UNDEFEATED ANDOVER GRIDDERS TO ENGAGE NORTHEASTERN TODAY

Clash This Afternoon Expected To Be Breather For Powerful Blue

HARVARD NEXT WEEK

Coaches Stress Attack During This Week's Drills

After crushing both the Yale Freshmen and Nichols Junior College with its devastating attack, the powerful Andover football team today takes the field a heavy favorite over the Northeastern Freshmen. The game, to be played on Brothers Field, will begin at 2.

This afternoon's game will probably serve as a test of how good the Andover offense is. Northeastern, generally beaten by the Blue, is not expected to give Coach Sorota's men too hard a work-out after the shellacking Bill Hart, Bill Macomber, Bob McLaughry, et al., administered to the Yale Frosh last week. The Andover offense has rolled up twenty points in both of its games so far, and should do better against opposition which should be inferior to Yale's.

Hopes Game Will Be Breather

Northeastern, Coach Sorota hopes, will be a breather before the encounter with the Harvard Freshmen next week, when Andover will find out its strength in comparison to Exeter's. The Red and Gray team barely eked out a victory over the Crimson Saturday, when a substitute back ran back a Harvard punt for a touchdown in the closing minutes of the game, Exeter thereby winning, 20-14.

No one player is expected to outshine his teammates particularly this afternoon. Every player in the starting lineup is capable and has been outstanding so far this year. Lloyd ("Swede") Anderson leads the scoring brigade with three touchdowns. Ken Keuffel has a touchdown and four extra points to his credit. Bob McLaughry, the heavy-duty back, has probably gained more ground than any other back. The line is very well balanced, also. Butz-Macomber was outstanding against Yale, while Bill Hart has always been steady. Gene Constantin and Tim Hoopes were par-

Cuthbertson Is Elected Senior Class President

SOCCER SQUAD TO MEET DEERFIELD ACADEMY TODAY

Captain Parker To Lead Team In First Outside Contest

The first soccer game away from Andover will be played this afternoon, when the squad travels to Deerfield to meet Deerfield Academy in a crucial match. The whole squad will be taken along, and with an excellent first team backed up by good substitutes, the team should stand a very good chance of putting up a real fight. Of course, Captain Joe Parker will lead the team, and he will be backed up by some very outstanding booters including Anderson, Boynton, Carter, and McCaffery.

As yet Donahue has not fully recovered from his injury, but it is likely he will go with the team today although it is extremely doubtful that he will play. Winburn, however, has fully recovered, and it is certain that he will take the trip with the rest. But even if Donahue is out, it is doubtful if the team will be seriously hampered as the two fullbacks, Anderson and Captain Parker, allowed only one shot to get through to the goal in the New Hampton game. With such sterling players on the defense and with Boynton, who has been improving every day, Deerfield should run into a great deal of trouble when it attempts to score through the defense.

But the attack is as good as the defense. The passing game has improved until now after a hard week of practice it is at its peak, while after much drilling in kicking the shots are longer, more accurate, and harder than in the first game. Carter is expected to start off as center,

TWO PRACTICE DEBATES ARE HELD IN BULFINCH

Flint, Healy; Waters, Hickey Get Decisions Over Opponents

ATTENDANCE LARGE

Both Subjects Prove Timely And Interesting

In the first of two practice debates, held by Philo Wednesday night, the team of Flint and Healy of the negative side defeated Schueler and Faurot by a score of 445-425, while, in the second debate, Waters and Hickey of the affirmative defeated Sherrill and McMorris by a vote of 440-405. The subject of the first was: "Resolved: that any citizen has the right to refuse to bear arms in any overseas war in which the United States may engage"; and that of the second was: "Resolved: that tipping should be abolished."

Faurot Speaks First

Faurot, the first speaker for the affirmative, restated the question, stressing the word "right." He said that America is a great democracy based on the will of the people, and that to force a man to take up arms is against the fundamental principles of democracy. He stated that because the constitution established freedom of religion, the members of various religious sects, who do not believe in war, were exempted from military duty and he could see no reason why this same privilege of exemption should not be extended to all men who do not belong to any of these religious sects but who still do not believe in war. He also stated that, since freedom

Academy Church Invites All Students To Join

Communion to be Held Sunday Oct. 22, After Regular Morning Service

The first communion service of the school year will be held Sunday, October 22, following the regular morning service. At this time there will be the reception of new members.

