ANDOVER TO CONTEST AGAINST STRONG ELI FRESH TRACK TEAM

Yearlings Boosted By Several Ex-Andover Track Stars

MEET WITH MILTON ALSO

Keith Brown, H. Kellogg, Laundon, Slay, Strauss, Clark, Rose On Yale Team

Although the Blue will face a strong Yale Freshman track team today, probably stronger than the Harvard Freshmen, it will have the opportunity of showing its real worth. Coach Shepard plans many radical changes in the varsity squad because of the two teams, Yale and Milton Academy, opposing Andover, the squad on the whole to be divided into two divisions, one to oppose Milton, the other, the Yale team. The different entries for P. A. have not as yet been disclosed. As usual the yearlings contain many ex-Andover track men. Keith Brown, who during his past year as a freshman has vaulted 13 ft. 9 in., will both pole vault and high jump for Yale. Bodwell, last year's captain will hurl the javelin for the Freshmen. Howard Kellogg, Andover's strongest man in the 440 last year, will also run in the same event for Yale. Exeter also has contributed some very fine men to the yearlings, among whom are Johnson, a weight man hurling the javelin and shot put, and Loud of Exeter also hurling the javelin. Strauss and Clark, both ex-P. A. men, will throw the hammer for the freshman team. The Milton

BLUE PREDICTED TO PLAY A GOOD GAME

That this afternoon's baseball game with the Harvard Second varsity will be a better-played game than those yet played, has been vouched for by Coach Billhardt. Nothing is known about the opposing team except that it lost to a very strong Dean nine by the score of 14 to 3 on Wednesday.

Much improvement has been shown by the home team since the

MR. H. B. TAYLOR SPEAKS BEFORE TOC II GROUP

Discussed Problem Of Growing Internationalism And Religious Tolerance

Mr. Taylor discussed the problem of growing internationalism and racial and religious tolerance that has been gaining ground in all

Georgian Architecture Shown; Exterior Of Red Brick And White Marble

WOOD CARVING FEATURED

Interior Almost Entirely Of Oak Panelling; Martha Cochran Organ Installed

The symmetry and beauty of the Andover campus has received the finishing touch with the addition of the new Academy Chapel, whose spire balances that of the Memorial Tower at the other end of the lawn. Like all the main buildings of the school, it is in the Georgian style of architecture, being of red brick trimmed with white Indiana limestone. The steeple is of pine wood, covered on the topmost section with soft copper which will weather into a dark green color. The chapel is built in a strict Bulfinch-Geor-

Captain Royal, Bird, Hook, and Whitney, with Hughes substituting, will comprise the Andover group. The P. M. C. horsemen will be Redman, Smith, Hernig, and Pickering. Four chukkers or 7 1-2 minute periods will be played. This game is the most difficult that Andover will play this season. Redman and Hernig both substitute on the varsity P. M. ### Chapel Notice

All students who are required to attend the Academy Chapel are urged to secure their pew and seat numbers today. Complete co-operation is necessary on this point as the list will not be posted at the chapel.

Except for the choir, all assignments have been made in the center section. Pew numbers 31 to 59 inclusive are center aisle left and pew numbers 61 to 89 are center aisle right. Seats are numbered from the center aisle, —long pews to accommodate ten assignments, short pews only seven.

Assigned seats must be properly covered for attendance records. Unassigned seats are to be left vacant; this applies particularly to seats in front of and behind the columns.

Occupants of pews 31 and 61 are requested to use pews 59 and 89 respectively for the service on Sunday.

LACROSSE TEAM WILL OPPOSE YALE FRESH HERE THIS AFTERNOON

Captain Ward, Gulick, Thompson, Lewis Expected To Star

GAME ON FOOTBALL FIELD

J. M. Tompkins And J. B. Elliott, Former P. A. Leaders, To Support Yale

The Andover lacrosse team will meet the Yale Freshmen today, the game being played on the Varsity Football field. After its recent fine showing against the Harvard '35 team, the team should give the yearlings a hard fight, but due to the extreme weight and experience of their opponents, there is only a fair chance for victory.

