Man Body

MARSHALL IS PRESIDENT

Pugh, Besse Other Officers;
Ritts, Dudan Elected

The first fourteen-man Student Council at Andover has been completely chosen with the appointment of three Upper Middlers: C. J. Kittredge, Jr., Frank D. Campion, and Richard W. Besse. Besides these three men, the Council will be made up of: Peter Dudan, Edward A. Marshall, L. Chase Ritts, and William A. Pugh, the four Uppers recently elected by their class; the three Lovers, John H. Cuthbertson, William P. Arnold, Jr., and John F. Malo; the two Juniors, Hobart E. Early and Henry K. Gardner.

Peter Dudan of New York has been prominent in athletics in his two years at Andover. As a Lower he was a member of both the baseball and basketball teams, playing second base and forward respectively. This year he has been prominent on both these teams and was elected captain of basketball for next year. He is a proctor this year at Williams Hall. He is vice-president of his class this term, and is on next year's Society of Inquiry board.

Edward Marshall comes from Baltimore, Md., and is president of the Upper Middle class. He has been a member of the lacrosse team for three years, being captain this year. He was re-elected to this position at the recent dinner of the team. He has been made president of the Council.

L. Chase Ritts of Tulsa, Oklahoma, is secretary of the Upper class. He has received his varsity letters

CLEVELAND TEAM WINS IN PHILO COMPETITION

Conquers D. Williams-Leggett
To Advance To Finals
Of Annual Contest

In one of the semi-final debates of Philo's annual debating contest, in Bulfinch Hall Wednesday night, the team of Mather Cleveland and Stanley Cleveland defeated the team of Dave Williams and Jack Leggett in upholding the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved: That classical studies should be abolished in secondary schools." By virtue of their win the Cleveland team entered the finals where they will meet the team of Mike Garnett and Dick Mayo who got to the finals without debating because Peter Jennison and Herbert Fleischer, the team they would have opposed in the semi-finals, defaulted. The final debate will be held, if possible, sometime during graduation week.

The first speaker of the evening was Mather Cleveland who, in his speech upholding the abolition of

Frank Craven States That Extended Runs Become Increasingly Boring As Time Goes On

Perhaps one of the most interesting pastimes is the comparing of opinions of great men in any profession. Because of this, here follows the opinions of another great actor, who was recently asked the same questions which Sir Cedric Hardwicke answered in last week's PHILLIPIAN.

Frank Craven is now playing in New York in the Pulitzer Prize winning play, "Our Town," as its narrator, and he certainly is accomplishing a creative piece of acting.

Mr. Craven was born in Boston and had his first experience on the stage three years later with his mother and father, who were both players. He has been known for many years for his successful delineation of a wide range of characters. He has appeared in the principal theaters in the United States and in London. Besides being an excellent actor on the stage and in the movies, Mr. Craven has also been a very successful playwright, six of his plays having been produced since 1919. Several of these just missed being awarded the Pulitzer Prize.

In answering the first question as to whether an actor found it boring to play the same part for many months during an extended run, he said, "An actor does find it boring to play a part for a long time: the longer the time the more of a task it becomes."

The next question was whether a play by virtue of an extended run ever lost any of its freshness or good qualities that it might have had when it opened. Mr. Craven answered this by saying, "A play may gain by constant playing like the engine in a car, or it may lose all its spontaneity, and its reading may become careless and slipshod. It's up to the cast and the alertness of the stage crew."

Mr. Craven answered the question as to whether the majority of actors preferred the stage or screen by stating, "The majority of actors prefer the stage—greatly prefer it."

Concerning censorship of the stage, Mr. Craven said, "I hope there will never be censorship or government control of any kind in the theater. I am speaking of the legitimate theater. The men who have written for the theater for years, rarely, if ever, have done so offensively. Most of them have more good judgment about good taste than any others made up to judge them."

INFIELD ERRORLESS

Boynton At Short And Pelren
At First Play Well

With a patched-up aggregation that played errorless ball, the second string baseball team beat the Exeter jayvees Wednesday, 2-1. Dave Reige was on the mound for the Blue and did a fine job, allowing only seven scattered hits only one of which hurt. That was a home run with the bases empty and accounted for Exeter's only tally.

