RED AND GRAY SEXTET VANQUISHES ANDOVER IN HARD-FOUGHT GAME

Slow-Starting Exeter Team Destroys Blue Lead To Win, 4-2

EVERTS TALLIES TWICE

Anderson And Boynton Assist In Blue Goals

By A. Shapiro, '41

Unable to cope with Exeter's inspired play in the last two periods, a hard-fighting Andover sextet bowed 4-2 to the Red and Gray in a thrilling encounter Wednesday afternoon at the Boston Skating Club. Apparently headed for an easy victory, the Blue found themselves unable to halt the slow-starting Exonians, who erased a two-goal deficit by pushing four of their own into the net.

From the first handshake of the two captains, Andover started off with a bang. With Captain Bill Arnold playing a sizzling game at center, and being ably assisted by the whole team, the Red and Gray's net was kept continually in danger. Al Everts, Don Boynton, and Bob Anderson came into the fray, and by virtue of their alert play brought about a Blue score. Everts registered the first tally of the afternoon, assisted by Anderson and Boynton. Goalie Tom Lewis successfully repelled all Red and Gray shots for the remainder of the period, and the Andover defense, sparked by Jumbo Welch and Bill Mudge, proved impassable.

In the second period, Andover started where she had left off, and, after brief skirmishing up and down the rink, Al Everts, on a beautifully executed shot from the left, increased the Blue's lead to two goals. Up to this point the hard-skating Andover men had been repeatedly taking the puck away from the Exonians, who seemed to be having difficulty getting started. Unfortunately, for the Blue, this second goal appeared to be the spark needed to set them off, for with lightning swiftness they retaliated, coming straight down the ice to score. From then on it was all Exeter, and only sparkling saves by Goalie Lewis kept the Red and Gray from scoring. Williams of Exeter finally knotted the score on a hard shot from the right.

Capt. Coles, Hall, Green, Lee Running For Andover In Yale Relay

By R. A. Furman, '42

The Sixteenth Annual Andover Interscholastic Track Meet will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Case Memorial Cage, starting at 1:30 p. m. Twenty-six high schools from all over Massachusetts will be represented, and according to the predictions of the coaches, the meet should witness a strong bid by Lawrence to dethrone Newton High from the championship, which they have held for the last four years.

A great increase over last year in the number of entrants is to be noted, as over sixty more athletes are scheduled to perform this Saturday than last year. This increase can be matched with the addition of three new high school teams to the competition. As an extra event in this meet, which is open to all high school athletes in Massachusetts under the age of 21, an Andover quartet will seek to avenge last year's defeat by the Yale Freshmen in a relay race. The Andover lineup will probably include Captain Bill Coles, Don Green, Chauncey Hall, and Larry Lee, but this team may be altered at the last minute.

Eight regular events, the 40-yard hurdles, the 40-yard dash, and the 300, 600, and 1000-yard runs, besides the shot put, running high jump, and standing broad jump, will be completed before the relay.

McKernin And Smith Lead Blue To 31-16 Victory Over Red

By S. Horowitz, Jr., '42

Flashing a devastating attack during the first half, the Andover basketball team defeated Boston University's Freshman aggregation here last Wednesday, 31-16. Led by Vin McKernin and Captain Brooks Smith, who scored eleven and nine points respectively, the team worked better than it has in weeks.

The game marked another step in the squad's return to form since its defeat at the hands of Worcester Academy. The passing attack clicked almost to perfection, while the boardwork, formerly a weak spot, functioned almost flawlessly.

Taking the lead with McKernin's two baskets in the first period, the Blue never allowed the Freshmen to draw near them. The defense worked beautifully both on recovering the ball off the backboard after wild Boston shots, and on taking the leather away from the speedy Red forwards during a scoring dash. On the whole, the Blue squad played a game much improved over its previous showings.

