HARVARD FROSH BEATS P. A. SWIMMING TEAM BY SCORE OF 35 TO 30

CUSHMAN OUTSTANDING

Captain Wingate Very Smooth
In The 100-Yard

After victory for the Blue had been within easy reach, the Andover swimming team was forced, last Saturday, to bow to the Harvard Freshmen 35 to 30 when the final event, the relay, on which the outcome of the meet hinged, resulted in Andover's first loss of the season in this event. The Crimson perhaps had an edge in the relay, which was 400 yards long, because they have been swimming it that length all season while Coach Duke's men have been trained to do only 200 yards.

Harvard Backstroke Disqualified

The meet would have been a more decisive victory for the visitors if Cummings, the Harvard backstroke star, had not been deprived of a sure first place in that event because of making a bad, disqualifying turn. As the result, first and second places went to Burns and Macdonald of Andover. As the competition drew to a close, the score stood 30 to 29 in favor of Andover. P. A. fans were confident of a first place in the 400-yard relay, and that wildly excited crowd was surprised to see MacKay, Bainbridge, Arioli, and Berizzi of Harvard victorious by a split second over Howard, Cushman, Griffin, and Wingate. The time in this event was 3 minutes 44 seconds, 7 seconds less than the former Freshman record!

The 50 and 200-yard freestyles were two hotly contested events. In the 50, Howard and Griffin swam neck and neck with MacKay and Hutter of Cambridge. With an extra spurt in the last two yards, Howard scored a first in 25 1-5 sec., and MacKay placed second. The 200-yard race between Cushman and Arioli, the holder of the freshman record of 2 min. 8 2-5 sec., was very close. The two had been right together until the last lap when Cushman, with a miraculous

TEAM A WINS AGAIN IN CLUB WRESTLING

T. Bird Loses By Time Advantage
To P. T. Coursen For First Loss, Spitzer Gains Throw

For the fourth consecutive time this year Team A conquered Team B in club wrestling. Each match has been closer than the one before and this, the closest, was won by an 8-6 score. The last match of the year will come off Friday and the winning team will get their numerals.

For the first time this year T. Bird (A), lost in the 115-lb. class. P. Coursen, who formerly has been wrestling in the 125-lb. class, got a time advantage of about two minutes over him. This gave the B Team a three point lead.

In the 135-lb. class Groblewski (A) tied the score by winning a referee's decision over Carey (B). For the only fall of the afternoon Spitzer (A) in the 145-lb. class threw Price (B). Price who has just recently come out for the club teams showed up fairly well for an inexperienced wrestler.

Gunnell (B) in the 165-lb. class did his best to tie the score by getting a fall but was unable to. Rockwell, who has been wrestling in the 145-lb. class, lost to him by a very close time advantage.

Wadsworth Of Browne And Nichols
Floors Lederer In Only Loss
For Victors

In compiling a greater number of points than in any other match this year the Andover wrestling team overwhelmed the Browne and Nichols School, Saturday, 24-5. Gaining three falls through Captain Bird, Cochran, and Kausel and three referee's decisions through Borough, Boesel, and Roe, Andover lost only in the 125-pound class where Lederer was felled by Captain Wadsworth of Browne and Nichols.

Bird's Record Unmarred

There is no doubt that Bird is one of the best wrestlers that has ever attended Phillips Academy. Not only has he kept his record clear this year but in so doing he has delivered four falls. Cochran's record this year almost equals Bird's. By also gaining his fourth fall Saturday, he remains with only one defeat to mar his standing. Kausel in his first appearance this year proved himself more than a capable substitute for Huffard who is out for the remainder of the season. He showed great determination and ability in pinning his heavier opponent.

Borough continued a fine record by gaining a referee's decision over Babcock of Browne and Nichols in the 115-pound class. By securing a time advantage of 2 minutes 55 seconds, he placed Andover in the lead 3-0. Captain Wadsworth in the 125-pound class lowered Lederer's shoulders to the mat after 2 minutes 1 second of struggle. Andover was behind 3-5. Boesel is one of the most spectacular grapplers on the Andover team with his uncanny use of his feet in obtaining strange holds. His bout with Woodman in the 135-pound class Saturday was probably the most lively in the match. He finally secured, to the relief of the students, a referee's decision over the Browne and Nichols man. His time advantage of 3 minutes 12 seconds began Andover's long, unbroken winning streak.

