ADDRESS IN CHAPEL

Dr. Hugh Cabot Tells of Experiences with Harvard Surgical Unit

Dr. Hugh Cabot of the Harvard surgical unit gave a very interesting account of his experience at the front in France to an audience which filled Stone chapel last Monday evening. Dr. Cabot has until recently been actively engaged in the work of his unit in the trenches and from his actual experiences was able to describe vividly the life at the front. Dr. Stearns introduced the speaker who first gave a general idea of England's attitude in this war.

He said that England was entirely dedicated to the war which they were waging, not to protect their trade but to defend the idea of fair play and square deal. It has taken time to bring the extravagant English nation around to the fact that they are in a serious war on which the position of the future of the English nation depends. Dr. Cabot stated that he thinks the Zeppelin raids have done a great deal towards bringing this about and have therefore been a good thing for England rather than an injury, as most journalists portray it to be. The only differences between the London of five years ago and of to-day is the absence of all illumination at night, the autos being steered entirely by whistles.

Dr. Cabot then spoke of the actual fighting and mentioned the well-known fact that England was totally unprepared for war, whereas Germany was ready to begin a war at a moment's notice. But now England has finally gathered a fairly respectable army, and their artillery and aviation corps are now better than those of the Germans. The speaker went on to give a fine description of the trenches and of the mode of attack which is too long to be fully described here.

The trenches, contrary to general belief, are made of concrete, under which are the so-called 'dugouts', which extend back from the trenches and are capable of holding from 2000 to 3000 men. The method of attack is by reducing the trench by artillery fire and then rushing it.

Dr. Cabot made it clear that the idea of the English forces was not to break through the German lines in Belgium, but to spread them out as far as possible and to kill off the Germans gradually. The striking feature of the war as it draws to a close will be the slow, steady growth of the English people until they finally emerge as the greatest power in the war. The sentiment of the British is not one of hatred for the Germans, but one of pity for a misled people. They believe that the Germans have been greatly deceived and hope by the death of the German aristocracy to again show them the way out of their troubles.

A striking feature of the present English system of efficiency, is shown by a small railroad which is supplying the English and French armies with guns, food, ammunition, etc. This railroad runs trains every five minutes and has not yet had a wreck. The most remarkable

YALE DEFEATS HARVARD

Before the largest crowd that ever saw a football game in this country, the Yale team, led by "Cupid" Black, defeated Harvard last Saturday, 6 to 3, and put Yale on her feet in the foot ball world once more. While the game was one of the closest and most exciting ever played between the two institutions, the superiority of the Yale team was evident throughout the contest. There was little of the open and spectacular play which characterized the Yale-Harvard game last year, both teams relying for the most part on straight line plunges and end runs.

The interest of the crowd centered around Casey and LeGore, because of the reputations which these two stars had attained in the previous games. Casey was more brilliant than his opponent, and once broke away for a 72-yard run, but LeGore was the more reliable of the two and his ability to hit the line and skirt the ends with equal skill, gave him the preference over the Harvard man.

Due to LaRoache's fumble in the first period, Harvard gained possession of the ball on Yale's 30-yard line. After Yale had held the Crimson backs for two downs without any gain, Robinson dropped back and kicked a field goal, making Harvard's only score.

In the next period, Yale rushed the ball to Harvard's 40-yard line, where LeGore fumbled. Gates, Yale's left tackle, quickly picked up the ball and ran to Harvard's 12-yard line before he was tackled. From here the powerful Yale backs advanced the ball to the 2-foot line. LeGore was then given the ball and he plunged across the goal line for the first touchdown which Yale has scored on Harvard since the days of "Ted" Coy. Comerford failed to kick the goal. From that time on, no doubt remained in the minds of the spectators as to the outcome. Murray was put in at quarterback for Harvard and he threw pass after pass in hopes that one would get away from the Yale backs and turn the tide, but it was all in vain.

Casey once received the ball on a fake kick formation and dodged his way 72 yards through the entire Yale team for a touchdown. A Harvard lineman was caught tripping, however, and the ball was brought back. Harvard then uncorked another forward pass from a trick formation and for a moment it seemed as though it would succeed. LeGore, however, rushing up, caught the ball, and ran it back 10 yards before he was downed. The game ended here with the ball on Yale's 40-yard line.

Manager Elections

At the school meeting held yesterday morning, "Port" Shurtleff, '18, of Lancaster, N. H., was elected manager of football for next year and "Pates" Boyle, '18, of Uniontown, Pa., was chosen to manage the soccer team.

