DR. ALLYN K. FOSTER SPEAKS TO S. OF I. AT MEETING ON SUNDAY

Fred Capers, President Of Society, Opens Meeting
With Short Prayer

HUNDRETH ANNIVERSARY

Current Topics Of Interest To All
Discussed In Open Forum

Dr. Allyn K. Foster, at the 100th anniversary meeting of the Society of Inquiry in Peabody House Sunday evening, led a very interesting forum on schoolboy problems. A very interested audience attended.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Fred Capers which was followed with a brief talk by Dr. Foster. The theme of this talk was, "The honest skeptic is the one who is a help to religion and the world." The open forum was full of interest and good advice, touching on problems met by almost every schoolboy. Among the topics brought up were pacifism, drinking, the Negro question, and the customary sex relations question.

In reply to the question on drinking, Dr. Foster said that, while complete abstinence from liquor was unnecessary, one should refrain from acquiring the habit. Likewise his reply to pacifism was that, although one should fight when necessary, it was a good daily plan to work toward peace. To the Negro question, Dr. Foster stated that absolute equality of all rights was utterly impossible, mentioning inter-marriage as an important barrier. He vehemently discouraged illicit sex relations on the grounds that it destroys the moral fiber of the offenders.

His definition of good, "Any act which does no harm to any one else and leaves one as good a man or better than before," is indeed worthy of some thought.