Since the Harvard game, the team has been polishing up on a smoother attack and better scoring plays, which was their weakness in that contest. Although the members of the team are excellent stick-handlers, Yale has a strong defense and therefore this game is expected to be the hardest of the year. Among those who will play for Yale are J. M. Tompkins, P. A. '31, captain here two years ago, and leader of the present freshman team, and J. B. Elliott, P. A. '31, captain here last year.

Andover will line up as follows:

Rowland, c
Fawcett, fa
Ward (Capt), sa
Wells, ta
Gulick, ih

N. H. YEARLINGS WIN OVER BASEBALL TEAM

Improvement Over Previous Games Shown In Hitting And Fielding

O'NEIL STILL LEADS BATTING AVERAGES

The Andover baseball team was defeated by the New Hampshire Freshmen by the score of six to three. In this game the team showed a decided improvement in both hitting and fielding. Everyone was hitting but their hits were flies rather than grounders. The fact that seventeen out of the twenty-seven put-outs in the game were made on flies indicated that

GOLF MATCH WITH YALE YEARLINGS CANCELLED

Members Of Squad Now Playing Inter-Squad Golf Matches

The golf match which was scheduled with the Yale Freshmen for Saturday has been cancelled because no Andover team can go to Yale and the Yale team was unable to come here because its quota was filled. During the past week the golf team has been divided into four inter-squad teams, which will play matches throughout the season. The captains of these teams are: of the first, Rogers; of the second, Malloy; of the third, Case; and of the fourth, Sophian. At

The New Chapel

Tomorrow the Academy Chapel is opened to the school after being under construction for a period of nearly two years. During this time we have seen rise a chapel that is a well-deserved compliment to the architect who designed it, Charles A. Platt, and to those who are responsible for its completion, the Thompson-Starrett Company. Phillips Academy receives and welcomes tomorrow what is probably as fitting and beautiful a school chapel as any in the United States.

Andover's physical lay-out with this new addition is now technically perfect. The Chapel is all that could be hoped for structurally or architecturally. But in addition to its physical aspects the Chapel has a definite and important function to perform. For with the passing of the year religion has been forced to take an increasingly less important position in school life. The present is a critical period for the relationship between religion and school. Which course religion will be compelled to follow in the future depends on the treatment and consideration it receives in this decade.

The past century has witnessed an important and far-reaching reform taking place in religion. One hundred years ago it was practically the dominant feature of American life and education. But it was not dominant in its best form. Elaborate ceremonies and prohibitions that had gradually evolved from tradition in the thousands of years that had gone before, were scrupulously observed throughout the land. These obscured to a large measure what we have come to call the true religion, the religion of Jesus. For Jesus himself hated empty ritual and decried its prominence in the church at the time he was living. And it was unfortunate that the religion founded on Jesus and his life could have become so affected with the very evil he fought against. However, there is a turn in the tide of religious thought today. People at this time are becoming acquainted with the religion that Jesus taught, with the principles by which he lived. They have learned to regard the Bible as an epic of literature, not as a book in which every word, every sentence is true. It is to further this personal acquisition of ideals, of a real conception of how Jesus lived, that religion in schools must aim for. The Academy Chapel can and will accomplish this. Without being too elaborate architecturally and without over-long, over-ritualized services, it marks the return to simplicity which, if anything can, will bring true religion into school life. THE PHILLIPIAN wishes it a long and successful career.

Andover Press Club

Students who harshly criticize the lack of publicity and the frequently erroneous write-ups that Andover receives in the New York and Boston papers would do well to note the system in practice at Princeton, where a Press Club supplies reports of athletic and academic events to the entire metropolitan press. Students heed the Press Club as they would the Daily Princetonian by writing daily articles. They are assigned to report either an athletic event or some other happening of interest every day and may gain extra credit by developing unassigned original articles. This daily reporting, though not particularly unusual in college circles, offers excellent training to anyone who plans to make journalism his profession, and furthermore is highly remunerative.

