EXETER BASEBALL TEAM DOWNS ROYAL BLUE BY OVERWHELMING SCORE

Andover Bows 11-2 As Vose And Flanagan Share Mound Duties

BUSH STARS AT BAT

Duden Scores Both Andover Runs In Fine Play

When two strong ball clubs clash, something unusual is bound to happen. So when the smoke from the battle had cleared last Saturday, a dumbfounded Andover team wondered just what had happened, for when the Exeter siege guns opened fire in the fourth inning, the Andover team must have been stunned into submission. After the game had gone along on fairly even terms for two and one-half innings, Exeter woke up and scored. Everybody breathed a little easier when Andover tied it up in its half of the fourth on Duden's single to right, Boynton's free ticket to first and Bush's line drive single to left.

But after Exeter jumped on the Andover team for three runs in the home half of the fourth, no one

To the Editor of
THE PHILLIPPIAN

Dear Sir:

In behalf of the coaches and the entire squad, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the student body for the magnificent turnout and marvelous support which they gave the team at the game last Saturday. It has been my privilege to see many college and school baseball games, but I can truthfully say that I have never seen a finer exhibition of spirit and sportsmanship. It is easy to be a good winner but it takes real courage to be a good loser. Again my sincere thanks to the cheerleaders and every member of the student body.

Sincerely,
George L. Follansbee

quite recovered from the shock. Exeter in that frame produced its three runs on a single, a triple, a squeeze play, and a four master off the bat of Chet Ellms. From then on Exeter kept pecking away at the offerings of Vose and Flanagan until it had scored its total of eleven runs.

Andover had a threat going in its sixth but couldn't score due to the wide awake ball playing of an alert Exeter team. Hudson was safe at first. Duden struck out but Elwell dropped the ball and Hudson streaked for second, sliding in under the throw. Duden was an automatic out since a man was on first when he struck out. Bush's freak hit which plowed into third and stopped dead, was his second straight. Hudson was safe at third on a close decision, but Pyle grounded out.

Exeter proceeded to rack up two more runs in the sixth and another in the seventh.

Andover picked up its last run in the eighth. Hudson walked and quick thinking by Lynch, who had shifted from first to third, caught him at second as Duden was safe at first on a fielder's choice. Duden pounded home from second on Bush's third straight hit, a solid bingle to left, Boynton, who had walked, holding up at second. Pyle was safe on an error. Howe was sent in to pinch hit for Sturgis and with one strike on him, Callagy, who

A Time To Be Generous

Well, as the term draws quickly to a close, the thoughts of all are returning once again to vacation and the escape from work. It is at this time that we all can certainly afford to return to the old generous form of mind. We are about to begin a long period of enjoyment. The least that we can do under the circumstances is to attempt in some way to make the world a little brighter for a few of those not as fortunate as we. The annual Spring old clothes drive, sponsored by Andover's charitable organization, the Circle A, is to be officially run off on this coming Friday night. We all certainly have a great excess of old clothing lying around our rooms in obscure places. This collection of the entire year, although capable of future use in some part, is for the most part able to be discarded at this time without sacrifice. It is a different story in the fall and winter collections, for there is always the great possibility that the oncoming term will bring with it a need for the articles. But now as the Spring term is coming to a close, all such thoughts have no place. For the majority of undergraduates, this Old Clothes drive will be an excellent opportunity to do a final housecleaning, and at the same time to benefit people less fortunate to a very great extent. The Winter Old Clothes Drive was drastically curtailed due to the great school epidemic then waging a battle with all. But there is no drawback to making this Spring Drive an overwhelming success in itself as well as making up in a great part for the rather weak winter collection.

Circle A has also announced that the annual book drive inaugurated for the first time last year will again be sponsored this year. For Lovers and Juniors it will be held during the period from June 10 to 13 while for the Uppers and Seniors it is to be held from the 17th to the 20th. The purpose of this drive is to collect as many textbooks for which the undergraduates have no further need and to give them to the School Loan Library for the use of scholarship boys next year and in future years. Last spring 99% of those books collected were completely usable. In all, 2500 books were contributed. The money that you will gain from selling will amount to only a few cents, which will be gone in no time. But if contributed to this book drive all books will be usable for years to come by those members of our undergraduate body who cannot afford to buy even their textbooks. This sacrifice is not too great for anyone when considered in regard to the lasting good it will bring.

As a grim reminder of last Saturday, there comes to our mind a remark made by one of the Exeter program hawkers, as he hovered around the Andover marching column trying to get rid of his wares. "Name, batting average, and salary of every Exeter player," he shouted.

