185 Couples Swing to Arnold's Music in Gym

Mrs. Fuess's Tea, 8-in-1 Octet, Sports Contests Highlight Prom

Last Friday and Saturday, February 7 and 8, P. A. opened its doors to 185 captivating young damsels as the long-awaited highlight of the term, the Senior Prom, was held with the music of Chappie Arnold's orchestra. The event really commenced early Friday afternoon as soon as the classes disembarked at the Andover station. After stepping down from their gleaming Boston and name chariots and being greeted by their escorts, many of the earlier arrivals witnessed a victorious and well-cheered wrestling match with Roxbury Latin at Graves Hall. Other arrivals spent the early afternoon taking in the lights and investigating hitherto known recesses of the P. A. campus.

From 5 to 6 o'clock, an informal tea was held for the students and their guests by Mr. and Mrs. Fuess in their home. From there, the revellers and their guests trooped over to the Commons for a dance in the gym.

After changing to formal attire and thoroughly briefing themselves on the rules of the day, the partyers proceeded to the Borden gymnasium, where they were greeted by the Mesdames Fuess, McKmer, Newton, Sanborn, Maynard, Adriance, Higgins, Brown, and Hawes. Dancing began at 7:30.

Thanks to Messrs Trowbridge, Ford, Hart, and Cowley of the Prom Committee, the gymnasium presented quite an imposing spectacle with its decorations of streamers and bunting, and the whole affair went along smoothly. The sixteen dances of the evening were performed to the tunes of Chappie Arnold's orchestra. Frank Petti added his vocal talents to the entertainment to provide a fine brand of dance music, introduced to secluded P. A. by the notorious "Open the Door, Hard."

The new fashions seemed to be taken hold of the affair as a bare shoulder shielded a grin. The watchword of the evening seemed to be, "What's going on up?"

Philo Elects Merrill Young President

A bare quorum of the members of Philo gathered in the Bulfinch Debating Room last Wednesday afternoon to select their officers for the remainder of the school year. The following students were elected to office: Merrill Orne Young, president; Miles Irwin Levine, vice-president; Dick Henry, secretary; and Richard Becker, treasurer.

Although the quorum necessary to make the elections valid was present at the meeting, it was suggested that the elections be postponed until after the Pot Pourri picture of Philo had been taken, since more of the members would be available at that time. However, it was decided to proceed with the elections immediately.

President Elected

Nominations were then held for the office of president. Those designated were Merrill Young, previous treasurer of Philo; and Myron Michalovich, previous vice-president. Dick Hulbert was also nominated but declined the honor. The votes were then counted, and Hulbert announced that Merrill Young was the new president of Philo.

Again nominations were held, this time for the position of vice-president. Miles Levine, Ed Ottenheimer, Tom Calhoun, and Charles Summerall were suggested as candidates. Miles Levine was chosen for the office.

Dick Henry, Carl Greenburg, Richard Becker, Dan Wilkes, Roland Wille, and Ben Schemmer were the nominees for secretary. When the first ballots were taken and counted, Dick Henry and Carl Greenburg had an equal number of votes. The tie was settled by a second ballot, which gave Henry the majority and therefore the office.

Too Many Seniors

When the time arrived for the nominations to be held for the office of treasurer, those present were warned that so far all who had been selected for office were Seniors. It was suggested that the members select someone from one of the three remaining classes for their treasurer. Those nominated were Tim Smith, Carl Greenburg, Dick Becker, Ben Schemmer, and Tom Henderson, Henderson, however, withdrew his name from the list of nominees just before the vote was taken. Becker and Greenburg were tied after the first voting, but Becker finally triumphed and received the office.

Contest Winner

Honorable mention in the Westinghouse Sixth Annual Science Talent Search has been awarded to S. Preston Clement of the Senior Class. Honorable mention is given to 260 contestants out of 16,558 starters and 3,197 complete contestants. Preston has the distinction of being one of four or five representatives of independent schools on the list.

"TIME" CONTEST FEBRUARY 18TH

Book or World Globe Prize, No Preparation

P. A. will lose some distinction, but perhaps gain some ready knowledge when the Time-sponsored Current Affairs Test is conducted in Samuel Philips 7-8, at 7:45, Monday, February 18. Distinction will be lost because there are some three hundred and fifty independent schools conducting the test, but knowledge may be the reward if any of the competing Andoverians are alert enough to win prizes.

