, demanded that the college man in his formative years make a definite choice as to the kind of life he was to lead. Using Dwight Morrow as an example of a man who had made the vital choice early in life, he stressed the parallelism of a man's life in college and school with his whole life afterwards.

Last Saturday Andover held Harvard Freshmen to a scoreless tie. Gardner, Whitehead, Bird, and Fitz were the outstanding Blue players, while Tenney and Locke lead the Crimson attack.

FIRST QUARTER

The game opened with a sixty yard kick by Gardner and after a short run back the Crimson was downed on the thirty yard line. Locke made a fifteen yard gain around left end and a few plays later Whitehead intercepted a forward pass giving the ball to the Blue on the forty-six yard line. Fitz gained twenty yards on a beautiful run around the end but fumbled on the next play. Harvard recovered the fumble and completed a thirteen yard pass as the quarter ended.

NO SOCCER GAME TODAY; TABOR HERE SATURDAY

Blue Conquered Opponents 2-0
In Contest Held At Tabor
Last Year

The soccer game with Tabor Academy which has been postponed several times on account of the infantile quarantine is now definitely scheduled for Saturday. Last year in their first contest of the season, Andover journeyed to Tabor to defeat the opponents, 2-0. Again this year the Blue has a strong team, and it is hoped that last year's victory will be duplicated.

Coach Ryley has been holding practice games every day in which the first team has opposed various combinations composed of the remaining members of the squad. In these games the first team as a rule has had little difficulty in defeating its opponents.

The starting line-up for the Tabor game will probably be:

Dorman, in

GAME TO BE PLAYED HERE

Team Composed Of Royal, Embree,
Barnes, Whitney, With H.
Robinson As Substitute

Today on the polo field back of Johnson Hall the polo team will play its first game of the season with the Medford Polo Club. The game will probably start at three o'clock. Up to this date there have been no contests and several have been called off because of the rule that no one may leave until the danger from infantile paralysis is over. Meets with the Dedham, Danvers and Myopia teams have been postponed. In spite of lack of actual playing practice in games, Mr. Phillips, the coach, has every reason to hope that his riders will overcome their opponents in spite of the advantage which the latter have over the Blue men. The Blue team appears to be a hard-riding outfit and this alone is a very important factor in the outcome. This year there are about twelve men on the squad from which it appears Mr. Phillips has picked out a very good team. The following men will compose the starting line-up: Barnes, playing back; Whitney, number 1; Embree, number 2; Royal, number 3. Robinson will serve as a substitute for any one of these during the game.

BLISS ART COLLECTION OPENS NEXT SATURDAY AT ADDISON GALLERY

Modern French And American
Pictures By Best Known Artists

SHOWN IN NEW YORK MUSEUM

Work Of Cezanne, Picasso, Matisse,
Gauguin, Degas, And Davies
Among Paintings

Opening officially next Saturday, October 18, and continuing until December 15, the late Miss Lizzie P. Bliss's collection of modern art will be shown at the Addison Gallery of American Art. This collection has been on view during the summer at the Museum of Modern Art in the Heckscher Building, New York City.

The group, generally considered one of the best collections of modern paintings in this country, is now in the hands of Miss Bliss's executors and will go to the Museum of Modern Art within three years of the donor's death, which occurred last March. Numbered among the many pieces are fine examples of the work of Cezanne, Matisse, Picasso, Gauguin, Redon, Degas, and Davies. From these groups of modern French and American Art Miss Bliss bequeathed to the Addison Gallery Spring Ecstasy and four water-colors by Arthur B. Davies, and three water-colors by Maurice Prendergast.

This is the first time that foreign pictures have been exhibited here, but these are of particular import-

Yale Freshman Football Game Will Be Held Here

Manager Laird of the football team has announced that the Yale Freshman game, which was scheduled to be held at New Haven next Saturday, will be played here. This change was necessitated by the school quarantine and infantile in Conn.

