Alumni Banquet

Nearly two hundred of the Alumni of Phillips Academy met at the Vendome in Boston, Wednesday evening, for the biennial banquet. After some pleasant remarks, Dr. Mowry introduced the first speaker of the evening, the governor.

Gov. Greenhalge said that schools like Phillips Academy are the bulwark as well as the ornament of our country. An educated man is an education in himself by his very presence and influence, and such men are developed in such schools.

Speaking of athletics, he regretted that there should be such a thing as underhand methods possible, and expressed the hope that Andover and Exeter might carry on their contests on such a plane that there need be no suspicion on either side. President Eliot referred to the comparative merits of the training afforded in our English and Classical courses, declaring that the English was much inferior to the Classical. Dr. Bancroft spoke with feeling of the work the Academy is trying to do and also of some of the difficulties with which the administration has to contend. Of athletics, he said: "I am proud to say that not five, or four, or three, or two, or one of our football eleven has left school, because of too high scholarship or too low scholarship, or because they have too much money, or too little money."

Hon. Sherman Hoar, president of Exeter Alumni Association, said that the Alumni of Exeter were willing to admit that the lustre of the victory in football was dimmed by what followed it.

Prof. Coy of Lakeville said that it gave him pleasure to see some of his former pupils, and that he never would forget the good feeling which existed between him and his classes. The menu was as follows:

- Blue Pointe
- Consomme Francaise
- Puree of Tomato, with Celery
- Boiled Penobscot Salmon, Sauce Riche
- Sliced Cucumbers
- Potatoes Colberg
- Tenderloin of Beef, Berthier
- Roast Turkey, Piemontaise
- Cream Corn, Potatoes Cherboung
- Cauliflower au gratin
- Royal Punch
- Crepinettes of Lamb, Parmentiere
- Mixed Chicken, English Style
- Sweetbreads en Caise, Flamande
- Appetite a la Regence
- Bavarois a l'Orange, Jellie Rubance
- Assorted Cakes
- Ice Cream, Pancake, Fancy Water-Ices
- Bananas, Oranges, Apples
- Crackers
- Cheese, Olives
- Confection

Dr. Mowry presented to Dr. Bancroft a portrait of Dr. Arnold, which at one time belonged to Prof. Taylor. During the evening the Phillips Glee Club entertained the company with several selections.

Forum

Forum held its meeting as usual in room 9, on Friday evening. D. B. Eddy opened the meeting with prayer, which was followed by the roll call and minutes of the last meeting. Under miscellaneous business, Stuart was proposed for membership and accepted. Hamilton in his critique, which was short and crisp, gave some good suggestions. The extempore was given by J. Harrington on the U. S. Navy. Widdicomb gave an address on the "Moundbuilders," describing some of the chief works of these people in the western part of the United States. Howard was invited to give a farewell declamation and rendered "Lascia" in its most pleasing way. Chamberlain as leader on the affirmative, opened the debate of the evening, "Should the Press be totally free?" H. P. Bale in turn led on the negative. D. L. Eddy assisted Chamberlain and Wheeler was Bale's assistant. When Howard had spoken from the house on the negative, a vote was taken and the weight of argument was found to lie with that side. The president also gave his decision in favor of the negative. The meeting then adjourned.

Editorial Rooms at Yale

In the basement of the new White Dormitory at Yale there are to be editorial rooms for each of the four Yale publications, the Yale News, the Lit, the Courant and the Record. These papers have heretofore had very poorly equipped rooms in the old dormitories. The new ones will be finely furnished and will prove to be of great benefit to the publications. The News will have three rooms and the others one each. These rooms will be the best of their kind in the country.

Notice

Barker, Hine, James, Grant, Tyler and Whitford will report in front of the Academy at 4:30, dressed for cross country run. Other track team candidates will please report at gym. W. H. Hannon, Captain.

Yale University Base-ball Team

The number of candidates for the Yale varsity base-ball team has now been reduced to twenty-seven. The work at present consists of light practice in the cage and short runs outside. The men now in training are as follows: Speer, '95; Carter, '95; McCandless, ex-P.S. '94, '96 S.; Colgate, P.A. '92, '96; Dwight, P.A. '91, '95; Greenway, ex-P.S. '93, '95 S.; Farham, ex-P.A. '92, '95 S.; George, '94; Howland, '94; Gunther, '95 S.; Arbutnot, '94; Keator, '97; W. Miller, '96; Murphy, P.A. '93, '97; Redington, L.S.; Quimby, '95 S.; Trudeau, '96; Warner, '94; Taylor, '96; Thorne, '96; Wilcox, '95 S.; Bigelow, '94; Stephenson, '95 S.; Rustin, P.S. '91, '95 S.; Hedges, P.S. '92, '96; Goss, '94; and H. Miller, '95.

Extempore Speaking at Yale

The Yale class of '92 have established two new prizes for extempore speaking. They are called the Thacher prizes in honor of the late Professor Thacher. The first is one hundred dollars and the second fifty dollars. The subjects were announced to be as follows: "Our Policy toward Hawaii"; "The Position of the English Executive as compared with the American"; "The Relation between the United States and the Railroads"; and "The Treatment of Anachists". Preliminary trials will be held March 28 and April 7, and the final speaking will take place during the first week in May. The competitors will study these subjects and each one, five minutes before his turn, will be given a particular phase of the subjects to speak about.

