Blue Gridders Pointing For Exonians Saturday

Team Works Daily To Eliminate All Rough Edges

Today, an open date in the schedule, gives the Blue Varsity a letup in their tough schedule. Next week the team, undefeated in six games, comes to grips with its arch foe, the Red and Gray, in the final game of the season. Coach Sorota has been hard at work smoothing out many of the plays and stratagems that he will use against Exeter, and also has been preparing the team to cope with any tricks that the Red and Gray might pull out of the hat.

Old man weather, however, has been of no help to the team. On Thursday the boys were forced to retreat to the Cage, while outside the rain came down in torrents.

P. A. SOCCERMEN DRILLING DAILY

The undefeated Andover soccer team held a long scrimmage on Wednesday in preparation for the Exeter game next Wednesday. The first team scored four goals during the course of the afternoon. On Monday the squad held its practice in the rain just in case next Wednesday is rainy.

The first team was much the same as it has been all season. Captain Poppy Bush was at center forward, with Tuck Asbury and Lawt Sargent on either side of him. George Ravenelle and Howie Gray were the wings. Cliff Wright, Dick Webb and Vasco Nunez were the halfbacks. Skip McKinley and

V. B FOOTBALL SQUAD DEFEATS CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL BY 26-0

The stalwarts of Andover's Varsity B squad on Wednesday defeated the second team of Central High School, Methuen, Mass. The touchdowns were scored for Andover by the following players: Midgley (2), Upton, and Dulaney. In general the team looked very good, though the tackling was somewhat ragged. Central seemed to have a very light-weight team, and their players were often injured.

Midgley, Upton, Score

The first quarter opened with the home team kicking off to its opponents, who gained possession of the pigskin on their own twenty-five. Central was then thrown for a yard loss, and forced to kick. Andover steadily advanced goalward in spurts of about six yards each, and finally plunged across the goal line; Midgley, who had done most of the running, made the score. The ball was then run through the line for the extra point. The Royal Blue then booted to the Methuen thirty, where its line held, and the visitors made no gain. Midgley then kicked to the home team's forty-five, but owing to an over penalty, Central High School kicked over again, with the ball that Andover downed the pigskin on its own twenty-yard line. An Andover kick, because of poor blocking, went off parallel to the line of scrimmage, and the ball went out of bounds on the Andover twenty-three, resulting in a net loss of two yards, and giving Central the ball as the period

On the next play "Skip" Reid intercepted a Methuen pass, running the ball from the five to the thirty-two. The ball was then driven to the forty-nine, and the home team had begun to march. A penalty advanced the pigskin to the visitors' forty-six, and on the next play the ball was carried down to the twenty. Here Methuen's resistance stiffened, and the Royal Blue was thrown back five yards. Nothing daunted, the home team fought its way to the twelve, from where Upton went through the line for Andover's second touchdown. The extra point was again made.

Midgley Again Scores

Central High kicked to Andover's forty-five-yard line to open the second half. Schroeder, Andover's right halfback, then went ten yards to the visitor's forty-five, and fullback Midgley went through tackle all the way to the twenty-five. On the next play Ed Machaj went down to within a foot of the end zone, and Midgley ran over the Royal Blue's twentieth point. The extra point, however, was not made. Andover kicked off to the visitor's twenty-seven, Central going to the fifty before being halted. The horn was now blown, ending the third frame.

The visitors pressed forward to the Blue twenty-five, but were unable to press on farther. Gaining the ball, Andover kicked to the midfield stripe, and on a Methuen fumble, the home team recovered the ball. Bob Black fought his way

Senior Photos Planned For Coming Week

New Location For Pictures Selected By Pot Pourri

On Monday, November 10, individual Senior portraits for the "Pot Pourri" will commence. This year they will be taken in a private home, the white house directly across Main street from the America House. Those having their pictures taken will enter by the side entrance, indicated by a sign. A one dollar sitting fee is required and should be paid to the photographer at the time of the sitting.

No excuses will be necessary, even during study hours, but it is understood that boys will arrive at the exact time of their appointments and leave when they are finished. No pictures will be taken Saturday, November 15, because of the Exeter game. Those few Seniors who so far have failed to make their appointments should see Bob Stevens at their earliest convenience.