The first quarter displayed a fast-moving passing attack on both sides, but it was the Andover shooting-eye that decided the issue. Repeatedly, the Boston shots bounced off the rim to be recovered by a Blue guard. The starting team of Vin McKernin and Dean Luce at forwards, Brooks Smith at center, and Jack Cuthbertson and Jim Dicken holding down the

DULMAGE, SUTTON, PACKARD, VAAMONDE WIN DEBATES

U. S. Financial Aid To Finland, Socialized Medicine Discussed

By A. D. Richardson, 3d, '40

Philo's two weekly debates were held in Bulfinch Hall last Wednesday evening at 6:00 and 7:00. J. H. Vaamonde and R. C. Packard upheld the affirmative of the question, "Resolved: that the U. S. should give financial aid to Finland," defeating P. B. Gruening and P. A. Damon by a score of 440 to 430. In the second argument, on the subject, "Resolved: that a system of socialized medicine be adopted in the U. S.," H. Dulmage and W. Sutton were victorious over S. Cornwall and W. Graham, who took the negative, by a score of 450 to 430.

In the first debate, the affirmative based its arguments in favor of giving Finland financial aid on the facts that: Finland needs our help badly; it might mean the difference between victory and defeat to them; the money would not be wasted, the U. S. is a wealthy country and could readily afford so small a sum as the one proposed; and the plan has the backing of 98% of the population of the country. The negative side argued that such a plan would go directly against American neutrality; that there would be no profit to the U. S., because Finland

Dr. Stearns Discusses Religion In Democracy

Headmaster Emeritus Talks In Peabody House On Sunday

Speaking under the auspices of the Society of Inquiry, Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, Headmaster Emeritus of Phillips Academy, gave an informal talk last night on the subject, "Religion in Democracy." About forty boys attended the meeting in Peabody House.

Dr. Stearns' main points were that the basis of democracy is religion; and that the type of citizen democracy needs is a citizen who bases his right to democracy on character. He emphasized his point by reading from an address delivered by Dr. Link, a noted New York psychologist. Dr. Link said, "The essence of Christianity is the emphasis laid on the supreme value of the human being."

Dr. Stearns went on to say that the greatest evil in our state is corruption in all walks of life. The need is to develop citizens who use trained minds for the welfare of the state.

After Dr. Stearns had talked for about fifteen minutes, he turned the remaining time over for asking questions. At eight o'clock, those boys who had to go, left, and the rest stayed for more questioning.

Mr. Jean Baptiste Tells How To Dance Well; Notes Interesting Facts On Famous Dances

By P. R. Tooney, '42

"More than fifty per cent of men dancers either don't know how or cannot keep time to music," said Jean Baptiste, noted dancing instructor, in a recent interview with a PHILLIPPIAN reporter. Mr. Baptiste disclosed many interesting facts about dancing both as it is today and as it was years ago.

"Dancing," said Mr. Baptiste, "is becoming more and more popular as evidenced by the increase in the number of classes in America and in the number of people taking it up. People are realizing that modern dancing cannot be learned without instruction."

When questioned concerning the art of dancing, Mr. Baptiste stated that he considered lightness to be the most important requisite. "Keeping the weight slightly forward and the knees straight also help to make an accomplished dancer."

DR. AND MRS. FUESS GIVE TEA FOR GUESTS

Newly Organized Band Made Up Of Thirteen Musicians And Vocalist

150 TICKETS PURCHASED

Rockwell, Abbott, Williams Hall To House Girls

By A. D. Richardson, 3d, '40

Many guests are present for the 1940 Senior Promenade this evening, for which Tommy Reynolds and his band will supply the music. The program of festivities includes several social events. Dr. and Mrs. Fuess gave a tea at their home from five until six this evening; and dinner will be served at 7:30 in the Commons and in the Society houses for undergraduates and their guests. At 9:00 the dance, lasting throughout the remainder of the evening, will take place in the Sawyer Hall of the Commons.