The Academy Church is non-sectarian and includes individuals from many religious denominations. It is open to any member of the student body or faculty who believes that in the life and teachings of Jesus we have the best guide for everyday life. Communion services are held once a month and attendance is voluntary. Anyone in the school community is welcome.

Every year a number of student deacons are elected who aid in the ushering, the collection of the offerings, and the selection of visiting ministers.

Students who are interested in becoming members of the Academy Church may join either by certificate of membership from their home church or by a simple declaration of Christian purpose.

TEA DANCE TO BE HELD DAY OF HARVARD TUSSE

Student Council And Faculty To Supervise; Reeves Will Play

The first tea dance of the year will be held on the afternoon of the Harvard game, a week from today. It will begin at 4:30 and continue until 7:00. This time tickets will not only be sold at actual time of the dance but also right after lunch on the day of the dance. Rates will be as they have been in the past—$1.50 stag or couple and $1.00 for scholarship boys.

Music for this dance will be supplied by Ken Reeves and his orchestra. It has not been decided yet whether to have him bring six or eight pieces. This will be determined as soon as a rough estimate of how many boys are coming can be made.

This year the system of giving the tea dances has been slightly changed. The Student Council has elected a Boys' Dance Committee consisting of J. F. Malo, W. P. Arnold, A. R. Burnam, and D. O. Green. This committee has met with the faculty Social Functions Committee and they have adopted the following:

1. General Principle: At all dances at Andover girls are the guests not only of the members of the school but also of the Headmaster and Mrs. Fuess and of the Faculty of Phillips Academy.

2. The Boys' Dance Committee will have charge of all tea dances, except fraternity dances, held throughout the school year.

3. No dances may be held or plans for dances announced to the school without consultation with the S.F.C.

SOCIETY OF INQUIRY TO SPONSOR SPEECH BY DR. WALTER JUDD

Will Talk Tuesday On Japan's Aggression, Conditions In Far East

OPPOSES U. S. POLICY

Convinced China Fighting Two Enemies—Japan, America

Under the auspices of the Society of Inquiry, Dr. Walter H. Judd, who for ten years has been a physician in war-stricken China, will speak in George Washington Hall next Tuesday evening at 8:15 on conditions in the Far East. The meeting is open to members of the student body and community alike, and no charge will be made for admission.

Dr. Judd, whose subject will be Japanese Aggression and Conditions in the Far East, is a fiery speaker and one bitterly opposed to the aid that America is rendering Japan in her undeclared war on the Chinese. No man could be better qualified to speak on the subject which will be presented. Convinced that China has been fighting two enemies, Japan and the United States, Dr. Judd presents arguments for his belief that our vital economic interests are being constantly undermined by our policy of selling war materials to an aggressor nation.

It was only after his hospital work had been rendered impossible that Dr. Judd left China to come to America. He did so with the conviction that it was his duty to interpret to American business men and citizens everywhere a situation which he felt reflected adversely against American ideals and interests. He has spoken before chambers of commerce, business men's groups, schools and colleges, and church audiences throughout the United States.

Called at on time to testify before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Dr. Judd won the respectful attention and admiration not only of the members of this Committee, but also of all those who were following its investigations.

Junior Athletics Football Team Beats Brooks School, 6-0, In Year's Second Game

With one win to their credit, the Junior Athletic football team played their second game of the season against the Brooks School last Wednesday. In spite of their opponents' superior weight, the strong Junior team managed to score the lone touchdown of the game in the third period and defeat the Brooks team 6 to 0.

In the first quarter the Brooks team showed a slight edge over the Andover team and made numerous first downs by their excellent running and passing attack. However, they were unable to concentrate them sufficiently, so that at no time were they inside the Junior 25-yard line. In this period the Andover team could not gain through the heavy Brooks line, and it passed without any scoring.

Andover seemed to regain some of its old form in the second period and picked up considerable yardage on sparkling individual runs by Strant, Jules, and Arnold. The Andover defense improved greatly in this period, with Merriman and Chipman doing fine work at the end positions by breaking up potential Brooks advances. Also the work of Toms and Barnard was good as they were forced to play the entire game because of injuries. Because of the Juniors' improved defense the Brooks team made nowhere nearly as much yardage in this quarter. Andover suffered severely in the first half because of many fumbles on the part of the backfield.