At Andover reporting ability is all too rare, as we have discovered to our sorrow from experience with PHILLIPIAN heelers, but by limiting the competition to Upper Middlers and Seniors, passable articles could be turned out. Work would be light, chiefly consisting of reporting the numerous Wednesday and Saturday athletic contests and possible Art Gallery developments. In addition, an Andover Press Club would afford another source from which scholarship men could earn substantial amounts to help toward meeting their expenses. A Press Club is a very possible solution for the problem of Andover's relations with metropolitan newspapers.

Dr. Pfatteicher will give the recital on the Martha Cochran organ in the new Chapel from 2:15 to 2:45 before the dedication services. It will be the first recital to be played on the organ since its installation in the Chapel. This organ, the second largest built by Casavant Brothers of St. Hyacinthe Quebec, was erected in George Washington Hall in the spring of 1927. It contains over six thousand pipes, about one hundred stops, and 125 combinations, and is one of the finest organs in this part of the country. The organ was moved from George Washington Hall to its present position last year when the new chapel was near completion. Dr. Pfatteicher will play the following selections upon it this Sunday:

Two Choral Preludes: Bach
(a) Lord God, unlock now heaven's gate

GAULS AND SAXONS WIN IN CLUB TRACK
Gauls Decisively Vanquish Romans In Third Contest

The Gauls and the Saxons were the victors in the third club track meet of the season, the former defeating the Romans by an impressive margin of forty-three points, while the latter barely nosed out the Greeks by the slim margin of nine points. There were, as in the past, many outstanding performers on each team, although a few of the individual stars have been transferred to the varsity. Mr. Peck still declined to make any definite statement, although he did say that he thought that the Gauls were the most promising of the four teams.

In the Gauls-Romans meet, the Gauls took first places in everything but the broad jump, the discus, and the javelin, giving them a total of seventy-one points, as opposed to twenty-eight for the Romans. In the Saxons-Greeks meet, the Saxons took firsts in the 75-yard dash, the 300-yard dash, the 600-yard dash, the high jump, the shot, and the discus, while the Greeks captured firsts in the 75-yard dash, the hurdles, the broad jump, the pole vault, and the javelin. Thus the Saxons came out with fifty-four points as opposed to forty-five for their opponents.

In the club baseball games Thursday, the Greeks triumphed over the Saxons in a shutout, the game ending with a score of four to nothing. C. Miller, who pitched for the Greeks, played a fine game, striking out nine men. He also had good support from Al M. Clark behind the plate. The Saxons, with Jackson and Samson as batteries, did not make many errors, but their hitting was weak.

In the Gaul-Roman game the final score was nine to seven, the Gauls leading.

However, yesterday the outcome was different. The Greeks beat the Romans by the narrow score of eight to seven. Miller, who played such a fine game the day before, started in the box for the Greeks but was soon taken out, having walked the first three men at bat. Taradash pitched the three innings for the Romans.

The Gauls swamped the Saxons also yesterday with a score of nine to three. Beebe and Wilson pitched and caught respectively for the Gauls with good support from the field. Contrary to expectations the Saxons played poorly. In the league, the Gauls are now leading with the Greeks and Saxons tied for second.

LACROSSE TEAM AIDED BY EIBE WEAVER DECK

Captain Of Stevens Team In '30 Shows Team Many Good Plays

The Andover lacrosse team was fortunate in having Eibe Weaver Deck, former captain of the Stevens Institute lacrosse team, show them a few fundamentals and plays on Wednesday afternoon. Purely through interest in the sport and its development in New England Mr. Deck came out from Boston where he is attending the Harvard Business School.

The first part of the afternoon was spent in showing the squad many rudiments and plays which are used in colleges throughout the United States and Canada. A scrimmage was then held in which Deck pointed out many ways by which a strong attack can be formed.

After the regular practice period Deck demonstrated many legal tricks the team was liable to meet and how to avoid them.