Reige received fine support behind his effective hurling, since both the infield and outfield came up with excellent plays to keep the bases free of Red and Gray runners. Mort Furber in center field really won the game when he cut down a runner at the plate trying to score from second on a single. The ball was straight to Magowan on the fly and all he had to do was put the ball on the man sliding in.

The infield was put together hastily with Cain, a pitcher, on third base, and Arnold, a first baseman, drafted to fill the vacancy on the keystone sack, but, steadied by Boynton at short and Pelren on first, it handled every chance without a miss. The Seconds collected only two hits, and both of these were by Reige, who was promptly forced at second each time, but nevertheless took advantage of the opponents' misplays to bring in

CAPTAIN TED HARRISON

HEPBURN, GRANT STAR IN SATURDAY'S MOVIE

"Bringing Up Baby," Hilarious
Comedy, To Be Shown
In G. W. Hall

To be shown tomorrow night in George Washington Hall will be another in the cycle of hilarious comedies, so popular at present this time, "Bringing up Baby", starring Cary Grant and Katharine Hepburn. The picture presents Miss Hepburn in a new role, different from her usual emotional parts; here she takes the Carole Lombard type of character.

Frankly a slapstick production, the high points of the picture come off when Susan's (Katharine Hepburn) evening gown is torn half off in a night club, and when, unknowingly enough, Susan leads about a man-eating leopard which has been mistaken for her own pet leopard, "Baby".

The plot deals with Professor David Huxley (Cary Grant), a paleontologist, who, in order to obtain funds from a certain wealthy old woman for his museum, runs across Susan, her niece and heiress, who leads him a merry chase, taking him out to her aunt's country house in Connecticut, when they collide with a poultry truck on the way and the leopard, which is in the rear seat, makes a meal on the fowl.

Upon reaching the destination, "George", a pet terrier, (Asta in "The Thin Man") makes away with a dinosaur bone which David has just received to complete a huge dinosaur skeleton back in the museum. The two go in search of this, with the dog digging up various and sundry articles about the garden in an effort to help.

The picture reaches a grand anticlimax when Susan loses her grip on a stepladder in the museum and clutches the dinosaur skeleton for support. The added weight breaks the fragile affair, and the final shot fades out when the skeleton crumbles in the dust.

With Lawrence Academy;

DARTMOUTH ALSO WINS

10-0 Score Of Bad Memorial
Day Loss To Big Green

Going into a dangerous slump, the baseball team dropped the last two games previous to the Exeter engagement.

Showing batting, pitching, and fielding weaknesses the squad succumbed to Dartmouth 10-0. This was the first shut-out administered to the boys in blue for several seasons, and the batting order was thoroughly handcuffed, collecting only three safeties, two by Junie O'Brien. Only five or six men got on base, and of these only one ever got as far as third. Meanwhile the Big Green batsmen were taking toe-holds on the offerings of Joe Phelan and Hal Chase to drive in their ten tallies. Six of these were scored in one frame against Phelan, and the other four gathered during Chase's period of mound duty.

In the final game before the season's close, a group of hard hitting Lawrence Academy baseball players batted four P. A. pitchers around to humble the mighty Blue by the ignominious margin of 16-3. Bill Cahill, in his first appearance of the year, started the game, but was removed in the second when he was slapped for nine runs. Then Chase came in, and, though he allowed but two runs, retired shortly when his arm began to trouble him. Joe Phelan was the next twirler. He got by unscratched for an inning or so, and then Harrison came in for his first appearance since he hurt his knee. However, apparently the Lawrence boys did not know of his prowess, and being no respecters of persons, took advantage of a spell of wildness in which Ted walked two men, and two or three solid hits scored the balance of their 16 tallies. For the last two innings Harrison returned to his old form and blanked the visitors, fanning several batters.

The rest of the season has been fairly successful. The team took the first four games on the schedule as Harrison and Phelan hung up two wins apiece. Phelan let down Thayer 8-4, and after Chase had let the Andover Town squad have nine runs, Harrison came in to stem the tide and win the game when his mates unleashed a last minute barrage of hits to pull the game out of the fire 10-9. Phelan took the next, blanking St. Mark's 9-0. Then in one of the tightest games seen on the hill for some time Harrison bested Joe Wood of Yale 1-0. Harrison fanned fourteen and gave but four hits, while Junie O'Brien accounted for the one tally by driving it in with a clean single to left center.