In the beginning of the second half the Juniors kicked to Brooks and promptly smothered all their running attacks. The Andover tackles, who had previously been susceptible to mouse traps, showed marked improvement in breaking up plays in the Brooks backfield. Outstanding at this work was Art Coulson. After recovering a Brooks fumble on their 45-yard line the Andover team finally started a drive and with a deceptive passing and running attack worked the ball to the Brooks 10-yard line. Their three attempts to score failed, and finally on the fourth down an un-

Gauls And Saxons Victorious In Club Football; Greeks Win Second Team Game

The second Club Football games of this year's series were played last Wednesday with the Gauls and Saxons emerging victorious in the first team games, while in the second team games the Greeks defeated the Gauls and the Romans tied with the Saxons. The day was ideal for football and the games were therefore very exciting.

Probably the most exciting game was the Gaul-Greek contest, which finished with the score 7-0 in the Gauls' favor. The Greeks received in the first quarter and began to march down the field. However, they were stopped when the ball was intercepted by one of the Gauls' backs. The remainder of the period was spent in each side having the ball an equal portion of the time and no exciting plays occurred. The second quarter was marked by great punting. Coles, a Gaul back, set the Greeks back when he punted out of bounds on the 5-yard line, but Stuart of the Greeks also made a beautiful punt to the Gaul 2-yard line. Both teams managed to get out of these holes, and at the end of the first half the score was 0-0. The third quarter was perhaps the most uneventful as both sides were equally good. The fourth quarter, however, was the most exciting. The Greeks by steady marching got down to the Gauls' 3-yard line, but here they were stopped by a stubborn defense which refused to let the Greeks score. On the next play after the Greeks lost the ball, Coles of the Gauls made a spectacular run from behind his own goal line down the field and scored for the Gauls. Klotz made the extra point and the game ended, Gauls 7, Greeks 0.

In the second team game the Greeks gained revenge on the Gauls by defeating them by a 12-0 margin. The Greeks scored in the first and last quarters, both times by passes. The first of these two was from Midgley to Dunlop, and the second was from Searle to Midgley. Both extra points failed and the game ended without the Gauls seriously threatening the Greek goal.

Bicycles

Some time ago mention was made in Chapel of the rules concerning the use of bicycles on the Hill. Since these regulations are often disregarded, we will repeat them here. (1) Bicycles must not be ridden on the paths of the Academy. (2) They must not be ridden either on or across Main Street.

These are the only two restrictions. The first is primarily to eliminate the inconvenience which would be caused by the presence of bicycles on the same paths with students on foot. The second rule is strictly for the safety of the riders themselves, and it is to their advantage to obey them.

During the past two weeks, many students who own bicycles have been riding them on the paths, frequently causing inconvenience to those on foot. The rule is a simple one to obey, for it places no restrictions on riding on the roads which go across the senior campus and around the west quadrangle. The second rule also places no great inconvenience on the owners of bicycles, for School and Bartlet Streets are almost as easy to use as Main.

The regulations are designed for the safety and convenience of the student body, and it is up to the students to obey them as they would any other school rules.

Movie Pre-View

If we didn't like Four Feathers so awfully much when we saw it, it was really only because we were a little tired at the time and the picture is so long. However, in spite of its length, it has many redeeming features: it is one of the most exciting movies we have seen in quite a spell; the filming is done in "glowing technicolor," to quote the advertisements; and the acting is not bad at all.

You probably know by this time, but if you don't, it's only fair that we inform you, that Four Feathers is mostly about the British Empire. God bless it, that mighty institution upon which the sun never sets. Four Feathers tells about the really glorious days of the Empire when its security and growth were menaced only by highly ethical fuzzie-wuzzies and not by these hypocritical and lying opponents of the present day. It was made by that good old Hungarian-born Englishman, Alexander Korda. It is the tale of the Faversham family, soldiers all, with the lone exception of Harry, our hero. Harry upsets family tradition by being a coward in a day when it is whispered in scandalized tones in every London club, and the craven was was cut dead by all the stout old warriors of the Crimean War school.

On the eve of his regiment's departure for the Sudan to avenge the defeat of another English army and to gain permanent control of the region for Queen Victoria, Harry resigns from his regiment. Because they believe him to be a coward, his three best friends and his fiancée give him a white feather apiece, the symbol of cowardice. After he broods about this for a while, Harry determines to go to Egypt after them but not to let them know of his presence until he has proven himself innocent of being a coward. To do this, he disguises himself as a native and rescues one of his friends from a sure death when he is left for dead on the desert. At last, after many experiences, he is captured and imprisoned; however, he escapes and aids the forces of Lord Kitchener to a complete victory over the tribesmen in the battle of Omdurman.