Kausel Wins First Match

Kausel had not wrestled before this season, and consequently no one was sure of the outcome of his bout. The minute his match with Johnson in the 145-pound class

KELLOGG AND MELENDY PLAY WELL IN CONTEST

Staying right on Andover's heels for three quarters of the game, John Harvard's Junior men suddenly stepped out in front with four minutes to play and snatched victory out of the Blue varsity quintet's hands on Saturday by the score, 33-31.

The game opened with the Blue scoring first on a perfect shot by E. Kellogg from the center of the court. Harvard, however, tied the count a few seconds later. During the quarter Melendy's dead eye free throws put Andover well in the lead, and the quarter ended with P. A. on the long end of an 8-5 score.

In the second period the Junior Varsity launched a vigorous attack but was held in check by Andover's capitalizing on its many foul shots. As the quarter was drawing to a close Craft, Conant, Dyess, Cameron, and Baker, the second team, entered the game and successfully kept Andover in the lead, as the half ended with the Blue leading 17-15.

HELD IN MEETING ROOM

Catholic, Jew, And Protestant Hold
Forum On Their Faiths
And Views

George Washington Hall was the scene on Saturday evening of one of the most interesting meetings that the Society of Inquiry has ever arranged. Speaking to an almost full house of faculty, outsiders, and students were men of three religious denominations. Dr. Everett Clinchy, a Protestant Minister, Father Michael J. Ahern, a Catholic Priest, and Dr. Louis Wolsey, a Jewish Rabbi.

Discuss Church Relations

Dr. Clinchy, who presided at the meeting, commenced by giving the reasons for their presence: he explained that they were there to discuss the relations between people of these three major religions, not to debate the rights and wrongs of them; they were there to bring the churches to a better agreement, not to propose one church for all.

Father Ahern was the first interrogated by the other two. He does not believe that the Catholics are seeking political domination in this country, and he cited that during his 25 years as a priest he has never been ordered to vote for a certain man. Any Catholic that preaches politics from the pulpit is removed immediately. The Catholic vote is probably never more than 4 1-2 million out of the 40 million total, and even this is usually divided. Those of Irish descent are generally Democrats while those of French and Polish origin are Republicans. He stated that the Catholic Church permits its followers to read any part of the Bible, and that the greatest concern of that organization today was not the rise of other faiths but the great absence of any belief in the present world. He replied with an emphatic "no" when asked if Father Coughlin spoke in behalf of the Catholic Church. He speaks in behalf of none other than Coughlin, he added, and is absolutely on his own.

Rabbi Explains Jewish Aim

Rabbi Wolsey was then the target of questions from the other two. When asked if the Jews want to get control of the country economically, he replied that even if they had this ambition, they could not achieve it. He showed that the Jews held few important positions in the American banks, steel companies and other leaders in bus-

A strong Harvard Freshman track team inflicted the first defeat of the season upon the Andover runners Saturday, 51 1-2 to 29 1-2. The meet was exceedingly interesting for spectators who saw exceptionally fine performances in every event. Donnelly and Hite were the only men to win an event outright for the Blue: Sharretts and Arrasmith tied with two Harvard men in the high jump.

The 40-yard dash was won by Stuart of Harvard in 4 7-10 sec. Gammons and Kiley were second and third behind the last year's Exeter sprinter.

Lavman, High Scorer

Lavman of Harvard was high scorer. Besides winning the hurdles, he won the broad jump with a leap of 20 feet 3 inches and tied for first in the high jump.

The 300-yard run was divided into two heats with the best times placing. Donnelly won in 34 1-5 seconds. Three times this year he has come in first in this event and has run anchor-man on the undefeated relay team.

