Weight Of Exeter Team

At Exeter Wednesday the Andover lacrosse team concluded its season against its Crimson opponents, suffering a defeat of 9-6 in a hard and fast game. The teams were of entirely different types, the Andover team depending on its lightness, stickwork, and speed, while its opponents made use of their far superior weight in charging and checking, attributes which turned the game in their favor.

The game was a good example of hard playing on the part of both teams. Hammond and Henry starred for the visitors but were both carefully watched. Hammond worried the Exeter team by his lightning-like maneuvers and succeeded in escaping the Crimson defense to score twice. Downey, Gifford, and Roche played an excellent game for the Crimson, Gifford especially eluded the Andover defense continually. Both teams were hampered by the hot muggy weather, and during the half a light rain fell.

The Blue played a much better game in the second half than in the first. The Exeter men, however, (Continued on Page 5)

Faultless Games

Playing faultless, machine-like tennis, Coach Mercer Beasley's aggregation from Lawrenceville, which is reputed to be the most outstanding prep school tennis team in the East, completely crushed the Andover squad 9-0 in the match Wednesday. Such well-known players as Frank Parker, Winslow, and Peter Lauck figured in this encounter.

In the number one singles play Thompson, possibly feeling entirely out-classed by Parker, fought hard, but did not ever actually play at his best. Parker, who was placed fourth among the amateur singles players in the United States Lawn Tennis Association ranking in 1934 and who has been pronounced by Bill Tilden as "one of the most remarkable young players in tennis history," played an excellent game. His footwork and stroking were perfect, and he managed miraculously to get into position regardless of how difficult the shot. (Continued on Page 5)

Norman Bennett To Play At Tea Dance Tomorrow

A tea dance will be held after the Andover-Exeter track meet in the Commons. Tickets cost $1.50 for stags and couples and $1.00 for scholarship students. Norman Bennett's orchestra will supply the music. This is one of the most important of the tea dances during the year, on an equal with the one held after the Exeter football game.

Predictions

Mr. Peck: "It's the same old story. Andover will roll up a large score."

Dr. Page: "The better team always wins."

Mr. Shields: "Since I've stopped coaching, Andover is bound to win."

Mr. Patton: "Andover should be aiming for 100 points."

Mr. Flanagan: "Andover's team is of average strength, as is Exeter's. It should be a good meet."

Mr. Dye: "Andover will win by a large margin."

Mr. Barrows: "It all depends upon the weather and the electrical storms."

Mr. Boyle: "There is trouble brewing for so nobody."

Mrs. Cleveland: "After what we have done for the past few years in track, it looks as though we were all set."

Mr. Hinman: "Andover will win with a score of 75 to 51."

Mr. Watt: "A well-balanced outdoor team will make up for the winter defeat."

Mr. Hollowell: "I will announce the score when the meet is over."

Mr. Hawes: "The varsity team will certainly win. I am equally interested in the second team meet because from the second team come Andover's future varsity."

In Case Of Victory

If there is a celebration, movies will be delayed until after every boy has reported.

The report will take place in the basement of George Washington Hall. Every boy whether he attends the celebration and parade or not must report in this place at the time announced by the cheer leaders. After reporting boys will proceed to the movies up west staircase in George Washington Hall. They will deposit their movie tickets at the desk which will be placed at the head of these stairs. To be admitted all boys must have their movie tickets with them.

Parents and guests of the school will use the front door of George Washington Hall.

HORNE AND DONNELLY HOLD UNUSUAL TIMES

Andover faces Exeter tomorrow with a record behind her of four victories and two defeats which were at the hands of the Yale Freshmen and the Harvard Yearlings. The scores of these two meets were very close. Among the victories was a first in the Harvard Interscholastics by a large margin.

The combined teams of St. Johnsbury and New Hampton caused little trouble on April 20, as they lost 97 1-2 to 28 1-2. No exceptional performances were turned in by Andover men mainly because of lack of competition. The first setback came the next week when the Yale Freshmen won 68 to 58. The outstanding Andover times were Horne's 4:14 1500 meter first, (Continued on Page 6)

By reason of its 29 point margin of victory in the recent Harvard Interscholastics, the Andover track team may be conceded the edge over the Red and Gray cindermen in their annual encounter which will take place tomorrow afternoon on Brothers Field. This will be the fortieth engagement of the series between the two schools, in which Andover has been the victor on nineteen occasions (ten times in the last twelve years) and the loser seventeen times with one tie.