That's the story and its main fault is that it takes too long a time to tell it. John Clemens, who plays Harry, is very wooden but also very virile, and that's what really counts in a picture of this kind. That fine performer, Ralph Richardson, plays Harry's friend who goes blind in the third reel. This is one of the most improbable parts about the movie—a man, out scouting, drops his sola-topee from the top of a cliff, and before he can recover it and put it on, he has gone blind. Most of the other actors are whirling dervishes and fuzzie-wuzzies, and they are extremely satisfying, probably because they are the real thing and not made-up extras. The screen play, by R. C. Sherriff, author of Journey's End, is good, if over-long. But so was the original novel by A. E. W. Mason. Zoltan Korda's direction is superb; even with ten thousand extras and so forth, he doesn't forget the individual principal and the problem of his role.

Altogether, though it is too long and although it presents men behaving very stuffily and unnaturally ("You cad!" "Dress for dinner." "Don't let the natives get out of hand."), Four Feathers is a good, exciting movie on the British Empire, and you ought to like it. And don't forget that glowing technicolor!

Dirt on the Discs

By W. R. Coles

This week's introduction comes from the new red seal Columbia line. Recently started, this brand has been putting out releases that are enough to make any jitterbug's mouth water. Topping this billing is Kay Kyser's pressing of The Answer Is Love and Happy Birthday To Love. Ginny Simms, Harry Babbitt and ol' Sully Mason team up on this disc to make it a real corker.

Your old friends, the Merry Macs, are back again with Decca recording that novelty tune, Vol Vistu Gaily Star and The Cat Fell In The Well. Both are done up in the characteristic manner of this novelty trio and should be a great addition to any jazz hound's library.

Victor is not slacking its hot pace either. Their latest release shows Hal Kemp doing a sweet number under the title of I Didn't Know What Time It Was and Love Never Went To College. If you like this boy, don't hesitate on this combination. Also under the black and gold label runs another Tommy Dorsey, which sounds very good in this corner. Night Glow, a medium tempo selection, gives us Tommy and his plumbing in one of their greatest performances. Listen for the beautiful harmony coloring here. On the "B" side of this waxing is Stomp It Off and features a hot combine of tenor sax, clarinet, trombone, and trumpet.

For you lovers of the swing clarinet we sincerely urge that you get hold of the new Charlie Barnet recording. We speak of the pressing called Lilacs In The Rain and The Girl With The Pigtales In Her Hair. Our Rye Casino friend has been doing some hot licorice stick work during the past few releases, and this tops all. Look for the smoke from this platter in the Bluebird pile.

SPORTS

By Dicken

Old king football enters the third round today of what appears to be one of the greatest seasons in history. Last Saturday's upsets gave the football world a sample of what they are in for, and today's card promises to be a continuation of last week-end.

* * *

Yale vs. Penn: After putting on a lion taming act a week ago, the Elis seem to have a potentially strong line and a good but not outstanding backfield. On the other hand, the Penn team, having eked out a 6-0 victory over a surprisingly strong Lafayette Leopard, appears to be in good enough shape to make it a Quaker victory by one touchdown at least.

* * *

Harvard vs. Chicago: The Cantabs go West today to meet Clark Shaunessy's decrepit Chicago eleven. The Crimson showed power last week in mastering Bates, and should continue along this same line and make it a matter of 4 or 5 touchdowns against the unsteady Maroon opposition.

* * *

Ohio State vs. Northwestern: The Big Ten conference goes into a wide open race with two of its standouts, Ohio State and Northwestern meeting at Columbus. The Buckeyes showed vast power last week in conquering Missouri; reputed Big Six standout; whereas the Wildcats took the count at the hands of Oklahoma in one of the day's biggest upsets. On these grounds we pick Ohio State, but only by a touchdown.

* * *

Notre Dame vs. Southern Methodist: "Glutton for punishment" Notre Dame entertains Southern Methodists' powerful aggregation which matched Oklahoma's play for play two weeks ago to gain a tie for themselves. The Irish, although victorious in both its previous encounters, has not found its full fighting strength. In any case the odds are pretty even and we'll call it a draw.