Recently organized, Reynolds' band is composed of thirteen musicians and a vocalist, Patsy Parker. It already shows promise of becoming one of the nation's best "name" bands and makes recordings for Vocalion, a Victor subsidiary. It also broadcasts twice a week over the national network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Originally from Ohio, Reynolds made his way from there through Detroit and the Carolinas, polishing up the latest phase of his career with success in New England. He specializes in playing at college dances, having furnished music at many eastern seats of learning. Sponsored by Charles Schribman of Boston, who gave such top rank leaders as Artie Shaw a start, Reynolds seems likely to ascend the heights within a short time. He has already been favorably compared with Shaw, his great predecessor.

After the dance, the girls will spend the night at Rockwell House and Williams Hall, and breakfast will be served from 9:00 to 10:00 in the Commons on Saturday morning.

Germans "Efficient But Cruel" Colonizers, Says Former First Lord Of The Admiralty

By R. A. Furman, '42

Referring to the Germans as "efficient but cruel" colonizers, the Rt. Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper recently affirmed to a PHILLIPPIAN reporter England's intentions not to surrender to Germany her pre-war colonies.

Mr. Cooper, former First Lord of the Admiralty, then amplified this statement by saying, "In the state of civilization we (the British) have reached, we have to think of the human beings in Africa. The German record of colonization is one of crime and beastiality. We will not hand over the colonies!" Continuing along this trend he stated, "We must remember that in the much abused Treaty of Versailles a new principle in regard to colonies was established—the mandate system." This, he then implied, had resulted in a remarkably peaceful efficiency. Mr. Cooper, who received the Distinguished Service Order in the World War, had been connected with the English government from 1924, when he was first elected to Parliament, until October, 1938, when he resigned as First Lord of the Admiralty in protest over Chamberlain's surrender of Munich to Herr Hitler's "bluster and blackmail." Previous to this position Mr. Cooper had been Minister of War. Some authorities claim that his most important accomplishment in this office was the instigation of a very natty blue uniform which was soon abolished at the soldiers' request.

Known as one of "Baldwin's men" he rose to the cabinet when Sir Stanley was made Prime Minister, and his rearmament work and his ability to "make things hum" enabled him to remain in the cabinet despite changes in leadership. In his book, Inside Europe, John Gunther refers to him as, "the hus-

Senior Prom

Without question the Senior Prom is the bright spot of the winter term at Andover. In view of this we should realize that its success as an important school occasion is not due to chance.

A great deal of time and effort has gone into the attempt to make this Promenade a good one, and the Prom Committee should be commended for the flawless functioning of all the details. The task of running the Prom efficiently is greater than is usually realized, and not only does the student Prom Committee deserve credit, but the faculty committee, headed by Mr. Basford, deserves acknowledgment of its thoughtful co-operation.

The orchestra acquired for the dance tonight is a good one, whose popularity is steadily increasing, and the Prom Committee deserves the thanks of the school for its excellent job.

And so THE PHILLIPIAN extends its heartiest wishes for a successful Winter Prom, and expresses the desire that this may be the best one that the school has ever had.

Futile?

Much has been said about the futility of modern war; and it must be conceded that war is devastating and horrible. But a clear survey of facts seems to indicate that perhaps war is not necessarily, and certainly not always, futile.

Perhaps it is a good thing if the people of the world become convinced that war is a poor way of settling international disputes. But it must be realized that if this happens, the countries where men are allowed to think may be conquered by the countries where men are not allowed to think. In this case, war will return again as an accepted human institution.

In view of this we Americans, as champions of all kinds of freedom, cannot allow powers contrary to these principles to dominate that whole great portion of the world which is removed from us physically, but close to us in many other ways. It's all right to say that war is a poor way to settle disputes and that the present questions could have been settled by arbitration, but that is not the question at hand. In view of the fact that arbitration has failed, now that war has come it must be recognized as a way of settling something, even if it is a poor way.

