Blue Passing Attack Being
Stressed By Coach
Billhardt

DUMMER HAS STRONG TEAM

Opponents Gained 39-27 Victory
Over Lynn General Electric
Aggregation

After suffering two successive defeats at the hands of the Yale Fresh and Dean Academy quintets, the Blue will take the court this afternoon with a Dummer team of better than average calibre, which can be counted on to offer the Blue cagers plenty of opposition. Last Saturday the opponents scored a 39-27 win over Lynn General Electric with Gioban, stellar forward for the Red and White, accounting for 10 of the 39 tallies.

For the past few days Coach Billhardt has been concentrating

PROF. SMITH GIVES WASHINGTON LECTURE

Speech A Part Of Andover's
Celebration Of Washington
Bicentennial

Before a good-sized audience in the Meeting Room, Professor Elmer Smith of Colgate University lectured Wednesday evening on "Washington in the Twentieth Century". This lecture was Andover's part in this year's nationwide celebration of the bi-centennial of Washington's birth.

Acting Headmaster Forbes, in introducing the speaker, mentioned the appropriateness of the subject, as Washington and his descendants have been intimately connected with Andover.

Professor Smith stated that there were three Washingtons. The one of the myths seems too good to be true, and many tales are fictional, but the characteristics of the man remain the same. Washington was in reality a normal, red-blooded man, who found pleasure in games and hunting. Literary detectives, examining his letters, find that Washington seemed a normal Britisher. Professor Smith asked how much it took for a man to become an American. Washington surveyed the country, and then fought in defence of it. What more could he do?

Washington had a motto, which he often repeated, taken from Ad-

Leading Roles In Production

"Perfect Alibi" Detective Comedy By
A. A. Milne, To Be Presented

The final cast for the Dramatic Club play, The Perfect Alibi, by A. A. Milne, has been selected, and the performance is scheduled for the thirteenth of February.

Denmett is the only member of last year's casts for the plays "The Queen's Husband" and "The High Road", who appears in this presentation. The leading roles for "The Perfect Alibi" are held by Sweet, playing the part of James Ludgrove, and W. Littlefield, who assumes the role of Susan Cunningham. Other players are Linkroum, Putnam, and A. G. Sullivan.

The drama is by A. A. Milne, prominent author and playwright, who has written such well-known books and plays as Now We Are Six, Hurzel-Flummery, and The Romantic Age. This year's play is a detective comedy dealing with the adventures of Susan Cunningham after the murder of her guardian. The whole play is lightened by the proverbial dumb country policeman and his bright son from Scotland Yard.

The scenery for the play is being designed by J. L. Bishop and made by Prichard, while the elec-

ENGLISH HIGH FENCERS TO MEET BLUE TODAY

Visitors Will Present Veteran
Team Led By Russo,
Italian Foilsman

The Andover fencing team will engage in its first hard battle of the year this afternoon when they meet the strong squad from English High School. Presenting the same experienced team that has been used for the past two years, the opponents are sure to give the home team a battle. Captain Russo of English High, who learned fencing in Italy, won his three matches last year and is quite likely to repeat that feat today. This year he will be ably backed up by the other members of last season's excellent team who will have

Lundgren's Orchestra To Furnish Music; Students Failed In Ticket Ruse

Following an announcement last night that members of the school not in the musical clubs would be invited to the Rogers Hall dance, reservations for tonight's social affair were completed, the preparations having been supervised by Mr. G. H. Eaton.

Starting at seven-thirty with music by Lundgren's orchestra, which has so admirably performed in the past, the dance, a return courtesy for the entertainment proffered to the Combined Musical Clubs last fall by Rogers Hall, will end at eleven o'clock.

LOAN EXHIBIT OF CONTEMPORARY ART

Selections Made By J. Nilsen
Laurvik Now In Addison
Gallery

A fine collection of American paintings in the modern idiom will be exhibited at the Art Gallery on Monday. These paintings have been selected by J. Nilsen Laurvik and loaned by the American Federation of Arts, and they may be said to represent the finest examples of contemporary American art.