The 600 was by far the most exciting event of the day with Furse and Brayton, last year's track men, running for the Freshmen, and Horne, Wolf and Healey for Andover. This was Horne's first meet this winter as well as the first time he has run the 600 instead of his regular 1000. Wolf also was running an event new to him instead of the 300. Horne took the lead early in the race stepping out with long untiring strides. Not until the gun lap did Furse pass him to break the tape first in 1 min. 18 3-5 sec., by far the best clocking this season. On the last turn Brayton passed Wolf in a close finish to take third.

GREEKS AND ROMANS WIN IN BASKETBALL

Greeks Beat Saxons In Close Game;
Romans Defeat Gauls
10 to 6

In the club basketball games held last Monday and Tuesday the Greeks lengthened their lead by defeating the Saxons in a close game, 13-12, while the Romans were annexing second place by conquering the Gauls, 10-6.

The Greek-Saxon game was a very close contest from start to finish. The Saxons, getting off to an advantage of 6-2 at the half, continued to score until they led 12-6. At this point the Greeks took heart and managed to bring the score to 11-12, and then in the last minute to gain their first lead of the game, finally winning 13-12. Bower of the Greeks was high scorer for the game with six points; his teammate, Burnam was second with five. In the Roman-Gaul encounter the latter led at the end of a slow first half, 4-2, but the Roman's managed to score 8 points to put the game on ice before the Gauls made their last tally.

Alec Crockett, Jovial Janitor Of Johnson, Relates Past Experiences For Phillipian

"Oh no, I don't want an interview; they over in the office wouldn't like it."

"Why not?"

"I dunno, but it 'ud get me in Dutch."

After a great deal of persuasion on the part of most of Johnson Hall, Alec Crockett, the worthwhile janitor of that venerable dormitory, finally consented to let the highlights of his life be unfolded in THE PHILLIPPIAN. For thirteen years he has never disappointed a student in quest of a good story, and from all accounts he is more capable of relating his unbeatable yarns now than ever before. Some of the more serious men there proclaim him as a high-ranking member of the Tall Story Club. But they are wrong; all Alec Crockett's tales are true.

He loves to tell about how he once went fishing. This admirable sport is his favorite pastime, and there is hardly a stream for miles around that yields trout that he has not visited. He returned from one exceptional trip with some fine specimens, and he decided to present them to Dr. Stearns. Having carted them over to the Headmaster's house, he gave them to him. Dr. Stearns was so pleased that he immediately wanted to accompany the janitor on a fishing trip. "I never went with him," Alec concluded, "for I knew if I did take him, the fish wouldn't bite that day." (Parenthetically it may be said that Dave May, janitor of Taylor Hall, has accompanied "Alec" on several such expeditions.)

Alec claims to have been once a speedy track star, having often done 2:05 in the half-mile. He once ran unknowingly with Kilpatrick, then holder of the world's record, in a meet in Lowell. "Oh, he beat me," he added to some students' surprise. He even offers to show his picture as a track star to any disbeliever; undoubtedly, there are none.

He has an automobile; in fact his familiar vehicle provides one of the main topics of his stories. Some nasty dealer sold him a 1930 model for a 1931 make, and poor Alec has never gotten over it. Three years have elapsed, but he still claims that he is going to sue the man or get a new car. He takes pride in telling how he once fooled the Andover police chief. He was driving with only one headlight, and the Chief ordered him to halt. But Alec was not daunted and kept calmly on going till he arrived in front of Bill Poland's. There, upon seeing the officer approaching, he jumped out, quickly fixed the light, and sneaked back into his automobile.

"Hey there! Why didn't you stop?" was answered by a meek excuse about going through the

"The Milky Way"

Starring the best of Andover's theatrical crop, "The Milky Way" will be presented by the Dramatic Club as the annual winter play on Saturday evening. Advance reports lead us to believe that this production will not be of the ordinary run. From every aspect it promises to turn out one of the greatest successes which have been staged here in recent years.