Therefore, if we in this country are forced to go to war, we should surely realize that something will be accomplished, for every great war builds up more feeling against war as a method of settlement, and perhaps, though only perhaps, of course, this will be the last great conflict which will terrorize mankind.

Dirt on the Discs

By E. D. Obermeyer

Bob Crosby and the Dixieland band shuffle along with The Starlit Hour. It's a new streamlined tune done up in Crosby style with Bob vocalizing. Everyone's stompin' at the Pearly Gates to the tune of Angel. Gabriel Miller took the horn for this one and brethren, you just got to move.

Mitchell Ayres and his "fashions in music" fashion up two new tunes for the Bluebird column. Mary Ann Mercer sings Last Night's Gardenias, but she makes it sound like tomorrow's roses. Tommy Taylor sings for A Little Boy and A Little Girl. It's a tune for the old folks at home. Lend an ear, all you sentimentalists, for this record is a red hot ripper right off the record roller—whew.

Kay Kyser chimes in with two of the greatest tunes since they started playing Onward Christian Soldiers. The old professor is dynamic dynamite with Friendship, the song from the rare, and I do mean raw, musical Dubarry Was A Lady. Friendship has the cleverest lyrics of the year and Ginny, Harry, Jack, and Ish all do a grand job. The other tune is from the latest glamorous picture—Typhoon. Waft and sway, all you disciples, to the balmy tune of Palms of Paradise. Ginny Simms and Harry Babbitt chant it out. Don't miss this new Columbia record.

We'll certainly Say-Si, Si in our best Spanish style to Woody Herman's new popular record. We certainly have no bones to pick with this one. We won't even Pick a Rib with either of these new platter specialties. Serve up a blue platter special with a Decca seal, everything but dessert on this one.

"Swing and Sway with Sammy Kaye," for Sammy is out with two new masterpieces in music. Let's All Sing Together features the vocalizing of Jimmy Brown; it's one of those "get in the mood" songs. The other side is from Tschaiowsky, but Sammy has really swung it in more ways than one.

Eddie Duchin, "the master of the ivories" has dressed up what should be a big hit, I Concentrate On You, sung by Stanley Worth. Johnny McAfee tells us I Happen To Be In Love on the reverse side. Don't miss either of these new Columbia hits. They're hitting the top of swingdom.

Leo Reisman has two Victor ditties you will all hear and see sung. Reisman and the boys ask the question Do I Love You? The other tune is Katie Went to Haiti. Both are in medium fast tempo and both from New York's newest, sensational musical hit, Du Barry Was A Lady. Don't miss this record.

Bob Crosby and the Dixieland band have two tunes that are literally boiling. The tunes are High Society and Boogie Woogie Moxire. Neither are hit parade tunes, but both are swing sensations.

Gene Krupa beats it out on the skins again with two tunes that are set for stardom. Both feature the vocal refrains of Irene Daye. The names of these rhythm kings are After All and Vagabond Dreams. They ought to attract all Krupa fans and all those who enjoy good swing.

Columbia puts forth a new band this week with a smash hit. The orch is Orrin Tucker and the song Oh, Johnny. Although the tune is merely a novelty, Orrin and his gang go places with it... Listen for Bonnie Baker's unique interpretation of this pace-setter.

Let's close out with that verily vivacious vocalist, Dotty Lamour, who gives us a little Paradise and says I'll Take An Option On You. Thanks, Dottie, we like you too. Seriously, though, this Bluebird pressing is one well worth having.

ANDOVER DEBATING TEAM DEFEATED BY DEERFIELD

First Varsity Contest Of Year Discusses United States Of Europe

Commencing its series of winter-term debates before a small but appreciative audience, the Varsity debating team, coached by Mr. F. S. Allis, emerged the loser in the extremely evenly-matched contest with the Deerfield Academy team, under the tutelage of Mr. Averette, on Thursday evening in Bulfinch Hall. The question was: "Resolved, that a federation of European states should be formed on the conclusion of peace." Dr. Claude M. Fuess presided over the debate, while Mr. Henry W. Bragdon of the Brooks School was the critic judge. Deerfield upheld the affirmative, whereas Andover took the negative.