Mr. Laurvik says of this collection that it is neither a challenge nor a prophecy; it is a record of activity by a group of men and women who view the contemporary scene with modern eyes and express their reactions to that scene in a modern idiom. The collection presents as far as possible a survey of the whole field of endeavor in modern American art rather than a sharply defined cross-section of that art as represented by any given group.

GREEKS CONQUER GAULS IN CLUB WRESTLING

Win 15-10, As Romans Defeat
Saxons By Same
Score

In the second club wrestling meet of the season held yesterday in Bulfinch Hall, the Greeks edged the Saxons out of first place by downing the Gauls 15-10, while the Romans threw the Saxons by the same score in the first meet the Saxons have lost out of eight successive contests.

In the 105 lb. class, Carlson of the Greeks threw Cook of the Gauls in 3 min. 50 sec. with a crotch hold and half nelson.

In the 115 lb. division, Kinne of the Gauls gained a fall on Peek in 3 min. 45 sec.

R. Keeney of the Gauls made short work of Latham in the 125 lb. class, throwing him in 40 sec.

Tacusch of the Greeks, after being nearly downed, threw his opponent, Swartwood of the Gauls, in the 135 lb. class in 5 min. 10 sec.

Capers, a Saxon, threw M. Cooper of the Romans in the 115 lb. class with a body lock in 2 min. 10 sec.

SWIMMING TEAM WILL MEET GARDNER HIGH

Kimball To Swim Following
A Quick Recovery Of Injured Foot

SECOND TEAM MEET TO BE HELD ALSO

A powerful Gardner High swimming team which sank Worcester Academy 45-17 will be the Blue's opponents this afternoon in the second swimming meet of the season.

Coach Dake has been training the team rigorously during the past week, and the times should be even better than those clocked in the last meet.

G. S. Ley, brother of D. L. Ley, a member of last year's record-breaking relay team, will swim in the relay for the first time this afternoon. Cartwright, who was out for a few days on account of illness; and Kimball, who had an injured foot, will both be able to enter the contest today.

There will also be a second team meet, the outlook for which is promising, especially in the freestyle events.

The line-ups are as follows:

200 yard relay: varsity—Ley, Miller, Trimpi, Mason; seconds—Cook, Hook, Matthews, MacDuff.

100 yard breaststroke: Varsity—Christie and Beinecke; seconds—Clifford and Samson.

50 yard freestyle: Varsity—Mason and Trimpi; seconds—Vye and Castle.

DEAN ACADEMY DOWNS BLUE ON COURT 35-18

Conlon, Dean Captain, Leading Scorer; Whitehead, Barr,
Star For Blue

Displaying a speedy passing attack and an air-tight defense, the Dean cagers handed the Blue their second consecutive defeat of the season last Saturday afternoon. The opponents having tallied four times before the Blue could pull themselves together, constantly forged ahead, rolling up 21 points in the first half to lead the Blue at the end of the period 21-9.

During the second half the Blue displayed a more organized attack, but were unable to cope with the uncanny shooting of their opponents. Conlon, captain of the Dean

GAULS AND GREEKS VICTORS ON COURT

Gauls Pile Up Early Lead, While Greeks Win Defensive
Battle

Piling up a tremendous lead in the first half, which could not be overcome by the fighting Saxon squad, the Gauls handily won the opening club basketball game of the season by the score of 18-12. In a considerably rougher game the Greeks eked out an 11-5 victory over the Romans. This contest was marked by great defensive work by both sides, only one tally being made in the final quarter.

McDuff of the Gauls scored first for his team, and was followed by his teammates, Beebe and Chabau,

SIR HERBERT AMES TO SPEAK BEFORE SOCIETY OF INQUIRY TOMORROW

Was Treasurer Of League Of Nations For Seven Years

MEETING TO BE IN PEABODY

"Personal Reminiscences" Of The World's First Treasury To Be Subject Of Talk

"Personal Reminiscences of the World's First Treasury" will be the subject of a talk by Sir Herbert Ames on Sunday night at the Society of Inquiry meeting. The speaker is well qualified to talk on this topic, since he was for seven years Treasurer of the League of Nations.

President Raymond has announced that the meeting will be informal and anyone who wishes may ask questions. Everyone is cordially invited to attend and is urged to take advantage of the opportunity to hear a speaker of the calibre of Sir Herbert Ames.