In each school a prize book or a twelve-inch world globe will be awarded to the student (of any class) who makes the highest score on a comprehensive factual test, covering events in the last four months of 1946. The directors of Time have stressed that no preparation will be necessary.

Prize winners may request any volume costing no more than five dollars. Applicants are urged to list several choices, because of the limited stocks now offered by publishers. Prize winners are also instructed not to ask for dictionaries or Bibles, since they are still almost impossible to obtain.

Means Essay Prizes

The dead-line for Means essays is Monday, March 3. Means' essays may be written by any member of the school. They should be of from 800 to 1000 words, and may be on any subject which you have approved. Preferably they should be personal, reflecting the writer's own feelings, observations, experiences, ideas. In writing their essays, boys ought to bear in mind the oral nature of this contest. The "Instructions of Judges" stipulate: "Awards shall be based two-thirds on composition, one-third on delivery."

Compositions written at any time during the current school year which meet the above-mentioned requirements are eligible. Prizes of $20, $10, and $5 will be awarded.

At the final contest, which will take place in mid-April, the best eight essays will be read before a student audience. Mr. Higgins will be glad to give further information to any boy who will come to him.

In a move unprecedented on Andover Hill, Tom Wyman and six charter members will attempt to found a chapter of the Student Federalists among the undergraduates. With headquarters in the basement of Oliver Wendell Holmes Library, the organization will be pledged to world government as its ultimate goal; and, in the process of spreading this doctrine, it will try to inculcate an interest in general current affairs among P. A. students.

Ping-Pong Paddlers Battle in Commons

Brumbaugh, Hubbard Lead 17-Man Ladder

With Bruce Brumbaugh in top spot and Ford Hubbard trailing a close second, the ping-pong ladder is starting its second year. The ladder was created to fulfill the desire of many boys for competition in this activity and possibly to form a team to play Exeter and other schools.

Dick Lincoln started the ping-pong ladder last year and held first place, while this year Gonzalez and Brumbaugh founded it, and the latter leads it. When the project was suggested, the ample support of the enthusiasts secured the much-appreciated cooperation of Mr. Ted Thoresen, proctor.

The principles of the ping-pong resemble those of the tennis ladder. Any player may challenge either one or two places above him, and those not on the list may challenge any of the last three. The top ten in order are: Bruce Brumbaugh, Ford Hubbard, Don Parsons, Lohr Gonzalez, Pablo Curbelo, Austin Graff, Bob Remis, Glen Foster, Chick Coon, Bruce Carroll.

Last year an effort was made to play a tournament with Exeter. Gonzalez had a letter published in the Exonian, asking for co-operation from that school. Since that approach failed, an attempt is being made this year to arouse support through Exeter friends of Andover boys.

MR. HARDING LEADS FIVE LOWERS IN TONIGHT'S RADIO PROGRAM

"From the Student's Side of the Blackboard" Subject For French, Hastie, Shaifer, Jordan, and Leonard

This evening, over Station WLAW, Lawrence, the Phillips Academy Hour will present a discussion of the students' reaction to his teachers. Mr. Harding will act as mediator for this discussion, which is entitled "From the Student's Side of the Blackboard." All the students participating in this talk are Lowers. They are L. A. French, C. A. Hastie, T. H. Shaifer, W. D. Jordan, and C. E. (Chazz) Leonard.

The discussion will deal with the ways in which different teachers, here and at other schools attended by the speakers, teach their subjects. The students will mention which ways they feel are best. All the criticism in this talk will be constructive, and any mention of particular teachers will not be permitted. Some of the ways of teaching that will be brought up in the discussion are the showing of the practical use of the subject to the student in later years, the use of humor and sarcasm in the classroom, and the bringing about of a close relationship between the teacher and student. The boys will also speak about the importance of the kind of surroundings which are best for learning, and about the kind of man who makes the best teacher.

Praise Program

The severest critics of the Phillips Hour considered this the best program ever presented by it. Johnny Olsen, star of the nationwide program, Ladies, Be Seated, and his associates attended the broadcast and said it was very good. Mr. Colby himself praised the participants for a very mature discussion.

Bird-Banders Trap Band Five Hundred

Tom Henderson Heads Bird Club Of Twelve

Under the direction of President Tom Henderson and Faculty Adviser Mr. George Follansbee the Bird-Banding Club has completed a successful Fall season. Five hundred birds were trapped, over three hundred of which had not been previously banded.