The direction is in the hands of a man of some experience along dramatic lines, Mr. A. J. Cook. He has devoted considerable time and energy towards perfecting and smoothing his masterpiece. Exceptional too is the cast. Besides many of the stars who have delighted Andover audiences in the past, an array of new talent will appear behind the footlights including C. H. Miller, C. W. Wilson, and Van Ingen, who promises to be a female impersonator who will amply fill the scanties left by Frank Roundis. The various managerial fields connected with the production of the play are being competently handled. The scenery in particular promises some surprises and new features such as a roof over one of the sets. Finally, Business Manager Cross is doing an efficient job at advertising and making this former Broadway hit a financial as well as an artistic success.

The tickets are selling like the proverbial "hotcakes," and the last seat in the last row of the balcony will soon be gone. It is a question of now or never for those who wish to partake of an evening of real enjoyment, seeing the cream of Andover's stars in "The Milky Way."

Immature Upper Middlers

The exhibition of poor spirit and ungentlemanliness put on by a group of Upper Middlers at the art lecture on Monday night was something which made most of those present ashamed for their school. In fact so strong was this feeling that three communications on this subject reached us before the evening was over.

It is a deplorable fact that some of the Uppers, among them a few supposedly "big" men of the class, are not yet mature enough to see why they should not behave as they did. They do not seem to have absorbed anything from the various talks on the subject which the low ebb of school spirit in some quarters has made it necessary to give this year. In this particular instance, perhaps these men were not particularly interested in art. That is their privilege as well as their badge of ignorance. But for the benefit of those who are interested, and out of common courtesy to the speaker, the scraping of chairs and uncalled-for remarks should cease. Altogether this is not the sort of exhibition of which Andover can be proud. More than that it can have a damaging effect on the morale of underclassmen and on the reputation of the school outside.

drive, forged ahead and finished first. The time was 2 min. 10 4-5 sec.

Wingate Wins 100-Yard

Captain Wingate did a nice job in the 100-yard freestyle. He swam the distance in his usual smooth style in 56 2-5 seconds, tying the school record. Berizzi and Boswell, Harvard contestants, placed second and third to him. Lempke, the freshman record holder in the breaststroke was able to defeat Ryder and Kiphuth of Andover who got second and third respectively. The Crimson victory by Cummings, Lempke, and Hutter in the 150-yard medley relay over Burns, Ryder, and Shand, the strong P. A. team, came as an upset.

In the 165-pound class Roe defeated Vaughan, securing a time advantage of 2 minutes 35 seconds over the Browne and Nichols men. This bout was also very fast with both men pushing each other around the mat. Cochran in the 175-pound class finally downed Aldrich after 3 minutes 46 seconds of struggle. He almost floored him earlier but the Browne and Nichols man was saved by the end of the time limit.

Blue Fencers To Oppose Governor Dummer Academy

The Blue fencers will again contend with Governor Dummer this afternoon. The match, taking place at South Byfield, is expected to be an easy win for Andover since it won the first match 7-2. The team will be composed of Captain Dimock, Jones, and Morgan, with Beaty and Macomber as substitutes.

Crimson J. V. Quintet Defeats Blue, 33-31

The third quarter found P. A. led by the two Kelloggs, surging ahead as it ran the score up to 24-17; nevertheless, Harvard could not be held down. In a magnificent rally the Crimson succeeded in tying the count 25-25, as the period ended.

In the last quarter Harvard stepped neatly out in front. With seconds to play Viens again tied the count 31-31 by a spectacular shot from the side amidst a loud cheer. But the Crimson came right back to sink another field goal and win the game.

Out of seventy-three shots in scrimmage the Crimson completed fourteen, while P. A. completed eleven out of fifty-two. Harvard took forty shots inside the foul line and completed eight, while the Blue took thirty-one and completed seven. Outside the foul line the Crimson took thirty-three and made six baskets, as Andover completed four out of twenty-one shots. Harvard's advantage on the jump proved disastrous to the Blue.

Philo Debate To Be Held In Junior Dining Hall

The next to the last Philo debate of the season will be held tonight at 6:45 in the Junior Dining Hall. The question, Resolved: that trade unions are beneficial.