ARGUE FOR RETENTION OF INSTALMENT PLAN

Capers, Northrup, And Moore
Win In Wednesday
Philo Debate

Upholding the negative side of the question "Resolved, That the Instalment Plan should be abolished," the "Harsh Irritants", Capers, Northrup, and Moore, were awarded a decision over their opponents, A. Cook, Thompson, and Badger, in Wednesday night's Philo debate. The decision was awarded to the negative on the grounds that they had offered better arguments and had backed their statements up in better fashion than their opponents who were inclined to make broad, sweeping statements with no backing whatsoever.

The first speaker for the affirmative was Cook, who in a rather weak speech, tried to illustrate that the Instalment Plan is very impractical because it is so deceptive. "Many people of the lower classes," Cook stated, "are apt to be disillusioned by this plan, believing that when they pay on an instalment basis they are getting a reduced rate on the purchased article, when in the end they are actually paying more."

Capers, the first speaker for the negative, tried to prove that the Instalment Plan is founded on

Taft Wrestling Meet Post- poned Because Of Grippe

An exchange of telegrams between J. Cates, manager of the Blue wrestling team, and the athletic authorities at Taft School in Watertown Conn., ended yesterday with the decision to postpone the scheduled meet between Taft and Andover which was slated to take place at Taft today.

The reason given by the Taft authorities was the prevalence of grippe at Taft, which has disabled all but two members of the Connecticut mat team.

The Stampede

We were thinking the other day how funny it would be to see one Andover student get up from the waiting room at the railroad station, rush to the door, shove everyone aside, and make a frantic leap for the train pulling in. Such a sight would indisputably be a cause for comment and laughter, but the same thing on a larger scale is accepted every day when a group of Andover students boards the train at the station here. Why those who would not do it individually should do it when they are members of a group can be answered only by the psychologist, who knows that Andover men are not the only ones to whom the trait is peculiar. It was a characteristic of 534 people who were killed in the Iroquois Theatre panic in Chicago; the same mob spirit was in every one in the country who had a penny in the stock market in 1929.

We know we cannot influence by words here a habit which has existed as long as that of rushing for trains at the station, to the exclusion of all others who may be trying to get on at the same time. We need not discuss the etiquette of the performance. But we do think it would be a revelation to many if they would remember to notice sometime how the same thing looks coming from the group of high school students which usually boards the train somewhere further down the line. — A desire not to imitate their exhibition should do a lot to discourage the custom here at Andover.

Reclassification Called For

John R. Tunis in a recent Atlantic Monthly points out the ever-widening breach between the men who go after sports as if they were businesses and who strive to excel in them, and those to whom excellence and ability to win are secondary and who are out just for the enjoyment of participation. Mr. Tunis points out that things cannot very long exist as they are now, when one member of a foursome loses the match for his partner because he prefers to admire the view. While he admittedly is making his presence in the game undesirable, his conduct in wishing to admire the view is hardly impeachable, but obviously the only satisfactory condition that can be reached is by putting him in another foursome with three other kindred souls who also wish to look at the view and to whom also the winning of the game is not primary. We think such a segregation could be accomplished admirably by a reclassification of the present much-abused terms of amateur and professional. It has been pointed out that professionalism in itself is a cult greatly divided by the ethics of the different sports there represented. While yelling to upset the mental equilibrium of the opposing side is perfectly permissible under the standard of good conduct in baseball, it would hardly be accepted in tennis. Another disorganizing feature is the problem of distinction between the amateur and the professional. The old days in which a so-called amateur would win a match and receive his fee by betting he could jump over a suitcase are gone, but the problem has by no means been solved. It seems to us that a new classification in which those who are out with the prime object of winning would be called professionals, and those to whom the sport is just fun would be classed as amateurs, would be an admirable advance over the present system. Any man competing in the Harvard-Yale game, or, for that matter in the Andover-Exeter game, could hardly state that he plays mainly for the fun he gets out of football. Andover playing against Exeter is definitely out to win, and the objective before a player in an Andover-Exeter game is obviously very far removed from the objective before the same player when he goes out behind the dormitory for a game of touch football the next day. There is a great difference between the four business men in search of relaxation who enjoy a friendly golf match and the same men when they take part in the tournament for the club cup. To go into the professional ranks, there is a great difference between the spirit in which the Cardinals play the Yankees in an exhibition game for charity and the same teams when they meet in the World's Series.