About one-half dozen photos will be taken of each Senior, one of which will be chosen by the subject for publication in the "Pot Pourri." If for some reason a boy's pictures are unsatisfactory, they will be retaken free of charge. The Sargent Studio of Boston, which will be taking the pictures, will have additional full size glossy prints of each boy for sale at attractive prices. When a Senior purchases additional pictures, his one dollar sitting fee will be deducted from the price of the prints. Remember that Christmas will be here soon and that a fine photograph makes a neat Christmas present, especially to the best girl.

Because it is impossible for the photographers to be here at Andover more than one week, it is fully necessary that each Senior be sure to arrive for his sitting at the exact time his appointment calls for. The time schedule for each day will be posted on all the bulletin boards, thus erasing all doubt in the minds of those who are not sure when their sittings are scheduled.

Railroad Club Finishing Table

On Thursday the last batch of lumber arrived for the layout table the model railroad is building. The construction, rapidly nearing completion, was temporarily delayed by the technical problem of curving the boards for the sides of the table. This difficulty was solved, however, with the help of Mr. W. M. Sides. Mr. Sides' suggestion, which was adopted, was to saw, at regular and quite small intervals, half way through the board, thus permitting the board to bend easily.

The table is about four feet high and sturdily constructed; the club hopes that the table will be useful to Andover model railroad groups for years to come. At the curves the lower horizontal brads are criss-crossed to avoid unnecessary use of curved lumber. The curves are all exceptionally wide, which will, among other advantages, allow the trains a higher possible speed. It is hard to realize how well the railroaders have done their job without seeing it. Mr. Di Clementi, as well as the club members, deserves some of the credit.

Latin Players Hold Banquet

MacKendrick, Chase, Westgate, Speak

Last evening, the Latin Players held a banquet in Sawyer Hall which was attended by a majority of the cast and stage crew of the forthcoming production, "Stichus," by Plautus. Dr. Chase, Dr. Westgate, and Dr. MacKendrick spoke before the assembled group. The banquet was presided over by Ray Cuthbertson, president of the Players.

Following the meal, Mr. Cuthbertson gave a few introductory remarks, and then followed a short address by Dr. Westgate. The latter expressed his satisfaction at the progress of the play and stated a few of the changes which will be made over last year's production. Dr. MacKendrick then delivered a resume of the plot of "Stichus," bringing out the relationship between this and other of the works of Plautus and the Greek plays by Menander. After a brief interruption Dr. Chase made a well-worded and timely speech concerning preservation of these classical works, both in past and future times. Upon being questioned, Mr. Woolsey made a few statements concerning the stage crew and work involved. Shortly there will be an appeal for men to work on lighting construction, painting, props, and posters. After a brief discussion on the use of masks and makeup the banquet came to an end. The work of producing "Stichus" will now be begun in earnest by the Latin Department and Players.

Every day during activity period, Dr. Westgate and his assistants have been working with members of the cast individually. Up to now most of the emphasis has been placed on learning meters.

Rules For Exeter Football Game Announced By School Authorities

In order that there may be no misunderstanding about the special rules which apply for the Exeter football game, they are stated herewith:

Each boy, whether he goes to Exeter or not, must check in at George Washington Hall immediately after the arrival of the special train returning from Exeter and before dinner. It is important to note that this rule applies not only to those who leave the campus but also to those who remain in Andover. Be sure your name is properly checked. Town boys need not report.

Boys attending the game must travel both ways on the special train. No boy may go or come by automobile.

Disorder of any kind on the train, going or coming, is strictly forbidden.

After the game, whether the team wins or loses, undergraduates must remain together in the stands under the direction of the cheer leaders, and march directly from the field to the station. The special train will start back immediately after the arrival of the student body at the station.

If there is a victory, each boy must check in at George Washington Hall immediately after the celebration. The time will be announced by the cheer leaders. He must then go directly to the movies or else report immediately to his dormitory or house, where

ANNUAL CHARITIES DRIVE SCHEDULED BY THE S. OF I. Solicitors To Try To Fulfill Set Quota On Friday, November 14th

This coming Friday night, following the football rally, the Society of Inquiry will hold its annual charities drive. Between 8 and 10 each boy will be approached in his room by a representative of the Society of Inquiry for his contribution. This is the only time during the year when the student body will be approached for such contributions.