One of the most interesting pictures in the exhibit which terminates this week is that by Ivan Olinsky, Herbert Dittler. This shows a man playing a violin. It is printed on a light background and the figure stands out very well. All the features are painted exceptionally clearly, but, to many, the picture appears to lack action.

The painter, Ivan Olinsky, born in Russia in 1878, came to America in 1891 and studied in the National Academy of Design in New York, and also under John LaFarge, the famous mural painter. He is at present well known in art circles.

Ivan Olinsky's work was secured as a loan from the Lyme Art Association through the efforts of Mr. Charles Sawyer.

ALUMNI COLUMN

In the Yale-Georgia game at New Haven last Saturday, which Georgia won, 26-7, Herster Barres, P. A. '28, Yale's star end, made the only touchdown for the Blue, after he had made a spectacular catch on his knees of a forward pass from Albie Booth.

Among the thousands of Yale alumni who will rally to the football game at Chicago Saturday will be the six surviving members of the Yale champions of 1888. Of these, two are Andover graduates: George Woodruff, P. A. '81, former Attorney General of Pennsylvania, and William R. Graves, P. A. '87, professor in the Harvard Medical School.

Harry Foreman, P. A. '31, played at left tackle for Dartmouth last Saturday, when the yearlings overwhelmed Tilton Academy, 35-0.

Ken Fawcett, P. A. '30, J. H. Young, Jr., P. A. '30, I. W. Curtis, P. A. '30, E. R. Calloway, P. A. '30, J. W. Bannon, P. A. '29, and J. L. Luce, Jr., P. A. '27, played for Yale against M. I. T. in the first soccer game of their season which Yale won 3-1. G. E. Kiddé, P. A. '29, played for M. I. T.

Roland Sherman, P. A. '31, was retained on the Harvard Freshman football squad after the first cut. He played left half on the seconds in the game with Groton last Saturday.

M. Grover, J. C. Fuess, and D. C. Clos, all P. A. '31, played on the Harvard Freshman soccer team when it defeated Tilton Academy, 13-0. Grover scored four goals.

In the Brown-Princeton game, which Brown won, 19-7, "Bucky" Harris, P. A. '28, substituted for Chase on the winning eleven.

Charlie Strauss, P. A. '31, Howie Bodwell, P. A. '31, and Eddie King, P. A. '31, played for the Yale Freshmen when Hebron defeated the Blue, 7-0, last Saturday.

John H. Young, Jr., P. A. '30, and Roul Tunley, P. A. ex-'30, were among the students at Yale receiving second honors for their freshman year.

Arne Frigard, P. A. '27, starred at left half for Dartmouth last Saturday, when the Green conquered Holy Cross, 14-7. He made several good passes including one to the right end which netted twenty-two yards. Bill Hoffman, P. A. '28, played right guard.

E. Batchelder, P. A. '30, was substituted at right tackle on the Tufts eleven last Saturday when Tufts defeated Colby, 21-6.

D. B. Dorman, P. A. '28, played forward on the Harvard Varsity soccer team against the graduates last Thursday.

Austin Chase, P. A. '29, is out for cross-country at Amherst. Chase is one of the members of last year's "Little Three" champion outfit. The team will meet Yale October 17.

Tom Greenough, P. A. '28, is out for soccer at Amherst. He won his soccer insignia last year.

I. C. Painter, Jr., P. A. '30, recently joined the Amherst Varsity football squad. Painter played with the Gray Jerseys at Andover.

Rugs To Burn

The apparent reason why the privileges of Peabody Club are not valued so highly any more is that the club does not fill so important a need as it did at the time of its inception. It was intended as a smoking room. There are several other places for smoking about the school. It was intended as a reading room. The library fills all the reading requirements any one could bring up. It is intended as a place to play cards. Card playing is not so general now as it was when the Peabody Club was started. The call for a general room for social gatherings is at present very small. Students now have no time to give to regulated idleness. Facilities for recreation are provided in various forms: athletics, the library, school activities, and the like.