And so, because of these differences, we believe that there should be hastened the inevitable differentiation between the man who finds relaxation just in participation in his sport and the man who sees it as another place for the advancement and competition for supremacy which has become characteristic of nearly all the other phases of everyday life.

Dr. Moorehead Tells, In Book Of Explorers' Tales Just Out, How He Was Buried Alive

A thrilling narrative by Dr. Warren King Moorehead, of the Archaeology department, is one in a volume just published, entitled Told at the Explorers' Club, a collection of stories narrated by the outstanding explorers of the country.

Dr. Moorehead tells of the time that he was engaged in exploring Indian tumuli in Ross County, Ohio. He and his party were excavating a mound eleven feet in height. Since the men threw the earth back of them, the wall in front was high; the side walls, lower, and the loose earth in the rear, sloping upward. The workmen, having accomplished their task, climbed to the top of the mound to cave off a section of it. At the same time Dr. Moorehead observed a small bone protruding from the earth and stooped to pick it up. Suddenly without any warning a mass of earth, from eighteen to twenty inches in thickness fell upon him. The doctor vividly describes the horribly unpleasant sensations he experienced in being practically buried alive and tells some incredible incidents. At the time of the fall of the earth he was wearing a watch and watch-chain, and a straw hat. The straw hat was jammed over his forehead and for several days afterward he bore the stamped pattern of the braided straw; two ribs under the watch were broken, as was the crystal of it; and the watch chain left its mark stamped in his flesh. Throughout the entire period that he was buried he was unable to move a muscle, unable to breathe, unable to wink. After he had been removed from his grave, he was paralyzed from the waist down for five or six weeks. Nine years later as the outcome of this calamity he developed a case of pulmonary tuberculosis and at the order of a spinal expert was placed in a straightjacket to throw the weight of the upper body on the hips and thus relieve the spine. However, another expert predicted the doctor's death unless the straightjacket be removed, while the first physician claimed that the doctor would die if he didn't wear his jacket. Nevertheless Dr. Moorehead survives those two eminent experts and two skillful examiners from the largest life insurance companies of the country. Dr. Moorehead has entitled his story Buried Alive.

ANDOVER DELEGATES FOR N. E. CONFERENCE CHOSEN

Vye, Dennett, Lovell, And Snyder To Go With Messrs. Trowbridge And Baldwin

A partial list of Andover's delegation to the Seventh New England Schools Conference, which will be held at Yale University from February fifth to February seventh, has just been announced. The Andover group, which will consist of six students, Vye, Dennett, Snyder, Lovell, and two others not yet decided upon, will be accompanied by Messrs. Baldwin and Trowbridge and possibly Mr. Stott.

All activities of the conference will be held in Dwight Hall, and the students will be accommodated in the regular dormitories. Last year the conference was held at Harvard and Andover was represented by twelve students. Among the speakers and leaders of the conference will be Mr. Baldwin, who will lead a forum, and Mervyn Vye, who will be a speaker at the banquet.

The meeting will open at six-thirty Friday evening with a dinner at which Mr. Stacy B. Southworth will be the toastmaster. The next day the morning devotions will be led by Mr. Baldwin. On the afternoon of that day the members of the delegation will take tours through the Yale campus, visit the New Haven jail, and play basketball or swim. The conference will end on Sunday with the closing address and a sermon by Bishop Henry K. Sherrill.

TIME TRIALS HELD FOR RELAY TEAM MEN

Harper, Dorman, DeMare, And Walker Show Greatest Ability Among Prospects

Harper, Dorman, deMare, and Walker turned in the best times in the trials held Wednesday for the relay men. Duchesne, alternate on last year's team, who was not clocked, would probably have shown up well. More time trials are to be held throughout the week. In the discus trials Lafean and Millard were outstanding.

Coach Shields is now sending out the entry blanks for the Inter-scholastics which are to be held here on the twentieth of February.