In outdoor competition this Spring, there have been four victories to balance the two defeats inflicted by the powerful Yale and Harvard freshmen. In the opening encounter the Blue administered an overwhelming setback to the combined teams of St. Johnsbury and New Hampton, 97 1-2 to 28 1-2. But this auspicious start was overshadowed by the following two engagements in which the Blue cindermen were defeated by the Yale Frosh, 68 to 58, and the Harvard Frosh, 67 to 59. Then in a rather chastened mood, they journeyed to Cambridge for the Harvard Inter- (Continued on Page 6)

And Worcester Win

After showing the best form so far this season in defeating Brown Freshmen last Saturday, the P. A. nine had a relapse and was defeated by both Governor Dummer and Worcester Academy on Wednesday and Thursday. The score of the Brown game was 7 to 3, whereas Dummer and Worcester conquered by scores of 7 to 5 and 6 to 3 respectively.

At the beginning of the game with the Freshmen, it looked as if it would be very close and exciting. Andover scored one run in the first after singles by MacLean and Kellogg, but the Yearlings came back in the second and assaulted Curtis for two hits and two runs. In their half of that inning, however, the Blue slugged Priest for two more runs by Eurenus and Burdett, making the score 3 to 2. Brown refused to be downed, and in the third once more drew up with the Andover group. (Continued on Page 6)

Avery Scored 21 Points For Blue In 1927 Match

Very versatile was Ted Avery, for in the 1927 meet he scored 21 points. Also a big point winner was Captain Kilpatrick of the 1907 team; he took 21 points in the Harvard Interscholastics and 17 in the Yale Interscholastics. Charles Borah also came through with his share. In the 1925 meet he won the 100, 220, 440, and the broad jump. He was advised not to run the 880.

KERR AND BELTZNER HIGH POINT WINNERS

Exeter's track team, with a victory in the winter meet against Andover to its credit, inauspiciously opened its spring season by losing 76-50 to the Bowdoin Junior Varsity. Showing a reversal in form, however, the Red and Gray team downed the University of New Hampshire Freshmen 83-43 in a meet in which Exeter's strength in the field events was first noticed. The Exonians allowed the Wildcat Cubs but six points in the field events while they were gathering 39 themselves.

The Harvard Interscholastic meet was a great disappointment to Exeter since the Red and Gray trackmen were able to get no better than a third place rather than the usual close second or first they had (Continued on Page 5)

One Hundred Points?

Once again spring has rolled around, and once more enthusiasm is running high over the Andover-Exeter track meet. The home team seems to be the favorite this time in view of her decisive triumph over Exeter in the Harvard Interscholastics; however, we must not rely too heavily on past records. Last term with the odds on our side we journeyed to New Hampshire for the second annual winter track meet, but the Red and Gray, mustering all her power, emerged from the contest a victor by the scant margin of five points. Here is the opportunity for an Andover squad which has already fallen before Exeter to avenge itself, something which was never possible before. Let's go out there and show them that in spite of the winter defeat we still have a better team.

Victory tomorrow would be right in line with a recently established Andover tradition. For the past three years we have won the track meet, each time by an increasingly larger score. In 1934 we won not only track but also baseball and football. In other words beating the Red and Gray in the major sports seems to be becoming a habit. But this fact in no way dulls the pleasure to be derived from a victory tomorrow.

Each year track is becoming more important at Andover. For a long time it was overshadowed by baseball, but this is no longer the case. Indeed, many feel that it is now the most important of the spring sports. Let's make it even more so tomorrow by rolling up a total of one hundred points. With the support of the school the team can do it; and Andover will then be well on its way to another year of triumphs over Exeter.

What Mark Twain Thought Of War

From "The Mysterious Stranger" (written before the World War, but not published until 1916, after Mark Twain's death).