* * *

Duke vs. Pitt: Pennsylvania as a state will play host to two more or less intersectional headliners today when at Pittsburgh, the Panthers, who boast an undefeated record, meet Duke, also undefeated. However, Duke showed some of its last year's strength a week ago against Colgate. Pitt, although not at all weak, is not on a par with the North Carolinians; so we see Duke on top.

* * *

Dartmouth vs. Navy: Dartmouth, after two warm-up games, finally launches into a heavy schedule with Navy at the head of the list. The Middies opened two weeks ago in a very unspectacular fashion, barely eking out a win over Virginia, but last week's game showed them to be improving. At this up-hill pace they should go into their tilt with the Big Green at mid-season speed, and this should be fast enough to give the Hanoverians their initial set-back.

Cornell vs. Princeton: Cornell invades Princeton with a good, but decidedly weaker team than the Ithacans boasted last year when their lineup included Holland, McKeever, and Peck. The Bengals find themselves in no such predicament, however, for such stalwarts as Allerdice, Balentine, and Tierney are back in starting berths. The passing prowess that Allerdice showed last week will be a decided asset as far as the score is concerned. Cornell's victory over Syracuse a week ago cannot be taken lightly, but it looks as if it's the Tiger's ballgame, despite injury-ridden backfield, if Allerdice's arm can hold up under pressure.

All Seniors are asked to make sure their appointments do not conflict with school appointments, and if not, then put a check as soon as possible beside their name on the appointment sheet which is tacked on the Bulletin Board in the Commons.

If appointments are not satisfactory please notify the Pot Pourri Board member immediately at the table in the Commons at luncheon or supper, or see J. Caulkins in Foxcroft 10.

Blood Finishes First As Harriers Hold Trial

Ten Men To Remain On Team; Will Engage Mount Hermon

The cross country squad's first official time-trial for the three and a quarter mile run was held last Wednesday. The winner was Blood, who finished in 18 minutes flat. Second was Castle, and third Captain Benepe in 18:52. Blood's time was extremely good, only twenty seconds over the record. The remaining nine of the first twelve were Mann, Barber, Nicoll, Fomon, Cahill, Knaur, Taussig, Maloney, and Beaver.

"The results are very encouraging," said Mr. Hallowell.

Although only ten make a team, these twelve men will work out as the varsity squad for about two weeks. However, anyone out for cross country who feels he can beat a man on the varsity will have a chance to do so in the second time-trial, which is to be held next week.

The second team, composed of the remaining men on the squad and numbering about twelve, will be given special work and supervision. It will probably be known as the field-running squad and not as the second cross country team.

An outside meet is scheduled with Mount Hermon, where cross country is one of the most popular sports. It is stressed a good deal, and with half the student body as candidates Mount Hermon usually turns out a strong aggregation.

Tea Dance Planned For Oct. 21; Ken Reeves To Supply Music

4. Ladies of the faculty will represent the school and receive the guests at all dances. In the interest of courtesy these ladies should be invited to the dances a week in advance by note or personal call from a designated member of the Boys' Dance Committee.

5. Tea dances should not continue beyond seven o'clock.

6. Boys and their guests should greet the patronesses at the beginning of the Dance and at its close.

7. Smoking is not permitted above the first floor of Commons.

8. Except by special invitation alumni and all other persons not members of the school may not attend Andover dances.

9. It is the responsibility of the Boys' Dance Committee to see (a) that the person taking tickets at the door is able to handle the situation; (b) that the patronesses are shown some attention, particularly during the refreshment hour; (c) that the boys present conduct themselves with courtesy and good manners.

while Moberly and McCaffery, the other two stars of the offense, will start off as left inside and left outside respectively. Moberly and McCaffery are both veterans of last year's campaign and are thoroughly reliable as well as skillful players. In general today's game will be hard fought and as it is the key game of the year it is extremely important for the team to win.

The lineup for today is as follows: Goal, Dicken; rf, Anderson; lf, Captain Parker; rh, H. Stillwell; ch, de Limur; lh, Boynton; ro, Hudson; ri, Richardson; c, Carter; li, Moberly; lo, McCaffery.

Philo Holds First Practice Debates Last Wednesday Night

of speech is allowed even during war-time, many men are influenced by false propaganda to join the army, and others who are smart enough to realize the falseness of this propaganda do not sign up and should not be made to do so. He said that the question of who would form the army in this case might arise, and the answer is that there would be many men who believe in the cause and would be willing to fight for it. Therefore, these men would do a better job than those whose hearts were not in the fight. He concluded by again stating the question and the fact that he and his colleague had proved it to be true.