Charles B. Lansing, P. A. '30, has been elected to the board of the Pictorial Supplement of the Yale News. Also the Yale Record has announced the elections to their 1932-33 Board; among the new officers are G. C. Gordon, 3rd, C. M. D. Reed, and M. P. Taylor, all P. A. '29. They are, respectively, business manager, art editor, and advertising manager.

D. B. Dorman, P. A. '28, is a regular on the Harvard varsity wrestling team.

Marshall H. Durston, P. A. ex-'34, is the leading contestant in the ping pong tournament now being held at Berkshire.

Dr. W. B. MacCreedy, P. A. '18, and professor of mathematics at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa., published an article recently in The Proceedings of the National Academy of Science, describing the stability of a viscous fluid. Although the problem solved by Professor MacCreedy deals with the flow of water between two planes, the results of his experiment apply also to air, and are being tested by aeronautic experts at Langley Field in Virginia.

One of the more prominent men today in the scientific and biological fields is Alfred Lee Loomis, P. A. '05, president of Bonbright & Co., New York, inventor of the Microscope-centrifuge, and noted experimenter with high frequency sound waves. Mr. Loomis has worked for years on the development of high frequency waves and has found those of such frequency that they paralyze mice and kill cells. He has taken photographs of living cells actually being affected by such waves. The microscope-centrifuge is the most recent of his inventions, an apparatus that makes it possible for scientists to see cells while under the effects of centrifugal force and learn many important facts concerning their make-up.

After his graduation from Andover, Mr. Loomis went to Yale and later to the Harvard Law School, where he graduated in 1912. His private laboratory in his home at Tuxedo Park, N. Y., is often filled with eminent scientists and professors from all over the country.

REPORT OF SECONDARY EDUCATION BOARD OUT

Group Includes Representatives
From Andover, Hill, Taft,
Hotchkiss, Groton

It is announced that there has been placed in the library the Report of a Study of the Secondary Curriculum, the report of the Secondary Education Board, a group of 140 representatives from private schools, and of which Mr. Roth of the History department is Andover's representative.

A similar group representing public schools and appointed by President Hoover has yet to make its report.

The secondary school group, which included men from Hill, Hotchkiss, Lawrenceville, Groton, and Taft, has made an extensive study.

The committee split on the question of whether or not to consider the relation of the ideal curriculum they were seeking with the work of the College Entrance Examination Board, and finally it was agreed to include this matter in the study.

The discovered "ideal" curriculum, Mr. Roth says, if adopted, would call for many changes in the present College Board system, which would include consideration of the student who has done work beyond the College Board requirements, and also the student who has done work in studies now not included in the C. E. E. B's list.

NOTED CLERGYMAN TO SPEAK HERE SUNDAY

The Reverend Arthur H. Bradford, one of the nation's outstanding clergymen, will address the student body on Sunday. He is now the minister of the Central Congregational Church of Providence, R. I.

Dr. Bradford, the son of the Reverend Amory Howe Bradford of Montclair, New Jersey, attended Yale University and obtained his B.A. degree in 1905. After a year of post-graduate work, he went to the Union Theological Seminary in New York from which he graduated in 1909. This same year he was ordained a Congregational minister and became the assistant pastor of the South Church of Springfield, Mass. He then accepted the pastorate of a church in Rutland, Vermont, and later that of the Providence church of which he is still the minister.

Amory H. Bradford, the eldest of his six children, was a member of the class of 1930 at Phillips Academy. Dr. Bradford has spoken here several times before, and also at Exeter, Mount Holyoke, Wellesley, and many other institutions.

JUDGE WOOLSEY TALKS BEFORE GRAND JURY

Judge John Munro Woolsey, P. A. '94, recently delivered a speech before the members of the Federal Grand Jury Association at its annual meeting which was held in New York City this year. He told the history of the grand jury and his experiences with it. In his address Judge Woolsey mentioned the story of a visit to Andover, where he met a member of the organization, also a former P. A. man, who happened to have served under him in a trial. Before dinner time this gentleman approached the judge and informed him that he had something amusing to tell. He explained that when he had served under him he had been a member of a jury that refused to indict the defendant who had clearly been guilty of the violation of the Volstead Act. Mr. Woolsey had called the members of the jury before him and ordered them to find an indictment. The jury filed out and the judge never saw them again. His friend then informed him that when the jury had gathered together in their room, one man had said that he would enjoy going on a party with the judge but that he wouldn't find an indictment for him.

dison's play "Cato". "It is not given to mortals to command success, but we'll do better than that. Sempronius, we'll deserve it." Professor Smith passed this on as Washington's message to the present younger generation which seems so much at fault in so many particulars. He urged them to mind their manners as "they are the judge of your civilization", and to pay more interest to politics and work to secure "good laws under an already established free government".