There has never been a just one, never an honorable one, on the part of the instigator of the war. I can see a million years ahead, and this rule will never change in so many as a half dozen instances. The loud little handful, as usual, will shout for the war. The pulpit will, warily and cautiously, object, at first: the great, big, dull bulk of the nation will rub its sleepy eyes and try to make out why there should be a war, and will say earnestly and indignantly: It is unjust and dishonorable, and there is no necessity for it.

Then the handful will shout louder, a few fair men on the side will argue and reason against the war with speech and pen, and at first will have a hearing and be applauded; but it will not last long; those others will shout them, and presently the anti-war audiences will thin out and lose popularity.

Before long you will see this curious thing: The speakers stoned from the platforms, and free speech strangled by hordes of furious men who in their secret hearts are still at one with those stoned speakers, as earlier, but do not dare to say so.

And now the whole nation, pulpit and all, will take up the war cry, and shout themselves hoarse, and mob any honest man who ventures to open his mouth; and presently such mouths will cease to open.

Next the statesmen will invent cheap lies, putting the blame on the nation that is attacked, and every man will be glad of those consciousness-soothing falsities, and will diligently study them, and will refuse to examine any refutations of them; and thus he will by and by convince himself that war is just, and will thank God for the better sleep he enjoys after this process of gross self-deception.

ABBOT NOTES

Spring Field Day brought an overwhelming victory for the Gargoyles, 25-10, and a broken record to boot! They won tennis, two out of three matches, and redeemed a 17-8 loss in baseball by winning track. Consolations for the defeated Griffins, Martha Elizabeth Ransom broke the school record in the high jump with a jump of 4 feet 3 3-4 inches.

Barney Ross, boxer, offers a golf trophy known as the Ross Challenge Cup. It has to be won seven times at camps where Ross is training for the welterweight championship. The last time it was won by Lank Leonard, the cartoonist, who scored an 87. The match was an exciting one. One player misinterpreted the meaning of "winter rules" and used a wooden tee in the middle of one of the fairways. The detective guarding Ross hit one of his competitors with a mashie, but no one was hurt and they finished out the match.

Dramatic Meet In 1926 Settled By High Jump

Most dramatic was the track meet of 1920. The outcome rested on the high jump, the last event. The bar rose; the contestants dropped out one by one, until Andover and Exeter each had one representative apiece. Amidst deathlike silence the Andover man missed; the Exonian sailed over. Deafening cheers broke out from the Red and Gray stands.

Mr. Luther Noss Accepts Cornell Organist Position

Has Directed Orchestra, Band, And Glee Club At P. A. During Year

Mr. Luther Noss, who for the past year has served as an assistant to Dr. Pfatfeicher in the Music Department of the Academy, has received an appointment as organist and assistant director of music at Cornell University. During the past year, Mr. Noss has had charge of the glee club, the orchestra, and the band, and has assisted generally in the work of the Music Department.

Mr. Noss was born in Austin, Minn., and studied three years at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., where there is one of the finest choirs in the country. While an undergraduate at St. Olaf, he was the student conductor of the college orchestra and the regular conductor of the 100 piece band. From St. Olaf he went to Northwestern University for two years and obtained an academic degree there, leaving in 1930 to attend the Yale Graduate School in Music. At Yale he received his professional and graduate degrees and also won a European Fellowship, entitling him to two years of study in Europe.

He first studied the organ with Dupré in Paris, and then worked at composition with Alban Barry in Vienna. While in Vienna last year, Mr. Noss took part in the fighting, being under fire at one time. Another of his European accomplishments was a three thousand mile motorcycle journey from Vienna to Oslo, in the course of which he passed through the countries of Austria, Germany, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, and Norway.

In the professional line, he has had much experience, traveling across the country from coast to coast as pianist with a male quartet. While he was carrying on both academic and musical work at Northwestern University, he held the position of musical director and pianist over the Chicago radio station WLS.