L. Paine, Crompton, and Reed will support the affirmative side of this question and Timbie, Fitts, and Harvey, the negative. This debate is in line with the recent Philo debates and a large attendance is expected.

Schedule of Examinations—Winter Term, 1935

NOTE: Examinations which conflict or which are scheduled on consecutive hours should be reported immediately to the Recorder's Office.

Changes in examination section may be made only with the written permission of the Recorder's Office.

No student will be allowed to change the hour of his last examination.

No boy may leave his last examination before the end of the hour without the express permission of his instructor which must be obtained in advance.

After his last examination every boy must report to the Recorder's Office the time at which he intends to leave Andover.

It is important for each boy to recognize that this report ("signing out") does not release him from conforming to the school rules.

Those boys whose last examination begins at 4:50 in the afternoon may sign out before the examination, but not sooner than 4:20.

Majority Of P.A. Faculty Attended Harvard; Most Renowned Of Body Went To Amherst

In spite of the fact that more members of the Phillips Academy faculty attended Harvard than any other college, Amherst has the most distinguished graduates on that body. Headmaster Claude M. Fuess and Headmaster Emeritus Alfred E. Stearns both received diplomas from this small but well-known college. Also, Messrs. Eaton and Stott pursued their education under the domination of Lord Jeffrey Amherst.

Among the many learned men that have sought knowledge on the banks of the Charles are eleven members of the Andover teaching staff. They are the Messrs. Benedict, Hinman, Barss, Dudley, Grav, Hayes, Byers, Hawes, Hallowell, Professor Benner, and finally Dr. Chase. Having so many Harvard supporters on the faculty does not seem to alter Andover's tradition of turning out a majority of Yale-bound men. The sons of Eli, however, are not slighted in their delegation among the P. A. instructors, for nine look back upon their happy years in New Haven. Treasurer Sawyer, Mr. Heely, late English teacher and now Headmaster of Lawrenceville, and Mr. Eaton are the most outstanding Yale alumni that have served here this year. Also graduates from this famous University are the Messrs. Poynter, Newton, O'Brien, Paradise, Billhardt, Sawyer (of the Art Museum), and Dr. Darling. Dr. Darling also spent several years at Harvard and now boasts a degree from both of these two great universities. Princeton, the third member of the Big Three is rather meekly represented, having only three graduates on the faculty. Mr. Leonard, Mr. Leith, and Mr. Elliman stand small in number against the two other universities' supporters. This corresponds in a greater degree with the men Andover sends to the New Jersey college in comparison with those to the other two. Wesleyan, a member along with Amherst and Williams of the Little Three, boasts Dean Lynde and Mr. Graham as its alumni. Williams, to complete this group, was attended by Messrs. Tower, Barrows, Blackmer, and Baldwin.

Dartmouth with five stands next to Yale and Harvard in the number of graduates on the Andover faculty. Such well-known instructors as the Messrs. Phillips, French, Sanborn, Hagenbuckle, and Jackson spent their college life on the Hanover campus. Next to Yale and Harvard, also, Dartmouth receives more Andover graduates each year usually. Brown University takes fourth place boasting four teachers here as former students. Messrs. Boyce, Minard, Freeman, and Patton gained their college education in Providence. Mr. Sides and Mr. Shields have diplomas of Pennsylvania State, while Mr. Forbush and Mr. Higgins have those of Clark University. Bowdoin is the only other college that has two alumni on the Andover faculty. Mr. Watt and Mr. Maynard acquired their knowledge of higher mathematics there.

The other eighteen faculty members have the privilege of being the only graduate of their college here. Dr. Page looks back on his days at New York University, Mr. Newton on his at Hamilton, Mr. Eaton on his at St. Lawrence University and Mr. Benton on Richmond. Mr. Spencer passed his years at Michigan University, Mr. Boynton at the University of Chicago, Dr. Pfatfeicher at Lafayette, and Mr. Dake at Middlebury. John Hopkins University is represented by Mr. Basford, Syracuse by Mr. Cook, Massachusetts Institute of Technology by Mr. Stratton, Durham University by Mr. Peterkin, and lastly the University of Bristol by Mr. James. Mr. Parmelee is an alumnus of Beloit, Dr. Moorehead of Denison, and Dr. Eccles of Columbia. Finally, Mr. van der Stucken attended seven German colleges.