Library Notes

The following special comments on the use of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library are printed here for the benefit of those who may not be acquainted with the library procedure:

The Reference Room is intended, first of all, for those students who have to use the books on the reserve shelves or who wish to consult the Library's reference books. If the Reference Room is not fully occupied by these students, other students may use it as a place for quiet study. Students may not study together anywhere in the library.

The Freeman Room is a reading room and must not be used for study. Text books should not be taken into the Freeman Room but may be left at the desk in the delivery room.

profited by their added experience. The Andover foilsmen have suffered a severe loss in Sturtevant, who will be lost to the team for the remainder of the season through ineligibility. Green, a promising new man, is also out through illness and will probably be prevented from contesting this afternoon.

The meet will be held in the squad's new quarters on the first floor of Bulfinch Hall. The team has been practicing here during the past week and has become accustomed to the different lighting in the room.

The probable starting line-ups will be:

RENSELAER POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE

TROY, NEW YORK

A School of

Engineering and Science

THE Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute was established at Troy, New York, in 1824, and is the oldest school of engineering and science in the United States. Students have come to it from all of the states and territories of the Union and from thirty-nine foreign countries. At the present time, there are nearly 1700 students enrolled at the school.

Four year courses leading to degrees are offered, in Civil, Mechanical, Electrical, and Chemical Engineering, in Architecture, and in Business Administration, Physics, Chemistry, and Biology. Graduates of the engineering courses are prepared to take up work in any branch of engineering. Graduates of the course in Architecture are prepared to practice their profession in any of its branches. Graduates of the course in Business Administration are prepared for careers in business or for the study of law. Graduates of the courses in Physics and Chemistry are fitted for research and teaching in these fields, as well as for practice in many branches of applied science. The course in Biology prepares for research and teaching, for work in sanitary engineering and public health, and for the study of medicine and dentistry.

Graduates of any of the above courses may continue their work in the Graduate School of the Institute. The Master's Degree is conferred upon the satisfactory completion of one year's work and the Doctor's Degree for three years' work.

The method of instruction is unique and very thorough, and in all departments the laboratory equipment is unusually complete.

An interesting pamphlet entitled "Life at Rensselaer", also catalogue and other illustrated bulletins may be obtained by applying to the Registrar, Room 008, Pittsburgh Building.

who made the score 6-0 as the quarter ended. With the count at 12-4 against them at the beginning of the second half, the Saxons fought hard and brought the score up to 18-12 as the whistle blew. The star of the game was J. Bird, who exhibited much speed. For the Gauls Dean starred on the defense and offense.

In the second contest of the afternoon, the Romans started the scoring when Boswell sunk a foul shot. The lead alternated from then until just before the half, when Mansfield looped a long shot to put the Greeks in the lead 6-3. The second half was very close, neither team being able to score with any regularity. Mansfield starred for the Greeks, while Littlefield was the Roman mainstay.

sound business principles. Capers went on to show that the great advantage of instalment buying is that it brings within reach of the poorer man's pocketbook certain luxuries, which formerly only the rich man could afford.

Capers concluded his speech by pointing out that since the wage earner is paid by instalments it logically follows that he should pay his debts on the same basis.

Northrup, the concluding speaker for the negative, tried to prove that since the Instalment Plan is based on sound business principles, stimulates sales, and has weathered the depression, it has proven its right to survive.

The rebuttals were given by Capers of the negative and by Cook of the affirmative. The main point of Capers' rebuttal was that it was not abolition that the Instalment Plan needed, but revision, while Cook pointed out that the main fault of the Instalment Plan lay in its tendency to cause overproduction and to produce frozen assets.