As long as he can remember music has been Mr. Noss's chief interest, and he is eminently fitted for a musical career. In addition to shorter compositions he has

Famous Autographs In Library Exhibit

Names Of Wilson, Cleveland, Webster, And Washington Included In List

Autographs of famous and near-famous people comprise the exhibition which is now being held at the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library. Many names—well-known to almost everyone—are included, as well as those which are not quite so widely known but which are, nevertheless, distinguished in their own fields.

Among the names of those who are no longer living, there are three presidents of the United States: George Washington, Grover Cleveland (and his wife), and Woodrow Wilson. Other illustrious men of the past include: Oliver Wendell Holmes, Junior and Senior; Noah Webster, the author of Webster's Dictionary; John Hancock, whose bold signature reminds us of a famous event, the signing of the Declaration of Independence; Horace Greeley, famous editor of the nineteenth century and originator of the frequently-quoted phrase "Go West, young man"; William Lloyd Garrison, noted abolitionist, as well as the Spanish-American War correspondent and idol of America's youth in another day: Richard Harding Davis; and the explorer Vilhjalmur Stefansson.

Three of the principals who had so much to do with the progress of Phillips Academy in the past century have their autographs in the collection at the Library. They are L. G. Taylor, F. W. Tilton, and F. B. Bancroft. To note the differences and similarities of the handwriting of these men is interesting.

More contemporary heroes are also included in the Library's exhibit—such favorites as Barney Oldfield, Gene Tunney, Babe Ruth, Einstein and his wife, and Dr. John F. Condon, better known as Jafsie. There are also autographs of the old favorite of concert singers, Madame Schumann-Heink as well as those of the great Caruso and the inimitable Geraldine Farrar.

Among the less well-known names on exhibition are those which appear on the fly-leaf of the books from the Virgil Collection. These books are most valuable, and with the names of the editors inscribed on them are quite interesting. To the careless scribbles of Andover it should prove quite a revelation to see with what preciseness those men of many years ago wrote.

Autograph collecting as a hobby is ever increasing in popularity. Whether there is anything in the idea that handwriting can disclose something of a man's character, it is true that most people do get a certain thrill out of seeing so intimate a part of a man's personality as his signature. For this reason the exhibit at the Library should prove to be one of the most popular of the year.

The Library owns many of the autographs displayed, but it has also been able to borrow a number of valuable signatures of special interest from the excellent collection of Warren Todd Furniss '38.

ALEC KIDNAPPED!

(Special to The Phillipian)

Although the whole United States has been under the sway of kidnappers, Andover has kept free from the domination of the underworld, that is until Tuesday. Mr. James Causey, Photographic editor of THE PHILLIPIAN, and owner of the famous racing turtle, Alec, otherwise known as Elmer, was the first victim of the new racket.

Returning from a sojourn to the basement of the Archaeology Building, where Mr. Causey carries on his hobby of developing pictures, he received a great shock when he discovered Alec was missing. There in the up-to-date pool, furnished both with hot and cold water and all other modernities, was a note left by the vile kidnappers. Phrased at it was in poor English it read as follows:

"Elmer has been kidnapped! The ransome will bea 50 sense. Putt it udder the aild elme."

Mr. Causey, with the common sense which has already made him famous, called in a reporter from THE PHILLIPIAN, that guardian of public safety, in an effort to solve the crime. The reporter immediately took the note to his laboratory, where, after long experiments, he found it was written in ink. Another astonishing revelation made

Polo Team Defeats Avon Old Farms 10-2

Final Game Of Andover Season Played On Avon Field Last Saturday

In the semi-annual game with the Avon Old Farms School, the Andover polo team concluded a successful season. The Blue team defeated the Avon team by a score of 10-2 at Avon before a fairly large crowd. It was Founder's Day at the Old Farms School and many of the alumni had returned.

The game was the most successful, as far as good playing and hard riding went, that the team has played this year. The contest was hard and fast, and the Andover team played exceptional polo. All the goals scored by both sides were made in direct play, and, although there were two penalties, there was no score made on them. During the third chukker, Schlesinger of Avon was slightly injured in a bad fall from his horse, but he returned to the game in the fifth chukker. Andover had some bad breaks when Copley and Robertson might have scored three goals apiece which were not made good.