COACH DAKE STARTS SWIMMING PRACTICE

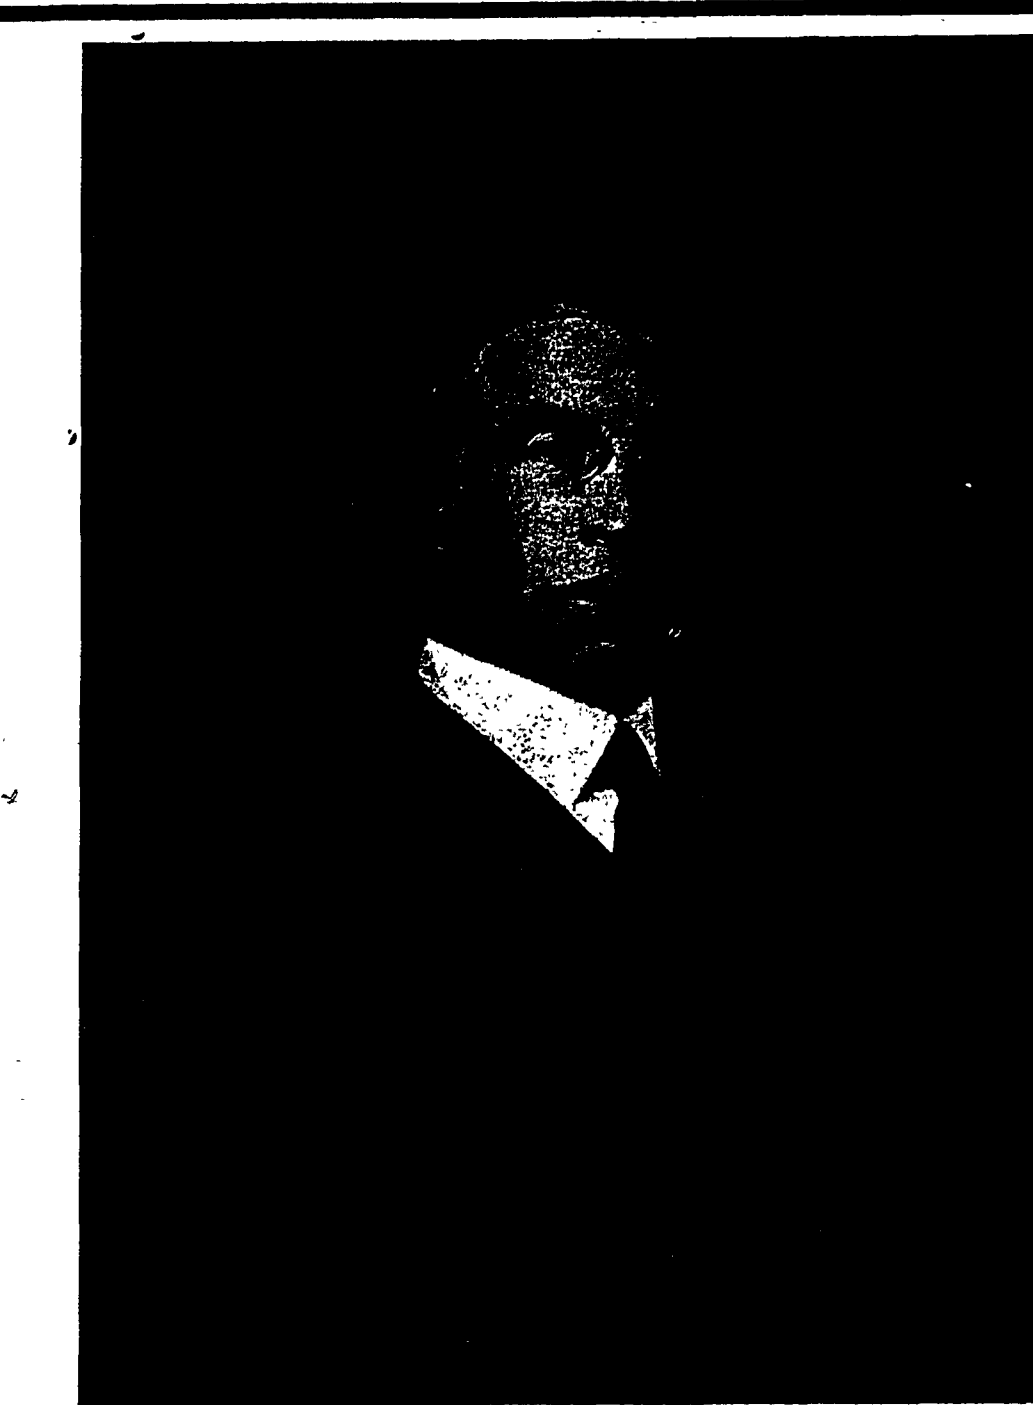

Prospects Good For 1933 Season,
Captain Kimball Now
Out For Practice

JAMESON TIED POOL RECORD IN DECEMBER

Under the direction of Coach Dake, the prospects for a good swimming team are rapidly improving. The candidates have been having light work-outs during the past week, and the first time trials of this term will be held on Wednesday. The first meet is scheduled for Saturday.

Don Kimball, the captain, who has been out with a leg injury, will swim the one hundred and the fifty-yard dashes. Mason who shows even an improvement on last year, will probably swim in these two events with Kimball. Jameson, who in the time trials during last term tied the pool record for the two hundred-yard dash, will probably swim this event this year. Trimpi, who placed third in the same event last year during the Exeter meet, will swim with Jameson. Samson is the only breaststroker who was on the squad last year. He took part in several meets at that time. He seems to be the best prospect although Filkin, Nye, Cameron, and several others are competing for the place.

Hurlbutt is the fastest man in the backstroke on the squad, although there are a few others including Griffin and Weaver who are showing quite well. In the relay Kimball, Mason, Jameson, and Trimpi will probably swim. The divers are few, but they appear quite experienced. Haywood and George Hook are both improving in the event.

Funeral Services Held Yesterday Noon
At Harvard Memorial Church,
Cambridge

Professor James Hardy Ropes, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Phillips Academy, died late Saturday night at his home, 13 Follen Street, Cambridge, after an illness of about three weeks. Professor Ropes was sixty-six years old, a graduate of Andover in the class of 1885.

Funeral services were held yesterday noon at the new Harvard Memorial Church in Cambridge. The Rt. Rev. Willard Learoy Sperry, dean of the theological school, officiated. Phillips Academy was represented by Professor Forbes, acting headmaster, the trustees, and the Senior Council Interment, which was private, was held this morning in the Academy cemetery here at Andover.

Classes at Harvard were suspended for an hour during the funeral and over one thousand people gathered at the chapel to pay their last respects. President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, a close friend of Professor Ropes for thirty years, attended. Representatives of the Harvard Theological School and Simmons College were also present.