The Blue then dropped two in a row, one to Brown Freshmen and another to New Hampshire Freshmen. Phelan was the victim in each case. Snapping out of this slump, the team defeated Deerfield behind

Exeter Game Rules

Boys may not go to the railroad station to meet or see off the Exeter train.

After the game boys must stay in the stands under the direction of the cheerleaders.

If there is a celebration, movies will be delayed until after every boy has reported.

The report will take place in the basement of George Washington Hall. Every boy, whether he attends the celebration and parade or not, must report in this place immediately after the close of the celebration. After reporting, boys will proceed to the movies up the west staircase in George Washington Hall. They must deposit their movie tickets at the desk, which will be placed at the head of these stairs. To be admitted each boy must have his movie ticket with him. Boys who do not go to the movies should report to their housemasters immediately after checking in.

Only parents and guests of the school will use the front door of George Washington Hall. If they plan to sit with boys, they may wait for them in the lobby.

There is to be no smoking except at the bonfire. Only Seniors and Upper Middlers may avail themselves of this privilege

SEYMOUR STARS AS CINDER TEAM HANDS RED AND GRAY 82-44 DEFEAT

P. A. RUNNER WINS 440, 220 IN FINAL MEET

Takes Denney Of P. E. A. In Long Distance, Noses Out Pirnie In Dash

GOULD, JACKSON WIN

Former First In Jumps, Latter Victor In Javelin Event

The Andover track team climaxed a successful season last Saturday with their best performance of the year to trounce Exeter by a count of 82-44. The meet, which was at Exeter, was won convincingly, the Blue copping nine first places and a tie for first, out of the fourteen events of the day.

In the running events, Hovey Seymour was the high scorer, with a double victory in the 220-yard dash and the 440-yard run. The former he won by a nose over Pirnie, and the latter he took by a comfortable margin from Exeter's Denney in the excellent time of 51.1. Pirnie won the 100-yard dash to tie with Co-Captain Murphy as the second highest scorer in the sprints. Murphy took a second in the high and won the 220-yard low hurdles, thereby scoring nine points for the Blue.

Both the mile and half mile produced extremely exciting contests, with Couglan and McDonnell challenging Hines of Exeter closely all the four laps of the longer distance, and Falconer of Andover winning the shorter in a close race, which saw Fred Kent make a superb sprint in the last 200 yards to take second over Brundage. Exeter's best man until the last half lap Kent trailed the pack by five or six yards, but his magnificent spurt on the last half lap made it one-two for the Blue cindermen in this event. Murphy ran a good race in the 220-yard low hurdles, in spite of his left side, which he injured in a fall at the Harvard Interscholastics. Crispell failed to duplicate his performance in the Interscholastics, taking third behind Squire of Exeter.

The field events had a distinct Andover advantage, except for the pole vault, in which the Blue failed to place. However, this lack of points was offset by a clean sweep in the javelin, Jackson winning with a throw of 176' 1", his best performance of the season. B. S.

Junior Athletic Ball Team Drops Final 6-4 To Punchard High School Monday

In their final game of the current season, the Junior Athletics baseball team was defeated by a group of much older and more experienced players from the Punchard High School on Monday morning by a score of 6-4 on the home field.

The game was closely fought throughout, the Juniors leading until the fatal seventh inning came, when they gave up three runs. H. K. Gardner pitched for the first eight innings, and he did a good job in holding the larger team to seven hits and five runs. R. O. Zeigler pitched the last inning, giving up one hit and one run, but striking out two. Pitching for the Punchard team was the coach of the Punchard Junior High School team, while the catcher was an old Punchard alumnus. Scattered throughout the lineup were members of the varsity squad.

Captain Swift, Gardner, Abrons, and Bush led the hitting, while the most adroit performers in the field were Swift, who made a remarkable catch at third of a hard hit line drive. Evans, Bush, and Gardner, Lillard, playing in left field, made an excellent running catch. Swift led the hitters for the year, with Luce, Wilcox, Harrison, and Lillard close behind. Gardner was the outstanding pitcher, with Zeigler also turning in two good performances on the mound. All the first team are considered by Coach Di Clementi to be potential material for the varsity in a couple of years.

An interesting sidelight to Monday's game was the presence of the parents of seven of the first team's lineup. They cheered vociferously during the entire game, which was the third nine inning contest that the Juniors played this year.