The polo team has had a fairly successful season, winning four out of the nine games it played and tying its opponents once. The team has scored thirty-seven goals as compared with the thirty-six scored against them, T. Poor with sixteen to his credit, scoring more goals than any other member of the team.

In this final game with Avon the Andover players in accordance with their positions were as follows: Copley alternating with Robertson, T. Poor, Captain Woolley, and R. Poor. This was the same line-up that played in every game throughout the spring term.

Playing for Avon in the game Saturday were: MacCorkle alternating with Perkins for the first position, Shaffer alternating with Schlesinger in the second place, Hariman with Schlesinger in the next position, and Clark in the fourth place.

The scorers for Andover were: T. Poor (5), R. Poor (4), and Woolley.

Clark scored the two goals for Avon.

Second Team Track Rivalry To Alternate With Varsity

Andover's Squad Undeclared In Three Contests Held So Far This Year

As a supplement to the big meet, the Andover All-Club vs. Exeter All-Class track meet will be run off during the varsity contest. The Andover team is undefeated, having swamped Lawrence, Lowell, and Manchester by the one-sided scores of 83 1-6 to 32 5-6, 75 to 41, and 96 to 30. Nothing is known about the Exeter team.

by this crime-solver, who asks to be designated as X, was that the note had been written by an illiterate person. Here, however, all clues ceased, X failing to notice that the letter was inscribed on cardboard.

Mr. Causey, who has been listed as the third richest man in Andover, did not mind the amount of money which he would lose through paying the ransom, for Alec is one of the finest racing turtles in the world, raised as he was in the Green Grass district of the Shawshen. (He had been captured there by a party of adventurers and presented to Mr. Causey at the annual dinner of the See-the-World Club in their magnificent dining salon in the basement of Graves.) However, his noble spirit rebelled at the idea of placing the community in the hands of gangsters in the future. Another reason that he could not pay was due to the carelessness of the kidnapper in writing the note. It said (I quote directly) "udder thee aild elme." After a long discussion on the subject, both X and Mr. Causey decoded those words as meaning "under the old elm." There were plenty of elms around, but after a long search it was discovered that there was no elm older than the rest. Further investigation along those lines was therefore stopped.

While thinking over the crime in Mr. Causey's palatial apartments in Bartlet (pictures of which can be seen in the latest Listerine advertisements) it suddenly occurred to both Mr. Causey and X that some pernicious fiend might have carried Alec away to the Biology Lab for the purpose of experiment. Overwhelmed at this idea, Mr. Causey grabbed for a bottle of smelling salts, and then, mounted on his bicycle with X following, rushed off in the direction of Morse Hall. A surprise raid was made on the upper floors; but a minute search revealed nothing except some distant cousins of Alec's, which, Mr. Causey sneered, were quite inferior to his own pet.

Back at Bartlet, both detectives (being an Open Contest, there was a pro and an amateur) agreed to see if any suspicious characters were lurking around the vicinity of Alec's pool. It was now that they found the clue which eventually led to the solving of the crime. A sinister man had been seen wandering around. He was clad in a dirty white linen coat. By tracing his footsteps, which they found outside the window, they followed him to Foxcroft. There in an upper room, with the door locked, was the kidnapper. After a long argument both X and Mr. Causey agreed that it would be better to use strategy to gain entrance, so, disguising their voices like the men from Burns, they asked admittance. This was granted after only a short conversation through the closed door. Once inside X seized the criminal, while Mr. Causey looked the room over carefully. Despite the fact the kidnapper denied all guilt, Alec was found reposing in the bottom of a card board box. With tears in his eyes, Mr. Causey rushed towards him and clutched him close to his breast. The kidnapper was properly chastised, and the two guardians of the law returned to their respective homes. Mr. Causey to his luxurious apartments where he nursed Alec back to health, and

Kellogg Chosen Captain Of Andover Golf Team

At a meeting of the golf team held after the Brown Freshman meet on May 22, C. Kellogg was elected captain for the remainder of the spring. G. D. Lawrence has been acting-captain as well as manager during most of the season, but C. Kellogg will represent Andover in the match with Exeter.