Gallery Exhibit Closes Tuesday

The exhibition of European artists teaching in America, now in progress at the Art Gallery, will continue through Tuesday. The purpose of the exhibition is to show some of the influences on American art coming from outside our borders.

The Art Gallery also has on exhibition a number of working drawings of American artists; the drawings are largely preparation for paintings. Among them is a pencil sketch by Thomas Bendon, in preparation for "Cattle Loading West Texas," which the gallery owns; also included is a study for "Little Madonna"; both of these are complete pictures in themselves. Several of the most interesting of the sketches are by John Nagle (1796-1865); evidently he was having trouble with the hands in a portrait, because the five sketches are all concerned with the placing of the subject's hands. There are seven charcoal sketches of heads by George B. Luks on display, evidently done in some public place, of people he chanced to see around him. Mahonri M. Young, Reginald Marsh, and John Singer Sargent are also represented.

The goal of this drive has been set at $3,000. Of this sum large portions will be devoted to the Red Cross, the Andover Guild, and student scholarships; smaller amounts to the Grenfell Association, Hampton Institute, Student Y. M. C. A., and Salvation Army. A certain share is retained by the S. of I. that will be sufficient to cover the expenses which they incur during the year.

This drive has two aims: First, the reaching of the goal; and second, the 100 percent support of the student body. Regardless of whether or not the goal is achieved, the drive will be considered a success if every student in school contributes something, no matter how small it may be.

Class Goals Set

Goals have been set for each class. The progress of the classes toward reaching these goals will be recorded on four large thermometers which will be placed in the first floor hall of the Commons. The Juniors have a goal of $550, the Lower $650, and the Seniors and Uppers, because these classes have the same number of students, will each have a goal of $900. It will be interesting to see which of these classes will be able to reach its goal first.

The average that is needed from each boy is about $4.50. Because of the number of boys who will feel that they cannot afford to contribute as much as that, it is hoped that those boys who can will contribute more than the average. In the past the contributions have ranged from $1 to $40. The Society of Inquiry hopes that this year's drive will be as successful as that in 1940, when each student in school contributed something in helping the total amount raised exceed the goal for that year.

8-1 Octet Sings In G. W. Tonight

On Saturday night, between the dramatic presentation "If Men Played Cards As Women Do," and the movie, the student body will be treated to the year's first performance of the Eight-one Octet. This musical organization, instituted in Phillips Academy in nineteen thirty-nine, originally had as its members eight students and one master. However, this year the Octet is without a master as director, and has as performers the following vocalists: First tenors: Sam Rogers and Francis Hall; second tenors: Troupin and Dudley Wright; first basses: Ray Cuthbertson and Jack Carr; second basses: Lucius Bigelow and William Coffin (director). The Octet is very proud of its all-student basis this year.

On Saturday it will sing three college songs: "Wake, Freshmen, Wake," "Aura Lee," and "The Pope." The program will last about ten minutes, and the singers will be unaccompanied by orchestral instruments.

Many more programs will undoubtedly be offered by the group as the year progresses. The selections are to include many favorites.

For The Future

DURING this next week we shall all be giving our utmost support to the varsity football and soccer teams. They both will deserve the applause they will receive before morning chapel, and the cheering they will get when they meet the Exeter teams next Saturday and Wednesday after next. They are superb organizations, probably the best Andover has seen for a long time, showing great skill, teamwork, and sportsmanship.

And yet, as we support these two varsity teams, we are apt to forget the other football and soccer teams at school. These are the Jayvees, the Club teams, and J. A. It is from these teams that the Varsity of tomorrow and many tomorrows come. They are the backing of the teams that spread Andover's fame all over the country, for without these the Varsities could not exist. They are as much a part of Andover as the varsities, if not more, because whereas the exploits of the teams put out by Steve Sorota and Jim Ryley are written up in papers all over the country, not many people outside of school know about these other teams, the Jayvees and All-Club. And yet to those playing on other teams, their own meeting with Exeter is just as important from a personal standpoint as the Varsities'.