This seems to be the season for bright remarks by the youngest members of the school, who before long will receive the status of Lower Middlers. That these boys show promise was evident the other day in the remark made by one of them as he attacked a broiled chicken.

"This chicken's muscular development," said this worthy, taking another bite, "is extraordinary."

In this dramatic period in the history of the United States, when the thunder clouds of war hover overhead, and threaten to burst almost every day, a mad search for the fifth column elements of the nation is being conducted. Everywhere Bunds are being exterminated.

To our shocked ears the other day came the rumor that one of these bunds had taken seed here, in this very town. In the furthest reaches of Little Siberia, whither Eliphalet Pearson once used to banish political prisoners, a Nazi camp had sprung up, complete even to nailfiles engraved with swastikas for each member, this rumor said.

Never believing rumors, and disapproving of them on principle, we decided to investigate. Putting on a fake moustache, and combing our hair down over our face (so we would look more natural if we met a bund) we set out for the depths of Little Siberia. After a few weary hours of walk through that barren region, whose temperature never goes above twenty below, and after beating off several packs of wolves on the way, we were amazed to hear the sounds of a military band playing the Horst Wessel Lied.

Creeping closer to the strains of music, we suddenly came upon the camp, a row of tents, in front of which were parading several hundred Purple Shorts (the Andover version of Brown Shirts) lifting their legs high in a snappy goose step. On a platform haranguing this crowd was the local Fuhrerchen, whom we recognized as Herman E. Hermanson, '31 1/2, who at P. A. had been the captain of the croquet team for five years. Several other familiar faces were in the ranks of the bund, but the majority were strangers to us.

"Drench the degenerate puddle of Democracy with the roaring sword of the wave of the future," shouted Hermanson, hashing his metaphors.

"Yeh man! You tell 'em, Hoiman," yelled voices from the ranks.

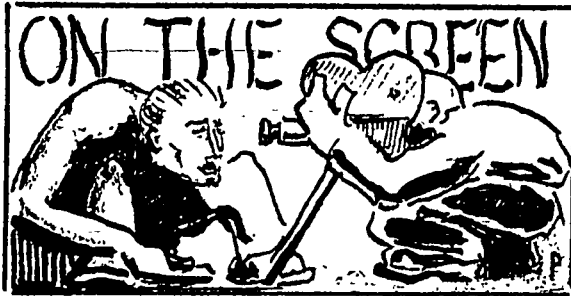

At the end of every sentence, the enthusiastic Purple Shorts threw up their variegated, swastika-shaped balloons, and screamed, "Whoopee, Yowsah, and I hear you talking."

We left the party when they began to throw volumes of Superman and other prominent American literature into a flaming bon-fire, screaming in unison,

"We burn you, Superman, because on one of your escapades you conquered a country which was without a doubt a parody on our beloved Reich."

"We burn you, Dick Tracy, because, not having blond hair and blue eyes, you do not represent the true Nordic type."

We went home determined to expose what we had seen to the public. Andover had at last been touched by the Swastika.

The final movie of the school year to be held in George Washington Hall next Saturday night will be the popular comedy of the past season on Broadway, Mr. and Mrs. Smith. The picture stars Carole Lombard, one of Hollywood's most versatile comediennes, along with Robert Montgomery, the well-known American actor. The picture is one continuous round of hilarity from beginning to end, and should not be missed under any circumstances.

Planned to accompany the feature picture that night are many of the better shorts now in circulation.

Prep School Notes

HOTCHKISS

(Idea for hobby hour)—Ten fellows down at Hotchkiss have started a Pigeon club. They are now busily engaged in building a shelter to house the birds.

The "Hill News" carries the story of a boy who went to the school doctor after inscribing "M" on his hand with nitric acid. The doctor informed him that the scar would be there for at least six months, and asked him for whom the initial was written. The boy, being president of the Bachelors' club, reddened and stammered out, "Mother." We wonder.

AVON OLD FARMS

The fellows at Avon Old Farms celebrated the school's founding last week-end. The school was founded in 1925. Incidentally the Andover polo team went down to defeat during the festivities.

The "Loomis Log" reports that 118 couples have signed up for the spring prom. How about more of you fellows signing up for our prom.

From Blair, New Jersey, comes word that 21 boys were elected to the Cum Laude Society last week.

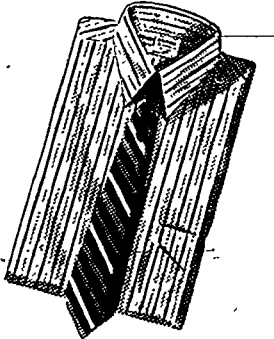

The latest report from Lawrenceville states that the Andover club is still holding its own.

