Veritas Super Omnia

MAY 10, 2024

Four years after Covid-19, has a connected Andover community come back into focus? While about 82% of students considered themselves happy at Andover in both 2019 and 2024, many things are different.

Andover students use social media 0.49 hours more every day than in 2019 (up 24.8%). Today, 13.3% fewer students consider faculty members to be part of their support system. Of the student respondents, 17.4% believe that the Head of School connects with the student body. The academic culture has changed, with 41.7% of students reporting that they have cheated or plagiarized, a 12.9% increase from 2019.

This data comes from answers provided by students to The Phillipian's annual "State of the Academy," an anonymous survey of 146 questions sent out to the student body. This year, 859 students responded, which represents 74.4% of the total student body.