The purpose of the club is to provide those in the school interested in birds with a chance to work with them. It co-operates with the U. S. Fish and Wild Life Service, which acts as the Clearinghouse for data from various bird clubs from the entire country, at the end of each season the P. A. club sends its records to this bureau, and a check is made to see whether birds banded here have been reported elsewhere. Several years ago a bird which the Andover club had banded turned up in North Carolina. The F. W. L. S. supplies free the bands used.

Most Common Birds

The kinds of birds most often found in the Andover traps are juncos, fox sparrows, chickadees, white-throated sparrows, and bluejays. This year a bluejay was discovered which had last been banded in 1942. An interval of this length between bandings is very unusual because the birds rarely live this long. The record is seven years.

At the close of the season the Bird-Banding Club boasted twelve members, several of whom have grown quite proficient, particularly Henderson, who has established several records in bird identification which have been officially recognized by his home state of North Carolina.

Andover-Abbot French Play Now One Month from Stage

Stephen Whitney, of the Phillips Academy French Department, announced yesterday that the Andover-Abbot French Play, "Les Heures," will be presented at George Washington Hall on Friday evening, February 28. The cast has been especially fortunate with the benefit it has received from the superior advice and direction of Mlle. Germaine Arosa of the Abbot Academy faculty.

Madeline Treadway, Carolyn Pett, and Emily Gierach, all of whom will play the female roles. Brush, Bernard Varney, and Owsley, of Andover, will play the male cast. Rehearsals for "Les Jours Heureux" have been held ever since the beginning of October. Recently the cast has been rehearsing together on Wednesday and Sunday afternoons, while rehearsals for the play itself are not involving more than two or three at a time. Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday are stage manager's days. He and the stage crew

Federalists at Andover

SOMETHING new is being added. Bill Lynch's assembly talk this morning was the opening gun in a campaign to interest the Phillips Academy undergraduate in something more than proms, the dinner table, and Friday's history exam. To mean anything as a school, Andover must show some interest in more than purely local affairs. But does the Andover student take much active interest in the question of world peace?

It is inevitable that this problem should be actually closer to all of us than any other issue of modern times. Whether we and our children live in peace or die in atomic warfare depends on the judgment of people just like ourselves.

"We must make world citizenship in a world community a political fact . . . Only a new world sovereignty based on the principles of federalism can destroy the irresponsibilities of nationalism and effectually attack the economic and social problems whose solution is essential to the creation of a world community." This statement, quoted from the Student Federalist Charter, embodies the basic aims of the Federalist movement. If you believe in these ideas, come to Thursday's meeting and give your support. If you feel ignorant about it, come anyway and perhaps someone may convince you. If you oppose the world government theory, come to the later meetings and defend your point of view.

The attempt to organize a Student the plan. It has been gathering momentum since last fall when the Student Council appointed a three-man committee to look into the possibilities of creating such an organization. Exeter, whose Chapter is active in the Federalist movement, has been contacted. Arrangements are being made for speakers, and permanent organizational plans are under consideration.

No amount of planning or leadership, though, can make it a success. The determining factor is student support—and this means support by more than a small group of Philo members. It must have the backing of football players as well as honor roll students, of bridge fiends as well as chess experts. On an issue so important to the world, Andover must play a worthwhile part.

Tonight's Film

IN 1914, MACK SENNETT found himself without his ace comedian, Ford Sterling; he began looking around for someone new. He discovered a young man touring in vaudeville and immediately signed him up. This young man was Charlie Chaplin, who soon became the most famous screen comic of all time. Getting his start under Sennett in "Tilly's Punctual Romance," Chaplin went on, three years later, to make a dozen two-reelers for the producer Essena; Chaplin received six hundred and seventy thousand dollars for this set of pictures.

The pictures moving which we are to see tonight consist of a collection of the earlier slapstick silents this comedian made; this "Cavalcade of Laughs" has been recently put together with a sound track and should prove highly entertaining and interesting.

Saturday's Film

"Dragonwyck" is the semi-baked result of a semi-historical novel converted into a semi-historical film. The ostensible base is the Dutch Patron system on the upper Hudson river around 1840, but the only appealing base is the appearance of Gene Tierney, who makes the best effort at following the plot. She portrays a simple country girl who leaves her simple country home for employment in the mansion of a rich distant relative, Nicholas Van Ryn (Vincent Price). This gentleman is bad medicine for all simple country girls who leave home: in fact, he leads her astray and marries her, after dosing his previous wife with poison of one kind or another. Someone, in adapting the novel, interpolated a ghost in the storm and epitaphical, man-about-the-world Van Ryn is scared stiff by ghosts, so with the murder of his wife on his conscience and the unfindable ghost preying on his nerves, he gradually becomes insane. His malicious act brings on the denouement and happy marriage of a simple country girl.