Cornell's Debaters Chosen

The three Cornell men to debate with delegates from the University of Pennsylvania have finally been chosen. They are W. P. Chapman, Jr. of Norwich, N. Y. and H. L. Fordham and J. W. Sherwood of Ithaca. Mr. Chapman last year won the '86 memorial prize in declamation, and Mr. Fordham and Mr. Sherwood have both taken a prominent part in the public debates that have been held under the auspices of the Cornell Congress and Woodford Debating Club. Mr. Chapman is a member of the senior class of the law school, and Messrs. Sherwood and Fordham are seniors in the University.

No Foot-ball between Annapolis and West Point

There will be no foot-ball matches between the naval cadets of Annapolis and the military cadets of West Point. Ever since the great game at Annapolis last fall, the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of War have been considering the advisability of allowing these annual military-naval matches to continue, and in order to help them in deciding the matter, reports were called from the superintendents of the academies. These reports were received recently and the superintendents agreed that while foot-ball was a good thing for the cadets on their own grounds, trips to other places to play teams there seriously interferes with study and discipline. Secretary Lamont and Secretary Herbert had a talk over the question and have indorsed these views of the superintendents and issued orders accordingly.

The Harvard Base-ball Schedule

The managers of the Harvard Base Ball nine have arranged the following games for the Varsity:
April 14, Williams at Williamstown
April 19, Amherst at Cambridge
April 24, Dartmouth at Cambridge
April 26, Dartmouth at Cambridge
April 28, Holy Cross at Worcester
May 1, Williams at Cambridge
May 5, Princeton at Princeton
May 19, Brown at Providence
May 22, Univ. of Mich. at Cambridge
May 30, Princeton at Cambridge.

Changes in Foot-ball Rules

The famous Princeton quarter-back King, who is judged to be the best all-round foot-ball player in the country, believes that a radical change in foot-ball is not desirable, but that more explicit rules would be productive of the best results. He recommends that the flying wedge be abolished and that a forfeit of ten or fifteen yards instead of five be the penalty for throwing a man on a fair catch. Furthermore, there should be two umpires instead of one. A change in the system of scoring is very necessary. It is evident that for a goal from a touch-down to count two and a touch-down but four is not just. King thinks a touch-down should count five and a goal from a touch-down one. In regard to the number of yards required to be made on a certain number of downs, five yards on three downs is a proper distance. The rule giving five yards for off-side play is in many cases unjust.

The Andover Press.

One of the complaints of a good many men in school is the lack of social life here. Although of course the opportunities are less than at their homes, the fellows do not make the most of the chances they have. We refer especially to calling on the professors. The intercourse between the students and professors in a school where the classes are so large is necessarily limited in class-room and unless they are thrown together outside of class they do not get to know each other as well as they should. The calling night on Tuesdays offers just this opportunity and those who avail themselves of it will be well repaid by the better understanding which will spring up between them and their instructors.

Eton College.

Eton College has just celebrated with much rejoicing, the four hundred and fifty-second anniversary of its foundation. It owes its origin to King Henry VI, who provided from his own purse funds for the erection of the buildings, endowed the school, formed a charter for it and, in order that it should not lack scholars, caused 35 of the Winchester boys to be transferred to Eton. The college buildings which were erected in 1440 are still in a wonderful state of preservation.

University of Pennsylvania Athletic Rules.

The Faculty Conference Committee of the University of Pennsylvania and a committee consisting of the directors of the Athletic Association have drawn up a new set of athletic rules, similar to the action of Harvard and Yale. The rules are to go into effect at once. Rules I and II, with relation to amateur standing and bona-fide students, are substantially the same as Harvard's rules on these points. Rule III, which treats of the number of years during which a man can play upon a University team, is similar to Harvard's rule except that the time limit of playing is four years regardless of whether a man has represented a college team before or not. The reason for this rule is that many of the colleges from which the University of Pennsylvania draws her men are no larger than the large preparatory schools of New England.

The other rules read as follows: "IV, No student shall be permitted to participate in any athletic contest until he shall have procured a certificate of physical fitness issued by the directors of physical culture in conformity with the rules hereafter to be adopted by the Faculty Conference Committee. "V, No student shall be permitted to play on more than one athletic team in a single year unless he obtains permission to do so from the Faculty Conference Committee. "VI, The election of captains of the University teams shall be subject to joint ratification by the Faculty Conference Committee and the Board of Directors of the Athletic Association.

It would be hardly true to say our furnishing goods stock is "fresh every hour," but it's kept brightened up by new goods which, even at this early day, are arriving constantly.

First it was hats, then skirts, and now it's neckwear.

A shipment received on Friday brought some very choice spring colorings and patterns in Tecks and Four-in-hands, graduated and flowing end. Small knots will be more popular than ever this season.

Did you ever think how much a bright colored scarf livens up the old suit?

Try it and see if it isn't so—it won't cost much, for any of these new spring scarfs can be had for 50 cents.

The Yale Varsity base-ball nine has decided to play no games with professional teams hereafter, as it is thought to demoralize the nine and to detract from the interest displayed by the members of the college.

The manager of the Yale nine in refusing to play with the New York
League team gives the following reasons: First—Exhibition games with League teams are unsatisfactory as the professionals do not try to play well; second, the season is early and the ground is generally frozen when these games are played; third, games played in New York tend to demoralize the college nine, and fourth, but few Yale alumni are interested in games played against professional teams.