VARSITY GOLFERS LOSE TO EXETER BY 7½-1½

Seconds Were Also Beaten 5-4 In Wednesday's Matches

Losing both ends of the Exeter golf match last Wednesday, both the varsity golf team, which lost, 7½-1½, and the second team, which lost, 5-4, went down to defeat.

In the first varsity match Martin of Andover defeated Jamison 2 and 1; Janssen of Exeter defeated Mulcahy 4 and 2. Then Jamison and Janssen defeated Martin and Mulcahy, 4 and 2. In the next twosome, Sayer, of Exeter, defeated Williams, 7 and 6, while Fessenden of Exeter defeated Wigley, 4 and 2. In the foursome, Sayer and Fessenden defeated Williams and Wigley 2 and 1. In the final group, Gardner of Andover and Wood were all even, while Campbell of Exeter defeated Hardwicke, 4 and 2. Then in the concluding foursome, Wood and Campbell defeated Gardner and Hardwicke, 2 and 1.

RED AND GRAY FLAYS CLUB LACROSSE SQUAD WITH 14 GOAL LEAD

Andover, Lacking Subtle Stick-Handling Experience, Fails To Score

DICKSON STARS IN NETS

P. A. Defense Ragged At First But Improves Later

Playing on foreign ground last Wednesday, the Andover all-club lacrosse team was defeated by a somewhat heavier and more experienced Exeter delegation, the final score being 14-0.

This game was the first and only time that the team has played this year, as it has been practicing only a little more than a week, but the coaches were much encouraged by the improvement of the team in the last half, and by the fact that almost all the squad will be out next year.

During the entire game, there was much substituting on both sides, and the whole Andover squad got the benefits of playing in the contest. The play was featured by the brilliant playing of Dickson, the goalie, who made many excellent stops all through the game.

The coaches were encouraged also by the way in which the team picked up in the last half, and although they made no goals, they almost did several times, but were overpowered by the greater experience at stick-handling of the

BOTH TENNIS SQUADS SUCCUMB TO EXONIANS

Varsity Loses 6-3 As Jayvees Are Swamped By 8-1 Score

Succumbing to the Exeter tennis team, 6-3, the varsity as well as the second team, which was also defeated, 8-1, fell prey to Red and Gray last Wednesday.

In the singles, Captain Wilhelm was beaten by Barnes of Exeter, 3, 6-4. In the second singles match, which lasted throughout three deuce sets, Hendrie of Exeter outlasted Goodkind and finally took the match, 7-5, 6-8, 7-5. After losing his first set to Ethridge, a stram of the Exeter squad came through to defeat his opponent with a score of 6-8, 6-2, 6-3. Then, making the first Blue victory of the day, Diamond broke into the win column by defeating Bagley, 6-3, 5. The next match went to Exeter as Davis, who was off his game, was beaten by Harvey. The final match went to the Blue, Early coming from behind to overcome his opponent, Esser, 2-6, 9-7, 6-2. The doubles matches also were dominated by Exeter, as they took two of the matches. In the first contest Barnes and Hendrie of Exeter, after getting off to a poor start, finally succeeded in defeating Wilhelm and Goodkind, 8-6, 6-1. Ethridge and Davis, however, atoning for their individual losses in the singles, set back their opposing team of Jastram and Bagley, 3-6, 1, 6-3. The concluding match was taken by Exeter as Esser and Walker took Diamond and Early, 1, 6-4, their superior overhead game prevailing.

The second team suffered an even more disastrous defeat since they lost 8-1. The following are the scores:

In the singles; Cooper (E) over Northrop (A), 6-3, 6-4; Stearns (E) over Van Raalte (A), 6-2, 6-2; Walker (E) over Meily (A), 6-1, 6-3; Boody (E) over Esty (A), 9-7, 6-4; Witkin (E) over Tuttle (A), 6-0, 4-6, 6-4; Carter (E) over Barr (A), 2-6, 6-2, 8-6. In the doubles; MacGuire and Joane (E) over Esty and Masters (A), 6-2, 6-3; Northrop and Tuttle (A) over Parker and Witherell, 6-1, 9, 6-2. In the third doubles match Andover defaulted to Exeter because of the lack of time, making the final score, Exeter 8, Andover 1.