Proof of the fact that Peabody is becoming superfluous is the small number of students who take advantage of the social activities it offers. Dormitory "bull sessions" and the contacts offered by the various extra-curricular activities are fulfilling all such needs at the present. School authorities are considering seriously the plan of having social rooms in all the dormitories. Until these are materialized, there are many uses to which the club room of Peabody House could be put, if considered necessary, to take steps to stop the present misuse of the room.

"Service With A Smile"

There are two ways of getting a job. One way is to take a job that is already there, waiting for someone to step into it. A second way, and the one which offers the most optimistic outlook in these times of proverbially scarce jobs, is to make a position for yourself by building a better mouse trap—by filling an unsupplied demand.

It is rumored that unemployment throughout the country is at a high point in history. This is probably true. But at the present time there is also a greater need for men than ever before. Until the world reaches a state of perfection this need will never be filled.

The keynote of all publicity for organizations at the present time, from the local shoemaker to the nation-wide chain store, is service. And yet, how many of these that boast of it so extensively do give satisfactory service? An attempt to buy a definite list of articles at any store is sufficient to convince anybody of the hollowness of such claims. There are few organizations of any size, created for any purpose, with which one can have any dealings without being deeply disgusted by the gross inefficiency exhibited. The most glaring example of this is the United States government, whose red tape if stretched end to end could make no more of a mess than it does now. Department stores are nearly as unsatisfactory. In fact, any attempt to get satisfaction from any business house or tradesman is a predestined failure. The search for service ends with the searcher too exhausted to recognize it, if, by some miracle, it were to appear.

As long as service, which like the weather is talked about but seldom done anything about, continues to have so great a demand and to be so poorly supplied, a man who can "deliver the goods" will not need to look for a job.

Hoover Boed.

In the frequent clashes between capital and labor, the continual cry of those who style themselves the workers is that it is an unjust social system which gives to the "white collar" man the lion's share of the profits, while those who do "the real" work remain practically slaves to their employers. It seldom occurs to "the workers", that in return for an eight-hour day, and a five-day week, they are receiving a great deal more than their despised "white collar" man, who not only often has the problems of his business before him every minute of his waking hours, but also puts in longer time at his task, which embraces far more than the mere repetitive labor of the man who thinks he does the real work.

Last week when President Hoover visited the world series, he was the object of much booing, hissing, and derogatory comment: he got what is commonly referred to as the "Bronx cheer". Such action on the part of the crowd was not only an example of childish conduct, but it was also highly indicative of the stone wall confronting those whose thankless task it is to get the world out of the present trouble it is in. It is reasonable to assume that the cause of the booing was what appears to the public a lack of action by Hoover in remedying the present depression. But who were those people in the stands who, so desirous of putting the world back on its feet, bood Hoover for his non-action? They were the ones who were working so hard to end the depression that they took an afternoon off to see a baseball game.

Capital will never have a case against labor, "the workers" will never have a case against the "white-collar" men, until they can prove that they do a little work—that their steam is not all going into blowing the whistle, but is being used to turn the wheels.

COMMUNICATIONS

To the Editor:

Why the library doesn't subscribe to this or that magazine is a question that frequently arises. As a whole the library's selection is quite good and complete, but there are one or two important omissions. Why, for instance, are Asia and the American Mercury not represented? In the selection of the ten best magazine articles of the month posted in the library, both or either of them are almost always on the list. There can be no objection to the American Mercury because of its policy for it is no more radical than the Forum, the Nation, or the New Republic, all of which are taken by the library. As for Asia, now with the attention of the world centered on the developments in India and on the controversy between China and Japan, it is especially needed.

The popular weeklies, the Saturday Evening Post and Collier's, are often missed by the new men. The two are relatively inexpensive and could be put in a heavy cover to avoid excessive damage. Also they need not be bound, so that there would be no extra expense. Many important non-fiction articles appear in them as exemplified by Calvin Coolidge's recent article on the poli-tiary which might result from the Princeton-Amherst game. However, Greenough recovered speedily and was able to play in the game with Union last Saturday. Phil Potter, P. A. '30, also played at left tackle for Amherst.