F. M. Woyencraft, Deerfield, began the debate by stating that there are three courses to be taken by Europe after the war: national sovereignty, league, and federation. He said that history has proved that the first two alternatives are absolutely impossible, and home federation is the only and the best choice. Woyencraft proposed that a union including Great Britain, France, the Scandinavian countries, Holland, Switzerland, and Belgium would be established at first and then gradually other countries would be taken into this federation. When asked by the opposition why the League of Nations had failed, Woyencraft replied that a nationalistic and selfish spirit among the member nations was the essential cause of the league's downfall.

Speaking for the negative, W. F. Spengler stressed the fact that the incompatibility of the European nations would make a federation, such as that proposed by his opponents, utterly impossible. He maintained that differences in races, religions, languages, temperaments, precedents, and governments, as well as mutual hatreds and suspicions combined with an intense feeling of nationalism, are all factors which make a European union completely unworkable. In answer to the opposition's question on the attitude of the average Englishman and Frenchman, Spengler said that the normal British or French citizen is willing to fight for the eternal preservation of peace.

G. C. Bass, Jr., of the affirmative then proceeded to point out the economic advantages of a European federation. He named three improvements which would be brought about by a confederation in Europe. First, there would be free trade among the various countries; secondly, a monetary stability would result by means of the standardization of money, and lastly, there would be a tremendous improvement in communication and transportation. Bass also stated that the military power of the federation would be twice as great at half the expense.

S. M. Cleveland continued for Andover by outlining a counter course to be taken by the European nations on the conclusion of peace. On the assumption that the Allies will win the present conflict, Cleveland argued that the best peace would be a dictatorial one in which a strong central government would be established over all Europe. Thus, through a system of education the ensuing generation would be taught to live contentedly under a strongly-centralized rule. Cleveland stated that the best course for Europe to follow is not the idealistic one nor the midway idealistic-practical one personified by the Versailles Treaty. The most advisable policy is a completely practical one based on harsh facts. He cited the long, efficient, and comparatively peaceful rule of the Roman Empire as an example. He also emphasized the fact that since the union proposed by the affirmative only includes the democratic nations and excludes such powers as Germany, Italy, and Russia, the

Prom Regulations

Students who plan to take week-end excuses on the week-end of the Prom will be allowed to leave Friday when their classes are over. Classes that ordinarily are held at 4:22 and 5:22 will be moved forward to 2:07 and 3:07, all classes being finished at four.

Boys who attend the Prom may not leave on any excuse until after 9 a. m., Saturday.

This week-end will count as one of the regular allowance.

No one who is on No Excuse or Probation may leave for this holiday.

Boys living in Rockwell House, Williams Hall, and Junior House must get their week-end-excuses from Mr. Maynard at his office on Monday, February 12th, from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., and 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. All others must get their week-end-excuses from Mr. Maynard at the following times:

Wednesday, February 14th, 8:00 a. m. to 11:00 a. m.; Thursday, February 15th, 9:00 a. m. to 10:30 a. m.; 3:00 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.; Friday, February 16th, 9:00 a. m. to 10:30 a. m.; 2:00 p. m. to 3:00 p. m.

Day excuses for Saturday, February 17, may be obtained at the above times and also at Mr. Maynard's office between 8 and 10 Saturday morning.

All boys must check in on their return from week-end-excuses with Mr. Maynard at his OFFICE between 6:30 and 8:00 Sunday evening.

federation would not survive for any length of time.

The last speaker for Deerfield was E. B. Weathers, who based his argument on the facts of history. Tracing the history of the United States, Weathers pointed out that a parallel course in the form of a European federation would result in the same success as that now enjoyed by America. To illustrate how the federation would co-ordinate, he stated that England and Scotland, despite an intrinsic mutual dislike, exist successfully under the same strong government. He advanced as further evidence the Swiss and Czechoslovakian confederations. In addition, Weathers proposed that the government of the federation be headed by a premier together with a nominal leader such as a president.