The Jayvee footballers play Exeter on Wednesday. The football they will play will be as good as that of any other prep school or high school in the country. The game will be just as hard-fought and may provide even more thrills and excitement than the Varsity encounter. Many of the players will be Seniors, playing their last game for Andover. The support of the student body will mean a lot to them. A Junior Varsity team that beats Exeter this year will be a Varsity team that will beat Exeter next year, and the year after.

This same applies to the All-Club soccer and football teams. There are seniors on these teams, too. And the Lovers and Juniors on them will play all the harder to beat the Red and Grey, knowing they have the full school support and interest behind them, whether they play here or in New Hampshire. The Junior that scores a winning touchdown or goal over Exeter might remember it longer than the game he might help win for the Varsity sometime in the future. These games mean a lot to the players, and they should be supported for this reason by the entire student body, so they might know that their school is standing by them at all times. For it is in its support of these contests that a school shows its spirit and unity.

Of course the Varsity games are still the most important. The Varsities are the result of two or three years of Club and Jayvee teams. And yet, we and they know that the student body is behind the players on these teams. They are sure to receive the support that is their rightful due. All parents from everywhere will be rooting for them. So we must give lots of attention to these other teams, these teams that are strictly a part of Andover, that are ours alone. So let's be out there cheering next Wednesday as well as next Saturday, and show the Jayvees and Clubs that they matter to us as well as do the Varsity.

Tonight's Film

Charging into George Washington Hall tonight will be the "Bad Men of Missouri" with Dennis Morgan, Wayne Morris, and Arthur Kennedy. Jane Wyman is the girl who supplies the love interest in this rousing tale of Missouri after the end of the Civil War.

The plot of the picture follows pretty closely that of "Jesse James." Messrs. Morgan, Morris, and Kennedy, on returning from the war find that their homes, like the homes of many of their neighbors, have been taken over by money-crazed homesteaders. Immediately the boys go to work righting the wrong, and in the ensuing scuffle their father is killed. Just as the death of Mrs. James at the hands of the aggressive railroad magnates prods the James boys on to a life of pillage and crime, so does the death of their father at the hands of the homesteaders give the Missourians an excuse for revenge.

From this point on the story is a familiar one. Bank robberies, cold-blooded killings, arrests, and jail-breaks serve to keep the actors and the audience well occupied for the remainder of the picture. We forgot to mention that Miss Wyman figures in the picture as Arthur Kennedy's fiancée. At the start of the picture she is working against her future husband on the side of the homesteaders. At the final fade-out . . . oh, heck, you know what we mean.

The acting is good enough for a picture of this sort, which relies for its appeal mainly on gun-play and fast riding. If one person is to be singled out for mention, however, it should be Walter Catlett, of the insinuating voice, who supplies the comedy relief of the film as an assistant to the head homesteader (Victor Jory). He is supposed to be in charge of the money, but he never has it long before it is swiped.

When everything is said and done, the picture achieves its purpose with plenty of room to spare. If you are a lover of unadulterated blood and thunder, come to the movies tonight: You will be well rewarded.

Sport Shots

Before plunging into football it might be worth mentioning that the Boston Bruins, current rulers of the hockey kingdom, go into action tonight against the Maple Leafs at Toronto in the opening game of their season. Except for the loss of Terry Reardon, the Bruins are the same outfit which last year was generally rated as the greatest hockey sextet of all time. Reardon will be unable to get out of Canada this year because of passport difficulties. By special arrangement, the Bruins are allowing Terry to play for the lowly Canadians in their home games and in their clashes with the Maple Leafs on Toronto ice. A rookie center last year with Boston, this colorful youth climaxed an impressive first year by playing brilliant, inspired hockey in the playoffs. He is particularly outstanding for his alertness, his ceaseless energy, and his indomitable spirit and fight. This popular, fighting Irishman is a severe loss to the Bruins and to Boston hockey fandom. Passport difficulties might cost Toronto at least half of the services of Wally Stanowski, its raw-boned freshman defense star of last year. But of all teams, the feeble New York Americans are likely to be hit hardest. At least four or five of Red Dutton's most valuable men may be forced to spend the winter in Canada. From this angle it looks like a repeat performance for the mighty Bruins, despite Reardon's absence, with the Toronto runner up. It'll be a cat and dog fight between the rest.