DR. FUESS BACK AGAIN FROM MID-WEST TRIP

Friendly Embassy To Alumni And Friends Of School Highly Successful

Dr. Fuess and Mr. Adriance returned Wednesday afternoon from a two week trip during which they visited and talked with the alumni, friends of the school, and parents of Andover students in the mid-west. Besides going to Indianapolis and Milwaukee, where no Andover gathering had ever been held, they also visited cities where no such meetings had been held since 1919.

This trip was completely a friendly mission and was received cordially as such by parents of students and by all interested in Phillips Academy. In no way was it an attempt to raise money or to gain new students. Perhaps the outstanding impression that the two Andover representatives gained was a sense of the national scope of the school. The Academy is known everywhere throughout America and many people connected with it may be found wherever one may go.

In every city they visited Dr. Fuess and Mr. Adriance were received with hospitality, being entertained and banqueted. Usually one or both of the men would speak and answer questions about the school. In this way people once again could get in touch with Andover and the progress on the Hill. The first stop was Pittsburgh, where the school's "ambassadors of good will" were received by Mr. Southard Hay, who took them to lunch where parents of several school boys were present. In the evening, after a tour of the city, they spoke at a dinner of twenty-six.

Son Of Archaeology Department Associate Finds Two New Civilizations In Venezuela

(Reprinted from the Science News Letter, Feb. 23, 1935.)

Two Indian civilizations wiped out of existence many centuries ago have been re-discovered for history by Alfred Kidder, 2d, young Harvard anthropologist.

Mr. Kidder, son of the well-known archaeologist, Dr. A. V. Kidder of the Peabody Museum of Harvard and Research Associate to the Andover Department of Archaeology, led the expedition to Venezuela, which has announced the discoveries.

Remains of the two civilizations, one buried below the other, were found in a region where there has been little scientific excavation.

Selecting a site on Lake Valencia, on the Peninsula of La Caboreria, Mr. Kidder excavated through two distinct layers of cultural remains. The older civilization, which may have dated from about 1000 A. D., lay in stratified sand and gravel extending from about three feet under the surface down 25 feet or more. The later civilization which followed was discovered in the top soil, or humus cap, three feet thick at the earth's surface.

Though the two civilizations inhabited the same site, the remains indicate practically no relation between them, suggesting that the early civilization may have been destroyed by inroads of a hostile tribe.

The later people held the Lake Valencia site when the Spanish invasion took place, and were completely wiped out by the Spanish, the expedition discovered. This is deduced from complete absence of glass beads, metal ware, or other trade objects which Indian settlements that survived conquest soon acquired.

Thousands of pieces of ancient Venezuelan pottery, most of them shattered and corroded by nearly a thousand years' burial, have been brought back to this country and are being cleaned and assembled.

One of the most interesting finds in the deeper levels of sand and gravel at Lake Valencia are pottery pipes evidently used by the natives in smoking tobacco. Well-polished, they are made of the same clay as the fine pottery, and are often decorated with grotesque faces and torsos. These pipes, according to Mr. Kidder, have no relation with those of any other area in the surrounding regions, either north or south. He points out that most of the natives of the West Indies and in South America did not use pipes, but smoked cigars.

One of the particular differences noted between the civilizations was in the methods of burial. The earlier people practised primary burial, in which bodies are buried immediately after death and left undisturbed. Secondary burial, practised by the later civilization, consisted of exposing the bodies after death, only the bones being buried in urns.

At Cleveland, they were met by Mr. Joshua Waterworth and taken to the University Club. During the day they visited the Hawken and University Schools. In the evening a large dinner was held at the University Club of all those interested in Andover. Mr. Ireland, father of an Andover student, was toastmaster and Dr. Fuess and Mr. Adriance spoke.

In similar fashion, the whole trip was spent in speaking at dinners, in talking with Andover enthusiasts, in visiting other schools, and, in general, meeting people connected with Andover. The two men visited in succession Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Milwaukee, and Minneapolis. The trip was a complete success; old acquaintances were renewed and the alumni were pleased.