The final debater for the negative, B. T. McElroy, particularly stressed the fact that all the European states must be included in a successful union. He maintained that those nations excluded from the federation would naturally form a counter alliance and hence Europe would be in exactly the identical situation that it is in now. McElroy added that if all the nations were included in a union, as they would be from the very beginning according to the plan of the negative, the result would be a unit two or three times as powerful as the federation proposed by the affirmative.

After being subjected to two minutes of questioning by the opposition McElroy terminated Andover's argument by a forceful rebuttal which mainly summarized the negative's statements.

Representing Deerfield in the rebuttal, F. M. Woyencraft defended the economic status of a European federation and likewise made a summary of what had been previously stated by the affirmative.

After a brief intermission Mr. Henry W. Bragdon of the Brooks School, the critic judge, awarded the victory to the Deerfield Academy team, which upheld the affirmative. Mr. Bragdon based his decision on the fact that the affirmative seemed more familiar with the subject. He said, however, that the prepared speeches of the Andover team were superior. Credit is due to the alternates of the two debating teams: Ian Barbour of Deerfield Academy and Peter S. Jennison of Andover.

aces which are always the high light of these meets. The last of these races will pit Newton High, the defending champions, against Malden High. According to advance predictions, Medley of Lawrence seems a certainty in the 40-yard dash, while Watkins of Mechanics Arts is a heavy favorite in the 300, as is McMillan of Everett in the 1000.

The contestants will be admitted to the Cage at 1:15 p. m., and spectators at 1:30, when the first heats will start. The first finals will be held at about 2:00. Those who saw last year's meet will remember it for the new relay record that Malden set and the high jump record of 6 feet 2 1/4 inches made by Pescosolido of Newton. The oldest standing record was made in 1929 in the 600-yard run by Smith of Brookline, while six years ago a world's interscholastic record of 10 feet 9 3/8 inches was made by Plotkin of Brookline in the standing broad jump.

Furman And Lucht Play Well Scoring Aggregate Of Nineteen

By A. Louis Eno, '40

Playing with more spirit than usual, the Andover Junior Varsity basketball team defeated the Roxbury Boys' Club of Boston, 29-24, last Wednesday.

All through the game the Royal Blue was ahead, but very closely followed by the Boys' Club. Early in the first quarter, the Jayvees almost made several baskets and well into the period Bob Furman made the first point, followed by many other baskets from both sides. In the second quarter, Bill Lucht and Furman were outstanding, both piling up several points. In the second half of the game, Furman made a "freak basket" by raising his hand to block a pass.

Red And Gray Sextet Vanquishes Andover, 4-2

Both teams substituted freely at the beginning of the third session, in order to find the most potent combination. A concerted drive by both teams marked the opening of the period. Exeter flashed a passing attack which was almost invincible and, skating through the Andover defense, broke the deadlock with a goal by Erdman. Behind for the first time, the Blue was not disheartened, but fought back gamely. Captain Arnold and Don Boynton were savages on the offense. Boynton made a solo dash down the ice, only to have his shot blocked by the Exeter goalie on a nice save. After changing goals, the team kept up the fight in Exeter's half of the rink. But the Red and Gray were determined not to let victory be snatched from their grasp, and, with barely seconds remaining, they seved up the game with a superb pivot shot.

The whole Andover team turned in a good performance. Each player played his hardest, but the team was unable to keep up the pace when Exeter really started rolling. On the offense Coleman and Howe played well, while on the defense George Semler and Swede Anderson were outstanding.

The box score for the game was as follows:

ANDOVER	EXETER

guards, played the entire period, running up ten points against the opponent's four. The second period was more even, as Smith, Lew Averback, and Bill Arnold tallied to maintain an 18-10 lead at half-time.