Subduing dreadful memories of last week's hideous results and uttering a fervent prayer for sunny weather, this writer comes back for more and boldly prophesies the outcomes of the comparatively few top-flite tilts of today.

Cornell vs. Yale: Comment here is superfluous. The battered Bulldog will undergo a thorough dunking in Cayuga's waters.

Dartmouth vs. Princeton: The Tiger has a bad case of lead feet this year which brings to the Indian's mind that dear old refrain: "As the backs go tearing by . . ."

Army vs. Harvard: Through necessity the Crimson has stuck to defensive warfare this year and has come out better than even. Blessed with excellent offensive weapons, Gen. Black of the Army has moulded a swift-moving attack, which should seriously threaten Harvard's flank. In short the Pitt. reverse, plus a passing attack should beat Harvard.

Penn. vs. Columbia: The Lion devoured Cornell last week, but today it will find that it has bitten off more than it can chew.

Notre Dame vs. Navy: Navy is vulnerable through the air, and air-minded Mr. Leahy has at his disposal a capable bomber named Angelo Bertelli, who should sling enough explosives to swing the tide in favor of the Irish.

Fordham vs. Pitt: They say a wounded Panther is dangerous, but the Rams want proof. Panther Edgar Jones will give the Rams a scare, but Fordham should get through unscratched.

Alabama vs. Tulane: The Green Wave has reached its crest, while the Crimson Tide is beginning to come in. Victory should float in with the Tide.

Stanford vs. Southern Calif.: The Indian is said to have a keen sense of smell. Down in Palo Alto, California, the Indians are getting the faint whiff of those Pasadena roses. The scent should grow much stronger after they scalp the Trojans.

Washington vs. California: Every dog has his day, and this looks like the Huskies' day to vanquish the Golden Bears.

Holy Cross vs. Brown: Bulldogs apparently don't agree with the Brown Bears, for ace Bruin back Margurita is sidelined with injuries from last week's Yale game. The Crusaders should dine on bear meat tonight.

Minnesota vs. Nebraska: Chalk up another for the Gophers.

Iowa vs. Illinois: Close enough to be a tie, but Iowa has the edge.

Mississippi State vs. Auburn: Auburn is desperate for a win, but no dice here.

Mississippi vs. Louisiana State: On its record, a vote for "Ole Miss."

Michigan State vs. Purdue: The game but groggy Boilermakers were severely singed by Fordham last week, and are not in condition to stop the Spartans.

Missouri vs. N. Y. U.: Well, at least N. Y. U. has a good basketball team.

Northwestern vs. Indiana: Too bad the Hoosiers have to tackle the Wildcats on the rebound; otherwise there might have been an upset.

Ohio State vs. Wisconsin: For alliteration one might say, "Wisconsin will win," but he might also say, and with more accuracy, "The Buckeyes will beat the Badgers."

Syracuse vs. Penn. State: The 10-6 odds on Syracuse are justified.

Texas A and M vs. Southern Methodist: The Aggies should remain undefeated.

Texas vs. Baylor: Baylor should be commended for its raw courage. Sometimes, however, discretion is the better part of valor. Let's hope Baylor emerges "in toto" despite its drubbing.

Temple vs. Villanova: Despite their rout by B. C. last week, the Owls appear strong enough to take Villanova.

Oregon State vs. U. C. L. A.: It's in the cards that U. C. L. A. will put on a better show between the halves than during them.

Georgia Tech vs. Kentucky: The Yellow Jackets have enough stuff to engineer a victory over Kentucky.

Rice vs. Arkansas: Might be a tie, but the Owls deserve the nod over the Razorbacks.

B. C. vs. Wake Forest: The Eagles soar.

Andover....

...Biography

Osgood Johnson

After the stern, iron-handed John Adams had quit his post as principal of Phillips Academy, Andover, in 1832, to go to the West, the logical man to succeed him was his chief aide, Osgood Johnson.