DESCRIPTION DISCLOSED OF ANDOVER'S AMBULANCE

Letter Received From American Field Service Head; Car To Bear Inscription

Commending the progress of the ambulance fund in Phillips Academy, which has been sponsored recently by contributions of the student body, faculty members, the Trustees, and a few alumni, Dr. Fuess recently received the following statement:

"We are deeply grateful to each and every Phillips Academy boy who contributed to this ambulance."

(Signed) Stephen Galatti,
Director General,
American Field Service,
120 Broadway, New York City

Concerning the physical nature of the vehicle purchased, the ambulance is a large special Lincoln ambulance capable of carrying ten sitting cases and easily convertible for stretcher cases; the whole car has been made in England itself, thus assuring all interested that the vehicle will reach its destination in good order ready for immediate use; and, structurally, the ambulance was built in England on an American chassis. The car's design has been labeled as that needed the most at the present time. The total cost will come to $2000, and the ambulance is being purchased at once with the money contributed.

Into every field of action where duty may take this huge messenger of mercy, it is to carry boldly the name of Phillips Academy, its generous contributor. An inscription is being placed on the ambulance itself which reads, "Presented by Phillips Academy, Andover, Massachusetts, to the American Field Service." Although the destination and the eventual record of this ambulance in the field of action will probably remain unknown for quite a while to come, the whole school can, nevertheless, join at this time and take true pride in the fact that, as in 1917, it is doing its part in a magnificent way and is once again pacing the field in this respect.

Philo Finals

This evening at 7:00 in Bulfinch Hall the final debate in the annual Philo tournament will be held. The contest will decide the winners of the prize given by the Philomathean Society and the Headmaster. The subject for discussion reads, "Resolved: that in the event of a German victory over Britain, the United States should co-operate with the Nazi government in world affairs." The two teams which have earned the right to compete in the finals by winning five consecutive debates are John Mason and Oliver Hallett, the affirmative, and John Shove and Allan Colley, the negative.

Philo's new president, Pell William Foster, will preside. Mr. William Brown of the faculty will judge the contest.

SUPPORT URGED FOR SPRING PROM BY THE COMMITTEE

Arrangements Reiterated; Rolly Rogers Will Play With His Popular Band

It should seem from the present response of the student body that the prom is only a vicious rumor. However, it is no rumor, it is a fact that there is to be a prom next Wednesday evening. It is also a fact that the response of the student body has been the poorest in years. The committee has received little cooperation from the student body, even though this is the only prom of the year.

Rolly Rogers, as most of you know, is to play for the prom. What most of you don't know, is that this band, in its six months of existence, has received more acclaim than any band since Artie Shaw. He has been given coast to coast radio work, and he has recently been billed at Boston's Bermuda Terrace, a place especially noted for its good music. For decorations this year there will be three large revolving mirrors laid out on that dusky background, which is still light, but dark enough for all intensive purposes.

To reiterate, the program will commence with a tea dance at 5 o'clock, generously given by Dr. and Mrs. Fuess. Following this there will be dinner at the Commons, and the prom begins at 9 o'clock. Dances nine and ten are the supper dances, and during intermission there will be supper at the Commons and fraternities. In all there are sixteen dances. The next morning there is a breakfast at 9 o'clock. All this, plus overnight accommodations, go for the price of five dollars.

Students who plan on going to the prom must get their tickets immediately, as invitations must be sent out to the girls. For many, this will be the last chance to participate in a school activity, but whether you are graduating or not, it is proper that the year be ended in the right way, by everybody getting behind the prom committee and making 1941's only prom the best prom in school history.

YALE

Henry H. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Anderson of Cove Neck, Oyster Bay, L. I., has been elected manager of the pistol team for the coming year. He is a member of the Sophomore class. Anderson, who prepared for Yale at Andover, is majoring in English. He is a member of Pierson College.

James M. Ethridge, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ethridge, Jr., of 102 Park Avenue, Greenwich, Conn., has been elected captain of next year's tennis team. He is a member of the Junior class. Ethridge, who prepared for Yale at Andover, is majoring in Sociology. During his Freshman year he won his numerals in tennis. He is a member of Davenport College.

ART GALLERY SHOWS
WORKS OF R. TAYLOR, FAMOUS CARTOONIST

Collection Includes Many Of Unpublished Works; To Last Until Commencement

Now in the print-room of the Addison Gallery is a group of fascinating cartoons in watercolor by Mr. Richard Taylor. The exhibit has a lot of the punch which so many an art display lacks, and, therefore, should be missed by no P. A. student. This particular show is in the Gallery during Commencement week for the express purpose of disproving the assumption that exhibitions of art are necessarily drab and lifeless.