Healy Speaks For Negative

The next speaker was Healy of the negative team. He first stated that any war in which the United States might engage is necessarily a war desired by the majority. Anyone who does not wish to fight should do his utmost to keep America out of war, but, if they should fail to do this, they should do their duty and fight. The minority is obligated to throw aside its personal feelings and back the will of the majority. The reasons why the right to refuse to bear arms should be denied fall into two classes. The first is the moral reasons which are, briefly, that the government gives certain rights to the people and in return she expects their backing in any and all of her undertakings. The practical reasons are that an army of conscription is more efficient, more economical, offers equal rights and opportunities to all men and insures continuity of effort. He concluded by saying that it is every citizen's duty to support his nation, and that the exemption of certain men threatens the principles of our democracy.

Flint Questions Faurot

In the first questioning period, Flint of the negative questioned Faurot. He said that if the will of the people leads the country into war isn't it the duty of the minority to obey the will of the people and take up arms in the war? He asked if members of the exempted religious sects would fight for their personal rights and, if so, is there any reason why they shouldn't fight to protect them by backing the government which gave them their rights?

Schueler of the affirmative then questioned Healy and brought out the fact that, since in time of war our government becomes a virtual dictatorship, the war is not the will of the people but rather that of a few individuals. He asked Healy why a conscription army is better than a volunteer army, and Healy replied that it is more efficient and more economical.

In the negative rebuttal, Flint said that when war is declared, all citizens should rally to the cause and that conscription would keep the citizens from evading their moral duty. He concluded by restating the advantages of a conscriptive army.

Schueler Blasts Rivals

Schueler, who gave the affirmative rebuttal, claimed that the negative team evaded the question of the right of a citizen and said that in time of war a country is no longer a democracy. He concluded by stating that he and his partner had proven that a citizen should have the right to refuse to bear arms in any overseas war in which the United States might engage.

In the foreshortened second debate, Hickey, the first speaker for the affirmative, stated that tipping tends towards creating class distinction and has no place in our democratic nation. He said that it would be to everybody's advantage if tipping were abolished and the employer were to pay his employees a steady salary made possible by raising his prices. He cited a poll held by Fortune magazine which proved that most people are in favor of this abolishment. He concluded by stating the advantages of the abolishment which were: 1. Better service; 2. elimination of class distinction; 3. the security of a steady salary.

Sherrill of the negative stated that if waiters and porters became independent of tips they would give poor service since a tip is a reward for services rendered and is an incentive to do better work. He also said that waiters, porters and bell-boys, who depend on these tips, would probably be forced out of their jobs. He said that, at the present time, many people in Europe depend upon tips from tourists for their living. He concluded by stating that it would also mean an increase in prices.

McMorris Questions Hickey

In the questioning period, McMorris of the negative questioned Hickey, and Waters questioned Sherrill. Because of the lack of time neither accomplished much except that Hickey reminded McMorris that although prices would rise the "monetary turnover" would be the same.

The first rebuttal was given by McMorris of the negative. He stated that many people would be put out of work, that prices would rise, that poor service would result, and that no one would ultimately benefit. He concluded by stating that he and his partner had proven that tipping should not be abolished.

Waters of the affirmative stated that although prices would rise a little, the employees would receive a steady wage and the security that accompanies it. He also said that tipping offends many people and that these would appreciate the abolishment. He concluded by restating the affirmative side of the question.

Undefeated, Untied Andover To Engage Northeastern Today

ticularly effective against Nichols. As a result of this lack of any one "prima donna," the team has functioned excellently as a whole, and has been improving consistently.

The defensive work of the team so far this year has been excellent. Neither Yale nor Nichols was able to gain a touchdown through the line, the Blue Frosh registering on a pass. The line has been one of the most potent factors in Andover's successful turning back of both its enemies. It completely outplayed Yale's line Saturday. Another factor in the successful Royal Blue defense has been Bob McLaughry, who backs up the line and tackles most crisply and accurately.

Pass Defense Weak

The Andover pass defense, however, has not been any too strong. Yale hung up its only touchdown via the aerial route, and the jayvees, in scrimmages against the varsity, have gained repeatedly through the air after being thrown for losses on the ground. In fact the grey jerseys completed six of seven passes in one scrimmage, after their first-string passer, Clark Parker, had been smeared by a McLaughry tackle on the first play and had to leave the field.