Beginning the third canto with a rush, McKernin, Smith, and Luce annexed 10 points while the glue-like Andover defense held the visitors to one point on a foul shot.

During the last period, the second team committed several fouls and permitted the Freshmen to tally five points, three of them on free throws. The Blue, however, scored one basket and a foul shot to win the game, 31-16.

The team was again handicapped by the absence of Norm Bemis, who re-injured his ankle during Tuesday's practice. The squad, however, turned in a thoroughly creditable performance and clearly outclassed its opponents.

Next Wednesday the Royal Blue will meet the Tufts Freshmen.

band of Lady Diana (his charming wife)... intelligent plus, combative, thoroughly sound on foreign policy, liberal, and tenacious." The 49-year-old statesman has written four books; two on Field-Marshal Haig, one on Talleyrand, and another about the Munich crisis. At present he is in America on what might be termed "a propaganda tour."

During this tour, his lectures, which have been attended mostly by women, have been nothing but of the German-baiting type. As an example, here is an excerpt from one of Mr. Cooper's New York lectures. "Ghastly is the persecution of the Jews! It is a disgrace and a branding shame not only to the countries taking part, but to the whole of Europe and the Christian world."

Mr. Cooper has also predicted a "New World or New European Federation" following an Allied victory in this war. This would be made possible by the new cooperative spirit he believes prevalent in Europe today. In talking about the war, he stated, "England has always fought for freedom in Europe," as he cited the wars against Philip of Spain, Louis XIV, Napoleon, the Kaiser, and now Hitler. "This time we have armed and we have struck and we shall eventually succeed! Wise and civilized men know nothing could be worse than a German victory."

U. S. Financial Aid To Finland Discussed In Philo. Contest

would probably lose anyway; that if she should win, she could not repay her debts; that the U. S. should not put itself into the position of arbiter that it would necessarily assume by siding with Finland, and that the sentiment of the American people should not enter into a question that must be considered purely on a business basis.

The affirmative side of the second debate, upheld by Sutton and Dulmage, based its arguments for socialized medicine on the following points: that the present cost of medical care is so high that 70% of the U. S. population cannot afford adequate medical attention; that under the present system doctors are not paid enough; that there is much waste of money through inefficiency; and that group medicine would eradicate these problems. Graham and Cornwall of the negative brought out the points that the proposed plan would interfere with the right of the individual to choose his own doctor; that it would destroy the confidence in the doctor which is in most cases so necessary to effect a cure; that it would lower the standard of the medical profession; that it would increase taxation, and that the concomitant delegation of further power to the central government might prove dangerous.

An attentive audience of average size was present, and several interesting questions were asked from the floor as the meeting closed.

Mr. Jean Baptiste Notes Facts About Various Famous Dances.

Continuing, Mr. Baptiste said that the person popularizing a dance has a great deal to do with its success. "Vernon and Irene Castle are responsible for the Foxtrot, which appeared in 1916; and people took up the Tango because Rudolph Valentino and Maurice were both doing it. Never has the dancing world seen such a rapid rise as the Big Apple made several years ago, when it seemed to spring from every part of the country at just about the same time. Many thought when the Rhumba first appeared that it would soon die out, but now it is here to stay.

"When a dance is first introduced, someone always thinks it is scandalous. Six employees of a publishing company were discharged for doing the Turkey Trot in their lunch hour, and a girl in Paterson, New Jersey, was given the choice of fifteen days in jail or a twenty-five dollar fine for doing the same dance in public."

Mr. Baptiste has been teaching for six years, and although his base is in Boston, he also conducts courses in such cities as Hartford, Connecticut, Worcester, Massachusetts, and Plymouth, New Hampshire. His favorite dance is the Tango, because he likes the music, the steps, and the rhythm. He attended Williams College and has done graduate work at the New York School of Social Work, and at New York, Fordham, and Harvard Universities.