This Andover

I, Morty Glip, have returned. To be sure, I am only a Prep and have been away only three days, but, nevertheless, I have returned. This may possibly strike you as perfectly normal, but this is not so. There is evidence lying all around me as to the intent of conspirators. Napoleon killed Caesar, McKinley assassinated John Wilkes Booth, and the females of the country, jealous of my social and political prominence, have endeavored to shade the name Morty Glip into oblivion.

Everything was peaceful on the evening of January ninth, when I returned from a weekend of staying up till eight o'clock, seeing a movie with my sister and little brother, and other such forms of riotous living. I had a song on my lips as I pushed open the door of my room. A cup of curling lotion fell from above the door and gave me hair "So lustrous, yet so easy to manage." A huge sign on the wall in front of me said "Tee hee!" This was good clean fun, and being a forgiving soul at heart, I smirked it off with a smirk. It was then, while looking through my books, that I found the first of the loving epistles left for me by the painful of radiance who had occupied my room. It read "Dear You: Your books looked a bit dry so I rubbed them well with vaseline. You needn't thank me. Until next year. Ingeborg Jahngcke." It was at this moment that I got the first inkling that it was no ordinary thing that had occupied my room, but someone with all the evil intentions of Cassius and Brutus. I dove for the telephone on my mahogany desk. While trying to find why it was dead, I came across the second note. "The wires looked grimy, so I sent them to the electricians. Yours, Inge." This hinted strongly of espionage. She is using a potent anti-morale program. She has torn down every piece of art I had on my walls, and has plastered pictures of a microphone with something hanging over it in a limpid sort of way.

With sweat breaking out all over, I collapsed into bed. There I found the final note from Inge. "Please take good care of the lobsters. They don't bite till they're hungry, which usually isn't till about 3:00 A. M. Your Old Oaken Bucket, Ingeborg Jahngcke."

Wyman Leads Move For P. A. Federalists

Charter members: Sandy Trowbridge, Don Blackmer, Dick Hulbert, Mike Suisman, Larry Lewis, and Bob Bruce. These seven founders have signed a petition requesting a charter, which is already on its way to headquarters in New York City.

Student Federalism is well-sponsored both by figures of national prominence and by Andover organizations and masters. Advisors to the Federalists include such notables as Clifton Fadiman, Emory Reeves, Justice Owen J. Roberts, Raymond Gram Swing, Dorothy Canfield Fisher, and Beardsley Ruml. On the Hill the new group is sponsored by the Student Council and THE PHILLIPPIAN. Dr. Fuess has given his hearty approval, while Dr. Johnson, Mr. Allis, and Mr. Blackmer have offered their active assistance. Many other members of the faculty favor this move as far as it arouses interest in international affairs.

Curt Farrar, a P. A. '44 now at Yale, is very active in Student Federalist activities. Chairman of the national organization's Finance Committee, he traveled to Prague last August as American representative for the Federalists.

Plans for some type of current affairs organization began last October at a meeting of the Student Council. That group appointed Wyman, Hulbert, and Blackmer to investigate various national groups which would suit P. A.'s need. Wyman corresponded with several agencies but finally chose the Student Federalist group as the suitable.

On Feb. 2 Bill Lynch came down from Exeter to meet with Wyman and the six appointed members. This meeting, in addition to the many letters previously received from the Exeter chapter, formed the basis of the organization. A final report was made to the Council on Feb. 5, and THE PHILLIPPIAN was given full details of the campaign two days ago.

The introductions to Student Federalism by Tom Wyman and Bill Lynch begin a new idea at Andover. The registrations which take place tomorrow provide any student school the opportunity to join national student party.

MATMEN EDGE ROXBURY AS GORDON, LINN STAR

Decisions Registered in All Matches; Captain Stuckey Injured, Forfeits

The Andover matmen could not have staged a better show for the Prom-goers than their 17-11 win last Friday. During the meet Buddy Linn won over a previously undefeated opponent, Bob Gordon wrestled rings around an Irishman who out-weighted him by fifteen pounds, and Captain Stuckey walked off the mat in the second period with a strained shoulder.