Four Feet, Four Inches Won High Jump In 1889

Andover and Exeter's first track meet resulted in a victory for the Blue. The contest, held in 1889, consisted of nine events, each counting one point. Andover won six of these. Some of the events that year were the tug-of-war, the bicycle race, the three-legged race, and the obstacle race. The height reached in the high jump was four feet four inches.

Track meets have been held between the two rival schools regularly since 1889 except in the three years from 1894 to 1897, and in 1905, when an epidemic of scarlet fever kept the Andover team from leaving town. Following are the results of the Andover-Exeter frays since 1921:

Second Team Track Rivalry To Alternate With Varsity

Chafee, Wilson, and possibly Robjert are the entries in the hundred. Chafee has run the century in 10.4 seconds, excellent time, especially for the second team. In the hurdles Payne, Wilhelmi, Rugge, and Kiphuth are all entered; it is not absolutely decided who will run the highs and who the lows.

In the 440, are entered Parsons, McDonald, and Brightwell. Parsons has been doing well this season in first and second team meets, while the other two were the best in their respective club teams.

Porter, Walker, and Healey will run the half. Each one of them has been doing well in the meets so far; Walker has been placing in the first team contests, Porter has done 2 minutes 7.2 seconds, and Healey won in two of the three meets. Andover will be well represented in the mile by Flanders, Hinman, Meyer, and Alling. As these men can do almost as well if not better than Exeter's first team entries in this event, it is not expected that they will have much trouble in winning.

Swihart, who has broad jumped 21 feet 1-2 inch, is favored in this event. Jackson also is favored, for he has high jumped 5 feet 8 inches. Tellington, Bagg, and Hook will lead the way in the javelin, as will Sisson, Stevens, James, and Viotor in the pole vault, and Donaldson and Shallow in the hammer. Entered in the discus are Flood, Carroll, and Hurlbutt; Chaney, Wilson and Endicott are in the shot.

ATHLETES SAY:

"THEY DON'T GET YOUR WIND!"

TOMMY ARMOUR, a Camel smoker of many years' standing, who says: "I've smoked Camels for years, without jittery nerves or cutting down my wind."

Read below what these famous athletes say about their experiences in smoking Camels

A suggestion: Follow the athletes in your search for cigarette mildness. They can't trifle with healthy nerves—their "condition"—their wind. The cigarette they smoke must be mild.

Tommy Armour, the golf champion, says: "Camels never bother my nerves or shorten my wind—convincing evidence that Camels are mild."

Mel Ott, heavy-hitting outfielder of the New York Giants, reports: "My experience is that Camels are so mild they never get my wind."

And Stubby Kruger,

water polo and swimming star; Amy Lou Oliver, diver; and Lester Stoeffen, tennis star, agree with Pete Knight, the rodeo champion, who says: "Camels—there's a smoke so mild it never cuts down your wind, never gets you out of condition."

A mildness that will please you too! Camels are made from costlier tobaccos. They are mild, cool, gentle on the throat. Smoke them all you wish. Camels don't upset your nerves... or tire your taste. And athletes find that Camels do not get their wind.

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO!

CONSIDER THAT LIFE IS MORE WORTH WHILE when you feel good—physically fit, "in condition." Turn to Camels. Athletes say, "They don't get your wind."

SO MILD YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

Tug-o-War Aided Andover In Winning First Meet

Modern tracksters would probably derisively hoot at the first A-E meet, for among the events held were such grand old stand-byes as three-legged races and a tug-o-war. Those who consider the P. I. tests hard would be interested to know that the high jump record was 4 feet 3 inches. Andover evidently could three leg it and tug better than their rivals, for they won 6-3.

Blue Tennis Players Lose To Lawrenceville's Team

Thompson was taken the first set 6-0. He managed to get the first game of the second set, but that was the only one.

Rockwell was the outstanding Andover performer of the afternoon, but, the competition from Winslow, the winner of the Bermuda Interscholastics, was terrific, and Rockwell went down 6-2, 6-4. Lauck, the runner-up in the Bermuda competition, downed Captain Peeler 6-1, 6-4. The Blue number four man, Barnes, was off his game, the result being a 6-0, 6-2 loss to G. Fraker. Davis did nicely, but H. Fraker forced him 6-4, 6-2. The first set between Grace, Andover, and Nunnally looked like a victory for Grace; however, he lost at 6-4. Nunnally closed the singles with 6-2.