The two teams were quite closely matched, but it turned out that Exeter was the steadier. Andover, however, showed flashes of brilliance from time to time. The match was a long drawn-out affair, lasting over four hours, making a default necessary at the end due to the late hour.

ary school curriculums. Jack Leggett, the constructive speaker for the negative, stated that classical languages enrich one's vocabulary, aid in the study of modern languages, and that all modern languages are definitely under the influence of classical languages, which are really their basis. He closed by saying that a thorough understanding and appreciation of the great classical works cannot be acquired through translations, and to obtain these two things one must have a good knowledge of the classical languages. Thus, he contended, classical education should not be abolished.

After the usual question periods were over, the rebuttals were given by each side. Dave Williams gave the first, in which he stated that classical languages were not taught in high schools because high schools are catering to a lot of dumb bells for whom the study of Latin and Greek would be too difficult. He showed how the affirmative had said many things which had helped the negative, and then closed by showing Mather Cleveland that his own first name was of Latin derivation, and that he owed his name to classical languages. Stanley Cleveland, the last speaker, first pointed out the purpose of education, and then, after stressing several points, closed by saying that other valuable things could be learned by people in the time which it would take them to learn the classical languages which help only in an obscure way. The floor vote was then taken and the affirmative won by three, and Mr. Higgins officially gave the debate to the affirmative by a score of 455-425.

CLUB BASEBALL TEAM SWAMPS RED AND GRAY BY A SCORE OF 8 TO 2

Mudge Allows Only Two Runs In Nine Innings Of Play

BLUE MAKES FOUR HITS

Wildness Of Exeter Pitchers Cause Of Score

Last Wednesday a strong band of club baseball players making up the Blue's all-club team, went up to Exeter and upon their arrival immediately set about administering to the Red and Gray all-club team a thorough defeat. The final score was 8-2.

Mudge took the mound for Andover in the first inning and throughout the entire nine inning route pinned back the Exonians, giving them only two runs, one of which was by virtue of an error on the part of one of his own team. The remarkable thing about this performance is that for the past few weeks Mudge has been pitching only seven innings at a time in the inter-club games, and there was some doubt as to how he would fare along the longer route.

The starting lineup for Andover was composed of Mudge pitching, Snell behind the plate, Hobson, Wagoner, and Falcon on first, second, and third respectively. Eccles played at short till the third inning, when he was replaced by Hudson. The starting outfield was made up of Parker, Rogge and Kranichfeld.

At the plate the Blue men got only four hits, two of these being bunts, but because of the continued wildness of the Exeter pitchers, Andover's total of runs mounted to eight gradually throughout the nine innings. The Exonians got their two runs in the 1st and 2nd innings.

Varied Sources Give Opinions On Game

The Faculty In General Fairly Optimistic About Outcome

The feeling of optimism runs high among others than the undergraduates as evidenced by some comments on the outcome of the Exeter baseball game.

Mr. Sides: "Sid Murch told me that, in his opinion Harrison is the best pitcher in eastern schools and colleges. Is that enough?"

Doc Gallagher: "Don't use the wood in back of the infirmary."

Mr. Barrows: "We ought to win but the chances are pretty even. They can hit, and we can pitch."

Mr. Grew: "C'est dans la valise."

Officer White: "Don't let them do what Dartmouth did."

Mr. Di Clementi: "We ought to win, but it will be close."

HARRISON LEADS TEAM AGAINST RED AND GRAY

the one-hit pitching of Harrison 10-1. Harrison fanned eighteen men and walked none in this encounter, the brother of Joe Wood, whom Ted had previously beaten, avenging the family honor by spoiling a no-hitter for the Andover twirler.

Preserving this skein of victories, Harrison salted away number four when he sent the Harvard Freshmen home on the short end of a 5-2 count. Many were still wondering what a baseball looked like, for no less than twenty took their three cuts and sat down during the afternoon. In the encounter with Tufts Phelan was doing the honors and with a two run lead seemed well on the way to his fourth win when he was injured running out a bunt. Chase came in and, backed by splendid support, preserved the shut-out for Joe and won the game for him 2-0.