The meet began with the 165-pound match between Connors of Roxbury Latin and Ordeman of Andover. Connors is affectionately known as "Pick-'em-up-and-smash-'em-down," but was unable to smash Ordeman down for a pin. Ordeman showed a lot of fight and excellent training. The next was a clear decision for Karl Lemp, Andover, in the 121-pound class.

Linn, Gordon Spectacular
In the outstanding match of the year, P. A.'s calm Buddy Linn won an 8-2 decision over a previously undefeated Roxbury favorite. Then Joel Kozol defeated his Latin opponent.

Drury Vinton, substituting for Gordon in the 136-pound class, was pitted against an unexperienced Roxbury man who forfeited the match by a technical fall.

Andover's infallible Bob Gordon then defeated his 145-pound Latin opponent.

Stuckey forfeited because of a strained-shoulder, and then Dave Waring's fight could not overcome his foe's experience.

BASKETBALL

With the Romans leading in both the Junior-Lower and Upper-Senior Leagues, Corbello and Champlin, high scorers of the Gauls, are helping their team stay in the competition for first. Among the upper-classmen, the Greeks passing seems to be holding them in the cellar, in spite of the efforts of McGill and Fink to coordinate the team.

Junior-Lower League Standing

	Won	Lost	Pts.
Romans	5	1	10
Greeks	4	2	8
Saxons	3	3	6
Gauls	0	6	0

Upper-Senior League Standing

	Won	Lost	Pts.
Romans	5	1	10
Gauls	4	2	8
Saxons	2	4	4
Greeks	1	5	2

These standings do not include the results of the games played on Monday and Tuesday.

SWIMMING

Starting out a full meet schedule in Club swimming, the Romans and the Gauls tied at 24-24, and the Saxons beat the Greeks, 28-20. Burgess of the Greeks registered a good 30.5 in the 50 yard freestyle race against the Saxons. Stewart and J. Ottenheimer placed first and third in the breaststroke to pick up six points for the Saxons, with E. J. Ottenheimer coming in second for the Greeks. The Saxons took first and third again in the backstroke, Leonard and Miller placing. In the 100 yard freestyle, Saxons' Cooper and Cornell swept first and second. The Saxons took the medley relay, but the Greeks came back to win the 200 yard freestyle relay in 2:07.8.

In the tied meet between the Gauls and the Romans, Webster and Urnes placed first and second to earn eight points in the 50 yard freestyle race for the Gauls. Again the Gauls gained first and second place rewards when Young and Banta took the 100 yard freestyle, Young winning in 1:09.5. Lindsay of the Romans won the 50 yard backstroke, with Miller pulling in a second for the Gauls. The Romans swept both relays, winning the 200 yard freestyle in a fraction of a second faster than the Saxon team's time of 2:07.8.

Blue Quintet Mangles Mass. Maritime, 85-24

Entire Squad Scores in Complete Rout of Sailors; Fleming Hoops 16

Last Wednesday's game with Massachusetts Maritime was one of the highest-scoring brawls ever seen in the Borden gym, with Andover winning by a sixty-point margin, 85-24. In a game which saw the second and third stringers playing most of the second half, Center Pete Fleming was high scorer with 16 points, with everyone else on the squad of sixteen managing to dump in at least two.

In the first half, the Sailors played a fast but sloppy game, and were easily outmatched by the more careful Blue squad, who intercepted many bad passes to set up scoring plays. Handicapped by the late arrival of their first-string players, Maritime could not keep up with the Blue, which steadily built its lead up to a twenty-point margin. An interesting part of the half was Johnny Clayton's sinking, from midcourt, of three set shots in a row, without touching the backboard.

After starting off the second half with his first team men, Coach DiClemente soon sent in the second and third stringers, who did almost as good a job. As the half wore on, the last of the third-stringers left his seat on the bench, and when Anderson, the last man to score, sunk one, a tremendous cheer arose from the gallery. The Sailors, obviously unable to cope with the steady stream of fresh replacements, fought valiantly none-

RELAY TEAM FALLS TO EXETER IN B. A. A.

Appel Takes Second in Pole Vault At 13 Ft., 6 In.; Harvard Saturday

With one lap to go in the Andover-Exeter one-mile relay at the B. A. A. games in Boston Saturday night, Hummel, the Reds' anchor man, caught up to and overtook Andover's Vic Tyler as Exeter won the event. This Saturday the whole track team meets the Harvard J. V.'s, against whom in two meets last year Andover both lost and then won.