Confident that his defense is strong, and it certainly has been proved so in its first two tests, Coach Sorota has been devoting this week to the finer points of the offense, seeing to it that the blocking backs do their jobs even more effectively than they have been. When the backfield blocking has been good, the team has scored on long runs. However, Andover has not had many long runs as yet. One, good for forty-eight yards, resulted in a touchdown for "Swede" Anderson. McLaughry raced twenty yards Saturday for a score. But the blocking has not been quite perfect enough for Coach Sorota. Today will tell if the Andover offense has improved this week. If it has, it will be devastating, for it has shown great potential power in each of its games so far.

Gauls And Saxons Victorious In First Team Club Football

The Saxon-Roman first team game was not as exciting as the Greek-Gaul game, but yet again it had plenty of thrills. The Saxons kicked off to the Romans who were unable to gain any ground and had to punt to the Saxons. The latter outshone the former, but were unable to score and the period ended scoreless. The Saxons scored first in the second period on a pass from Wickwire to Shepard. The extra-point was also made by Shepard who ran the ball over the goal line. The rest of the second period passed without either side gaining considerable ground. The Romans' big moment came in the third quarter when Bud Thurber ran 40 yards for a touchdown. However, the play was called back and the Romans failed to score again. In the fourth quarter the Saxons again scored on a pass from Wickwire to Shepard and the extra point was made by Boutwell who crashed over the goal line. The remainder of the game passed with no further scoring and the final score was Saxons 14, Romans 0.

The second team Saxon-Roman game was more even with each team scoring 6 points. The Romans scored first on a pass from Cochran to Park in the second quarter. They held the Saxons scoreless until the final quarter when Riley tossed a pass to Ross who scored the tying touchdown. On the whole both teams were very evenly matched and the game proved very exciting.

successful field goal was attempted. However, the Junior team was not to be stopped and in the waning minutes of the period after another portion of good running and smart quarterback play by Ted Escholz, substitute end Tom "Larry Kelly" Irwin snared a beautiful pass from Arnold and stepped over the goal line. The period ended when the attempted extra point failed.

In the fourth quarter Andover spent its time giving new men experience, and in his quarter long runs were made by Holsten, Morris, and Harvey Wieting. In the last few minutes of the game, Brooks staged a beautiful passing rally, but this was stopped by the return of the Andover first team. The game ended soon with the final score Andover 6, Brooks 0.

During the game fine line backing up was handed in by co-captains O'Brien and Fallon, the latter of whom did a fine job in the blocking position. This year the second and third string backfields on the Junior team are nearly as effective as the first, and with such strong substitutes the team looks forward to a successful 1939 season.

Romans, Saxons Conquer In Tennis Tournaments

The fall tennis squad has been cut from the exceptionally large squad of ninety-two members to a more convenient and well-rounded one of forty-five. On Tuesday the club tournaments got under way with the Romans defeating the Greeks, and the Gauls taking the measure of the Saxons. For the Romans, Freese and Childs played well, while for the Gauls it was C. C. Richardson and Osborne who showed the way. Richardson, who is a new man, showed up well.

There will be two more matches so that each club will have played all of the others. These matches are all singles matches and, if the weather permits, doubles matches will be held later on.

Cigarettes were compared recently... sixteen of the largest-selling brands... under the searching tests of impartial laboratory scientists. Findings were announced as follows:

- 1 CAMELS were found to contain more tobacco by weight than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.
- 2 Camels burned slower than any other brand tested—25% slower than the average time of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack!
- 3 In the same tests, Camels held their ash far longer than the average time for all the other brands.

"I know from years of experience that Camels give a longer smoke—milder, cooler, mellower"

SAYS JOE WILLIAMS FAMOUS SPORTS EXPERT

LONG-BURNING SMOKES have a big appeal for Joe Williams, as well as for many another cigarette smoker. Joe, whose keen comments on sports are eagerly read by millions of fans, is equally "in the know" on cigarettes too. He says: "Every Camel gives me an extra period of cigarette enjoyment—a longer smoke, and a milder, cooler, mellower smoke! Naturally, such a cigarette has a more appealing taste. Yes, sir," Joe concludes, "it's a real thrill to smoke a Camel." You, too, will find that Camel's long-burning, costlier tobaccos do give more pleasure per puff—AND—more puffs per pack. That's pleasure plus economy—a shrewd buy. No wonder America's smokers have made Camels their cigarette choice No. 1.