Harrison started the Tilton game, and after blanking the school boys for four innings, he was plagued too by the injury jinx, wrenching his leg trying to score from third on a grounder. Once more Chase, the game-saver, sauntered out to the mound and turned back hostile bats to give the P. A. Captain his fifth win 5-2. Phelan started against the next opponent, Worcester, and though he was removed in the fifth, presented his successor Chase with a fat lead which Hal once more nobly safeguarded, winning for Phelan 6-4.

During the season, Harrison has shown remarkable prowess on the mound, turning in five wins and no defeats, and giving only three runs up to his last appearance in the Lawrence game. He also led the hitters with a phenomenal seasonal average of well over .450, hit two triples, and batted in 15 runs to materially aid in the winning of all the games. Bergfors showed a tremendous improvement as the season progressed and raised him-

DEMPESE WINS DISCUS WITH RECORD THROW

Tosses Platter 118 Feet To Better Old Mark Of Greenlaw

P. A. FIELD EVENTS STRONG

Sweeps Hammer, Broad Jump, Javelin, And Discus

Andover's second track team made it a clean sweep over Exeter for the year in this sport by trouncing the Red and Gray, 80 5-6—45 1-6 on Wednesday at Exeter.

The only record breaker of the meet was Guy Dempsey of Andover, who hurled the discus 118 feet to wipe out the old record of 113 feet, made by Greenlaw of Andover in 1931.

Although Exeter almost equaled the performance of the Blue's runners, they were sadly inferior to Andover's power in the field events. Clean sweeps were made by P. A. in the javelin, discus, hammer, and broad jump, while Exeter again took all three places in the pole vault. The Blue also scored a sweep in the half mile, with P. E. A. copping the three places in the 220-yard dash. The running events were contested on a poor track and in the face of a good wind, thereby accounting for the comparative slowness of some of the times in the shorter distances.

Both hurdle events were run in slow time, as well as the 100-yard dash. Heidrich ran a good race in the quarter, while Grinnell also won handily in the mile.

Wednesday's meet was the fourth of the season for the second team, which mowed down all their opposition by convincing scores. They defeated in order, Manchester (N. H.) Central High, Nashua (N. H.) High, Governor Dummer, and Exeter's jayvees.

self with the reliable Dudan and Harrison to the .300 class. Junie O'Brien, Jack Walsh, and Salty Peters also batted well, especially in the pinches. When Jumbo Welch, the catcher, got a charleyhorse, Peters came in from the outfield and took over the catching assignments, doing an excellent job of handling the pitchers. Junie O'Brien played his usual steady game all year, and Pete Dudan turned in spectacular plays, some on his own and some in conjunction with Junie, on double killings. Bill Hart, who as a Lower played his first year of varsity ball, did a good job, though a little unsteady at times. He has learned fast and next year should be an integral part of the team at third base.

Communication

To the Editor of THE PHILLIPIAN:

Last year for the first time in several years the Senior class did not hold an auction in June to rid themselves of the numerous books, furnishings, and other bric-a-brac that they have collected during their years at Andover. As far as I know, no plans have been made for one to be held this year either, and I would like to suggest to the Senior class that they get busy and sponsor an auction similar to those that were so successful in past years.

There is no question about the idea being profitable both to the Seniors and to the rest of the student body. Undoubtedly every upper classman has collected countless objects which he does not want to take away with him, but which are too good to merely toss away. If an auction is held, Seniors will be able to receive some money for these articles, and at the same time an opportunity will be provided for the lower classmen to acquire some of the books and accessories that they will need next year.

These auctions have always been a success in the past, and there is no reason why some ambitious group of Seniors shouldn't get together and plan to hold one next week. I feel sure that there would be a wholehearted approval on the part of the student body, as most students are in the mood for collecting books and lamps, etc., for next year.

Dirt on the Discs

Decca's latest release has two grand surprises. Jimmy Lunceford makes his first recording for some time and it's tops. One side is that eternal favorite My Melancholy Baby with Dan Grissom vocalizing, but it's on the other side that Jimmy really goes to town. The subject which Lunceford and the boys dissect is the old semi-classical, By the River Saint Marie.

Surprise number two is Ella Fitzgerald's latest. The feeling among the students on the Hill seems to be that give Ella any song to sing and she's good, but with a pair like This Time It's Real and You Can't Be Mine she's really got something. Both these numbers are slow and swingy with a certain touch of sadness, which fits Miss Ella's voice perfectly.