Appel Excels in Pole Vault

By far the Blue's outstanding performer in the B. A. A. was George Appel. Competing against sixteen other pole vaulters, all college men or older, Appel took a rousing record of 13 feet, 6 inches, only 2 1/2 inches below the school record of 13 feet 8 1/2 inches, which was once the world's interscholastic record, and a foot higher than he has ever done before.

Appel cleared the 12 foot and 13 foot marks with ease in his first jumps. Then in his first try at the 13 feet, 6 inch mark he just cleared the bar, which quivered but stayed in place. Boo Morcom of New Hampshire and Appel, the only remaining candidates, both failed at 14 feet, so each was given another try. As spectators stood in the aisles for the last bit of excitement, Morcom cleared the bar to take first, Appel failing to clear and taking second.

Last Lap Victory

In the relay, Andover won the pole, but Exeter's Ellis, their track captain of last year, took the lead over Kirk Parrish on the first turn; however, Parrish regained the lead on the next lap. Gregg Thompson lengthened Andover's lead in the second quarter-mile against Proctor, and Don Sharp lengthened it even more over the Reds' Brooke.

In the last quarter, Vic Tyler, captain of the relay team, had a fifteen yard lead which he stretched out even more. But on showing last Wednesday, Andover has consistently improved throughout the season, and if it continues to do so, a successful year is assured.

the last lap, Exeter's Hummel found his stride, and, slowly cutting down the Blue's lead, he took the lead himself on the last turn, finishing ten yards in front. The winning time of 3 minutes, 39 seconds was considerably slower than Andover's 3 minutes, 33 seconds win of last year. Andover's time Saturday was approximately 3 minutes, 41 seconds.

P. A. Handed 3-1 Set Back At St. Paul's

Hockey Squad Plays Best Game of Year; Rindge, Hampton, Next

While losing a 3-1 decision at ever-formidable St. Paul's school last Wednesday, February 5, the Andover hockey team showed signs of finally fulfilling the expectations which preceded this sluggish and often iceless season. With Biddy Bidgood again strengthening the defense, and a second line offensively better than the first, the Blue sextet played their best game of the year, in spite of the roughness in fundamental teamplay, resulting from the lack of practice.

Playing on ice so fast as to handicap the visiting Andover team, St. Paul's three strings, more well-balanced and poised than spectacular, netted two goals in the first period, but were outplayed in the second. In this frame, Bidgood, completely recovered from his painful Melrose-tilt injury, clicked with a long shot for Andover's lone tally. Coming back with a clinching goal, the St. Paul's skaters held the edge throughout the third period. Outshot 24 to 16, Andover kept the game tight through the fine net-tending of Lary Lewis.

Dunlap Proves Fine Lineman

The conversion of Whitey Dunlap from defenseman to forward has proved a vital factor in the encouraging strength of the second line of Captain Fortmiller, Lufkin, and Dunlap. Fast, tricky, and aggressive, Dunlap appears on the way to becoming an outstanding lineman, while Lower Bill Thomson shows much promise on the third line. In spite of the offensive improvements, the two alternating defensive pairs, Bidgood and Fred Zonino, and Jim Zonino and Horne, remain the strongest part of the team.

This afternoon Rindge Tech will provide tough opposition for the sextet on Rabbits Pond, while New Hampton, of which nothing is known, will face off here Saturday.

.. On The Sidelines ..

By Dick Henry

these clear, cold N. E. days.

Red blood matched red lipstick last Friday as promgoers watched Tom Calhoun and George Kurzon draw the you-know-what from each other's faces down at the Cage. There were other exhibition bouts too, but this was the drawing card.

Our quintet are enjoying their rest, after that grueling game last Wednesday. Mass. Maritime's weakness came as a happy (!) surprise: surprise because the Sailors were so strong on the gridiron.

Rumor has it that the J. V. hockey sextet is laden with power, and we're all expecting to hear a trimming to some nineteen-year-old undefeated favorite, who was finally helped from the mat. By Gordon and Drury Vinton also called for the Blue, while Lemp vanquished an old Roxbury buddy.

Last Saturday at the B. A. A. contests in the Boston Garden George Appel put thirteen and half feet between him and his prints, if there's anyone in school who didn't know. The interscholastic record had been and is 13 ft., 2 in., for Moose's who didn't register in the interscholastic column. He almost cleared feet, but he left a finger dangling and the cross-bar toppled. Morcom, the New England collegiate champ, was the only contestant who surpassed Moose, he did it at fourteen.