Edward P. Batchelder, P. A. '30, has gained a place on the Tufts Varsity football team. He has been put in at tackle on team A. He has so far made a wonderful record at Tufts, having been elected president of his class and having held a regular position on the Tufts Freshman football team last year. Batchelder was on the Varsity squad here for three years and played tackle on the Varsity team for two years. He also distinguished himself in baseball at Andover.

tical situation, and a large number of the best novels are published serially in these magazines. The humorous weeklies, Life and Judge, can be omitted, but there is a definite place for the New Yorker. Intelligent humor in an intelligent magazine should be available to P. A. students.

P. A. '34.

To the Editor:

We protest against students who are continually writing communications pointing out the "urgent need" of such and such a thing and ending with the words: "Why cannot some generous alumnus realize this pressing need?" Do they not realize that the depression has hit Andover's alumni as well as Andover's budget? Let us instead devise and suggest ways of getting around these needs for the present.

For instance, the usual lecturers and artists will not come here this year in such numbers as in past years. Perhaps the loss will not be greatly deplored: the attendance at these lectures and concerts was rarely large. But, in any case, the members of the Faculty are here and all have something to tell us or show us. Many of them, I am sure, would be only too willing to give informal talks on the widest possible range of subjects. We understand that Dr. Pfatteicher's first musicale was a success and we are sure that from his experiences abroad this summer and past summers he could gather enough material to talk on anything from "Hitlerism" to mountain-climbing. We venture to say that the "box-office appeal" of some other faculty members would draw a crowd which would overflow Peabody House. Perhaps, and probably, we are too enthusiastic in putting forth this scheme; but we know for a fact that some instructors have endorsed it. At any rate, let it be looked over and, if found practical, tried out. The talks may be considered so new, so refreshing, and so interesting, that the plan will be kept in part in years of economic prosperity.

The Gauls triumphed over the Romans Monday 4-0 in a heavy wind. Cook scored the first goal and later Shirley shot three more goals for the Gaul team. Among the Romans, Scoville, Cates and Rhodes were outstanding, while Shirley, Turner and Gardner played well for the Gauls.

The Greeks defeated the Saxons 5-2 in the club soccer games Monday, Edie making the only two scores for the losers. Wilson and Thompson both scored twice for the Romans while Peck made the last score for the team Thompson, Peck and Wilson played well for Romans, while Edie, McLanahan, and Haskel were outstanding for the Saxons.

PARK TABLET TO BE MOVED

Officers—Dr. James H. Ropes, Dr. Stearns, and Mr. Sawyer Are Re-elected

Last Thursday the Trustees of Phillips Academy met; the session was attended by the following members of the board: Messrs. James H. Ropes, Alfred L. Ripley, Elias B. Bishop, Clarence Morgan, Fred T. Murphy, James B. Neale, Ernest M. Hopkins, Alfred E. Stearns, and James C. Sawyer.

The former officers—Dr. James H. Ropes, president; Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, clerk; and James C. Sawyer, treasurer, were re-elected.

The following questions were voted on and passed: that the Bird Sanctuary be named after Moncrieff Cochran, Andover alumnus and a devoted friend of the school; that the tablet in memory of Dr. Samuel H. Taylor, formerly in the old Academy building, be placed in the new chapel, together with a supplementary tablet explaining its origin, and that the tablet in memory of the late Prof. Edwards A. Park, be placed in Pearson Hall.

A minute was entered on the record of the trustees as a tribute to Dr. Clifford Herschel Moore. Dr. Moore was a trustee of Phillips Academy and contributed much to make the school what it is. He came to Andover first in 1892 as a professor of Greek. He left in 1894 to become a professor of the Classics at Harvard, but still kept in close contact with this school. While at Harvard, where he was later made a dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, he was in 1902 elected a Trustee of Phillips Academy. In this office he did much for the school, where he was loved by all who knew him.