The chief usher was Prof. Arthur D. Nock of Harvard. Others were Allston Burr, John Bartol, Prof. Fred N. Robinson, Frank Coolidge, Dr. Edward Pierson and Judge Robert Walcott.

Professor Ropes, in addition to his duties as president of the Andover Board of Trustees, was Hollis professor of divinity and lecturer on biblical literature at the Harvard Divinity School. He was well known as an expert in biblical matters and was awarded a medal for his studies in this field by the British Academy in 1928. He was dean of the department of university extension at Harvard from 1910 to 1922. The last time he appeared before the Andover student body was at the Commencement Exercises in the Academy

Sessions

HOOPMEN TO MEET HARVARD SATURDAY

With two letter-men and several capable first-year players comprising the first team, Coach Billhardt is looking forward to a successful basketball season. Ed Kellogg, center and captain, takes the floor in the first game with a team composed of Weller and Howe at the guard positions, and Avery and Carr at the two forward positions.

Practice since the beginning of the winter term has been given over largely to developing team-work and co-ordination of the squads by intensive scrimmages. Coach Billhardt has instituted a system of fast-passing and quick breaking with emphasis on speed rather than set plays. With the progress already shown along this line, the team should develop considerably by the end of the season, but this development may take time.

One of the squad's main weaknesses is a lack of reserve strength, and Coach Billhardt is at present concerned with the problem of developing suitable substitutes. If he can accomplish that, one of his chief worries will be removed.

FOUR MEETS PLANNED FOR WRESTLING TEAM

Larger-Than-Usual Squad Is Out For Season's

ONE VETERAN REMAINS

Kennedy, Lewis, Reiter, Snyder,
Seem Likely Members
Of Team

With the new addition of twelve feet of mat to the rather small length that was formerly used, the varsity wrestling squad has now been increased to the number of thirty-five men, a much larger squad than Coach Carlson has been in the habit of keeping. Because of this additional mat space several promising men from the clubs have been elevated to the squad, where they will receive valuable experience in competition.

Thus far Manager Bromfield has been able to secure only four matches, but he has prospects for two more for which negotiations are now being made. The annual match with the Yale Freshmen has been cancelled this year and the M. I. T. meet, which has long been on the schedule in the past, is also omitted. Browne and Nichols, the usual leadoff match, has been cancelled. A new name is seen on the roster, however, for there is a meet with a team from Boston University.

With only one letter man returning, in the person of Captain Kennedy, the prospects for good material seem at first limited, but in reality there is much good material to work with. There are several men on the squad who wrestled in one meet last year and have actual competitive experience: Lewis in the 175-pound class wrestled on the team two years ago; in the 155-pound class Townsend has competed; Stratton, Snyder, and Bird have all competed in major meets in the 145-pound class; Breed in the 135-pound class has also wrestled in a meet. Other promising

DEAN AT HARVARD
FOR TWELVE YEARS

Professor James Hardy Ropes, who died in Cambridge late Saturday night, was a well-known figure in education in this part of the country. At his death he had an active interest in a number of educational institutions, among them Harvard College, Simmons College, and Phillips Academy.

He was born in Salem on September 3, 1866, the son of William Ladd and Harriett Lawson (Pierson) Ropes. His father was librarian of the Andover Theological Seminary, and Ropes spent his boyhood in Andover, attending Phillips Academy there and graduating with the class of 1885.

In his four year stay at Phillips Academy Ropes was editor of THE PHILLIPPIAN, President of the Athletic Association, editor of The Mirror, President of Philo, and President of the Society of Inquiry. At graduation he won first honors in the Dove Latin Prize and Cook Greek Prize competition. From Andover he went to Harvard College where he graduated in 1889 summa cum laude.

At Harvard Professor Ropes was a member of the Institute of 1770.

ERDMAN HARRIS TO SPEAK

Society Will Show Film "The Cry of The World" At One Of Its Meetings

For its one hundredth anniversary season the Society of Inquiry has scheduled an outstanding list of Sunday night speakers, according to a recent announcement. The plans in their tentative form are as follows:

A week from Sunday, January twenty-second, Mr. Trowbridge's father, Mr. Alexander B. Trowbridge, will address the meeting on "The Contribution of Architecture to Culture in America". Mr. Trowbridge, who is a prominent architect, was for many years the Dean of the College of Architecture at Cornell and has twice been the president of the Société Des Beaux Arts Architects in Paris. He was, for a number of years, the consulting architect for the Federal Reserve Banks and his most recent job was as consulting architect of the Folger Shakespeare Memorial Library in Washington. At present he is a member of the committee of architects supervising the erection of the National Cathedral in Washington. The talk will be illustrated with slides showing recent buildings in Washington and many other cities.