Coburn Re-elected Soccer Captain

Just before the picture of the Soccer team was taken Monday afternoon at Sherman's studio, Captain Dean Coburn was re-elected for the coming year.

This is for the benefit of those who intend to remain in town for the evening and a large audience is expected. All of the actors are students, who have some talent in this line. At the close of the performance light refreshments will be served and a chance to meet the different members of the faculty and their families will be afforded. Mr. Daly, who has charge of the affair, has announced the following program:

The Ragpickers

Hockey

With five veterans back and good new material, the hockey outlook is promising. Last year the team had only a fairly successful season. The veterans are Captain Allen, Wanamaker, who played a star game, against Exeter last year, Crane, last year's captain, Thurlow, and Boltwood, who played the last half of Exeter game at goal. Shedden and Ingraham are from last year's squad. Warren, a new man, is a former St. Paul's star and is a very promising man. Preliminary to practice on the ice, the team has been playing field hockey on the campus behind Taylor Hall.

INQUIRY

Mr. Harry A. White Talks about the O.M.C.A. Prison Camps Abroad

The Society of Inquiry had Mr. Harry A. White for its speaker last Sunday evening, the traveling secretary for the Y. M. C. A. in India and Egypt. Mr. White has been in this work for five and a half years and is well acquainted with the present conditions in the prison camps which he described in a vivid manner. The meeting opened with a hymn followed by a prayer by Mr. Stackpole. President Walker then introduced the speaker who plunged directly into his subject by describing the conditions of the Australian army around Cairo, Egypt.

In Cairo, he said, there were no places of any kind for recreation, writing, or reading for the men. These men, so worn out and exhausted after a hard day's work, were easily tempted in their efforts to find amusement of some kind to relieve the terrible strain on their minds or get something to eat. One Y. M. C. A. secretary started to help these men in the best way he could, by giving them paper on which they might write home, and relieve the terrible strain on their minds or get something to eat. One Y. M. C. A. secretary started to help these men in the best way he could, by giving them paper on which they might write home, and trying to provide some amusement for them. Gradually the work grew and moving pictures, lectures, games, etc., were provided and the men were given a chance to get something decent to eat. Finally 86 centers were established all over Egypt.

Mr. White told of an incident when 70 Y. M. C. A. men were captured by the invading desert fighters of Tripoli and carried off to prison camps in the interior of the desert. An English nobleman fitted out several Ford cars with guns and gathered a rescuing expedition, which started over the desert to rescue the prisoners. When they finally reached the prison camp the prisoners were so glad to see them that they broke loose from their captors and fairly threw themselves on the rescuing party, who were forced to beat them back in order to defend them all against the outlaws. When finally these poor captives were brought safely back to Cairo, they were feasted and given many honors.

The demand for some place where the soldiers might go and hear about Christianity grew so great that the Y. M. C. A. fitted out a big hall. The meetings here proved so attractive that this hall was filled with soldiers at all hours of the day and night.

Mr. White went on to describe the horrible condition of things at Gallipoli before the Y. M. C. A. began to take hold there. When it got firmly established they ran a boat every day to the peninsula, loaded with buns, and when this boat docked, there would be thousands of soldiers and officers waiting to purchase them. One of the Y. M. C. A. tents was blown up there, but another one was erected with "Y. M. C. A." painted in

THE ANDOVER PRESS

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1916

This issue is in charge of J. A. Smith Jr., '18.

All those who were at the meeting of the Society of Inquiry last Sunday evening and heard Mr. White speak of the terrible conditions in the belligerent armies in Europe, do not need to be urged further to aid the worthy cause in the behalf of which he came to Andover. For the benefit of those however, who found it impossible to hear Mr. White, a few words might be of advantage.

We Americans, in this age of prosperity, who are profiting from this terrible strife, find it extremely difficult to realize all of the suffering, which takes place in Eyrope. America has always responded well in the past, and now is helping in the several surgical and ambulance units, in this way doing an invaluable service. When the call came to aid the Serbians, she was not found wanting. Now a new appeal comes,—an appeal which ought to be of interest particularly to the young men in the colleges and preparatory schools throughout the country. As the Great War continues, the men who are enrolled in the English army are largely those of our own age, taken from Eaton and Rugby, schools in England which correspond to Andover and Exeter in this country. Daily, the number of prisoners increase, and as the cold weather comes on the provisions made for prisoners are becoming entirely inadequate. Men are herded in small huts like so many cattle and food is dealt out which is scarcely able to keep the body and soul together.