Victor announces the production of two Irving Berlin tunes, and they're played by T. Dorsey & Co. Now It Can Be Told has the vocal done by Jack Leonard and also a bit of tromboning by Tommy himself. My Walking Stick contains the smart trumpeting by Pee Wee Irwin, tromboning by Tommy, and Edythe Wright singing.

Hal Kemp, whose return has been hoped for for some time, is back. Hal again features swirling sax and staccato brass. Where in the World and In Any Language are of medium tempo played in Kemp's inimitable style. Bob Allen does the vocal work.

Jimmy Grier's orchestra has always been known for its nice, sweet arrangements which were nice to dance to but were not much in the line of swing. Well, this week Jimmy really goes to work and swings. The subject for his swinging is Isle of Capri, a song which was first introduced a few years back and hit the heights of popularity. On the reverse side of the platter Jimmy plays a nice light novelty number, A Stranger in Patee. In a group of top-notch recordings such as has just been released, we're reluctant to pick a "best," yet, if we were to, I believe it would be this Decca disc.

In case anyone is interested, Guy Lombardo has produced a swell novelty for Victor, Oh! Ma-Ma.

Victor announces that Benny Goodman and the Budapest String Quartet are going to collaborate on a series of discs. They will play the Quintet for Clarinet and Strings by Mozart. This is not a publicity stunt for, lest we forget, Goodman is still tops among clarinetists whether he is playing symphony or swing.

HERE and THERE

The fate of New Deal measures were being considered this week by Congress and its leaders, in the light of possible early sine die adjournment. The conferees for the Wage and Hours Bill, passed recently by the House and maneuvered into conference without going to the Senate direct, were appointed, and they will meet with the Senate Committee to settle the extremely important question as to whether there shall be differential standards between various parts of the country and various industries, or whether the rate shall be flat, as in the House bill. This committee will try to hurry its work so that it can have its report ready before adjournment.

Another fact which is helping to speed up the wheels of legislation and make possible an adjournment soon, is the decision of President Roosevelt, on the advice of his Congressional leaders, not to bring up again the once-defeated Reorganization Bill, as he recently threatened to do. This leaves the way clear for the many little appropriation bills which must be hurried through both houses, and opens the prospect of final adjournment not later than June 15.

* * * *

Two recent events following closely upon one another almost remind one of a few years ago, when bootleggers who had lost their trade turned to another and equally profitable one, and when every mother feared that her children would be next. The first event was the discovery on Long Island of the body of Peter Levine, kidnapped ninety-four days before from his home in New Rochelle. The body was badly mangled and was wired up, and identification could only be made by his clothes. This kidnapping and murder, the first one in almost a year, was quickly followed by another in Florida, where five-year-old James Cash, Jr., was taken two days ago. The father dropped the ransom where directed, but there has been as yet no word from the kidnapers or sign of the boy.

* * * *

New York City was once again shown to be a stronghold of a successful militant labor policy when the C. I. O.'s National Maritime Union went out on a one-day strike. This strike, which was ordered only to last till 4 o'clock this afternoon, was able to tie up completely 43 vessels in port.

The purposes of the strike were threefold. First of all, the C. I. O. affiliate wanted to show its united strength among the longshoremen; this was certainly accomplished. The second purpose of the short strike was to demonstrate against the A. F. of L. union.

The third, but primary purpose, was to protest against the discharge of 30 crew men by the Shepard Line. The C. I. O., claiming it had won a bargaining election, maintained this was a violation of the N. L. R. B. Act. The Shepard Line, however, came back with the familiar retort that, if it acceded to the C. I. O. demands, the A. F. of L. would walk out.

Erratum

We of THE PHILLIPIAN would like to offer Jim Ryley our humble apologies for the error in the last issue. His prediction of the track meet was entirely fictional. We hope no one has taken offense and that Jim's record will stand by itself unstained.

Faculty Predictions

Mr. Whitney: "We will make up for the twenty-six runs lost in the last two games."

Dr. Westgate: "I hope Harrison is as good as he was in hockey."

Mr. Kinsolving: "It ought to be our day."

Mr. Gummere: "In my wide experience with the intricacies of baseball, like the oracle at Delphi I am confident."

Sam DeLuca: "We should win, but it will be close. Good luck to Harrison."

Mr. Graham: "With Captain Harrison in form and the team in fighting fettle there should be no doubt as to the result of the game."