Many other interesting men have been chosen as speakers. Among them are:

Leslie Jacobs, who has been associated for fifteen years with the Bankers Trust Company of Paris. His topic will be "The World of Finance and Banking on an International Basis" and he will also tell of the opportunities and dangers which students face when they enter this field.

ANDOVER, MASS., JANUARY 11, 1933.

Professor James Hardy Ropes, who died so suddenly late Saturday night, was a man that Andover will miss with genuine sorrow. For, as president of the Board of Trustees, he had an active hand in moulding the Andover of today out of the Andover of yesterday. Ever since the time in 1885 when he graduated from Phillips Academy, Professor Ropes possessed a deep interest in the affairs of his alma mater; and from the time of his election to the Board of Trustees in 1899, he watched and nurtured Phillips Academy with his deep love; under his kindly care it became the school it is today.

But Professor Ropes did not confine his attention to Phillips Academy. A number of other New England educational institutions received the benefits of his philanthropic brain. With the problems of education foremost in his mind, he ever strove to provide for the younger generation an education in every way improved over that which he himself received. As Dean of Special Students and Dean in charge of University Extension at Harvard, he placed Harvard in the top rank of education. But first among his activities were his Biblical studies which won him one of the best known of Harvard Divinity School professorships and acclaim from theologians throughout the United States.

But Andover will remember Professor Ropes chiefly for his kindly and generous personality, his keen but tolerant mind. While a student here at Andover he acquired a host of close friends and admirers; and, in later contacts with Phillips Academy, after he had so amply fulfilled the promise he had previously shown on Andover Hill, he still retained that characteristic generosity, that keen enthusiasm for which his friends knew and loved him. And it is for these two qualities, even more than for the accomplishments of his later life which gained him such popular esteem, that the Andover of the future will remember Professor Ropes; and it will grieve that he could not have remained to give to future generations the invaluable leadership and kindness he lavished on the Andover of the present.

THE PHILLIPIAN takes pleasure in announcing the election to its editorial department of Newell Brown of Berlin, N. H., and of Robert Cushman of Winchester, Mass.; and the election to its business department of John Pershing Boswell of Pasadena, Calif., James Strohm Copley of Coronado, Calif., and Harold William Davis, Jr. of Pelham, N. Y.

THE PHILLIPIAN announces the resignation from its editorial department of Thomas Thacher.

Typography And Policy

With the start of a new term and the inauguration of several of THE PHILLIPIAN's proposed innovations, a word about these changes in the paper might be opportune. The change in THE PHILLIPIAN which is most obvious to the reader is, of course, the smaller type. We have made this departure from our custom of years' standing for two reasons: one is that with a typeface as large as we have been using the typographical appearance of the paper is injured by the amount of white space showing; the second is that with a smaller typeface more news and reading matter can be crammed into our limited space with a resultant gain for everyone concerned.

The departure of THE PHILLIPIAN from the old style two-column editorial column was likewise made for typographical reasons. For it is a well-known fact that it is more difficult for the human eye to read so wide a column than it is to read a narrower one. Therefore, we have adopted this, a compromise between one and two columns. We hope by it to gain legibility and yet retain the distinction which the larger editorial column always holds.

During the coming term THE PHILLIPIAN will endeavor to give its readers an even greater money's worth. We are frankly experimenting to find the form and features that best suit the student body. And in internal organization we are experimenting to find a more workable and efficient system for publishing THE PHILLIPIAN. When these two experiments are completed, we feel sure that we shall have made a distinct improvement in the quality of THE PHILLIPIAN.