Offered the position on January 1, 1833, he accepted, and read his acceptance letter to the board of trustees (then all most completely controlled by 'Squire Farrar) on March 20, 1833.

A sickly lad, Johnson, though he had a brilliant mind, well versed in the classics, was always physically ill. He had a maimed club foot, which made it necessary, in the last years of his life, to have support in order to get from his classroom to his buggy. He had a slight case of T. B., too, and thus found it necessary to go into partial retirement during his later life. To add to the ills already piled on Dr. Johnson, Farrar saw fit to have the trustees rewrite the laws of financial administration, so that Johnson received the main burden of administering the school's financial affairs.

Education

Johnson was born September 1803, in the West Parish of Andover, to Osgood Johnson and Fanny Abbott. He graduated from Phillips Academy in 1823, and took his bachelor's degree, summa cum laude, in 1828. For one year the young man remained at Hanover as a tutor, returning in 1829 as an assistant at Andover. He had previously married Miss Lucretia B. of Hanover, and in 1831 he moved his family into Samaritan House, then on the corner of Chapel and Main streets.

The great financial burden which 'Squire Farrar was determined to place on Principal Johnson as he had on Principal Hall of the Teachers' Seminary (a separate school run by the trustees of the Phillips' estate, which later merged with P. A. to become our State Department of later years), was put into effect, in order to be the school into a larger institution. This plan, specifically, gave the principal the entire tuition of the students, permission to board students in his home for most permission to sell the student wood from trustee-owned land, the right (in later years) to be the rent money which the student paid for a room in the Latin Commons (Mr. Hall got the English Commons' rent money).

Problem Of The Time

During the middle of his period as principal, in about 1835, Johnson faced what was probably the most "striking incident" of his administration. A situation of magnitude arose over the slave issue, that it almost was the rupture of the Academy. Several organizations had been formed near the school, suggesting immediate abolishment of the slave system. A specific request was made by Johnson to the effect that one join these groups, lest he fend any Southern students. The affair finally resulted in many riots and the resignation of forty pupils.

One of the last notable happenings of Osgood Johnson's tenure was the completion of the two-story Commons. These halls, built for scholarship boys, were completed and filled by P. A. students in the "Latin" row, and Teachers Seminary students in the "English" row, by 1835.

Dr. Johnson resigned from position on April 17, 1837, and died on May 9, 1837. He was buried in the chapel cemetery. His grave is marked by a memorial inscription by James F. Kimball of Yale College.

The contributions made to school by this scholar were many, and it is known that Johnson was never one to change anything unless it was radically wrong. His time was essentially a time of transition, between the old and the increasingly modern age. He was perhaps the only principal of this school who was given no criticism, though his ties with 'Squire Farrar were close. He was a good teacher, a poet, and a great scholar.

ANDOVER vs. EXETER FOOTBALL CONTEST

Presented by the Undersigned Merchants in conjunction with The Phillipian

Varsity Football

The drizzle and dampness took all the spark out of yesterday afternoon's session. If this weather should keep up, it would set the team back considerably and also would drain much of the zip and pep from the boys.

Rain, more than anything else, will be Coach Sorota's biggest worry. All year he has been stressing the main spearhead of the offense. The power of the Blue machine was seen in Northeastern and Dowdoin games. But in these games the boys were operating in dry weather on a hard, solid turf. In the Tufts game, however, the Blue attack was stopped cold, and the team could hardly eke out a 6-0 win.

Exeter Likes Mud

A deluge next Saturday, however, would affect the Red and Gray little, for Exeter is a mud team. Coach Clark has been working on power plays, and his boys seem to look better on a soggy field than a dry one. For instance, last Saturday they soundly trounced a favored Hebron team 24-6.

Last Wednesday the usual mid-week scrimmage was held in weather that was somewhat listless. The boys did quite a bit of defensive work, and also Coach Sorota drilled them in some of their deceptive formations. There was, however, little passing.

O'Leary Rest

Dick Duden's arm was banged up a little. This has been bothering him for some time now, but it should be okay next Saturday with a little rest. Dick O'Leary, the hero of the Tufts game, took it easy because of a sore knee. "Bob" Furman and Johnny Davis were given stiff workouts, as were all the backfield men. "Zombie" Johnson looked very good at center, crashing through several times to bust up the play.