You have all seen Mr. Taylor's work, believe it or not, for he has drawn many a cartoon in your favorite magazine. The Saturday Evening Post, The New Yorker, and Collier's, all print his little masterpieces weekly. You would most likely recognize his figures by their long, pointed noses, invariably plump waistlines and amazingly large eye-balls, with lids and bags to match. His sketchy, scrawly, scribbly technique and his cleverly concealed but meaningful satire are quite unique. In the capers of each of his colorful, comical clowns is cunningly concealed a bit of an ironical slap at the twentieth century, its people, and their actions.

Besides sketching daily for various magazines, Mr. Taylor does numerous watercolors for his own amusement. Some of the Gallery's collection are pieces he has done on rainy afternoons for himself; others have been done especially for P. A. All of his tiny "chefs-d'oeuvre" are on sale at reasonable prices.

Mr. Taylor's pictures are, indeed, works of art, for they are unique in technique, colorful and expressive in treatment of subject matter, and invaluable as records of twentieth century thought and philosophy. There is a humorous and a serious side to each of his creations. The majority of them, in fact, provoke unexpectedly hearty and unrestrained laughter in each and every onlooker. The plight of the principal character in every picture is sufficiently ridiculous to assure such a result. For instance, there is the laughable predicament of The Lost Angel. In this priceless 12 in. by 6 in. is pictured one lone, innocent but bewildered, winged creature, draped in a milk white nightie, among swarms of pinkish, sheepish, nudish, devilish creatures with horns, spears, and pitch-forks, ready to pounce upon and pickle The Lost Angel. The latter, a hopeless, helpless, befuddled thing, who has evidently gone off for a quiet afternoon's float, and got caught in a downward draft, is being carefully scrutinized by our chop-licking friends of the underworld.

Arrangements For Spring Prom Are Announced

1. The June Promenade is the occasion of a house party at which the girls are guests not only of the members of the school, but also of the Headmaster and Mrs. Fuess and of the Faculty of Phillips Academy.

2. Guests have been asked to arrive not before 4 o'clock on Wednesday and to leave not later than noon on Thursday. Guests will be assigned to rooms in school dormitories for Wednesday night. Guests may not stay elsewhere. The list of room assignments will be posted on the Commons bulletin board.

3. Boys attending the Dance must secure excuses in advance from their house officers. These must be deposited at the Dance in a basket for that purpose on the ticket table.

4. Boys may not take their guests into dormitories without the permission of the housemaster and in the company of a chaperon.

5. Boys are not allowed to drive the cars of their guests under any circumstances.

6. Classes on Wednesday are not over until 1:10 p. m.

7. The Headmaster and Mrs. Fuess will receive all boys and their guests in Sawyer Hall between five and six o'clock on Wednesday.

8. Dinner will be served at seven thirty o'clock at the Commons. Reservations must be made when Prom tickets are bought. Boys may not dine elsewhere except at the Society Houses under authorized chaperonage.

9. At the Dance boys and their guests will, of course, greet the patronesses on entering and on leaving.

10. Any boy leaving the dance early must sign out at the door of the Gymnasium with Mr. Grew in any interval between dances. He will then go at once to his dormitory and report to his housemaster.

11. The Dance will begin at 9:15 p. m. and end at 2:00 a. m. At the end of the Dance boys will escort their guests to the assigned dormitories. They must report to their own dormitories not later than 2:40 a. m.

12. Smoking is permitted between dances out of doors within the lighted area. Smoking is not permitted within the building.

13. Breakfast will be provided by the school for boys and their guests at the Commons on Thursday morning from 9:00 until 10:00.

14. Boys are reminded that alumni and other persons not members of the school may not attend the Dance except by special invitation of the Headmaster.

15. Boys are requested not to send flowers to their guests.

16. Prom tickets are non-transferable. Any boy who cannot use his ticket should return it to the Prom Committee.

17. Dance guests are not invited to remain for Class Day exercises on Thursday.

18. Boys who wish to see the dance from the balcony must obtain the usual excuses from their house officers.

19. Anyone desiring additional information is referred to the boys' Dance Committee, Messrs. Orr, Furman, Kelsey, Vose, or to Mr. Basford.