On The Sidelines

A casual survey of Andover graduates in college athletics reveals an astonishingly large number of varsity sport captains. In football, of course, there were Bart Viviano, reserve All-American fullback, who led the Cornell team, and Bill Hoffman of Dartmouth, who starred in the Green line. Viviano, by the way, scored a touchdown for the East in their annual game with the West for charity on New Year's Day at San Francisco. Soccer saw Jim Bannon leading the Eli booters and Gustave Kilde at the head of the Tech eleven in Cambridge. Winter sports, however, are where Andover claims most of its college captains. At Yale John McGauley is captain of the wrestlers and is expected to make a strong bid for the Eastern title in his class in the March intercollegiate. Joseph Ullman, once an Andover fencer, is leading the fencers at New Haven, and early reports indicate he is the strongest man on the team. Up at Hanover Richard Jackson, P. A. '29, is leading the Dartmouth hockey team in its annual campaign. As yet the Green's season has not been at all successful because of the customary scarcity of ice at the New Hampshire town.

Wilfred Huppach at Harvard is captaining the basketball team, which, at present, is in the midst of its lengthy schedule. Stu Dorman, likewise P. A. '29, is another mainstay of the Crimson quintet. And in the four freshman fall sports at Yale and Harvard, three of the four captains were Andover products. At Yale Webb Davis, captain of the Andover eleven two years ago, was chosen to lead Reggie Root's freshmen, and Joe Upton led the Eli booters in a singularly successful season. Upton captained Jim Ryley's soccer team at Andover two falls ago. The Harvard representative on the trio is John Dorman, who was elected leader of the Crimson freshmen early in the season.

Sport Talk

Ken Willis, erstwhile Exeter triple threat man, is making a name for himself down at Princeton. Besides winning the Yale game this fall for the Orange and Black Freshmen by booting a perfectly aimed drop kick in the closing minutes of play, he has been playing a stellar role on the Tiger hockey team. In the St. Paul's game he distinguished himself especially and moved the hockey critic of the New Yorker to remark as follows: "Ken Willis, who is likely to do well in college hockey if he puts on weight and learns to pick-up speed from a standstill, made what we thought was the best play of the game for Princeton's first goal."

While we are on the subject of hockey, the only member of last winter's Andover sextet that has won a berth on a freshman team this year is R. B. Cooke, who is playing wing for the Yale Freshmen.

Frank H. Platt, 2nd, '31, has recently been appointed assistant publicity manager of the Yale University Glee Club. He will serve as manager his senior year.

Varsity winter sports at Yale are now fully underway. Andover is represented on the varsity hockey team by Ken Fawcett, '30, who has been seeing action in almost every encounter. He made one of the Eli's nine tallies against M. I. T. on January 4th. On the basketball quintet Howie Kellogg, '31, captain of the Andover team two winters ago, is substituting for Sauer as varsity left forward. In the wrestling ranks John McGauley, '29, captain of the Andover team while here, also leads the Eli matmen. Joseph P. Ullman, also '29, captains the Yale fencers who are starting a difficult schedule with high hopes of success. Robert G. Anderson, another 1929 grad, is Andover's representative on the swimming team, where he is one of the foremost backstroke men in the East.

In the freshman ranks Barr and Sweet have won berths on the basketball squad. Barr, the P. A. captain last winter, is a regular in the forward position.

The first game of the freshman basketballers last week saw R. B. Cooke, '32, playing wing for the Eli. Fawcett, also on last year's sextet, is a spare and Bartow, P. A. goalie last winter, is second choice for that position at Yale.

Engagements

The engagement of Mr. John Frederick Fitcher, 3d, and Miss Elizabeth Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen H. Nelson of Orchard Parkway, White Plains, N. Y., was announced during the Christmas holidays. Mr. Fitcher was graduated from Andover in 1923 and from Yale in 1927 and received the master's degree from the School of Architecture Harvard University this year. Since graduation he has been in the office of Mr. John Russell Pope of New York.

Politics

When Harvard's senior class held its election just before Christmas, Basketballer Winfield Huppach '29 was elected to be one of the seven to serve on the 1933 Class Day Committee. Nominated for various positions were Peregrine White '29, who divides his time between the presidency of Phillips Brooks House and leadership of the Crimson, Gridster Alfred Kidder '29, and Lampooner Steve Stackpole '29. Assisting in running off the election were Juniors Lee Thurber '30 and Guy Hayes '30.