Scrimmage Today

Today in place of the game, there'll be a stiff inter-squad scrimmage, regardless of weather. This off day is unfortunate, because it would undoubtedly be better for the team to have a scheduled game.

NEW REGIME NOW WORKS AT TRACK

Fall track has completely changed! It now lasts an hour and fifteen minutes and is all solid exercise throughout the period. The new coach, Mr. Boyle, has established an entirely new order. The boys out on the track no longer just work-out for a brief time and then quit.

Due to the cold weather, all running and field events have been discontinued. Coach Boyle has established a regular system of touch-football games which has proved immensely popular among the boys. A first and second squad have been chosen from each club and have been battling it out for the past week. So far the Saxons have been undefeated, and there is every evidence that they will remain so. Before the games started Mr. Boyle announced a set of rules that have been followed fairly carefully.

A surprising spirit has come over the group. The competition is really beginning to get good; and, with few exceptions, the boys have been fighting it out with fresh vim and vigor.

ROCKWELL WINS OVER WILLIAMS

Now the Juniors can relax; the football season is over. The Andover-Exeter grid classic will be an anti-climax after the excitement of last Wednesday on the West Quadrangle. Yes, the old rivals met again in deadly combat to decide which of the two hold claim to the title of "Champ" forever. Gallantly did the Williams boys fight, and gallantly did they lose to an "unequal balance of powers."

For Rockwell, which defeated Williams to the tune of 21-9, did have a monopoly of the better J. A.

gridsters. The starting lineup for Williams Hall was: Fields (Roman) at quarterback; Burns and Boyd (both Greeks) at the halfback posts; Dixon (Roman) and Warren (Greek) at left and right end, respectively; and Crehore at the center position. The Rockwell players were Sper (Roman) and Dunn (Greek), halfbacks; McCracken (Roman) at quarterback; Hatch (Greek), Munsill (Gaul), and Homer (Roman) at left end, center, and right end in that order.

The game began with a bang as the Williams boys made all their scoring in the opening period. The first touchdown was made as Burns threw a nice pass to Dixon, who promptly tallied, then Boyd ran over the extra point through center to make the score seven love. Soon afterwards, however, Sper was tackled behind the goal for a safety, raising the total to nine on the Williams' scoring sheet. The Rockwell men were definitely stymied at this point of the game, but as their power broke loose they held Williams scoreless in the second period.

Gaining momentum, Rockwell featured the third period with a beautiful touchdown play. Dunn intercepted a pass and ran 75 yards for the first score. Much to the disgust of his teammates, though, it was Dunn who was the sole hero of the game, for in the last period he scored two more touchdowns. The first of these was scored when he fell on the ball behind the Williams' goal, where it rolled after a Rockwell kick-off. Again he intercepted a pass and made a similarly spectacular romp to the zero yard line. Since both of the last two attempts at converting extra points were successful, Rockwell House won the game, 21-9.

CIRCLE A CONDUCTS MAGAZINE CAMPAIGN

At the Circle A meeting on Thursday night at Mr. Baldwin's house, many important matters were discussed. Letters were sent out to town residents in preparation for the coming Academy Charities Drive. Friday noon magazines were collected by the organization, and though the former collections have not been large, it is hoped that more and more publications will be donated each week.

Plans are being completed for the Thanksgiving basket drive, in which people who can't afford to get the luxuries that go with a Thanksgiving Day, will be supplied by charitable institutions. Another collection that will be made in a few weeks is the gathering of old toys, which will be repaired in the workshop here, and presented to poor children. These things are done for a very worthy cause, and deserve the undergraduates' support.

RAIN CANCELS FINAL
CLUB GRIDDER GAME

Yesterday the club football season ended. The booters have had their last meeting, at least for this year. Scheduled for yesterday was a contest between a team picked by the club coaches and a player picked team; however, due to the rain on Thursday, the two groups were unable to practice their signals together. The game was, therefore, called off.