Then too; the sanitary conditions are very poor in these camps and once disease gets started, it is practically impossible to stop it. To-day, a prominent Philadelphia physician leaves for Berlin in an attempt to assist in the work of preventing disease.

The good which the Y. M. C. A. is doing, and plans to continue, if the necessary funds are furnished is immense. It gives a small amount of variety in the food and also supplies hot drink to the prisoners; Y. M. C. A. club-houses are used, and means of amusement is furnished; schools are started so that boys may continue their work, or, at least, not forget what they have learned; and the sanitary conditions are improved upon.

To continue this good work, during the coming winter, large sums of money are necessary and it is intended to collect these from the students in college and preparatory school. It is hoped that every one will give up some pleasure that he feels he can go without this year and give the money he would have spent in that way, when the call comes. Contributions are not desired that merely necessitate the asking from one's parent, but contributions that may necessitate some sacrifice—not ten cents, or fifty cents, or a dollar, but a sum of sufficient size that the donor may look back upon this in time to come and have the satisfaction of knowing that he did his part.

"H" Men in Harvard University

There are at present 70 men in Harvard University who have earned the privilege to the "H", two of which have received special awards for tennis and golf. Wilcox is the only man to win three letters, while Harte, Percy, Caner, Saltonstall and Taylor, P. A. '14, have been awarded two.

Twenty-six preparatory schools are represented by "H" men. Exeter leads, but it is interesting to note that Andover is fifth. This is an extremely good representation considering the comparatively few men who go to Harvard.

The list here includes several men who are taking law and graduate courses, and therefore are ineligible.

The following is the table of "H's".

FATIMA

A Sensible Cigarette

Such men want comfort
AFTER smoking

IT'S NOTICEABLE that more and more substantial men are choosing Fatimas for their steady smoke. There must be some reason for it. Surely, these men would quickly pay a far higher price for another cigarette if it suited them better.

That is just it. No other cigarette can quite give what Fatimas give.

Some other cigarettes taste good, yes. But Fatimas do more—they are comfortable. Not only are they comfortable to the throat and tongue while you smoke them, but, much more important, they leave a man feeling keen and "fit" after smoking, even though he smokes more than usual.

feature of the whole campaign is the absence of the diseases which have been prevalent in all other wars, notable among which are typhoid, malaria and lock-jaw. These have all been practically done away with, although there has been some trouble with gangrene. The problem of getting the wounded from the first line trenches to a place where they might be taken care of, has been solved by the ambulances, many of which are being driven by American boys.

Here Dr. Cabot left his topic and spoke of the problem of America in the war. He said that we had been asked to remain neutral in a time when no red-blooded man is able to do so, because of the Lusitania affair and other insults. The effect of the prosperity brought about by the war in this country has been that of a drug or intoxicant. No one who believes in the liberty and freedom of America is able to remain neutral, for that is the thing for which the Central Powers are fighting. So far America has done practically nothing and unless it wakes up soon, it will have no friends when this war is ended. England and France have been our friends in our hour of trouble and instead of helping them now, we are simply making money out of their suffering. Dr. Cabot expressed a belief that there is still time to right ourselves in the eyes of the world, and emphasized the point that it was time to begin.

Wrestling

This year a large wrestling squad has reported and the outlook for a good season is very bright. The team has a nucleus of six veterans, Captain Russell, Townley, Scott, Walker, Horton and Talmage.

There are several former class team stars and some very good new material. The team with "Cyclone" Burns as coach, is improving rapidly. No meets will be held this term, but a temporary squad has been picked as follows:

119 pounds: Townley and Quealy.
129 pounds: Granger, Hale, and Scott.
139 pounds: Kreider and P. Brown.

149 pounds: Miller and Walker.
159 pounds: Horton and Dines.
169 pounds: Avery and Talmage.
175 pounds: Captain W. Russell.
Heavyweight: Captain W. Russell.

big letters on it and this was respected by the Turkish Airmen.

Mr. White said that these were only a few examples of the great work the Y. M. C. A. is doing and asked the men if they realized that there were 5,700,000 men confined in prison all over Europe. The Y. M. C. A. is doing its best to reach all these, but more funds and more men are needed, before any real, appreciable work can be accomplished.