Crime

Harry F. Gerguson, P. A. '10 (sic), alias Prince Michael Romanoff, Harvard ex-'27, arriving in the United States in 1909 after escaping from Ellis Island by stowing away on a ferry boat, pilfered dormitory rooms at Yale, claimed when arrested that he was an Andover student. Pursuing a career as one of the slipperiest international crooks on record, Gerguson bounded from the wealthy families of most of the big cities in the United States into the hands of police of the same cities, in cases making unexplained elusions from prosecution. Registering at Harvard in 1923, he was given the Theodore ("Bull" Moose) Roosevelt had once occupied, last until November of that year, on being shown documents attesting his muleting of many big tradespeople. His farewell to the gentlemen, "I decline to discuss the matter." Some of his victims Lumberman and P. PROFESSOR JAMES HARDY ROPES, D. D. P. A., 1885

The President of the Trustees of Phillips Academy passed away late Saturday night, January 7th, at his home in Cambridge. He had been ill for some weeks, but there was no warning of death until a sudden change near the end surprised the physicians in attendance.

Dr. Ropes was born in Salem, Massachusetts, September 3, 1866, of distinguished ancestry. The family came to Andover when James was a boy. He entered Phillips Academy and was graduated with high honors in the class of 1885. His course in Harvard University was marked by superior scholarship, deepening till his graduation in 1889. A profitable and broadening year of research in geology, covering a large portion of the country, proved of great usefulness in later years.

He entered Andover Theological Seminary in 1890 and received its diploma three years later. From 1893 to 1895 he studied theology in Germany, at Kiel, Halle and Berlin. At the last named university he earned the friendship and shared the counsels of the eminent church historian Harnack.

Returning to America he began at once in 1895 his long service to Harvard University, culminating in his appointment as Hollis Professor of Divinity in 1910, an office which he held at the time of his decease. From 1910 to 1922 he was dean of university extension study, which he organized. He was dean of special students from 1916 to 1922. These experiences as dean gave him insight into men.

Dr. Ropes was the author of several scholarly works relating to the New Testament, involving profound discrimination in the niceties of the Greek language and in the use of historical data. He received the rare honor of the medal of the British Academy for his book, "The Text of Acts", a brilliant study of existing manuscripts.

Western Reserve University conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1905, and his own Harvard likewise honored him in 1929.

Since 1899 Dr. Ropes has been a Trustee of the school, becoming president in 1929.

The deepest gratitude is due his memory for his ever-ready, untiring, and selfless service, in which he took little heed of time or strength when duty seemed to call him. His ambition was always to promote constructive measures for the continuous improvement of the material interest, and especially of the scholarly standards and achievements of the school.

Impressive funeral services were held Tuesday in the new Memorial Chapel at Harvard, attended by a great audience of eminent men and women in sincere tribute to a great life.

Phillips Academy was represented by Trustees and officials, and by the voluntary attendance of the entire Student Council.

His ashes rest in our sacred ground; his spirit hovers over the school he loved and greatly served.

EARLY PRACTICE SHOWS UP PROMISING TRACKMEN

Graham, R. Sears, H. Sears, And Sawyer Outstanding In Squad

J. BADMAN, VETERAN JUMPER, LEADS TEAM

Although the track squad has had but a short time to practice and train, the team is already getting into form for the winter schedule. Both last year's returning men and this year's newcomers are shaping up well.