In discussing the development of lacrosse Mr. Deck said that it has progressed very slowly in New England, but in the South around Maryland it is played by everyone. In Canada it is practically the national game, and professionals are paid as much as fifty dollars a game.

May 16 Closing Date For Potter Prize Entries

Students are reminded that all entries for the Andrew Potter Prizes should be given to Mr. Wilkinson or any member of the English Department before noon on May 16th.

It bears the inscription of the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia, "Proclaim Liberty throughout all the Land and to all the Inhabitants thereof."

The chapel will seat about nine hundred persons altogether and will easily seat the student body in the center row. It will be used for Sunday services only and it is planned to finish the basement of the building for the use of the musical clubs.

The construction work was done by the Thompson Starrett Company of Boston, famed as builders of skyscrapers, under the supervision of Mr. McKensie who has directed most of the work done by this company around the academy. The building is the design of Charles A. Platt, who designed the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library, Paul Revere Hall, the Commons, and George Washington Hall.

The Chapel is given in memory of Thomas Cochran and Emilie Belden Cochran by their children.

He mentioned in particular the "Golden Rule Meals" at Choate, similar to the "Meatless Meals" at Andover, by means of the savings from which the Choate students have been supporting over thirty-five families during the last winter.

The Blairstown Conference is a conference held for the purpose of discussing salient problems of modern life from the point of view of the students. It is held during June, immediately after the College Entrance Examinations, and last year it was attended by a number of Andover students.

This is the last regular Toc H meeting that will be held in the Log Cabin this year. The Society has been doing a great deal of work in the town, and has given valuable service to the Andover Guild, in running the athletic periods and directing the manual training periods.

The results of the game with the Danvers Polo Club last Wednesday were encouraging though Andover was beaten 9-8. gian style and is modeled quite closely on the Lancaster, Mass., Christ Church, which was built by Bulfinch.

The interior, with the exception of the ceiling, is of oak. The carved cherubims at the capitals of the columns, and at the peak of each arch, and the extensive woodwork along the cornices of the ceiling, form a distinctive feature of the building. Especially rich in wood-carving is the north wall, immediately behind the pulpit. The pipes of the Martha Cochran organ, which has been transferred from the Meeting Room, fit in well with their new surroundings. The window panes are of a type known as English Antique Glass, which serves both to cut down the glare and to give the building a touch of the Georgian era whose architecture it represents.

The acoustics of the new chapel are a great improvement over those in George Washington Hall, due to the arched ceilings, open loft, and special Gaustavino acoustilith plaster, which absorbs enough sound to prevent bad echoes.

The chapel bell is the old bell that hung in the Stone Chapel. This bell was cast in 1876 by the Amesbury, Mass., Foundry, and was cast as a memorial to Josiah Bartlett, who was Governor of New Hampshire and first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

N. H. Yearlings Win Over Baseball Team

the team has finally found the ball.
Cates pitched well and on the whole was given good support. Cooke, who was playing for his first time at first base, did some good fielding and made some good stops. Darling ran wild on the bases, stealing four bases out of three times on base. Another significant fact which shows the improvement in batting was that there were only three strike-outs for Andover.

O'Neil was hitting well and still leads the team in batting averages.
It is hoped that now the team has begun to hit that they will begin getting them on the ground and will win a few games.

The statistics:

last contest and a good, steady game should be played. The starting line-up will be the same as on Wednesday except that Reiter will probably pitch.

tion of Andover and its rare beauty will undoubtedly be an inspiration to all who are privileged to sit in it. It also represents another indication of the loyalty and generosity of the donor to whom we owe so much."

Mr. Paradise: "Its beautiful interior will surely lead to a more reverent attitude on the part of the student body, and the new Chapel should fill an increasingly important part in the life of the school."

Mr. Poynter: "If beauty and dignity can add to reverent worship
the new Chapel should lead to renewed and increased participation in the religious life of each individual. It is devoutly to be prayed for that the congregation may not seem to be hired advertisers of Wrigley's Spearmint."