20. Boys are held responsible for these special and all the usual regulations of the Academy.

KELSEY, FISHER REPRESENT BLUE IN INTERSCHOLASTICS

Jack Takes Hammer; Harvey Second In 220, Third In The 100

Co-captains Harvey Kelsey and Jack Fisher travelled down to Providence on Memorial Day to compete in the Brown interscholastics. After a much-cherished victory over Exeter, it was only natural for Andover's stars to let down a little after the regular season had ended. The tremendous advance publicity that Kelsey received, combined with the complete lack of school support due to the proximity of the baseball game and examinations, all made Harv tighten up and fail to deliver to his full capacity, and brought Jack Fisher's hammer throw down to 178 ft. 3 1/2 in. Nevertheless, Jack's margin was a full 13 feet, proving for once and for all that Ed Flanagan is the best hammer coach in this part of the country. Jack did not compete in the discus or shot put, preferring rather to give Kelsey all possible moral support in his big race.

Charity Pledges

As has recently been announced, the Society of Inquiry understands that all boys who have not paid their P. A. charity pledge realize that the bill will be sent home to their parents.

Against a ten-mile gale were lined up Howie Caldwell of Moses Brown, Paul Cowie of LaSalle Military, and Harvey Kelsey of Andover, in the finals of the 100-yard dash. Each sprinter had run trials and semi-finals already. Caldwell is twenty years old, completing his fourth season of real track stardom, and used to running more than two races in a day. Cowie is nineteen, a short, blocky runner with loads of endurance. Against these two veterans Kelsey pitted his seventeen years and one year of real stardom. The meet record of 9.8 seconds held by Marty Glickman, Olympic sprinter who attended Syracuse University, was not considered to be in danger because of the strong wind.

Caldwell and Cowie each jumped the gun once, so when the sprinters lined up for the third time the starter told them to hold their marks very carefully. Kelsey expected him to keep the sprinters on the "get set" mark for the full second required by track rules at least, so went up slowly and carefully into this position. The gun, however, went off immediately, and Kelsey was left in the ruck, several yards back. Let us tell you what Arthur Sampson of the Boston Herald, an eye-witness of the race, said in his column the next day:

"At the bark of the gun, the stubby Cowie with the bulging leg muscles bolted out of his hole like a cannon shot. The graceful Caldwell followed in his wake and after about 25 yards was even with him. The long-legged Kelsey, however, seemed frozen to the mark. When he finally uncoiled and gave chase he was several yards in the ruck.

"Young Kelsey's muscles seemed to be as taut as violin strings over the first 50 yards and his straining effort didn't reduce the handicap much. Not until he arrived at the 75-yard mark did he find the rhythm that produces the best speed for him. From there in he gained ground, but it was too late."

The fact that Kelsey got a very bad start and was not in his best form except for the last quarter of the race and still finished one or two feet behind Caldwell and one or two inches behind Cowie would seem to indicate that he will certainly beat his fellow Mercurys when he has a little more experience. He certainly is more promising than his opponents.

The furlong followed two more heats and found Kelsey rather tired, but still able to take second by a nose from Cowie. Caldwell had a well-established margin at the finish.

EXETER GOLFMEN DOWN ANDOVER 9-0

Two Marshalls, Marvin, Mark Represent Royal Blue

A surprisingly powerful Exeter golf team defeated Andover's varsity at Haverhill last Wednesday. The score, if we must admit it, was 9 to 0. The Andover defeat was completely unexpected especially since the weather was ideal. The second team met the same fate as the first team to the tune of 7 to 2.

Captain Marshall was beaten two down and one hole to go. Marvin had the same result with the same score. Their best ball was beaten by the Exeter combination four down and three holes to go. Gardner went down seven with six to play, but he was stroking with the Exeter captain whose score was 72, just 2 over par. Junie Marshall went down two and one and his and Hank's best ball was beaten five and four. Willie Mark went down three and took over the Red mound work in the sixth, gave him an intentional pass to get at Joe Flanagan who replaced Elly Vose in the seventh. Flanagan hoisted out to Forte behind second.

On a mass of errors and two base hits, Exeter scored its final three runs in the eighth. Callagy walked Coleman, after which Asbury singled, Coleman holding up at second. Duden's walk loaded the bases with one away, but Coleman was a force out at the plate on Boynton's ill-fated topped grounder. Then Bush's attempt for his fourth straight hit went amuck when he ended the disastrous day with a long fly to Gates in left.

Once unnerved in the fourth, Andover's up and coming team fell apart. Exeter never lost control of the game and its ability to capitalize on the breaks won the day.

Asbury's catch of Elwell's towering foul fly in the third back of the Exeter bench was the fielding gem of the day.

Bush was the outstanding player of the day. His three successive hits were half of the Andover total.

That stray dog who ran across the field in the eighth seemed to be chasing the umpires, and he had plenty to bark about.

Ellms' home run was a tremendous drive just out of Coleman's grasp.

Hudson had his usual luck in traversing the base paths. More than once he was safe on an apparent out.