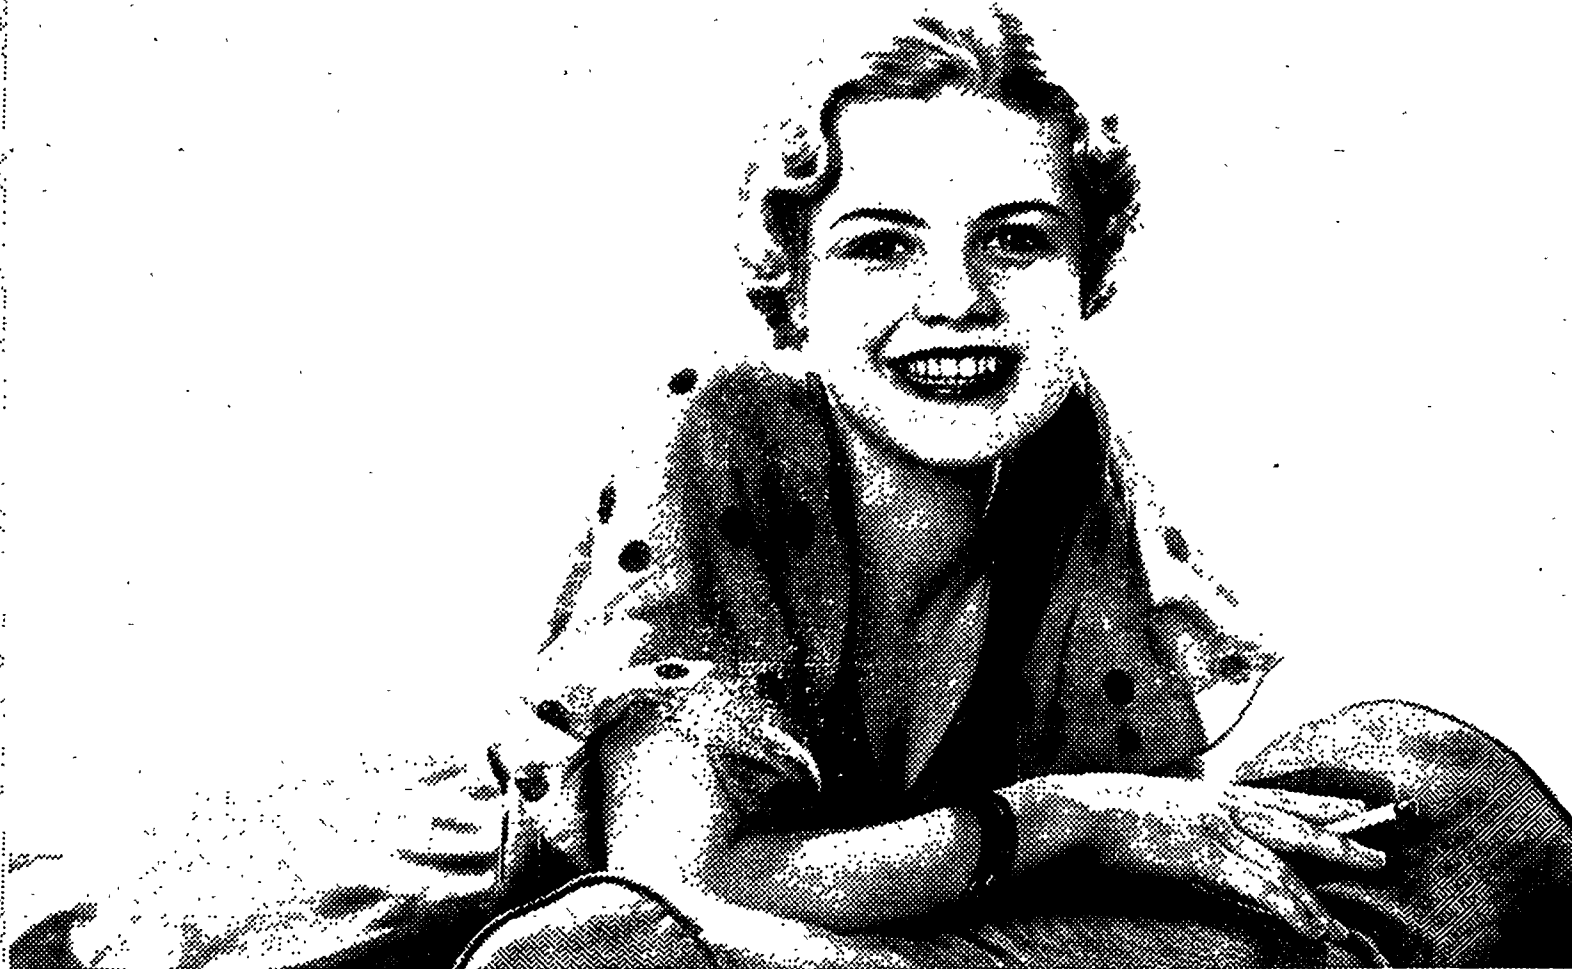

In the dashes there are Wolf and Crosby of last season's fame. The new names on the list that need mention are: Furse, Shimer, J. Stevens, and Armitage. Kitchell will probably hold up the honors in the hurdles. In the relay the quartet will be picked probably from the following: Brayton, Crosby, Furse, Shimer, Smith, Stevens, and Wolf.