This year club football saw several outstanding players, particularly Dick Moody, Bob Dunworth, Bill Ross, Francis and Sleepy Reynolds. The general average of ability was high, and the team spirit was also good. The season closed with the Romans victorious by only half a game over the Saxons, who, in turn, just edged out the Greeks. The Roman-Gaul squad overcame the Saxon-Greek organization in a hard fought "All-Star" duel on Tuesday, ending the season.

SAXONS VICTORS
IN CLUB SOCCER

The active soccer season wound up Tuesday, for all but the All-Club men, with the Saxons on top by a close margin. After a very close race, first with Mr. Morgan's Gauls, and then Mr. Whitney's Romans. Mr. Allis' defending champs were quite happy when the too close finish came, with the defeat of Mr. Leavitt's Greeks on the last day.

The successful Saxon team was made up of men like A. G. Harris at goal, Tomkins, Shupe, Eatough, and Chun. This group, aided by the rest of the full team, was principally responsible for the victory of the Orange team.

Practice for the All-Club team has been held every day at two o'clock, with the rest of the club soccer men holding forth out at the track. Chosen for this all-star team are all the best men of all the club teams, with a manager chosen from the three whose clubs lost, either Meagan, Bull, or Arnold, respectively, of the Roman, Gaul, and Greek teams.

Harriers Run In
InterscholasticsCaptain Reilly
Leads Royal Blue

This afternoon, at 2:45, Captain Jim Reilly's cross-country team will compete in the annual interscholastic meet, which will be held here at Andover this year. Up until today, the squad's only outside competitor was its meet against St. John's, the winner of last year's Interscholastics. The Blue went down to defeat, 19-37.

Although P. A. only obtained third place last fall, Coach Boyle has high hopes that the team will do better this afternoon. This year Andover has a much stronger squad than they have had in the past several years. Captain Jim Reilly has been doing very well, and has a good chance of gaining a place for himself in today's competition. Also promising is Keltee, a prep, who placed second in the St. John's meet. Jack Lemmon, Corse, Knapp, White, and Nichols will also run.

Among the schools which the Blue will face this afternoon are Moses Brown, Cushing Academy, Hebron, Mt. Hermon, Hartland, and St. John's. Cullen of St. John's, who won the Interscholastics last year and also came in first against Andover a week ago last Wednesday, has an excellent chance of winning again today. The race will start behind George Washington Hall, near the entrance of the Cochran Bird Sanctuary. It is a rough course of about 2 7-10 miles of tough going. It winds through the Sanctuary, around the Log Cabin, down along Salem street, along the track, and ends up near the Cage.

As there are no athletic events today, there ought to be a big crowd out to cheer the team on to victory. The big race will begin at 2:45 behind George Washington Hall.

NEW HOCKEY RINKS
NEAR COMPLETION

The hockey rinks provided for by the administration last year are near the final stage in their construction. The club rinks near the track stands and the facilities for the Varsity and J. V. will be ready for use as soon as ice comes. It was originally planned to have the Varsity rink in the Sanctuary, but it has been found that it will be easier to operate the entire Varsity system as a single unit on Rabbits Pond.

These facilities are infinite improvements over last year's single Varsity rink. Hockey, the favorite outdoor winter competitive sport, will soon find an increasingly important place in Andover athletics. Coaches and players alike are very grateful to the student body for the enthusiasm which it showed last year. Mr. Knight, head coach, feels that with the added equipment it will be much easier to develop finer, more experienced teams than in the past and to develop constantly players of ability in the lower classes.

Bixby played the fullback positions. Macintyre was goalie.

Against this team was the second team, consisting of Williams and Watson at the wings, Boone and Barrett insides, and Stu Butler at center forward. Dick Viney, Jim Lambeth and Alex Twombly were the halfbacks, Sledge Howard and Phil Drake were the fullbacks, with Weaver in the goal.

The team will have another heavy scrimmage today and end up with light scrimmages Monday and Tuesday before the game Wednesday.

to Central's eleven, and Bill Robbins then dashed to less than a foot from the end zone. Dulaney then crashed through for the remaining inches, and made the final points of the game, the score then standing at 26-0.

An interesting sideline was the group of girl cheer leaders brought along by our opponents. They were constantly cheering their own team, though when either side made a long gain, squeals of delight seemed to be emitted by the group.