Mr. Allis: "I'm confident as usual."

Mr. Boyle: "The Rutter is always in the stern."

Mr. Benedict: "If Exeter has the strength of the Faculty Softball team, Andover had better look out."

Mr. Stott: "With Harrison pitching we can't lose."

Mr. Leavitt: "I hope Andover is not too confident. I think this may be a close game."

Mr. Minard: "The Andover and Exeter games are always full of excitement and certainly will be this year."

Mrs. Richardson: "I believe in numerology and I know Andover and Victory have seven letters and Exeter and Defeat six."

Mr. Flanagan: "A close game and two good pitchers make a pitchers' battle."

Mr. Watt: "No dream, no prophecy. If Ted is right, it'll be Andover today."

Mr. Henry Kelley: "This is Exeter's 'Swan Song' for the year."

Seymour Stars As Cinder Team Defeats Red And Gray, 82-44

Page took second in this event, with Van Voorhees annexing third. The hammer was close to being a sweep for P. A., with Co-Captain Day taking first with a hurl of 170' 3/4". Coxe took second, with an Exeter man copping the third place. The broad jump was one of the closest events of the day. Gould won by a mere quarter of an inch from Wilson of the Red and Gray. The distance, 21' 4 3/4", is fourteen inches less than Gould did the week before at Cambridge. Jackson took third in the leaping, in addition to his first in the javelin. The shot put was taken by Vern Williams, with his best toss of the year in competition, 48 feet. Al Hearne won the third position, in his first performance of the year, as he has been out with a bad back. He also placed in the discus, annexing second, behind Cutler, who won this with a fine throw of 126' 8". In spite of four major defeats suffered by the team this year, the improvement was so marked during the last two weeks of the campaign that the coaches pronounced the season successful. The squad took the Harvard Interscholastics for the eleventh year in a row, and it defeated Exeter for the seventh in a row, thereby continuing a remarkable string of victories on the track.

The summaries:
120-yard high hurdles: Won by Squire (E); second, Murphy (A); third, Rodman (E). Time—0:15.7.
100-yard dash: Won by Pirnie (A); second, Hubbard (E); third, Bowen (A). Time—0:10.3.
440-yard run: Won by Seymour (A); second, Denney (E); third, Anderson (E). Time—0:51.1.
One-mile run: Won by Hines (E); second, Coughlan (A); third, McDonnell (A). Time—4:42.

220-yard low hurdles: Won by Murphy (A); second, Squire (E); third, Crispell (A). Time—0:25.7.
220-yard dash: Won by Seymour (A); second, Pirnie (A); third, Hubbard (E). Time—0:23.
880-yard run: Won by Falconer (A); second, Kent (A); third, Brundage (E). Time—2:04.3.
Pole vault: Warren (E); Lannon (E), and Bates (E), tied for first place. Height—11 feet.
Shot put: Won by Williams (A); second, Shattuck (E); third, Hearne (A). Distance—48 feet.
Hammer throw: Won by Day (A); second, Coxe (A); third, White (E). Distance—170 feet 5 3/4 inches.

Golfers Lose To Red And Gray At Andover Country Club

Although Andover played its average game of golf in most cases, the Exeter squad was on the whole the better team. The match, however, was featured by good playing on both sides.

The second team fared somewhat better as they obtained a 5-4 score.

The scores are as follows:
In the twosomes: Murray (A) over Purcell (E) 2 up; Moore (E) over Viney (A), 4 and 2; Tucker (E) over Coursen (A), 3 and 2; Anderson (A) over Ingram (E), 2 up; Eisele (E) over Lewis (A) 4 and 2; Frackelton (A) over Wilson (E), 2 and 1.
In the foursomes: Murray and Viney (A) over Purcell and Moore (E), 1 up; Tucker and Ingram (E) over Coursen and Anderson (A), 3 and 2; Eisele and Wilson (E) over Lewis and Frackelton (A) 2 and 1.

both runs. Furber and Foster had gotten on-base and had advanced to second and third on a wild pitch. Then Arnold bounced a grounder to shortstop, and when the ball was thrown wild in an attempt to cut down Foster at the plate, both Foster and Furber scored. Outside of that one play, though, the playing of the Exeter shortstop was exceptional, and he robbed several P. A. batters of potential hits.