The fine teamwork of Thompson and Peeler was no equal to that of Parker and H. Fraker. The Blue fell 6-1, 6-2. The second doubles went to Winslow and Lauck who defeated Rockwell and Barnes 8-6, 6-0. Davis and Grace bowed to Nunnally and G. Fraker 6-3, 6-2.

Record Of Exeter's Trackmen Poor During Current Season

hoped for. A week later, the Harvard Freshmen scored a 100-26 victory rather easily. Exeter, however, missed W. E. Wilson, star hurdler who won the high hurdles in the interscholastics, and August Beltzner, captain of the Red and Gray basketball team as well as a star in the football backfield. Both of these men were suffering from injuries sustained in the Interscholastics.

Exeter comes to Andover tomorrow the decided underdog, but the Red and Gray hopes are high, for many an Exeter-Andover meet has been won because of overconfidence on the part of the favored team.

Captain Nicklas Kerr, star century and 220 dash man, has been the most consistent point gainer among the Exeter runners. August Beltzner has won points in the high jump, broad jump, and pole vault, which he won in the Interscholastics. George Downing, captain-elect of the 1936 Exeter winter track team, has been the star weight man on this spring's squad. Roscoe Walker, football captain-elect, has improved greatly since he first started track after the basketball season. He now stands number two in the ranks of Exeter hurdlers, second only to Wilson, who is said to be almost as good as Jack Donovan who gave Andover so much trouble for two years on the track.

MOVIE PRE-VIEW

The Informer is a new experiment to be tried by the producers in Hollywood. In the words of Time, "...any picture of which the Irish hero is neither a rustic clown nor a cow-eyed crooner with a rush of brogue to the face can be classed immediately as a daring experiment." The Informer, with its drunken, cowardly bully of a hero, Victor McLaglen, is a masterpiece of 1935.

Adapted by Dudley Nichols from Liam O'Flaherty's novel of the same name, The Informer tells the story of Gypo Nolan (Victor McLaglen) and his last night in the Dublin slums; under the direction of John Ford, the picture gives McLaglen a chance to do some real acting. Reproached by his love (Margot Grahame), Gypo is wandering through the streets when he chances to see an advertisement for a $10 passage to America. This starts him thinking, and he remembers another advertisement of $20 reward for information leading to the capture of Frankie McPhillip (Wallace Ford), who belongs to the Sinn Fein organization.

Although Frankie McPhillip is Gypo's best friend, he is revealed and then shot dead, while Gypo receives the reward. Instead of going off to America with the money, Nolan decides to start on a binge. He gets himself into numerous complications, and finally ends up trying to track down the mysterious spy who told on Frankie. He rashly accuses someone who is totally innocent and proves it. Nolan is forced to confess, and... It has been predicted that the movie will be one of the ten best this year.

used their weight to such an extent in checking that the Blue team was considerably worn down. Yet Andover played a hard game to the finish, scoring two goals in the last period. During the third period Gifford of Exeter signaled for time, sending in his glasses which were minus one whole lens. He had a bit of glass on the surface of his

Blue Loss Of Early Meet Proved Untrue By Camera

In an early meet F. C. Richmond of Andover made a high jump which was protested as illegal by Exeter, and this protest was upheld by the referee. This lost the meet for the Blue. The hawk-eyed bulb squeezer from Herb Chase's establishment, however, caught the jumper at the apex of his jump and the A. A. U. ruled the jump fair. Both schools held celebrations.

eye, but he was soon back in the game to the relief of the entire crowd.

Taking the Blue's season as a whole the long anticipated Exeter game was without question the hardest fought of the year, but Exeter had a heavier team and made almost every shot tell. In the last quarter the visitors pulled up from a 9-4 score to a final count of 9-6, a feat which was very indicative of the Blue stickmen's tenacity. Time and again, many more times than Exeter, Andover shot at the goal, only to see Exeter's clever goalie save repeatedly.