ROMAN-SAXON GAME PROMISES TO BE CLOSE

Saxons Leading Club Football By Victory Over Gauls

The football game this afternoon between the Romans and the Saxons promises to be very interesting and close. The Saxons won their game last week six to nothing from the Gauls. This gives them slight odds. Dr. Eccles, the Roman coach, was not satisfied with his team, which last week made many fumbles and completed but few passes. Therefore he is looking over his men for new material and he says he will make many substitutions during the game.

Many gains were made through the line last week by the Saxons. These were made possible by very good blocking on the part of the line. The Romans hope to stop this by their strong line. However, if they fumble as they did last week the Saxons will probably walk away with the game.

The game between the Greeks and the Gauls this afternoon should be a real contest. Both teams have had games and neither has scored. They have scrimmaged several times together since the season began and both teams show power.

Neither coach would make any statement.

The Greeks tied the Romans last Wednesday and the Gauls were beaten by the Saxons. Both teams are to attempt several new plays that they have been practising during the last week.

The Greek line-up is expected to be:

Bird Baths Are Erected At The A. Porter Thompson Memorial

Among the additions to the Bird Sanctuary are some Japanese wild pheasants. Last spring they were in the pens, but during the summer they were allowed to run free and are now to be seen all over the preserve.

Two red foxes have also been added to the collection of animals near the runways. They are in a cage of their own.

It has been estimated that from two to three thousand birds were hatched there during the spring and summer.

Also work has been done on the A. Porter Thompson Memorial. Two bird baths have been erected with running water in each.

Toc H Will Hold Next Meeting On Thursday At Mr. Baldwin's House

Toc H to help carry out their plans for charity work.

The organization is at work on plans for a carpentry shop in which the boys of insufficient means may interest themselves in manual training. Toc H, with the Andover Guild, is trying to raise seventy-five dollars for the proper equipment for the shop.

Throughout the winter Toc H will hold many informal meetings, with discussions, and with some well-known men as guest speakers. Also Mr. Trowbridge and his staff intend to visit many places of interest, both out of town and in, such as factories and mills.

Toc H will hold, as usual, two or three old-clothes drives, which will be needed very much during this time of wide-spread unemployment and poverty. The students are asked to give their out-grown clothes or those that they are finished with to the poor. Magaance. Cezanne has started many important new fields and has been one of the greatest influences on the art of this century. Picasso and Matisse are of somewhat less importance but are almost equally well-known among art lovers. A view of the work of these men will give Andover students a clearer and broader comprehension of the developments in modern art.

Society Of Inquiry To Hold Gathering

It is hoped that the society will be able to hold several small Sunday afternoon meetings with prominent men in the Log Cabin. These gatherings will be entirely informal, limited to the men who are especially interested in the work.

SECOND QUARTER

Harvard was held for downs and surrendered the ball to Andover. Fitz, after a small gain by Whitehead, punted fifty yards, but a twenty yard run by Tenney brought the ball back to the forty-five yard line. A few first downs were made by the Harvard backs before Andover held. Several good gains by Fitz, a successful criss-cross and a fifteen yard penalty sufficed to bring the ball to mid-field, where a fumble gave the ball to Harvard as the half ended.

THIRD QUARTER

Harvard made a threatening twenty-two yard run only to be downed by Bird in a beautiful tackle when the runner had nearly gained a clear field for a touchdown. The ball seasawed back and forth with several exchanges of kicks, neither team making any very formidable headway.

FOURTH QUARTER

The fourth quarter was marked by three intercepted passes, a source of excitement and interest in any game. Fitz intercepted Hitman's pass on his own ten yard line and advanced the ball nearly past the whole Harvard defence to the forty-seven yard line where he was checked. The number of kicks in this period showed the fine defensive work of both lines as no serious gains were made by either team, and few deceptive plays were tried other than a criss-cross, worked successfully by Fitz and Whitehead with a gain of small consequence.