Alec Crockett Relates Past Experiences

windshield if he stopped too soon. "Besides, why did you want me to stop?" Alec slyly pursued. He defied the charge of having only one light and invited the Chief to see. The small crowd of onlookers had a hearty laugh at the expense of the discomfited policeman. The janitor has chuckled a good deal over this and even now can hardly restrain himself while describing the chagrin of the officer.

Alec likes the students more now (he had to say this to have any peace) but believes them more simple—simple meaning queer and stupid. He claims they do not enter into as much mischief as the wild youths he encountered a decade ago. He told about one time when three students packed all the books and clothes of another in his trunk and sent it to his home. The unlucky one chanced back to the dorm just in time to see his belongings disappearing down the street in a truck. Such things do not happen now, he added; but this does not mean he is sorry that the men do not do such villainous acts now, he kept emphasizing. He has many more tales about much worse deeds of devilry; but he was afraid to have them published; they over in the office would not like it. He never refrains, however, from telling them to those in Johnson Hall.

Alec is a Republican. He made known this bit of information after at least five minutes of deep thinking. When first asked, he answered "Socialist," a typical show of humor, the Crockett style. He likes the movies and is infatuated by the "C'm up an' see me sometime" of the one and only Mae West. He is a daily listener to Amos 'n' Andy, although he termed them as becoming more simple every day. Before he became janitor he was an expressman delivering trunks here, but he shows no favor towards the present holders of that position. He receives great pleasure at seeing the "Preps" come every year. His funniest experience with one was this last fall. A nonchalant youth strolled up to him in Johnson and ordered, "Bring my trunk up, please." "Sorry," returned Alec, never to be beaten. "but the elevator's broken."

"Oh well, bring it up when you fix the elevator."

"Sure thing, boy." He did not say how the trunk ever got upstairs.

To show how the students of Johnson Hall like Alec is not a hard task. One man's appreciation for his entertainment and service was a ticket to a Yale-Harvard football game. Alec believes he is the only janitor here that has attended such a contest.

About this time he showed signs of growing fatigue and restlessness, and in a desperate dash escaped from the crowd of students around him. "No more, boy, you've got enough to fill the whole paper," he ruttered while disappearing from view. It can only be added that without the help of the students of Johnson Hall this article could never have been written. It was necessary to get Alec in a room and break down his morale by force of numbers before he would talk.

Three Religious Men Address Large Crowd

ness. Only in the moving picture and cloth industry have his people obtained a definite hold. The Jews desire the privilege of observing their religion freely and of living decently. He showed that out of the 4 1-2 million Jews in America, there are very few millionaires and a large number on the very margin of existence. Continuing on another question he stated that the Jew who is in any way faithful to his religion absolutely opposes Communism, for this latter movement is hostile to all religion. What does a Jew think of Jesus? A Jew thinks of Him as one of his own kind and blood. He represents one of the great links in Jewish tradition. Rabbi Wolsey described Him as a teacher who came to earth to teach revelations which most of the Jews follow even today. The present Jew respects His figure with all the reverence and loyalty that the members of other religions do.

A short time was then given to questions from the floor. Father Ahern pointed out his attitude on intermarriage between these three religions and the usual loss to the Catholic Church through it. Rabbi Wolsey pursued this subject by citing a case where a boy of Jewish father and Protestant mother was rejected by members of both faiths for being half of the other. It got to a point where he cursed his father and mother for having married. The Rabbi showed how an increase in religious toleration could lessen religious hands, but then the Priest pointed out that toleration does not necessarily mean the break down of religious loyalty.

In summing up the meeting Dr. Clinchy asked for a better agreement between these three faiths, so that together they may better the country. In the future groups of them must confer without losing their heads on the differences between them and try to stress the similarities. They must become friends and not try to annihilate each other, although important differences in view will still lie between them. With these three united together, the United States will prosper; with them separate it will fall in power. With this dramatic appeal he closed the forum.