In the pole vault Sawyer and Harding head the list at present. Kimball and R. Sears are the probable javelinists although there are many other good men out for this position. In the shot put Ray Graham of last year's fame will probably hold up the first honor position, assisted by Pfeifer and H. Sears. Captain John Badman, a veteran of three Exeter meets and a winner of his event in all, will lead a very promising team.

Ellis G. Dutch student leader and secretary of the World's Student Christian Association, will be the speaker. This should be most interesting as Mr. Thooft is one of the best and rated students in Europe.

Professor Harris and Dr. Walter Kossling, head of the International Student Service in Geneva, who were here last year will speak during the term.

Several other men have been invited to speak, among them Samuel Higginson, a missionary to India, and Mr. Hoar, who was formerly the head of the Church of All Nations in New York.

At one of its meetings the Student Union plans to show a film, "The Rise of Hitler." This picture depicts the rise and fall of Hitler in Germany, and shows the struggles in the Far East and the mass movements in Russia.

The Winter Carnival will take place on January 17th and 18th. The budget has been carefully

Chapel last June, when he presided in his official capacity.

Although widely known as a theologian, Professor Ropes was deeply interested in general education. In addition to taking a very active and keen interest in Phillips Academy, he was interested in the affairs of Simmons College, where he likewise was a member of the board of trustees. To further the dissemination of knowledge through the widest possible channels, he suggested in 1910 a combination of all the institutions for higher learning in Greater Boston to give the public the benefit of college courses.

He was ordained to the Congregational ministry in 1901, and received a degree of doctor of divinity from Harvard in 1929. He was a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and a member of the American Oriental Society, Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis, Colonial Society, and the Archaeological Institute of America.

Among the most recent of his many written works are "The Text of Acts", published in 1925, and "The Singular Problem of the Thistle to the Galatians", published in 1929.

He married Miss Alice Lowell, daughter of Edward J. Lowell of Boston, in 1897, and is survived by her.

planned and will be published in a later issue. It is the sincere hope of the Society that the students will generously support not only the program of meetings, but also participate in the National and International student activities which greatly need help.

When Coolidge Visited Andover

The above photographs of the late ex-President Calvin Coolidge were made in May, 1928, by Eagle-Tribune cameramen when he visited Andover to take the leading role in the sesqui-centennial observance of the founding of Phillips Academy.

Ropes Was Well-Known Professor At Harvard

Signet, O. K., and Hasty Pudding. He was president of the Y. M. C. A., president of O. K. and Signet, editor of the Harvard Advocate and permanent class secretary. He was Phi Beta Kappa.

After graduation from college Mr. Ropes attended the Andover Theological Seminary and studied at the universities of Kiel, Halle, and Berlin. He was appointed a trustee of Phillips Academy in 1899, succeeding to the presidency of the Board in 1929, and received a Doctor of Divinity degree from Western Reserve in 1905.

Several years before this he had made a rapid advancement until he was appointed Bussey professor in 1903. From 1903 up to the time of his death he was Dexter Lecturer in Biblical Literature and Hollis Professor of Divinity, the latter post being one of the honor posts in the field of American education. In the meantime he served as Dean in charge of University Extension from 1910 to 1922 and Dean of Special Students from 1916 to 1922. He was regarded as a leading authority on the New Testament and was the author of numerous books on biblical topics. Also he edited the Harvard Theological Review and the Harvard Theological Studies, both leading publications of their kind.

During his lifetime he received the following degrees: B.A. from Harvard (1889); D.D. from Harvard (1929); D.D. from Western Reserve (1905); S.T.D. from Andover Theological Seminary (1893). In addition he was the first and only American ever to win a medal award from the British Academy. He gained the distinction for his work in Biblical fields.
